Sid Weldon Died Tuesday,

Dec. 24, At Home Here

J. Sidney Weldon, age 41 years died Tuesday, December 24th, at midnight at his home near here, on the old Weldon place, as the result of an attack of pneumonia, which lasted for some time, before his death.

The deceased was one of the outstanding farmers of this county, and a leader in the community in which he lived. He was very active in the work of Chilton County's Farm Bureau, being also a member of the Board of Directors of the bureau.

Funeral services were held on the following Thursday, at Liberty Hill, with Rev. B. Lawrence, officiating and Martin in charge. Surviving is his widow, four brothers, two sisters and his mother.

TRAFFIC RULE VIOLATORS FINED IN MAYOR'S COURT

During the past several days, Chief of Police John Bookholdt has been using the new tags for tagging automobiles that were parked against the traffic rules of the Town of Clanton.

Several have been summoned before Mayor Hart for this violation, each fined a fine of one dollar, according to information. We understand that the majority of those tagged were parked too close to the fire plugs in the business district of town. This particular object should be watched by those parking cars here, for their own safety.

Mayor Hart is reported as saying that he would not call for a heavier fine.

CITY OFFICERS MAKE ARRESTS

Several Fines Drawn In Mayor's Court Last Monday

Five cases were tried in Mayor Hart's Court last Monday morning, two of which were for violating the Prohibition Law, and three for gambling, according to reports.

C. Williams, negro, who was arrested by City Officer Robinson, came up for trial on a charge of V. P. L. His case was continued until next Monday.

T. S. Gunn, negro, who was also arrested by Officer Robinson, was fined fifty dollars and costs, total of which is $84.40, on a charge of violating the prohibition law, the information stated.

Ernest Stone, Herman Stone and Ike King, negroes, were caught in a crib game by Officers Smith and Robinson, and drew fines of $7.00 each, in the court last Monday, according to the report.

Several cases for shooting fire crackers within the fire limits of the town, which came up for trial last Monday, were continued, according to J. B. Plier, City Clerk.

Hospital Committee Holds Meet Recently

Congressman Lamar Jeffers Meets With Committee and Advises Steps To Be Taken

Congressman Lamar Jeffers was in Clanton last Monday to meet with the committee from the Clanton Kiwanis Club, who are to push the efforts for the locating of the Veterans Hospital for this county. The committee is composed of J. M. Martin, H. Glenn Boyd and W. M. Wyatt.

This committee has been busy preparing data and briefs for presentation to the Veterans Bureau at Washington, and at the suggestion of Congressman Jeffers, has communicated with the Veterans Bureau, advising them that Chilton County will be a serious prospect for the hospital.

Congressman Jeffers, who is largely responsible for the Veterans Hospital bill to be introduced, will probably meet with other committees of other places and give any information asked for in regard to the securing of the hospital. Upon receipt of communication from the Bureau at Washington, the local committee of Kiwanis will take definite action immediately, according to information.

STEPS TAKEN TO FILL VACANCY OF W. T. BAKER ON COUNCIL

In a statement from an official of the Town of Clanton last Wednesday, it was learned that steps are being taken to site prospects for the filling of the vacancy on the Town Council of Clanton, caused by the leaving of Mr. W. T. Baker, who has moved to Texas. No definite action has yet been announced.

The News received a pleasant call from T. W. Bryan, Justice of the Peace of the County, who has just returned from Rhine, Ga., where he has been for the past two weeks looking after his farming interest.

NEW SEATS INSTALLED AT THE COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL

During the holidays, when school was out, the entire auditorium of the Chilton County High School was equipped with new seats of modern style.

These seats have replaced the old ones, which had been in use for several years in the auditorium, according to Prof. L. C. Warr, principal of the school, and the approximate cost is fifteen hundred dollars.

CANDIDATES MUST FILE OATH

Resolution Is Adopted By Committee; Primary Next August

The Republican Executive Committee of this county held a meeting last Saturday in Clanton. A primary election was ordered to be held next August when the state primary is held and the committee did not limit its invitation to all qualified white voters of the county, but extended the invitation to all qualified voters to participate as voters and candidates, however, all candidate must file with a committee an affidavit stating how they voted in the last general election, the portion of the resolution adopted is said to be as follows:

"We invite all qualified voters, regardless of their past party affiliations who believe in the principles and traditions of the Republican party, and who pledge their sacred honor to support the nominees of such party in the primary, to come into our party and be one of us. However, we take this occasion to condemn, as unethical and dishonorable, the action of any voter in coming into our primary and then voting for or supporting the nominees of the opposing party in the general election. We believe that a voter entering a primary of our party and thereby pledging his honor should support the nominees of the party."

"Be it further resolved that all candidates for office in the Republican party be qualified legal voters, as provided by law, and be it further provided that any voter desiring to become a candidate must state under oath how he or she voted in the last general election of 1928, that is, whether said proposed candidate supported the Republican ticket or the Democratic ticket, or voted a split ticket, and this oath must be filed with the chairman of the Republican Executive Committee of Chilton County when they file for nomination, said affidavit must be kept on file by said chairman and subject to inspection by any qualified voter, and said oath must be published in a newspaper published in Chilton County by said chairman at the expense of such candidate within 15 days after the time for filing nominations has expired. It is further provided that the name of no candidate shall be placed upon the Republican primary ballot or be certified to the judge of probate, as provided by law, unless said oath is taken as above detailed."

"It is further provided that all nominations must be filed with said chairman on or before the first day of May 1930."

Mr. Russell Parrish of Uriah, Ala., spent the past week here visiting relatives and friends.

Mrs. Relious Franklin of Thorsby, Ala., was in Clanton shopping last Saturday.

"THE GREAT DIVIDE" SHOWING AT WADESONIAN THEATRE

One of the outstanding pictures of the season will be shown at the Wadesonian Theatre, here, tonight. It is "The Great Divide," a Paramount all-talking picture.

This big picture showed here last night to a packed house. Along with this feature, will be shown an all-talking comedy, and other short pictures, according to the management of the theatre. The News carries the entire program of the local theatre each week. Keep up with it.

Miss Callie Watts, of Tuskegee, will arrive today to spend several days with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Sartor and family.

FALLING ROOF KILLS GIRL

Three Other Children Are Hurt When Frame Collapsed

Luverne Kirkland, 8 years old was instantly killed, and three other children injured when the frame of an old house in which they were playing, collapsed last Sunday afternoon about three-thirty, at the Shaws Old Mill place, three miles from Lock 12.

The injured are Luther Kirkland ten years old, Estelle Kirkland, 20 months old, and Curtis Mink, seven years old, all living at the mill site.

According to the story given a representative of the News, the children were playing in the old structure, that was very close to the house in which they were living, and upon hearing the timber falling, including the brick chimney, Luverne, the dead child, rushed out of the place, and turning, saw her younger sister inside. She then rushed back into the building to get the child when the roof fell, pinning her between it and the floor, and crushing her head.

When found, the older Kirkland girl, had pushed the small child just beyond the floor so as to keep the roof from crushing her.

The injured children were rushed to Dr. Arthur Johnson in Clanton for aid. Curtis Mink is the son of Oliver Mink, and the Kirkland children are those of Matt Kirkland.

On account of the condition of the Kirkland family, the case was immediately reported to Mrs. C. E. Stapp, County Welfare Worker, who investigated and found that funds were needed to give the dead child a burial.

The father, in trying to remove the roof from his children, injured his back and broke two fingers.

Funeral services were held last Monday afternoon for Luverne.

OVER 3,100,000 UNEMPLOYED SAYS JAMES COUZENS

In discussing the 1 per cent tax cut for the current calendar year, amounting to $168,000,000, Senator James Couzens, Republican of Michigan, said:

"The one way the Administration could have done a humane thing with this $168,000,000 would have been to use it to give employment to the millions of those who are unemployed in the United States."

"To have appropriated this $168,000,000 to help out unemployment would have been unsound, paternalistic and insane in the minds of these powers that be. And yet I want to point out that I am informed from reliable sources that unemployment jumped up from 700,000 to over 3,100,000 men inside of a couple of weeks."

JEMISON BAPTIST CHURCH

We have been asked by Rev. J. W. Jones of Thorsby to announce that there will be services held at the Jemison Baptist Church Sunday morning at eleven and Sunday evening at seven o'clock. Rev. Jones invites everyone to begin the new year by being present next Sunday and to continue thru the new year.

ONLY FOUR ARRESTS DURING CELEBRATION OF NEW YEAR

City Officers report only four arrests on New Year's eve night in Clanton, according to information. These arrests were on minor charges only, and will probably be brought in City Court next Monday morning. Officers reported a very quiet night, for the fun makers in Clanton.

Mr. J. A. Davis of Wetumpka called at the office of the News last Monday to have his subscription marked up for another year.

W. T. Baker And Family Move To Texas Wednesday

In the leaving of Mr. W. T. Baker last Wednesday, Clanton lost one of its most active citizens. Mr. and Mrs. Baker and family left last Wednesday for Raymondville, Texas, where they will make their home, after residing in Clanton for a number of years. They came here from Texas.

Mr. Baker was one of Clanton's prominent dry goods merchants, being head of the firm of W. T. Baker Dry Goods Company, which has been closed for several months. He was also a member of the Town Council of Clanton, and served on the Street and Sanitary Committees. The News regrets very much, the loss of Mr. Baker, and extends to him best wishes.

Mr. T. W. Robinson left Monday morning for Plakka, Florida, where he will spend a week with his daughter, Mrs. Clarence Bice.

Two Years Ago

Following are accounts of news items, carried in the Chilton County News in its issue of January 5, 1928.

Hon. A. P. Langston, former Judge of Probate of Shelby County, but now located in Birmingham, will speak here at the Court House Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock. Judge Langston will discuss the $20,000,000 bond issue.

The Clanton Laundry and Cleaning Co., has just installed what is believed to be one of the largest ironers ever installed in a town of the size of Clanton. The machine weighs seven tons—the cylinder being 6 by 100 inches and equipped with two steam chests.

Among the Clanton girls who are

Miss Erin Danforth who has been in the hospital several days following operation for appendicitis, is much improved.

Mr. Stapp expects to spend much of his time during the month of January visiting the schools and companies with the club boys for the purchasing of seeds and livestock to be used in their project work this year.

Miss Clyde Young of Birmingham spent the past few days as the guest of Mrs. Mamie C. Smith and family.

After several days professional nursing in Verbena, Mrs. J. N. Atkinson returned to her home here last Tuesday.

MR. A. A. JACKSON OF LOMAX SPENDS XMAS WITH CHILDREN

Last Friday, Mr. A. A. Jackson, a leading citizen of the Lomax section, was a pleasant caller at the News office, to have his subscription marked up for another year. While conversing with Mr. Jackson, a representative of the News learned that Santa had been rather generous with him. On Sunday two of Mr. Jackson's son-in-laws, Booth Burns, and Otto Johnson, and a son, John B. Jackson, all from Birmingham, came down and installed a modern radio receiving set at his home, and on Christmas Day Mr. Jackson was their guest in Birmingham. He stated that he had a most enjoyable time, being with his children and grandchildren, and that the radio, given him as a gift, has already broken into his habit of retiring early.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Atkinson and family spent the Christmas holidays with friends and relatives in Anniston, Sylacauga and Rockford.

Mr. Jesse Sam Gowan who is a student at Georgia spent the Christmas holidays here as the guest of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Gowan.

EXPLAINS CHANGES MADE IN BODIES OF MODEL A FORD

"The most notable changes in body designs of the Model A Ford, to be shown here this week, have been made in the Tudor Sedan, the Coupes and the open cars," said Clanton Motors, local Ford dealers, today.

"The Tudor Sedan has been the most popular of the five passenger models," he continued. "The new body design will bring to it additional beauty and the new choice of colors is certain to make it more popular than ever, particularly with women drivers.

"More room will be provided for occupants of the rear compartment. Access will be easier around the folding seats in front. In exterior appearance, the car will be much improved.

"It still will retain the crown roof effect with rounded corners on the rear quarter, the beauty of which will be accentuated by an entirely new design body belt and moulding treatment.

Coupe Is Changed

"The coupe, too, will be entirely new in design. It will have a lower roof line. French roof quarters will emphasize the low effect and the long lines of the new moulding treatment. A panel effect carried out by the moulding on the rear deck will add much to the smart appearance of the car.

"Lowering of the roof line will not bring any loss of head room inside, and driving will be made more comfortable by an adjustable seat, which may be moved forward or backward to suit the driver's convenience.

"The Sport Coupe, which will have a rumble seat as standard equipment, will have all the lower body lines of the coupe. The sport treatment will be carried out above the belt line, as heretofore. The roof line will be lower, also, and in this car, too, driving comfort will be improved by the installation of an adjustable seat. The same feature will be extended to the Convertible Cabriolet."

PROVEN IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

The general conditions affecting national advertising have put the use of that commodity to a severe test this year, and in view of the fact that the business interests of the country have increased their advertising between four and five per cent during the past nine months over the same period of last year, it again proves that it pays to advertise.

"Round Town"

By "DOUG"

Many thanks to some of the readers of this column, for their seemingly interest. It has been highly appreciated and shows that people are reading it each week, which is very kind of them.

Christmas passed without any great calamities occurring around Clanton. But I understand there was a big 'tear up' near Lenoir's Place on Christmas Eve. I think somebody must have tore-up a box of the largest fire crackers and set fire to them, judging from the amount of noise going on up there, and that isn't all, they just kept it up. But it probably sounded good to some people. I just can't grasp the idea of 'noise-making' on Christmas, which is the day when Christ was born, so many years ago. What do you think about it. Is Christmas Day as sacred as Sunday? Would be glad to hear comments on this.

Chief of Police John Boockholdt will sure tag you car now, if it happens to be parked out of the traffic rules in Clanton. They have just recently begun this tagging business and now you'd better be a little more particular where and how you park when in the business district of town. I think there were several parties summoned before Mayor Hart last Monday morning for this very thing. The officers don't wait to find you, they just tag your car and then it's just too bad. You have to tell it to the judge.

I notice some of the stores around town are still displaying Christmas gifts. Somebody ought to tell them to wake up, Christmas is over, and we've entered another year, already. That's the trouble with some of our merchants, they're asleep on the job. And yet they wonder why people don't trade with them more. Better get busy and start advertising, so that the folks will know you are in business here, and tell them what you have to sell. If you don't, how are they going to know?

Well, the social set round town, will make connection this time, again. All those spending the holidays at home here from the various schools and colleges have gone back, and our teachers have returned to Clanton. This kind of balances things up for the young fellows here, eh? But one of the teachers came back a Mrs. instead of a Miss.

Lots of folks tell what they would do "if they had their way about things." Well, if I had my way about things, I'd:

Make it compulsory for every merchant in Clanton to advertise in the local papers, for awhile. Then, they would do it voluntarily, after they saw the results derived therefrom.

Have every barber who tries to sell you insurance while working on you, sentenced without trial.

Have a sign reading, "Kwitherbel-liakin" put on each business man's desk in Clanton, where he will see it at all times.

Make every man who says Clanton is not growing, placed in chains and made to clean up the streets, helping Vachel.

Put seats on Sartor's and Mullins & Moore's, Farmers Hardware, and Upchurch's Corners, downtown, for Sunday afternoon sitting.

Pave every street and avenue in Clanton, from curb to curb.

Make every business house in town, clean up the sidewalk and vicinity, in front of their place, each morning.

Stop a certain young man from going to see my girl.

Have the big Alabama Veterans Hospital built in Chilton County, near Clanton.

Place muzzles on all talkative persons attending the Wadesonian Theatre, or any other theatre, and talking during the show.

Have Mrs. John T. Ellis bake me a cake every day, and her daughter to deliver it.

And "if I had my way about things" I wouldn't have to be here writing this column each week to earn my daily bread, and you wouldn't be pestered with it. Will tell you some more next week, MAYBE.

Entered in the postoffice of Clanton, Alabama, as second class matter under the Act of Congress of March, 1897.

Repubs Pass Flapdoodle Resolution

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Republican party of this county, held last week that committee in a resolution adopted had the following to say: "In conclusion we believe it is fitting to express our opposition to the ever increasing tax burdens which the people of our states are caused to bear. About 25 years ago, the common people commenced to complain of high taxes and practically every candidate for governor since has promised retrenchment and reduction of taxes, and from that time taxes have increased from approximately two and one-half million to about fifty million, notwithstanding the reduction platform of practically every candidate for governor. As a contrast, the United States Government since the World War has continuously reduced taxes. We believe our state needs an administration or two to reduce taxes, abolish useless offices and reduce expenses at every opportunity. It seems that our state will never pursue this course until two strong parties are operating and existing in Alabama, and we believe the time is ripe and the opportunity is here to build a strong opposition to the Democratic party in order that the best candidate offered and the best qualified might be placed in office."

Now, it seems to be fitting that we place before the people the facts as they exist and see if there is any logic in the quoted portion of said resolution.

The Chairman and members of the Commissioners Court of Chilton County are republicans and have been in control of the county affairs for a number of years. The chairman of said court is said to have sponsored and advocated the passage of that resolution, and he is sometimes credited with being the whole commissioners court of the county.

The commissioners court of Chilton County levies each year the amount of county general taxes and prescribe the amount of road tax that each person liable to road duty, must pay. This republican commissioners court is now and has been levying the constitutional limit for county general purposes and has also been levying a special road and bridge tax and besides they have been levying $5.00 per year on each person subject to road duty together with a fee of fifty cents which goes to the probate judge to enrich himself out of the pockets of the common people of the county who have to pay the taxes.

The county since 1923 has been receiving from the state a two cent gasoline tax which is said to amount to around forty thousand dollars per year at present. The Alabama Power Company, has been paying large sums of money into the county treasury in taxes. We are told that we have completed fourteen hundred miles of chert and gravel roads and have a modern road to every home in the county and have passed the experimental stage in the matter of road building, therefore it seems that it would be consistent for the republican commissioners court to abolish the special road and bridge tax and cease to make that levy and to levy only a small county general tax. That court has the authority to reduce the tax burden in Chilton County. They can levy only one dollar on each person subject to road duty and cut out the fifty cent fee that the probate judge is enriching himself out of the pockets of the common people of the county, and then the common people would no doubt cease complaining about high taxes and burdens which they are being subjected to, by this republican commissioners court, who would seek to criticize the state taxes which are used to educate the children of this and the other sixty-six counties of Alabama, and to maintain a corps of workers in the Health department. The state levies a tax of 65c on each one hundred dollars and Chilton County commissioners court levies 75c on each one hundred dollars, worth of taxable property, located in this county. The state pays the salaries of the Court officials and other state employees and keeps up its share of the National Guard expense besides numerous other items not here necessary to mention.

And yet the head of the republican commissioners court of this county would lead the people to believe that the state was putting the entire tax burdens on them. Let his court first take the step for retrenchment and cutting the tax burdens before passing flapdoodle resolutions, would be our way to express it.

Chilton's Efforts For Veterans Hospital Meets Obstacle-

Just as the citizens of this Town and county were beginning to have some hopes of securing the Alabama unit of the Veterans hospital, the argument is advanced forcibly that this county has no health unit and no food inspection, and that the patients of the hospital would require food, which had been subjected to scrutinizing tests by health experts.

This paper has heretofore said that there was no excuse for the county authorities to fail to put on a health unit and the argument advanced against our claim for the hospital is further evidence that we are right in our efforts to put Chilton County in a position to command the attention of the outside world as well as to make safe our own health conditions and remove from our position the scales of ignorance and political prejudice.

The county commissioners court will greatly strengthen our claim for the hospital if they will immediately order the Health Unit started, and get in step with the other progressive counties of the state. If the Commissioners are afraid to take action in the case, they should at least tell the people so or offer some excuse for their failure to take action.

J. F. Owens, vice president and general manager of the Oklahoma Gas and Electric Company, says:

That one of the greatest problems confronting the country today is the retention on the farm of the type of men, who, after leaving the farm have made successes in modern business ventures.

To keep men of this character on the farm there must be brought to the farm many of the conveniences that are commonplace in city life.

These conveniences must be such as will eliminate much of the drudgery incident to farm life and bring more profits.

Men and women on the farm are entitled to leisure hours for recreation and cultural development.

Electricity has demonstrated by its use where it is available in the country that much of the drudgery incident to farm work may be eliminated by taking advantage of what electricity offers.

Bringing electricity to the farms offers many intricate problems, but these problems should be studied by all of the parties interested, to the end that the greatest utilization of this modern boon to mankind may be available for the rural sections to the same extent as it is in urban localities.

Careful study of the problems involved in bringing electric power to the farms will prove to all parties at interest its feasible application to agriculture.

O. L. Price, general Manager of the Portland Oregonian, says:

That advertising has done more to raise the standard of living for the masses than any other economic agency and likewise the so-called poor people are the only ones rich enough to make business prosper.

Wealthy men and wealthy organizations can only create the opportunity for business. The masses are the only ones with money enough to make it possible to do business. Unless the masses can be interested in bartering their labor and their money for utilities of life, there can be no lasting, prosperous business.

Newspaper advertising has done more to inform the masses of the real progress this modern world is making than all the text books in existence. Newspaper advertising has first informed the masses as to those utilities that make life more desirable and interesting, and then inspired them to possession of these advantages. Newspaper advertising is the modern economic miracle that has put the balance of economic power in the hands of the masses.

A million dollar advertising campaign can bring more material enjoyment to the masses of any country than a billion dollar victorious war could bring to them.

ADVERTISING AND UTILITIES

The lowest priced commodities of any kind, whether shoes, automobiles or gas and electric service, are those which are most advertised, says W. H. Hodge of the Byllesby Company.

Utility advertising has brought important facts concerning the industry before the American people, and has helped provide them with an understanding of utility problems and operating conditions. And it has helped, as well, in creating a tremendous demand for gas and electricity with the result that our utilities are able to provide better service at lower rates.

Possibly one of the most absurd statements ever made is that utilities purchase advertising in newspapers in order to influence editorial opinion. Such an attitude is a grave reflection on every American editor. And it is likewise a serious criticism, unfounded in fact, of the great utilities which have made every effort to aid the industrial agricultural and domestic progress of the nation.

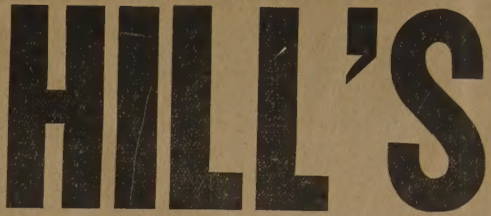

At the present time but .6 per cent of the total revenues of the gas industry, and but .68 per cent of the electric, are used for advertising. It is doubtful if any other industry of great size advertises so little. In the opinion of many authorities a great deal more should be spent in utility advertising in order to give the public a thorough grasp of the operation of the gas and electric industries.

MRS. DUGGER WINS IN GARDEN CONTEST

Auburn, Ala., Dec. 31.—Mrs. Vera Boyd Dugger of Hackleburg, Marion County has been judged the best home gardener in Alabama. She won first place in a contest sponsored by the Extension Service of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute and the Chilean Nitrate of Soda Educational Bureau. Announcement of this was made by Julian Brown, extension horticulturist of Auburn, who served as judge.

In announcing the award Mr. Brown said: "The contest started March 1 and closed November 1. Throughout all this time Mrs. Dugger had a good variety of vegetables in her garden. When the contest ended she was harvesting 19 vegetables and had 13 others growing for winter use."

Other winners were announced at the same time. First place among 4-H club girls in North Alabama went wet gas like a wet windshield

SLOWS DOWN DRIVING

Driving through traffic with a wet windshield slows you up. You just creep along—barely making progress! Wet gasoline acts in the very same way! Sluggish, uneven in power, it slows you up—hesitates when instant response is needed—and stalls most unexpectedly! Today, try Texaco. It forms a dry gas. It yields its power instantly, smoothly and completely. When your foot signals for action, your car leaps ahead in a flash! On the hills, in traffic, or on the straightaway, your car does what you want it to—when you want it to—if your tank is filled with Texaco.

1. A wet gas is an atomized mixture of gasoline vapor in which are suspended drops of raw gasoline.
2. These drops of raw gasoline form an uneven mixture which resists the action of the spark.
3. Result: Destructive crankcase dilution, difficult starts, slow acceleration—a sluggish motor.

1. The new and better Texaco vaporizes so readily that it forms a dry gas—an active mixture of gasoline and air.
2. This pure, dry gas responds instantly to the action of the spark.
3. Result: Lightning starts, rapid acceleration, smooth action—power!

MAKES FOR PROSPERITY

The railroads' contribution to national prosperity and progress is not so much the number of people they employ or the amount of their payroll, as it is the quantity and quality of service provided and the cost of such service to the public.

Nothing is more essential to the public welfare and national progress than a well ordered system of transportation.

Economic and convenient distribution of products embracing the primary markets of a continent insure the producer against the adverse effect of restricted demand and the consumer against the adverse effect of restricted supply.

This means that by eliminating the expense and waste of primitive distribution the producer receives more and the consumer pays less.

Measured in volume and distance hauled, the tonnage of the United States now probably exceeds that of all the rest of the world combined.

The more important fact is that it is handled by the highest paid labor at the lowest cost of any country in the

Not by increasing rates, for rates in many instances have been reduced, but by increasing their efficiency, the railroads have kept abreast of the growing requirements of convenience and so improved the service as to quality, quantity and acceleration that distance between producer and consumer is no longer a factor in the merchandising of any commodity, perishable or otherwise.

Cantaloupe, lettuce and other perishable products are placed on the breakfast tables of New York as fresh as when taken from the fields of the Pacific slope 3,000 miles distant.

That is what makes for prosperity and for the public welfare, and to the extent that the railroads can further effect economies of operation and improve the service by increased efficiency, to that extent may they make additional contributions to the nation's prosperity and progress.

CHEVROLET TO MANUFACTURE 1,350,000 AUTOMOBILES

DETROIT, Dec. 21 --- Surpassing by 150,000 cars and trucks its previous record annual achievement, the Chevrolet Motor Company, this year, will manufacture 1,350,000 automobiles, it was announced at the central offices here today. Due to the tremendous popularity of the six cylinder car, introduced a year ago, 1929 will be by a wide margin the greatest year in the Chevrolet history.

Chevrolet officials announce that daily, weekly and monthly production records were broken over and over again during 1929. Perhaps the most significant achievement of Chevrolet this year was the placing of a million cars on the road in less than eight months. Although the first Chevrolet six did not go onto the streets until last January first, there were a million in owner operation early last August.

An all time monthly production mark was set in May, when the Chevrolet factories built 160,895 cars. A new high monthly record was established in every month except January.

The consistency with which Chevrolet production has gained annually in recent years may be noted from the following annual production figures: 1924, 309,000; 1925, 510,000; 1926, 728,000; 1927, 1,350,000; 1928, 1,200,000; 1929, 1,350,000.

When Carlos Espinosa, proprietor of a small shop in Rome died, $35,000 was found hidden in paper bags on his shelves.

HARD ON HIS PANTS

During a fire prevention campaign in a leading American city, younger school students were asked to write essays on fire prevention. A winning paper said:

"Hundreds of people are killed every year by fire. Mother was dry cleaning some clothes, the gasoline ignited and flames were all around, but luckily she wasn't burned; the sink was close so in the course of time she got the fire out. Otherwise we wouldn't have had a bed to sleep in."

"Just the other day I had several matches in my back pocket. I got down on the floor to get a nail out of the side of our row boat which we were fixing. I felt something warm in the seat of my pants until I couldn't stand it any longer. I couldn't imagine what it was, but you should have seen me strip my pants off. I found out all those matches ignited when I moved on the floor and burned the whole pocket out of my pants. Luckily, my pants were not inflammable or I would have gone up in smoke."

A homely object lesson given by a child, illustrating conditions which cause fires every day—improper use of gasoline and matches not kept in a proper container.

Fire insurance companies are doing everything in their power to reduce fire hazards and beneficial results will be secured in proportion as the public—men, women and children—cooperate to save their own lives and property.

THE WHITE HOUSE FIRE

Washington had a Christmas Eve scare that its citizens will never forget. Fire engines and fire companies going in all directions, with their noisy clanging bells and horns. And "fire at the White House" on everybody's lips.

But it turned out to be the West Building, put up for the President's office during Roosevelt's administration, and the loss was not great, as only the interior of the building was badly damaged by fire and water. It is being restored.

Some papers say that the British burned the White House in 1817 how sentimental a thing the White House was to them.

Forty-Seven Years Ago

The following news items were taken from The Chilton View, a newspaper published in this county a half a century ago. The items here included are from the issue of January 4, 1883.

Miss Hallie Ray spent the holidays with Miss Mollie Hannon in Clanton.

Mrs. W. E. Stewart has returned from a visit to her sister, Mrs. Essie Adams, in Talladega.

Professor W. U. Acree of Verbena academy gave us a pleasant call last week. He reports his school flourishing with 96 scholars in attendance.

Snow fell here on Thursday night and Friday morning to a depth of about two inches.

Colonel Joseph Wheeler has again been elected to Congress from the 8th District by a two thousand majority over McClellan, Independent.

WEAK SPELLS

"I WAS so weak," says Mrs. Josephine Cockcroft, of Baldock, S. C., "that I was not able to do anything."

"At certain times, I suffered dreadfully with pains in my back and sides. My head would hurt—felt like it would split open. Spells of weakness would last for weeks."

"I read of Cardui. I sent for a bottle and began taking it. My case was stubborn, and at times I almost lost hope, but I could see a little improvement. At last I began to feel much better. Then I improved rapidly. For the last year I have been in better health than I ever have been before."

"I give the credit to Cardui, for after I had given it a thorough trial, I got well."

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Crumpton Jr., spent last Sunday in Selma as the guest of friends and relatives.

C. C. H. S. News

Chilton County High School resumed its work Monday morning, December 30th after a vacation of ten days for the Christmas holidays. All teachers and pupils reported promptly and everything assumed its normal condition without delay.

The teachers spent the holidays at their respective homes as follows: Mr. Horton T. Walker, Maplesville, Ala.; Miss Virginia Murphy, Aliceville, Ala.; Miss Bernice Williams, Luverne, Ala.; Miss Audie Clay, Fulton, Ala.; Miss Edna Coffield, Birmingham, Ala.; Miss Inez Perry, Red Level, Ala.; Miss Nell Wells, Jemison, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Warr, Eufaula, and Birmingham, Ala.; Miss Louise Jackson, Bessemer, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Green, Eclectic, Ala.

The faculty and student body and friends in general regret very deeply to learn of the untimely death of Mr. and Mrs. Green's infant daughter, Joyce Green. We extend to them our kind and heartfelt sympathy.

The school takes pleasure in announcing the addition of Mrs. Perry M. Pitts to our faculty as music teacher. Mrs. Pitts is one of our own and needs no introduction to the school or the town. We feel fortunate in securing her services. She comes to fill the vacancy made by the resignation of Mrs. Maggie P. Washington, who has been ill for some weeks.

The Birmingham papers have contained interesting articles during the past week concerning the marriage of one of our most popular teachers. On Monday, December 23, Miss Louise Jackson, of the history department became the bride of Reverend Henry Lyon, of Bessemer, Alabama. We are glad indeed to have Mrs. Lyon remain as a member of our faculty and continue her most excellent services as a teacher.

Perhaps the nicest Christmas present presented in the city of Clanton, and the one which afforded the pleasantest surprise was the high school auditorium of new opera chairs which greeted the faculty and student body when they returned on Monday morning. We are indebted to the patrons in general who made their contributions thru the incidental fees paid by the students and to the Commissioners Court who made a generous donation. This is a handsome gift, and of course will be appreciated more and more each day as they serve the school.

We are planning to celebrate the occasion of the addition of our new opera chairs on January 24, when we will present to the public a first-class up to date minstrel. This is Wayne P. Sewell's "Dixie Blackbirds." The public is cordially invited to attend our play at this time.

Mr. E. F. Mead, and Mr. Clyde Mead, of Thorsby were business visitors to our town last Monday. They were pleasant callers at the News office, having their subscription moved up for the coming year.

Mt. Pleasant News

Everyone was back at school Monday morning ready to do some good work this year.

Mt. Pleasant school won the picture for the best attendance during the month of November.

Miss Eunice Holly, one of our best pupils at Mt. Pleasant school, has moved to Georgia.

We have enrolled several new pupils since the Christmas holidays, Eula Mae Riggins started Monday. She is taking Junior II work.

Miss Hester Hall spent the Christmas holidays with her parents at Maple Valley, Alabama.

Mr. William Scarbrough of Birmingham spent Sunday with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Foshee.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Massey of Birmingham spent Sunday with their mother, Mrs. G. H. Massey.

Mr. Dick Burnett of Montgomery is spending a while with his mother, Mrs. Ethel Burnett.

Mr. Maurice Foshee of Mt. Pleasant school is visiting his sister in Atlanta, Georgia.

Misses Myrtle Littlejohn, Gertie Mae Hayes and Jewell Wilson spent Thursday with Misses Bertie, Mamie and Myrtle Logan.

Miss Ethel Gentry spent Christmas with her parents at Mountain Creek.

Mr. W. J. Billingsley of Thorsby, was among the business visitors to Clanton last Saturday.

Fairview News

Mr. and Mrs. Marviah Warren, Mr. and Mrs. Blanco Durbin and Mr. Rasco Durbin motored down from Birmingham Sunday and spent the day with their mother, Mrs. Ola Edwards.

Mrs. G. M. Durbin spent the day with her sisters, Misses Ressie and Dollie Mae Harris of Clanton, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Wagoner motored to Collins Chapel Thursday and spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Wagoner.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Keen and children of the Shiloh Community were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. V. C. McKee Saturday night.

Misses Lucile Edwards, Mary Bavers, Mildred and Edna Durbin were the guests of Misses Sony and Polly Durbin Sunday afternoon.

Misses Ruth, Ruby Cox, and Jewell Foshee dined with Inez McKee Sunday.

Misses Ruth and Ruby Cox, Mildred, Edna, Myrtle and Pauline Durbin and Inez McKee, Messrs. Claude, Harry, Elbert and Jim Arthur Mims spent a few enjoyable hours with Mr. and Mrs. V. C. McKee Saturday night and enjoyed the time while there radioing.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gilliland will regret to learn that they have moved away, but we hope them much joy and happiness in their new home.

Mr. Roscoe Durbin who has been working in Birmingham is at home for a few days.

Mrs. John Burnette from Montgomery spent the week end with Mrs. Ola Edwards and Mr. and Mrs. Will Burnette.

TEN PERSONS LYNCHED DURING 1929, SAY RECORDS

The following report on lynchings comes from the Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute for negroes:

According to the records compiled in the Department of Records and Research of the Tuskegee Institute, there were 10 persons lynched in 1929. This is 1 less than the number 11 for 1928, 6 less than the number 16 for 1927, 9 less than the number 19 for 1926 and 7 less than the number 17 for 1925. Six of the persons lynched were taken from the hands of the law, 5 from jail and 1 from officers of the law outside of jails.

There were 27 instances in which officers of the law prevented lynchings, 3 of these were in northern states and 24 in southern states. In 24 of the cases the prisoners were removed or the guards augmented or other precautions taken. In 3 other instances, armed force was used to repel the would be lynchings. Twelve white men, 20 negro men and 2 negro women were thus saved from death at the hands of mobs.

Of the 10 persons lynched, 7 were negroes and 3 whites. The offenses charged were: rape, 3; writing insulting notes, 2; murder, 1; wounding man in altercation, 1; wounding officers of the law, 2; charge not reported, 1.

The states in which lynchings occurred and the number in each state are as follows: Florida, 4; Kentucky, 1; Mississippi, 1; Tennessee, 1; Texas, 3.

GOOD ADVICE FOR ANYBODY

When farmers, or any other class of people, depend most upon themselves, working to better themselves and the conditions surrounding them, they become strong, says the Jacksonville, Florida, Times Union. "On the other hand, when they lean on others, or on Congress, seeking help from others, rather than doing what they can to help themselves, they become weaklings and give utterance to cries of distress."

Athletic Club Is Becoming Active

Plans for an Athletic Club here have passed the formative stage, according to an announcement given a representative of the News this week. The statement went on to say that already basketball games have been scheduled for the Clanton team, with large teams over the state.

Several of the Clanton merchants have bought the sweaters or jackets for the club team, each carrying an ad on the back of the jacket. Those merchants whose names will appear on these jackets are Lenoir's Place, Fugh's Woco-Pep Station, Dief's Service Station, Bates Motor Co., The Dixie Cafe, Alabama Harness and Shoe Shop, The Leader, Carter Electric Shop, and Callens.

On next Wednesday night the Athletic Club will play the Buck Creek Cotton Mills from Siluria. The game will be played on the court in the Maddox Warehouse, seven-thirty. This game, we understand is merely a practice game, and the season for the club will begin in earnest when they meet the United States Rubber Company team of Birmingham.

MANY EXEMPTIONS AT HIGH SCHOOL

During this week, mid-term examinations are in progress at the Chilton County High School. All pupils whose department is good, who have attended school every day, and whose scholarship averages ninety per cent and over, during all his daily recitations and school work in general, do not have to write the semester examinations, is the rule at the local high school, according to a statement from Prof. L. C. Warr, principal. He takes pleasure in announcing the following exemptions:

JONES - HASSELMAN WEDDING ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Hasselman, of Dayton, Ohio, announce the marriage of their daughter, Ann Rose, to Mr. L. Wallace Jones, of Birmingham, on December 21st, in Dayton, Ohio. Mrs. Jones was formerly connected with the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, at Mansfield, Ohio, Mr. Jones, for a number of years, has been affiliated with the Moore-Handley Hardware Company of Birmingham. After March 1st, Mr. and Mrs. Jones will reside in Montgomery.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones were in Clanton this week on a visit to his mother, Mrs. Willie Jones.

SIX ARRESTED FOR BURGLARY

Charged With Stealing Brass And Copper Valued At $300

According to information reaching us this week from the office of Sheriff Collins, six young men are being held in the county jail here charged with burglary and grand larceny. The names of the prisoners as given to us are as follows: Lether Connel, Ben Connel, Floyd Scamp, D. W. Morris, Ezra Morris, and Opel Morris.

They were arrested last Monday in Bessemer on the charge of stealing brass and copper from the Alabama Power Company to the value of three hundred dollars, the report stated. The prisoners were transferred to the Chilton County jail on the following day. Their residences are unknown and at the time of writing they have not made bond.

SERVICES AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY, 12TH

Church services will be held at the Clanton Presbyterian Church on next Sunday, January 12th. Two services one at 11 A. M. and one at 5 P. M. will be held. Dr. G. S. Frazer will conduct the services. Dr. Frazer was for some years pastor of the Idlewild Presbyterian Church at Memphis, Tenn. During the four years of his pastorate there the membership of his church increased from 1,000 to 1,500 and a church building costing $850,000 was built. We understand that Dr. Frazer is a very able man and that it is contemplated that while doing temporary supply work in the East Alabama Presbytery will give half time to the Clanton Presbyterian church for the next few months. Every one is cordially invited, especially to the five o'clock Vesper Service.

DR. T. J. MARCUS MOVES OFFICE TO HAYES BUILDING

After having occupied office space upstairs in the building of the Clanton Brokerage Co., near the courthouse, Dr. T. J. Marcus moved his office to the Hayes Building, on Seventh Street, across from the Hill Grocery Store.

Dr. Marcus will occupy the office space formerly used by C. B. Cox, contractor.

Mr. R. L. Martin, and daughter, Robbie Louise, of El Paso, Texas, arrived this week to spend several days as guests of Mrs. Bama Cox and Mrs. Frank Foshee.

SUNBEAMS WILL MEET

We have been requested to announce this week that the Sunbeam Band will meet at the Baptist church next Saturday afternoon, January 11th, at two-thirty.

It is especially urged that all Sunbeams be present at this meeting so that a fine start will be made in this new year. Remember, Saturday afternoon, at the church, at two-thirty o'clock.

BOX SUPPER AT COOPER SCHOOL NEXT SATURDAY

The News has been requested to announce this week that there will be a box supper held at the Cooper schoolhouse on next Saturday night, January 11th, beginning at seven-thirty.

In connection with the box supper, fruits, sandwiches and cake will also be sold. Proceeds go to the school.

Democratic Executive Committee To Meet

The Chilton County Democratic Executive Committee is scheduled to meet at the New Wilson Hotel, in Clanton, on Saturday, January 25th, at ten o'clock a. m. according to a statement from P. D. Wilson, Secretary of the committee.

The Executive Committee, with Hon. J. B. Atkinson as Chairman, will meet for the purpose of ordering a primary election to be held, and to prescribe qualifications of candidates for county officers to be voted on in the 1930 election. All Democrats are cordially invited to be present at this meeting.

CHEVROLET ANNOUNCES A NEW SIX NOW ON DISPLAY

Elsewhere in this issue of the News, there appears an ad from the Polk Brothers Motor Co., Inc., local and Jemison Chevrolet dealers, in which the announcement is made of a new Chevrolet Six. We are also carrying this week, a full description of the new car, which can also be seen at the show rooms of the local dealers.

Clanton Shoe Shop Moves This Week

Proprietor Plans To Have One Of Best Shoe Repair Shops Ever In Clanton

Announcement of the removal of the Clanton Shoe Shop to its new quarters this week, was made by I. D. Armstrong, proprietor of the shop, last Wednesday.

The Clanton Shoe Shop will now be located in the building formerly occupied by the O. K. Store, on Main Street next to W. Z. Hodges Store. There, Mr. Armstrong states that he will endeavor to open to the public, one of the cleanest shoe repair shops ever opened in Clanton.

Due to the fact that a large portion of the equipment of the shoe shop is almost new, no new machinery will be installed, however, booths for ladies will be a part of the equipment, later on, so we were informed. Mr. Armstrong cordially invites the public to visit his new home whenever in Clanton.

G. F. HARPER IN BUSINESS TEN YEARS IN THORSBY

We have just been informed of the fact that one of Thorsby's prominent and progressive merchants has been in business in that town for over ten years, and is still enjoying a splendid volume of patronage. This outstanding citizen of Chilton County is none other than Mr. G. F. Harper, dealer in general merchandise.

Elsewhere in this issue of the News, Mr. Harper is carrying an ad, in which he is thanking his customers and his friends for the business turned his way during the past years.

County Agent C. E. Stapp will be out of his office for this week. He is in Auburn attending the annual meeting of Extension Workers.

Local High School Basketball Team Is Having A Very Successful Season

The Chilton County High School Basketball team is having a very successful season, having won three of four games and tied the other. Monday night the Thompson High School team from Siluria played the local boys at the Maddox warehouse, the game resulting in a disputed tie. Both teams played well and the game was close and fast, Clanton leading most of the way. The game was called at seven-thirty with Walker as referee. Clanton led six to four at the end of the half, but the Siluria team came back in the last quarter to tie the score 10 to 10.

The Clanton team played a fast game both on the defensive and offensive. On last Friday night the local quintet nosed out the Wetumpka team by a score of 13 to eleven. The game was played on the Wetumpka floor and marked the third straight victory of the local team.

Wetumpka scored early in the game but the local team threatened continuously giving their opponents at no

Son Of Claire Vines Is Injured Tuesday

Willie Vines, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Claire Vines, of near here, was seriously injured last Tuesday afternoon when he attempted to ride on a compost distributor, said to belong to Will Burnett, according to information received by the News.

The report given a representative of the News stated that the lad asked for a ride on the farm machine, and was refused by the operator, with the remark that he might get hurt on it, and after the machine had passed, he attempted to catch a ride.

In some way, the boy is said to have slipped, and his left arm was severely cut by the machine, and he also received cuts about his head. The accident is reported to have occurred south of Clanton, between here and Coopers. The injured lad was brought to Clanton where he was given treatment, and at the time of this writing, his condition is reported as painful, but not serious, by attending physician.

W. G. DeShazo, prominent citizen of the Isabella community, was among the business visitors to Clanton last Tuesday.

Health Survey Of Clanton Is Made

Ordinance Is Passed Requiring All Residents To Have Sewer Connections If Possible

During the past several days, Guy Tate, from the State Department of Health, Montgomery, has been in Clanton, completing a survey of the town. This survey is in regard to sewerage connections of the residents and other sanitary conditions here.

After the completion of the survey, an ordinance was passed by the Council of the Town of Clanton, requiring all residents to have sewer connections if possible. If it is not possible for these sewer connections to be made, then a sanitary privy, must be constructed, plans of which will be furnished upon application to the State Department of Health, Montgomery. The above requirement is also a State Law, we understand from Mr. Tate.

Mr. Tate is also engaged in making the same type of survey of the surrounding towns, Verbena, Cooper, Maplesville, Jemison, Thorsby, and other places in this section.

REV. WILKERSON ADVISED TO TAKE REST; GOES, COLUMBIA

Rev. C. C. Wilkerson, formerly pastor of the Clanton Methodist church, now stationed at Chipley, Fla., has been advised by his physician to take an indefinite rest, according to a communication received by the News this week.

Rev. and Mrs. Wilkerson have gone to Columbia, Ala., where they will remain for an indefinite length of time.

We have been requested to announce that the parent-teachers association of the Chilton County High School will meet next Tuesday afternoon at the school at three o'clock in the afternoon. All members are urged to be present at this meeting.

HIT-RUN DRIVER STRIKES GIRL NEAR THORSBY SUNDAY

Miss Addie Primm was knocked off the highway by an unidentified motorist last Sunday afternoon according to information received by us. Miss Primm, it is said, was on her way to the church in Thorsby, and was not on the pavement, when two cars attempted to pass each other at the spot where Miss Primm was walking. One of the cars struck her, knocking her to the ground and did not stop.

The other car, said to have been from Clanton, stopped and assisted the young lady to Thorsby. She received only minor bruises, we were informed.

METHODISTS TO PLAN A BUDGET

Pastor Is Host To Members Last Tuesday Night To Discuss Plans

Rev. E. A. Childs, pastor of the Methodist church of Clanton, acted as host to members of the Official Board and their wives at a banquet Tuesday night.

At this supper he presented plans for paying the church's budget for the year, which includes $5,000 for current expenses and $8,000 balance on church debt.

Dr. Childs stated that if three members would pay $20.00 per week for fifty weeks and six members pay $10.00 per week, six members pay $7.00 per week, eight members pay $5.00 per week, eighteen members pay $2.00 per week, twenty-five members pay $1.00 per week, the entire budget of $13,000 could be raised.

The plan was discussed by members of the Board present and was then unanimously adopted by the seventeen members present.

The church plans immediately to appoint committees to canvass the membership for pledges to cover the budget.

Every member of the church is urged to pledge and pay the amount asked of them. Let this be the end of our "Old Church Debt." We are tired of hearing money, money, money, to pay on this debt year after year. If everyone will pay the amount asked of them this will be the end.

The Womans Missionary Society was complimented on having sent the last check in payment of the pipe organ.

The ladies were given a vote of thanks by a hearty hand clapping, for the wonderful work they have done in paying for the organ and helping pay for the church building. They have raised over $11,000 within the past six years.

MRS. M. B. ARANT CONFINED TO MONTGOMERY HOSPITAL

The latest reports from the bedside of Mrs. M. B. Arant, who is confined in the St. Margaret's Hospital in Montgomery, state that she is slightly improved. Mrs. Arant has been under treatment there for several days.

REAL ESTATE MAN HERE ON PROSPECTIVE TRIP

Last Tuesday, the News received a pleasant call from Mr. B. A. Vanderburg, of Birmingham, who is in the real estate and insurance business there.

Mr. Vanderburg was in Clanton for the purpose of looking over the town as a prospective place for a location. He made no definite plans known to us at that time.

LOSS ROBINSON RESIGNS AS NIGHT POLICEMAN FOR CITY

Loss Robinson, who has held down the job as night policeman in Clanton, has resigned that position, according to reports received Tuesday, his resignation taking effect last Monday.

Robinson's place is being filled temporarily by Officer M. C. Smith, until another can be selected.

HARRY MARGOLIS OF UNION-TOWN VISITS RELATIVES HERE

Mr. Harry Margolis, successful young business man of Uniontown, was in Clanton for the past several days as the guest of his sister, Mrs. M. Lande, and Mr. Lande. This is Harry's first visit here in some time.

IMPROVEMENT SURVEY MADE

News Makes Rapid Survey Of Various Buildings And Improvement

At this particular time of the year just as we have passed from the old year into the new it would not be in any manner inappropriate for us to take a rapid and general survey of the business conditions of which the old year closed and with which the new year opened.

It would be folly for us to say that the past year was the most prosperous that Clanton has ever seen or that business was on a boom. We would be making a false statement if we were to attempt to paint things in too bright colors. In view of this fact we feel safe in saying that business, while it has not been on a boom has not been bad and if anything, may be said to be normal.

The year 1929 passed out with what seems to be a building boom in Clanton and in the county. Using the addition of new business houses and the erection of new buildings as a measure by which to gauge the industrial trend it would seem that this is the (Continued on Last Page)

Maplesville Citizens Have Hospital Meet

A meeting of the citizens of Maplesville and Stanton was held at the office of Dr. H. M. Nix Monday night for the purpose of appointing a Committee to confer with the Federal Bureau, Washington, D. C. and present a claim for the location of the Veterans Hospital for the State of Alabama to be located near Maplesville or Stanton. The following Committee was appointed: Mr. C. E. Cagle, Chairman, J. P. Payne, Dr. C. N. Parnell, E. L. Stringfellow, Dr. H. M. Nix. The committee and the citizens of this section think without any equivocation that they have the best location for the Veterans Hospital that can be found in the State, being geographically located in the central portion of the state and at the intersection of two trunk lines of railroads, the Mobile and Ohio and the Southern railroad, and on No. 22, State Highway and on the Federal Highway from Tuscaloosa to Montgomery, which is under construction, a healthy locality, abundance of pure water. Anyone in this section having a prospective site to offer may confer with Mr. C. E. Cagle or Dr. H. M. Nix. Several sites are already available.

TEN DOLLARS A RESOLUTION

(By Dr. Christmas Seal)

New Year Resolutions need not be made at the first waking moment of the first day of the year. Good ones are only made after a little thinking time. Dr. Christmas Seal offers free of charge four Resolutions for health that will put dollars in your pockets and add years to your lives. If faithfully followed and you decide that they aren't worth ten dollars each in 1930, you will be awarded ten dollars worth of 1930 Christmas Seals.

I will sleep in fresh air eight hours every night

I will clear the bowels each day at a regular hour

I will drink enough water and eat some green vegetables every day.

I will be moderate in eating sweets and meats.

Christmas Seals stuck well to their job on the millions of letters and packages in Alabama. Did you forget to pay for yours? It's not too late.

Our office girl made a New Year's Resolution against rouge. She vows that hereafter she will remove it every night and apply it only in good light.

FIREWOOD IS AN IMPORTANT FOREST PRODUCT

The people of the United States use approximately nine and one-half billion cubic feet of firewood each year, says the Alabama Commission of Forestry. Southern trees contribute a very large proportion of this amount. The wood of all the pines, oaks, hickories and gums as well as that of many other trees furnishes a bountiful supply of fuel for stoves and fireplaces. The stumps and other parts of the Long-leaf Pine saturated with resin and known as lightwood comprise a large portion of the material used.

The cutting and hauling of wood for home uses furnish full or part time employment for many people. The tanner can spend some of his time to good advantage in supplying fuel wood to the public and at the same time improve his timber stand. Only defective and undesirable trees should be used for such low grade purposes as firewood, and under no consideration should wood suitable for lumber, piling, poles or crossties be used for fuel

Best Fertilizers
For Cotton Stated

Auburn, Ala., Jan. 9.—As a result of recent research work, the Experiment Station of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, announces important changes in the recommendations of fertilizer for cotton. The announcement was made by Director M. J. Funchess.

Instead of applying all of the nitrogen in the form of nitrate of soda, as has been done in the past, the new recommendation is that the initial application of nitrogen—applied with the seed—be in the form of sulfate of ammonia. This recommendation is based upon the fact revealed by experiments that young cotton plants grow faster with a combination of ammonia nitrogen and nitrate nitrogen than they do with nitrate nitrogen alone. Sulfate of ammonia applied to the soil furnishes both because ammonia nitrogen in the soil changes to nitrate nitrogen.

Professor Funchess said also that either nitrate of soda or nitrate of lime may be used for top dressing. Alabama experiments to date show that nitrate of lime makes as much cotton.

For the farmer who dislikes to home mix his fertilizer, Professor Funchess recommends that he apply a 10-2-4 mixture with the seed and top dress immediately after chopping with the proper amount of either nitrate of soda or nitrate of lime.

Professor Funchess explained that either nitrate of soda or nitrate of lime applied with the seed is good, but that ammonia nitrogen is better for this application. Summarizing it, he said: "The best cotton fertilizer for Alabama soil is a mixture of 400 lbs. of superphosphate, 40 pounds of ammonia sulfate, and 50 pounds of muriate of potash applied at planting and followed by 150 pounds of either nitrate of soda or nitrate of lime applied after chopping."

News In Brief

The annual mid winter meeting of the South Alabama newspapermen will be held at the Greystone Hotel in Montgomery, January 11, and the meeting for North Alabama will be held in Birmingham on Saturday, January 25, according to announcement made by Emmett Brooks, editor of The Brewton Standard and president of the Alabama Press Association.

Farmers of the Northwest United States spent $100,000,000 for farm machinery in 1929, according to a survey obtained from manufacturers and distributors.

There are 17,000,000 more people in the United States than there were in 1920, estimates Leon E. Truesdell, chief statistician of the Census Bureau, who looks for a total population of 122,000,000 in 1930, as compared to 105,000,000 in 1920.

That Christmas shopping in the United States for 1929 was fully up to that of 1928 was shown by reports from the Department of Commerce to President Hoover. This was contrary to expectations of retail merchants who believed the stock market collapse would reduce buying from 10 to 15 per cent below last year.

Starting with 16 reindeer in 1891, Alaska today has more than 1,000,000 of these animals, which furnish food, clothing, and transportation. The original shipment came from Siberia across a thousand miles of stormy sea. Reindeer were unknown in Alaska at that time. They have revolutionized the lives of Alaskans, giving them an industry which forms a permanent link with the outside world.

Wiley Jones was arrested last Saturday night at Greasy Ridge on a charge of having prohibited liquors in his possession. A charge was also placed upon him for carrying a concealed weapon.

Following are accounts of news items carried in the Clanton County news in its issue of January 12, 1928.

Joe Webb, widely known Birmingham attorney and General Counsel for the Edwards Estate Corporation of Alabama, was indicted on a charge of using the mail to defraud by the Federal Grand Jury last Friday. A $5,000 bail was signed by Dr. Felix L. Tarrant and Thomas McCain.

Miss Ira Lee Foshee, died at Bryces Hospital in Tuscaloosa Monday morning and was brought to Clanton by J. Mell Martin ambulance, where the body was prepared for burial. Interment took place at Samaria Cemetery Tuesday.

The annual meeting of the Baptist Womans Missionary society of the Unity Association will be held at Samaria Baptist church January 18, beginning at 10:30 A. M.

Residents of Clanton and Chilton County will be interested to learn that Rev. L. W. Chalker will do the preaching during the Clanton Revival next Summer. His son, Rev. Tom Chalker will lead the singing.

"So teach us to number our days that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom."

—O—O—O—

The Democratic Committee Meeting Is Important

Every Democrat of Chilton County should interest him or her self in the affairs of his or her party to the extent of at least seeing in person or writing his or her beat committeeman, or committeewoman, and expressing to him or her your ideas on the best policy for the party to adopt in the forthcoming primary and general elections and better, if you would attend the committee meeting in person, which has been called to meet on January 25th, 1930, at the New Wilson Hotel in Clanton, and give in person your ideas, advice and co-operation, as the committee is anxious, that you do so.

If it were not for the laws on the statute books of this land and country, made possible by the democratic party, you would no doubt now be witnessing one of the greatest financial depressions the country has ever had. With the ruthless hands of extravagance in the public funds of Chilton County, going on with their machine politics and no results for the expenditures, it looks like that every man and woman in this county would awaken and see the folly of our conditions and become active in behalf of their government.

Thousands of dollars have been expended under the guise of road building and yet we have no county roads which have been graded or permanent bridges or culverts placed thereon. The question has been raised that the Maplesville road is under the state administration and cost around ten thousand dollars per mile. Upon this road the state spent most of that amount for concrete bridges, culverts and for grading and only a small amount of this expenditure was for graveling. The bridges, hills, culverts, and graveling is permanent and when a road on this road will be gravelled and made a splendid highway through our county. The Democratic party of Alabama is sponsoring good roads, good schools and health work and needs the united support of every county in the state. The people of Chilton County are due to place Democrats in office who can work in harmony with the state administrations and go forward on a progressive way.

Now is the time for every Democrat to express his or her views on the policies to be adopted by the party. Don't wait until action is taken and then criticise, do it now.

The Birmingham Post came out one day last week with a story, under a four column head, stating that if Jonah was swallowed by a whale he was no bigger than a shrimp or a sardine. A whale was on exhibition in Birmingham and an enterprising reporter talked to a captain of a whaling vessel, who told him all about whales. The Post states that whales live mostly on sardines and shrimps and the particular whale in Birmingham has a throat no larger than a grapefruit. Although The Post hints that it was impossible for a whale to have swallowed Jonah, at the same time it states, quoting the captain:

"We killed one whale off the west coast that had more than 30 barrels of shrimp in its stomach. As a rule the whale will follow a school of small fish for miles, rushing into the school at times and swallowing half a ton or so at a time."

Having a throat no larger than a grapefruit and being able to care for 1000 pounds of seafood all at once is what we call efficiency.

However, The Post and the captain may be absolutely correct. No whale—not even the kind that swam the seas in biblical times might have been able to have swallowed Jonah. In fact, we are inclined to believe that Jonah was not swallowed by a whale. The Bible doesn't say he was. The word "whale" does not appear in the book of Jonah, who was swallowed by a "great fish."

Now down in Miami, Fla., about fifteen or twenty years ago a Captain Thompson caught a "great fish" which had a mouth large enough to have swallowed Jonah, providing Jonah was an average-sized man, even if Jonah had been riding a horse at the time. This great fish, properly stuffed, is now on display at the Smithsonian Institute in Washington, and if anyone has any doubts about the ability of the mammoth fish to swallow a Jonah the doubter can go to Washington, and if he can obtain permission, can take a walk around in the fish's throat. This fish is not a whale!—Greenville Advocate.

Value of Friendliness

To get a clear picture of the importance of friendliness, courtesy and affability, we have only to recall the slight embarrassment most of us feel whenever we enter a strange place. If the hotel clerk, the head waiter, the floorwalker, the information clerk, or the ticket seller, give us a cold stare and answer our questions without even looking at us our spirits suffer a chill. Other things being equal, or even acceptable, we will transfer our patronage to another establishment where we are received more humanly.

Every person deeply desires to be considered of some importance, and for many of us this opportunity occurs most often when we have money to spend. We like to feel that the establishment that receives our patronage is appreciative. We may have no right to feel that way, but that doesn't alter the fact that we do.—Pickens County Herald.

Life Worth More Than Time

Every railroad crossing in the country bears a sign reading, "Stop, Look, and Listen," yet practically no one stops, while results would indicate that there are many who do not even look and listen.

Most state also have laws requiring motor vehicles to come to a stop upon reaching railroad crossings, but the law is ignored in countless instances.

As a consequence of this indifference to signs and laws—and common sense—the death toll from grade crossing accidents continues to mount. It seems impossible to drive home the thought that trains use railroad tracks and that any dispute with a train as to right of way is lost before it begins.

Ohio furnishes one of the latest instances of fatal carelessness at crossings, seven lives being snuffed out and the tragedy made particularly deplorable because those sacrificed were young; boys from fourteen to eighteen who were active in school and who should have lived to enjoy many years of usefulness.

To "Stop, Look and Listen" doesn't take near so much time as one spends in the grave—a thought that drivers, both public and private, might well remember.—Tuscaloosa News.

A head line in a daily paper states: "Four convicts who have been escapes for fourteen years voluntarily return." Did the Hoover prosperity run 'em in? Maybe they read the Government report which praised the Graves administration for the high standard the convict department in Alabama has reached and concluded that they would be treated right.

Those Democrats who have scooped a nice slice of the republican pie in Chilton County are to be congratulated upon their attainment, provided they didn't sacrifice a conscience in doing so.

Unless a Health Unit is established in Chilton County there is no use making an effort to locate a Veterans Hospital here for Uncle Sam knows a lot about us, and in some instances he knows more than we do.

If you expect to land the Veterans Hospital for Chilton County, it might be wise to organize a post of the American Legion. Why don't you war boys wake up and get together, anyway?

Most businesses run at a profit or loss. Clanton fired its Loss, and for aught that appears started off the new year with a determination to have no more Losses.

Clanton ought to get full, for it has a large number of filling stations.

Wonder how those Democrats who voted in the Republican primary last year for Tom Littlejohn, and then voted for the Democratic nominee in the general election, feel now? The republican committee said you were dishonorable.

"Round Town"
By "Doug"

Again, I thank you readers for your interest in this too unworthy column of mine. It is most gratifying to learn of the comments from you, both good and bad ones.

The Editor thinks it's the bunk, and threatens to refuse to use my wandering thoughts on paper, but so far has given me another chance each week.

I just found out last week why Renfro Mullins was so happy lately. He's a Grandfather. Can't blame him, can you. Yes, he has a fine grandson now, name's John Edwin, for its two uncles. And then all that makes Frank Mullins a great uncle, and Mrs. Watts Moore is now a great aunt, and so is Mrs. John DeRamus. Funny what a change a little fellow like the new son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Scott can bring about.

I wonder what has become of the merry-making crowd, that once roamed the town on New Years night, Why, the past New Years eve night, when everyone expected to hear lots of fuss, only a few guns were fired, a few fire crackers shot, and the fire alarm sounded once. Then it was all over here in Clanton. People around here are becoming somewhat settled, I believe. Several years ago, the Town officials had to employ several extra cops to handle the crowd, when the midnight hour arrived, between the leaving of the old year and the beginning of the new.

"Courtesy Personified." That's the slogan of the Greystone Hotel in Montgomery. Stopped there not long ago, and found out what "Courtesy Personified" really means. It means, according to my ideas, a combination of the best of service, courtesy and comfort, at a most reasonable charge. Mr. Charles A. Johnson, the friendly manager of the Greystone, may call my hand at this definition, and if he does, I'll tell you some of the things he says.

Speaking of service, just listen to this. Say for instance, I wanted my car washed, polished, inspected and put in shape. There would be no question in my mind where to take it. First to Bates Motor Co., for the inspection, because I have found that they really understand the fixings of the ignition system of a car. And that is a most important item, too. Then to Pugh's Service Station, up in front of the court house. There it would receive a most careful washing and polishing, and be given a thorough cleaning on the inside. Those boys there certainly know their stuff on cleaning an auto. Now that is service, and it can all be done in a few hours. Remember that.

In order to stand in with the aforesaid Editor, I gotta say something nice. "Look at Your Hat, Everyone Else Does." And "Look at Your Office Stationery, Everyone You Write To Does." Now go to the Chilton County News office, and let them show you something in the art of printing fine stationery. Don't worry so much about your hat, because didn't some wise fellow once say that 'clothes don't make the man'.

"And God made the country, but man made the town." And have you done your part in making Clanton? Or, are you one of the 'I told you so' kind? Have you cooperated with, or pulled against, the men here who are trying to make Clanton, a place to be proud of? Think it over, and then start something. Something for the betterment of this town—your home.

Mrs. Frank Mullins were charming hostesses.

After a series of bridge games, in the apartments prettily decorated with carnations and potted plants, the high score prize was awarded to Mrs. N. S. Johnson as she topped the score. Mrs. Grady Reynolds was lucky and won the cut prize, while the low score prize was presented to Mrs. Arthur Johnson.

At a late hour a tempting salad plate was served to the following: Mesdames Barnett Deramus, Irby Deramus, Verbena; Mrs. Hance Alred, John Browder, Frank Callen, Lawrence Gerald, Victor Heard, Arthur Johnson, N. S. Johnson, Watts Moore, Hugh Simpson, Grady and Omar Reynolds, Julius Burnett, T. C. McSwain, Hosey Downs, W. M. Wyatt, Lee Smith, John Page, Grady Broadhead, John Armstrong, Hugh Jones, J. P. Hayes, Jim Jones, Norman Roberts, Misses Bettie Mullins, Madelyn Orr, Jean Johnson and the hostesses.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Atkinson and Misses Nellie Mae and Ruth Atkinson of Birmingham spent the holidays in Mt. Creek as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Gray and family.

Miss Vergie Scott of Verbena, who is a student at Alabama College, Montevallo, Ala., spent the past few days as the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Scott.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Culver and son, Batson, and daughter, Bessie Mae, were in Clanton last Thursday shopping.

THE GREATEST CHEVROLET

A Smoother—Faster Six—With Beautiful New Bodies By Fisher Is Announcement

The Chevrolet Motor Company today announced a new car for 1930, known as "The Greatest Chevrolet in Chevrolet History."

Announcement of the new car today comes right at the close of Chevrolet's greatest year, for the sensational success of the six-cylinder Chevrolet, introduced just a year ago, resulted in an output of 1,350,000 cars this year, breaking by a wide margin all former Chevrolet annual production records.

In making public Chevrolet's plans for 1930, W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager, declared that with the improvements incorporated in the new car, Chevrolet was anticipating a volume of business that will equal, if not surpass the phenomenal record of 1929. And, in order to accommodate an early demand, production is being speeded with all the haste consistent with the precision methods for which Chevrolet manufacturing operations are famous.

New car shipments have been going out to dealers for the past ten days, with deliveries to owners scheduled to start today. The cars went on display this morning in thousands of Chevrolet show rooms from coast to coast, while at the same time the announcement of the new car was being broadcast through the advertising columns of more than 6,500 newspapers.

Scores of distinct improvements have been made in the 1930 Chevrolet line, the factory announces. Greater beauty, added safety factors, improved riding comfort and better all-round performance with added power, and faster acceleration are announced as features of the new line.

Larger tires, small wheels, Delco-Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers at all four wheels, Fisher slanting no-glare VV windshield and vastly improved four wheel braking system are some of the highlights.

Brakes are of the internal expanding "articulated shoe type" both front and rear, those on the front wheels having two shoes while those on the rear have four. These brakes, also, are fully enclosed giving perfect protection against water and dirt.

The brakes represent an innovation not only in the Chevrolet line but in the entire passenger field. The length of service that these linings give in the new design Chevrolet brakes is seen ed to none. The brakes may be adjusted without the removal of any plates from the brake drum and operate with equal efficiency on all four wheels. The brake drums are 11½ inches in diameter. The emergency brake is an independent unit operating on the rear drums. A new method of construction known as the "articulated shoe type" assures uniform braking under all conditions of temperature. Tests at the General Motors Proving Ground show that the new brake will stop a car traveling thirty miles per hour in two and two-tenths seconds within forty-eight feet.

The attractive new closed bodies, in a variety of colors, carry the famous Fisher stamp of craftsmanship. Eight models, three of which are new to Chevrolet, comprise the line. Of the eight, five are closed cars and three are open. The closed cars are the sedan, coach, coupe, sport coupe, and club sedan. The open models are the roadster, sport roadster, and phaeton. The models new to the line this year are the sport coupe, sport roadster, and club sedan.

The six cylinder valve-in-head engine introduced a year ago, after four years of research and development, has been further improved and refined. Since the introduction of the six a year ago, test cars have run up more than a million miles of driving at the General Motors Proving Ground in the working out and the justifying of the improvements found in the 1930 car. All the resources of the General Motors Research Laboratories and the Chevrolet experimental laboratory were placed at the disposal of the Chevrolet engineering staff in this work.

Working with Chevrolet's chief engineer, were General Motors engineers, with 18 Chevrolet engineers assisting their chief in supervising the development and refinement of the improved six cylinder motor found in "The Greatest Chevrolet."

The result of the efforts of this engineering talent is a smoother, quieter, more powerful motor. The new engine, fully enclosed, with a high compression non-detonating head, develops 50 horsepower.

The brake horsepower has been increased over the entire speed range. At 1000 revolutions per minute 24.5 horsepower is developed and the maximum of 50 horsepower is attained at 2600 revolutions per minute. This increase in power insures a marked improvement in acceleration and hill climbing ability. At normal driving speed the new engine develops many times the power required to drive the car. Specifically the rear axle has been redesigned while the differential unit has been strengthened and its oiling system redesigned to insure long life and quiet operation.

Smoother operation of the engine and longer life are assured through the use of light weight pistons. Steel-backed crankshaft bearings have been adopted because they are more durable.

The oil pump has been increased in capacity and improved in efficiency, while the carburetor has been improved in respect to both its accelerating pump and jet size. The accelerating pump has been increased in length and reduced in diameter. This improvement also helps the acceleration performance by increasing the duration of the spray.

The same sturdy 48 pound crankshaft which proved so satisfactory during 1929 has been retained in the new car and a further contribution to smoother engine operation, improved distribution and increased economy has been made by the new intake and exhaust manifolds of the heated T design. The air cleaner has been improved by reversing the position of the intake slots and providing for a less restricted flow of air. With the intake slots located at a greater distance from the exhaust manifold, the air entering the carburetor is much cooler and a greater amount of air can be handled in the same space because of its greater density. These combined refinements result in better engine performance by insuring delivery of clean, cool air to the carburetor in larger quantities.

The clutch on the new car has been improved by the adoption of an integral disc, made in one piece of high carbon steel. This will give the 1930 cars smoother and easier clutch action with quieter and longer service.

Easier riding and greater quietness are accomplished through a new type of self-adjusting spring shackle in which bushings in the spring eyes and brackets are eliminated, thus doing away with wear. Hardened and ground tubular pins, with tapered ends, are pressed into the springs and brackets while oil forced into them forms a large reservoir, making frequent lubrication unnecessary.

Another improvement bringing about easier riding, is found in the Delco-Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers in the form of a rigid link rod instead of a strap connecting the operating arms with the chassis and insuring positive transmission of all rebound movements.

A new type of gasoline gauge of unusual accuracy is found on the new Chevrolet. A double float in the tank insures correct reading of this gauge regardless of the position of the car.

The position of the steering wheel in relation to the seat has been changed making the driver's position much more comfortable. The horn button in the center of the wheel has been made more accessible and easier to operate by increasing the height of the crown and improving the design of the rubber bellows.

Appearance and riding qualities of the new car have been improved thru a change in the tire size from a 4.50 by 20 to 4.75 by 19. The rim diameter has been reduced one inch.

Disc wheels are provided as standard equipment on all models except the sport roadster and sport coupe. The wire wheels on these models are equipped with drop center rims and are demountable at the hub. The large wire wheel hubcaps are chromium plated and of beautiful and distinctive design. The neat Chevrolet emblem at the center with raised polished border and black center is surrounded by a hammered background. This is surrounded by a polished ring within a black ring.

Any possibility of the hood rattling has been eliminated through the addition of a rubber bumper mounted on the upturned flange of the fender skirt, against which the hood bears.

The instrument panel design and arrangement this year is entirely new. The instruments are all mounted on a single carrier plate which is assembled from the rear. This permits the removal of individual instruments for service. Spark and throttle controls as well as choke are located on the instrument panel, which is indirectly lighted.

The sport roadster and sport coupe are equipped with wire wheels. Both have rumble seats, that in the sport roadster being of the flush type. Spare wheel and carrier are mounted on the back. The sport roadster is finished in smart black Duco with Ayres gray moulding. Body striping and wire wheels are Shamalar orange, while the seats are gray with plain back and tufted seat cushion. Top material is brown and white whipcord on the inside and gray teal on the outside. The back curtain is separate to permit better ventilation. The sport coupe is finished in Stanford brown with Beaver brown

A SURPRISE PARTY

On the past Saturday evening the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Pinson was thrown open to their many friends. They gave a pounding for Rev. Nichols who is their pastor.

The guests were met at the door by Mr. Pinson and invited in. The older people were entertained by the radio. The younger ones by the victrola and games.

Hot cocoa and cakes were served during the evening. When the guests had arrived with their groceries they brought them and placed them upon a table. They tied a note telling Rev. Nichols of the things given him to the table and then unwound it around his many friends and gave the end to him to wind up. He did not want it to begin with, as he would go along he would wonder where it was carrying him, as he came up to the table with the groceries he was astonished and asked himself whether he was worthy or not.

They all enjoyed themselves and returned home proud of what they had done, and the appreciation shown for what they had given.

G. W. Sansom, D. E. Sansom, and J. T. Minor all of Maplesville Route Two, were in Clanton on business last Wednesday and were pleasant callers at the News office.

ATWATER KENT RADIOS SHOW SALES INCREASE

Confronted with the greatest mid-winter demand in radio history, the Atwater Kent Manufacturing Company has been unable to close down over the holidays for the usual January 1st inventory.

Announcement to this effect, coming as a New Year's greeting and a forecast of increasing prosperity for 1930, was received today by the Birmingham Electric Battery Company Distributors for Atwater Kent Radios for this territory.

"The shortage of Atwater Kent Sets during the past thirty days," the announcement stated, "has been general. All during December our production has been speeded up to man - power capacity in an earnest endeavor to catch up with a demand unprecedented in the annual production of manufacture and merchandise."

That the democracy of American business is proven again and again by the conspicuous success of men who started their careers at the foot of the ladder and climbed to success by sheer force of character and determination.

An outstanding example of this has just occurred in the election of Herbert D. Ivey to the presidency of the $135,000,000 Citizens National Trust & Savings Bank of Los Angeles.

A little more than twenty six years ago, Herbert D. Ivey began to work for the Citizens National Bank as a messenger. He was seventeen years old and had just come to the city from San Antonio, Texas.

He brought with him no special advantages or family pull, but both he and his two brothers entered bank in Los Angeles, and all three have risen to high positions.

In the intervening years H. D. Ivey worked his way up, becoming successively bookkeeper, teller, cashier, vice president and president.

In spare time he studied and graduated in the American Institute of Banking and helped the men under him to learn more about banking.

When in June the president of the bank died suddenly, the directors with out delay turned to the man who had been loyally working for the best interests of the institution for twenty six years and entrusted him with the responsibilities of the high position.

There is always plenty of room at the top for those who have brains and determination.

The elevation of H. D. Ivey to the presidency of this large and influential bank is another outstanding example of how a country bred boy can start at the bottom and rise to the top.

Mrs. P. M. Moore and Mrs. L. D. Popwell of Clanton Route 2 were among the shopping visitors to Clanton last Saturday. Mrs. Moore had her name added to the subscription list of the News.

There will be a Christian Endeavor "Tea" given next Saturday afternoon at the Congregational church from three-thirty till four-thirty. The entertainment is being given by the losing side in the contest conducted. The subject of the meeting last Sunday night was "Prayer" and was led by Miss Alta Each. The meeting was well attended and was very good.

William Howard Taylor of Helena spent the past week end in Thorsby as the guest of Henry Robinson.

Marcelle Wilder, who is employed at Mitchell Dam, spent Sunday at his home in Thorsby.

Mr. Luther Davenport has moved to Talasse, Alabama. Mr. Davenport and family left last Sunday. Their many friends in Thorsby will regret to hear of their leaving.

Miss Addie Primm was severely bruised last Sunday afternoon about four o'clock when she was struck by an auto while walking on the highway just north of town. The car which struck her did not stop, but continued on. Miss Primm was walking on the right hand side of the road coming south when she was struck and knocked from the pavement. A passing motorist stopped and brought her in to Thorsby where it was ascertained that her injuries were not serious.

Miss Alta Each entertained a number of her friends last Wednesday night at a New Years party. The party was held at seven o'clock and continued through till the new year. Delicious refreshments of cake and hot chocolate were served to the guests.

The Baptist Ladies Aid will meet with Mrs. Ben Davenport next Thursday.

The Congregational Ladies Aid met last Saturday afternoon at the church in a business session and elected officers for the coming year. The following officers were elected: Mrs. E. W. Butler, president; Mrs. Lorell, vice president; Mrs. S. E. Norton, secre-

Mr. W. L. Leroy, one of the prominent and progressive citizens on Jimison Route One, was a visitor to our city last Saturday.

Forrest Williams of Jimison Route Two was among the visitors to Clanton last Saturday. While in town Mr. Williams was a pleasant caller at the News office. Come again, Mr. Williams.

W. W. Jones, a resident of Clanton Route One, was in Clanton last Saturday.

George S. Wall of Birmingham, Eng. in three months was sentenced successfully for thrashing his son, spanking his daughter cruelly and beating his wife.

Remodeled Kitchen Makes Tasks A Joy

Tuskegee, Ala., Jan. 9.—Remodeling her kitchen has turned the task of preparing meals for her family from a drudgery into a pleasure for Mrs. A. D. Ramsey of Fairlawn, Macon County, Alabama. The improvement cost her only $25. Fifteen of this she won in a garden contest and the other $10 came from prizes won at the county fair.

"My kitchen was built 22 years ago with no idea of beauty or convenience," Mrs. Ramsey said. "There was only one window for light and ventilation. First I had another window installed, high enough for a sink and other equipment to be placed underneath. A cabinet was built in, and working surfaces made the right height. Ivory paint was used on walls and ceiling that were formerly a dark gray. The floor was covered with new linoleum, and many other improvements made. Mrs. Lida Jones, our home agent, was a great help to me in the remodeling. I am delighted."

Half an hour before his son was to be secretly married, Robert Stephens of Ponypool, Eng., had the youth arrested for making a false statement to get the license.

FULL BODY

CLEAN-CLEAR-PURE

Five or ten miles of motor wear before you've moved an inch! Incredible, yet that is just what happens with every cold start if your motor oil is sensitive to cold. At 32 degrees, many oils lag. At zero they become hard—completely useless until warmed up. Pistons, cylinders and bearings grate and grind—metal against metal—for lack of lubrication.

With Texaco Golden Motor Oil neither the coldest start nor the fastest warmed-up driving will impair your motor. Regardless of weather, Texaco is on the job the instant you step on the starter. It is free from all hard-carbon-forming elements and cold-sensitive impurities. To the last drop it is nothing but clean, pure, free-flowing, full-bodied lubricant.

TEXACO
GOLDEN MOTOR OIL

Here is an experiment that has been made thousands of times. Left in a snow bank overnight—next morning Texaco flows freely—smoothly! Many other oils thicken and refuse to flow!

way that things are going.
Clanton is adding to her already large number of filling stations, three more all to be completed about the same time, and to be of the first grade. The Standard Oil Company is erecting in front of the Dixie Cafe a new and up-to-date station and the Texas Company likewise is erecting one of their best stations in front of The Maddox Warehouse, on the highway. The other station is not in the business district of town, but is directly in front of the new Presbyterian church on the Maplesville Highway. W. H. Goodgame is erecting the only other station of which we have any report, on the highway in Thorsby.

Probably what may be considered the largest addition to the business life of Clanton and vicinity is the recent opening of the A. & P. Store here. This store which occupies the space formerly used by the W. T. Baker Dry Goods Company is one of the most modern and up-to-date stores in this part of the state.

A recent addition and an important one to the business of Clanton is the coming of Dr. N. A. Staples of Uniontown to be a partner of Dr. J. E. Edgar, prominent dentist here. Dr. Staples opened his office here on the first of January. He is a graduate of Vanderbilt University and has had a number of years of practice.

Thorsby has two new buildings in the process of construction. The Thorsby Baptist church which is rapidly nearing completion fills a long felt need in the community. The other building is a warehouse being constructed by the Thorsby Fruit and Truck Growers Association which is to be of concrete brick and which, when completed will cost approximately one thousand dollars.

The Carter Electric Shop on Main Street near the railroad has been undergoing major repairs and now is one of the most up to date and well equipped shops of its kind in the vicinity.

Information was received recently that a contract had been let for the construction of a new negro schoolhouse. The work on the building has started and is being done by J. L. Crawford of Autauga County. The building is in the West End of Clanton.

The Town of Clanton has recently installed a modern fire siren, the need of which has been felt for a long while.

The Chilton County High School has recently purchased 1500 modern opera seats which have been installed in the auditorium of the school. These seats fill a long felt need in the life of the school and are heartily appreciated by all who were forced to use the old ones.

Work on the new Baptist church in Thorsby is going forward. This will be quite an addition to Thorsby. Rumors are to the effect that another chain store will open in Clanton in the near future.

Mr. Leonard Culp and family will move to their new home soon, in the Pleasant Grove community.

On last Thursday afternoon Mrs. Stapp, Child Welfare worker for Chilton County, came out and presented a large and beautiful picture to the Mt. Pleasant Junior High School.

The school won the picture for having the best attendance of any junior high school in the county during the month of November.

The student body was called together and during Mrs. Stapp's talk in presenting this picture, the boys and girls gave expression to their overjoyed feeling by numerous hand-clappings.

Mt. Pleasant hopes to win the picture for January, as our attendance is extra good thus far. The picture was given by Mr. S. M. Pate, Tax Assessor.

East View News

The road crew has been hauling some gravel and spreading it on the bad places in the roads in our section which was very much needed. Some of the roads were almost impassable.

If they would go over our roads now with the machine and scrape lightly to fill up the holes and trenches and to scrape off the bumps it would do much good.

I guess the candidates will be out soon and if they want to sling mud in the race they can find plenty of it in our roads.

Rev. and Mrs. A. C. Nelson motored to Watson Chapel church, near Cherokee Bluff where he filled his regular appointment there Saturday and Sunday. On his return he stopped at Mt. Creek union church and preached there Sunday night.

Miss Edna and Ruby Tucker were dinner guests of Miss Catherine Strength Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Tucker are new comers to our community. We welcome them into our midst.

Miss Ida Ray, who has been visiting relatives in Birmingham, returned home Saturday.

There was a large attendance at Sunday school Sunday and we received four new members. Some of the teachers were absent, but we had a real good Sunday school and everyone seemed to enjoy the service.

Mr. Horash Ray of Birmingham was the guest of Mr. J. A. Dobbs Sunday.

Mr. Joe Dennis is moving to Pine Flat near Deatsville.

There will be preaching here Saturday, Sunday and Sunday night. You are invited to meet and worship with us.

SEMESTER EXAMINATIONS IN FULL SWING AT C. C. H. S.

If anyone should question the earnestness in which most pupils in Chilton County High School entered into the review of the work for semester examinations since school began after the Christmas holidays, we invite them to visit the various rooms and observe things in operation. We feel the importance of a higher quality of work has been made manifest, and that each one really wants to earn his half unit of credit.

The regular semester examinations began Wednesday morning, and will continue through Friday. We very earnestly request that every one take these examinations. Of course if a pupil should be ill, he will be given a chance to take them when he is able to return to school. We plan to publish the percentage of the various classes that pass in next week's paper.

The second semester will begin January 13, at which time incidental fees will be due again. Please send the $5.00 by your pupils Monday morning, and let's straighten out our indebtedness. The roof of the building is in bad shape, and will take quite a bit to put it in proper repair.

FARM BOARD GIVES ADVICE

1929 Cotton Acreage Largest In History Since 1925 And In 1926

The time has come for southern farmers to consider how much cotton they will plant next spring. Last year's acreage was too large. It was the largest planted acreage of any year in history except 1925 and 1926. Nothing but crop failure in Texas in 1929 prevented a total yield of 16,000,000 bales in the belt. That is more American cotton than the world will take at a fair price.

A national acre yield equal to that of 1926 on the 1929 acreage would have produced 17,500,000 bales. A 10 per cent reduction in that acreage with the 1926 acre yield would return a crop of 15,750,000 bales; with average yields 13,500,000 bales; and with the lowest yield in the past seven years, about 11,250,000 bales. Large cotton crops sell for less than small ones. Ten million bales in 1923 sold for $1,600,000,000. Fifteen million bales in 1926 sold for less than $1,000,000,000; that is, farmers picked and ginned 8 million bales of cotton in 1926, gave them to the world free of charge and, in effect, paid $600,000,000 for the privilege. That is not good business for farmers.

Some cotton farmers think, that because the Federal Farm Board has been lending to cooperatives at an average of 16 cents a pound on middling 7-8 inch staple of the 1929 crop, the Board means to see to it that the price will be at least that much for the crop of 1930.

This is not so. The Federal Farm Board can not protect farmers when they deliberately over-plant. What the Board will do to help in marketing next year's crop will depend upon what farmers do at planting time.

If southern farmers should raise their own food and feed, and in addition to that, should raise the food that southern city people eat so far as the climate and soil will let them, there would be small danger of any cotton surplus or of an unprofitable price.

The Federal Farm Board recommends that southern farmers plant no cotton next spring until they have first provided acres enough for a reasonable supply of home raised food and feed. The Board further recommends that no land be planted to cotton which has not produced at least one third of a bale per acre on the average of the last five years.

These recommendations, if carried out by southern farmers, would materially reduce the cotton acreage and help to remove the possibility of a cotton surplus.

R. J. JONES PURCHASES LENOIR'S PLACE FROM CALVIN LENOIR

One of the outstanding business transactions of the past week took place when Robert J. Jones purchased the drug store, known as Lenoir's Place from Calvin Lenoir.

The deal was closed on Wednesday of last week. Mr. Jones and two sons, S. A. and Vernon, taking charge on that day.

Under the new management, the store has undergone practically a complete renovating. S. A. Jones and Vernon Jones will be in charge of the place, which in the future will be known as Jones' Place.

S. A. has had quite a bit of experience in the drug and soda fountain line, and he and his brother intend to give their best in serving the people of this section. They will continue to handle a line of drugs, toiletries, cigars, cigarettes, magazines, as well as operate a clean soft drink business. This store is also headquarters for the Birmingham-Montgomery busses.

Mr. J. P. Payne, prominent hardware merchant of Maplesville, was among the business visitors to Clanton last Tuesday.

Big Advertising Campaign Tells Northern Farmers About Opportunities Down South

Smuggled close to the fireside, while snow floats down and icy winds whistle about the eaves, thousands of northern farmers are now reading each month about the balm climate of the South, and the fertility and productiveness of its soil. Each issue of their favorite magazines brings the story home to them. One month, there is portrayed the South's opportunities for the dairy farmer; another, is describing the favorable conditions for poultry raising,

CHILTON COUNTY COOPERATIVE TALK OVER WAPI, 17TH

The News is just in receipt of an announcement from Mr. L. O. Brackeen, Director of Information of the Alabama Farm Bureau, stating that tomorrow, Friday, at 12:40 P. M. there will be broadcast over Station WAPI, a talk on cooperation and organization in Chilton County.

Several of the officers and leaders will be mentioned in the talk tomorrow and it will be worth while for all to tune in on Station WAPI, at 12:40.

ATHLETIC CLUB WILL PLAY U. S. RUBBER CO.

Has Four Games Scheduled For This Week; One Will Be Played Jan. 20

On next Saturday night, the basketballers of the Clanton Athletic Club will play the team from the United States Rubber Company, in Birmingham. This visiting team, we understand holds a high record in winning games, which will no doubt show up some Saturday night. The game is scheduled to begin at seven-thirty, playing on the indoor court at the Maddox Warehouse.

Tonight at seven-thirty, at the Maddox Warehouse, the Athletic Club lads will play against the team from the Buck Creek Cotton Mills, of Siluria.

Tomorrow, Friday night, two games are scheduled by the local athletic club, with the Maplesville boys and girls teams. The boys will meet for their match at seven-thirty. The Clanton girls team will meet the Maplesville girls quintet, following the boys game.

The Clanton Athletic Club will go to Birmingham next Monday night, to meet the Southern Dairies team on their tour there.

These games, from indications, will all prove to be some of the most interesting games played in Clanton for the past season or so. Clanton has something of a strong team, and the visiting teams have shown up quite well, so we are informed.

Chain Stores Attacked By Local Merchant

Below we publish a letter written to the News, by J. A. Maddox, one of the prominent merchants and ginners of Clanton.

Editor of The Chilton County News, Clanton, Alabama, Dear Sir:

We wish to say a few words to the public as to the circumstances and how we see things which we think are facing our country now. We have had for the past few years some chain stores in our town here in Chilton County and in larger towns they are perhaps in every block. Did they help build your town, did they build churches or schools or build roads, did they pay any taxes which you might have or keep in your town or county or state? Do the chain stores let their money stay here in banks which could or should be used by our people who worked to make this money? No, they get your money one day and send it in to New York or Wall Street the next day. Can you not tell from conditions that a few years ago money was plentiful and since then the crops here have been very good or at least

MAYOR TRIED SEVERAL CASES LAST MONDAY

Several came before the Mayor at the city court last Monday morning for settlement. L. C. Williams arrested by Officers Smith and Robinson some time in December charged with violating the prohibition law was tried but his case was postponed several days. Williams was arrested at the negro cafe near the railroad when Officer Robinson reported that he saw him throw a nehi bottle of liquor into a tub of water.

The second case which came up and which was dismissed was that of Claud Hunt and Will Allan Mickey on a charge of fighting. The two negroes were arrested in West End Sunday afternoon by Chief Bookholdt after Hunt had hit Mickey in the head with a brick. The cases were dismissed by Mayor Hart on the promise of the two negroes to drop the quarrel.

In addition to these two cases there were a number of cases for traffic violations.

FRUIT GROWERS MET SATURDAY

Thorsby Association Elects New Officers; Oldest of Its Kind in State

The first meeting of the Thorsby Fruit and Truck Growers Association for the year 1930 was held last Saturday afternoon in the auditorium of the public school in Thorsby. At this meeting the officers for the coming year were elected. They are as follows: C. C. Petersen, President, M. J. Soberg, Vice President, D. L. Benson, Secretary, and J. M. Smith, manager and treasurer. The Board of Directors for the year was also selected at this time as follows: Carl Petersen, Chairman, T. J. Martin, W. A. Hayes, M. J. Soberg, and Charles A. Petersen.

In an interview with Mr. J. M. Smith, treasurer and general manager, it was learned that Thorsby now has the oldest association of its kind in the state. The organization having been in operation for practically twenty-eight years. Heretofore the association has had and uphill pull but now the credit of the organization is good and on a firm basis.

The new warehouse of the association is almost completed and when it is finished will cost approximately $135,000. This will be a great help to the farmers of the community for it will enable them to purchase thru the association crates for strawberries, fertilizers and other things for the farmers use by the car loads at greatly reduced prices and store them for future usage.

The front of the office of the association in Thorsby has also been reworked in connection with the warehouse.

Government Launches Forest Survey of U. S.

Project One of Biggest Enterprises Ever Undertaken in This Country To Develop Forestry

The promotion by the U. S. Forest Service of District Forester C. M. Granger of the Pacific Northwest District to the position of head forest economist in charge of the nation wide Forest Survey now being launched by the Forest Service, was announced today by the Department of Agriculture.

The Forest Survey, authorized by the McSweeney-McNary Act of 1928, is one of the biggest undertakings in the development of forestry thus far undertaken. It will be a comprehensive appraisal of existing forest supplies and conditions, growth and requirements, and of present and future trends, all of which, when properly coordinated, will constitute a fundamental and economically sound basis for determining Federal, State, and industrial forest policies and programs. Congress has authorized a Federal contribution of $3,000,000 to the project. A small initial appropriation of $40,000 is (Continued On Editorial Page)

MOTHER IS FIRST TO FIND DEAD SONS BODY

Boy, Drowns After Falling Into Shallow Stream Of Water At Mill Here

After he had failed to return to his home for dinner, a search was made last Monday for J. T. Jones, age 16 years, who lives in the mill village, at the Alabama Mills Company here, where he was employed. His mother, Mrs. Luke Jones, discovered her son's body in a ditch nearby, where he had fallen and was drowned in approximately six inches of water, according to reports given the News.

The boy is said to have left the mill Monday morning, to go to a nearby store. His falling to come home at the noon hour, started the search, which ended when his mother was on her way to the home, and casually glancing in the ditch saw the body, lying face down.

The mother called to a passing pedestrian, who pulled the drowned boy up on the banks of the ditch and a doctor was summoned. One examination, it was found he had been dead several hours the information stated. The body was turned over to J. Mel Martin, undertaker.

It was said that the boy had been subject to epileptic spells, and it is believed this was the cause of his falling into the ditch. He is survived by his parents, five brothers and four sisters.

HERBERT LOWERY GOES ON POLICE DUTY IN CLANTON

Following the consideration of several prospective officers, Herbert Lowery was selected to go on duty here as night police officer for the town.

This action followed the resignation of Loss Robinson, whose place was filled temporarily by M. C. Smith, until an officer could be secured. Officer Lowery assumed his duties last Saturday.

REV. ARTHUR DELOACH WILL ENTER S. W. SEMINARY

The resignation of Rev. Arthur DeLoach, young pastor, as pastor of the Verbena Baptist Church, took effect Sunday, January 5th, at which time he also resigned his position as Promotional Secretary of the Highland Avenue Baptist church, of Montgomery.

Rev. DeLoach will enter the Southwestern Seminary at Fort Worth, Texas on January 20th, to complete a Theological Course, which will consume approximately three years. He will leave tomorrow to take up his studies.

Rev. DeLoach stated to a representative of the News that his work in the B. Y. P. U. of this county has been most enjoyable, and that his pastoral at Verbena was one of his most pleasant experiences. He also spoke highly of his working associates in the Baptist Association of Chilton County. We are sure the people of this section will regret very much, the leaving of Rev. DeLoach, and will wish for him success in his studies in Fort Worth.

Mr. G. F. Harper, merchant of Thorsby, Ala., was a business visitor to Clanton last Tuesday.

Alabama Power Company Serves 8,000 Rural Customers, According To Late Report

Beginning six years ago the electrification of Alabama farms has developed until 1,400 miles of transmission lines are now serving 8,000 rural customers. This report was brought to county farm and home agents and to other agricultural workers of Alabama by E. C. Easter, chief agricultural engineer of the Alabama Power Company, builder and operator of the lines. The extension workers were gathered at Auburn for their annual mid-winter conference, January 6 to 11, during which they discussed important farm problems.

Continuing his progress report, Easter said that rural transmission lines have been extended into 63 of the 67 counties of the State and that from an economic standpoint hydr-electricity is now within reach of every Alabama farmer.

You CAN... but the Train CAN'T STOP ...IN TIME

The Supreme Court of the United States has said, "When a man goes upon a railroad track he knows that he goes to a place where he will be killed if a train comes upon him before he is clear of the track. He knows, that he must stop for the train, not the train stop for him. . . . It seems to us that if he relies upon not hearing the train or any signal and takes no further precaution, he does so at his own risk."

That's the Law as it applies to the traveling public—and, if this law is obeyed, accidents at railroad crossings can be, and will be, prevented.

The Law as to Railroads is that they must take every precaution looking toward avoidance of such accidents by providing the best safety protection—signs, signals, gates, watchmen, etc., and, in addition, engines and other equipment of the most modern and practicable kind. The railroads are doing this.

The L. & N. Railroad, in 1928, spent over a million dollars in improving and safeguarding its intersections with highways and streets. And the end is not yet. This Railroad will continue doing this, regardless of expense. And all that is asked of the public is cooperation and fair treatment.

L. & N. passenger representatives will consider it a privilege and a pleasure to assist you in the planning of your vacation or business trip. They will gladly quote fares, provide resort literature, give reliable information as to train schedules and, if you desire, make advance Pullman reservations, arrange for tickets, and assist in various ways in formulating travel plans.

EDSON R. WAITE

That reading the ads of your local papers carefully will prove to you that merchandise can not only be bought as cheaply in the home city, but you can actually receive more for your money than you can by sending to mail order houses or distant cities.

That this is proven every day. That money spent at home builds your city; money sent away builds some other city. Build your own home city!

That local merchants seek your business; they should have your business. That the merchants are your neighbors, your friends, and a big living part of your city.

That as their business grows so will your city grow. Keep your city growing.

That as a city builder, as a booster, every citizen should patronize the home merchants.

People who have pride in the home city should buy at home.

Harry Brown, editor of the Gainesville (Florida) Daily Sun, Says:

That the newspaper publisher guilty of encouraging further excess competition among retailers in the hope of creating fresh sources of advertising is not using common sense. The average small merchant can not see the value of advertising because of the limited and more or less fixed scope of his patronage territory.

In one Florida town of about ten thousand population there were at one time sixty grocery stores. Changed conditions have reduced the population of that community to eight thousand, but now there are only fourteen grocery stores. When there were sixty the local newspapers carried not more than four or five grocery advertisements; today, with the fewer number of stores, nine and sometimes eleven grocers are using space and without foolish and wasteful cutting of prices.

From the newspaper angle, publishers are better off in communities where ruinous competition does not prevail. Half-starved merchants can not be expected to develop into profitable advertising patrons.

Last week the Clanton Motors, local Ford dealers, received one of the new model Ford sedans, which they have been using for a demonstrator.

C. B. Cox, local contractor, awarded contract by State Highway Department for re-building of Murder Creek bridge between Brewton and East Brewton this week. He states it will require about ninety days to complete the job, and that traffic will be interfered with as little as possible.

Mrs. Mary E. Wyatt, age 80, died at the home of her daughter in Beat 16 last Monday, January 9th. Interment took place in Providence Cemetery on the following Tuesday, Rev. J. M. Parrish officiating.

A January business deal of no little consequence was that made last week when Mr. J. Hance Alred purchased a half interest in the Alred Drug Co., here and again became actively engaged in the drug business.

Mrs. J. W. E. Gullledge died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. T. P. Parrish, on last Wednesday. Mrs. Gullledge lived in South Clanton and at the time of her death she was recuperating from a recent attack of influenza at the home of her daughter. She was feeling exceptionally well until an hour before her death.

BUSINESS IN 1930

Many expressions concerning the business outlook for 1930 have been published at the turn of the year, the consensus appearing to be that while there may be a perceptible slowing down here and there the general prospect is favorable.

One of the most conservative statements recently issued, and one which well represents the average opinion of business leaders is that of John E. Edgerton, president of the National Association of Manufacturers. Noting that the pessimists are forecasting storms, while the optimists see only blue skies, Mr. Edgerton says:

"Taking a middle position, I can observe little on the horizon today to give us undue or great concern. Barring a few inevitable disruptions here and there, I believe the immediate future is safe."

Out of a large number of members of his association recently questioned, 69 per cent report an increase in their forces, while 91 per cent have increased wage payments, and 74 per cent are increasing production, as compared with last year.

There has been some slowing down in automobile lines, chemicals, furniture, iron and steel, and a few other industries. On the other hand, expansion on a large scale is promised in public utilities and railroads, an unusual program for the construction of public buildings, roads and other public works is announced by the government and various states, and sales efforts in practically all lines will be pushed with vigor.

From present indications 1930 should be at least an average business year, if not above the average.

BIG CROP LITTLE CASH; LITTLE CROP BIG MONEY

Farmers are warned that the action of the Federal Farm Board in advancing 15.64 cents per pound, midling 7-8 inch basis, on cotton this year brings no assurance that any such figure may be advanced next year, according to information given by Seth P. Storrs, Commissioner of Agriculture, on Monday.

Mr. Storrs declared that nothing but a crop shortage in the West prevented a yield of 16 million bales this year. With this crop cotton would now be bringing a price below cost of production to all farmers. Big crops of cotton sell for less than small crops. No big crop of cotton has ever been produced at a profit to the southern farmers. Had it not been for an act of providence in providing insect pests and unfavorable weather in the West, this year's crop would have brought ruin to the South.

Supply and demand are what make the price of cotton high or low. There is a limit to the amount of cotton the World can use in one year. The Government cannot make prices high or low, but it can stabilize the market by holding cotton and by advancing a stated sum to the farmer.

If the acre yield this year has been equal to 1926, the cotton crop would have amounted to 17,500,000 bales. A crop this size would have been ruined to the farmers, who would have sold it below cost.

The Federal Farm Board cannot protect farmers if they over plant. The Board cannot undertake miracles. It cannot go against common sense and reason.

The World cannot use to good advantage more than a 14 million bale crop in the United States. If more cotton is raised, the farmer raises it for loss.

The great question for farmers to solve for 1930 is whether you are going to make money raising a small crop or less money on a big crop. A big crop, according to Mr. Storrs, will mean a loss.

Hints For Homemakers

By Jane Rogers

CHILDREN who dislike milk may be converted to looking upon it as an ambrosial beverage if it is flavored with a little vanilla, and a teaspoon of sugar to a glass. In addition to its flavoring qualities, sugar is a quick source of the enormous amount of energy expended by the active child.

Vitamins are essential to health. Prolonged cooking and too much water cause both vitamins and flavor to vanish from vegetables. Many vegetables can cook in their own juice if given the right start. String beans, cabbage, cauliflower and spinach require no more than a fourth to a half cup of water to start them steaming and releasing their juices.

DRAB FURNITURE MADE GAY

Many homes that lack distinction can easily be made quite out of the ordinary without adding a single new piece of furniture. Often, a gay coat of enamel or lacquer on an old piece of furniture will not only transform the object itself but will change the appearance of the whole room.

All types of furniture are adaptable to this rejuvenation process. A drop-leaf table, for instance, can go far in dispelling the gloom of a windowless reception hall, if the table is enameled in some bright tint and the leaves are treated with stencil designs. A simple round table may be lacquered in jade green and a border of some oriental pattern can be added to the top. Telephone cabinets are often purely utilitarian, but fresh color will make them attractive as well as useful. Odd chairs too, can be redecorated in whatever color desired.

Children's rooms always look fresh when their furnishings are painted, enameled or lacquered. Pastel tints are always suitable for a bedroom, particularly a child's room, and ivory, light blue, pea green, gray, parchment and mauve are recommended. For the odd pieces intended to brighten up living rooms, halls or dens, deeper colors like Chinese red or jade green, combined with black, are preferred to the lighter tints.

WHY WOMEN ARE LATE

From time immemorial husbands have complained of the long time it took their wives to dress; men have observed that women did not heed the flight of time, but carried on seemingly interminable telephone conversations without realizing how long they talked and so on.

This apparent lack of regard for time by the fair sex has been the source of endless comment—often profane. But now it has all been explained, thanks to modern psychology.

Exhaustive tests conducted at the Johns Hopkins University show that women just naturally can't help it. They don't realize the meaning of "tempus fugit."

These tests developed the fact that women on an average estimate the time it takes them to perform a given task at about one-half the actual time required. Dr. Isabel Stewart, who conducted the tests, which were made with 1,084 students, both men and women, said:

"Men estimate more accurately. The inaccuracies of women imply that time really seems shorter to women than to men."

Which recalls the joke of a paragon who wrote: "Married men do not live longer; it just seems longer."

Bridge In Littlejohn Community

This bridge is not on the Lay Dam Road, some might think it was the beautiful bridge over the river at Baltimore, not so. It stands on one of the leading highways in Chilton County, two and one half miles from Clanton, on the Jenison road. We have read of the bridge "That carried us safely over," this is the bridge.

Don't ask me how long this bridge has been in this condition, you can be your own judge. If any one out of the county wishes to see this bridge notify me at Clanton, Alabama.

I am having the picture of this bridge put in one of the county papers as a compliment to Judge Reynolds and Fonce Vinson.

Farm Briefs

When hills of cotton are checked, rowed hand hoeing is eliminated entirely and thinning is reduced three-fourths.

Farmers who burn trash to destroy insects and let the fire get into woods destroy a valuable source of income.

Leg weakness may be prevented by allowing chicks access to direct sun rays or by adding cod liver oil to the ration.

There are 23,000,000 acres of land in Alabama suited to growing cotton and for a profit in timber if properly managed.

Some Alabama gins now use clean-burning kerosene that make snapping of cotton practicable. Farmers in DeKalb County reduced cost of harvesting in this way, and did not lose due to low grade.

"Broilers and fryers will bring a good price in February, March and in April. Those marketed later scarcely bring more than cost of production."

Will Rogers says, "I wish Mr. Hoover would say, Senators, I am sorry, terribly sorry, that I haven't time personally to go out and knock the glasses from everybody's hand that is about to disobey our constitution," and adds, "now it seems from your vast observation, you senators are more familiar with the drinking in this country than anyone I know of." To what will he say it has been suggested that Mr. Hoover instead of appointing commissions or other bodies to study the prohibition laws that he refer it to the people themselves and let them decide whether it is working or failing.

The U. S. Forest Service, in cooperation with the U. S. Bureau of the Census, of the wood requirements of the wood-using industries, as a part of the present and future wood requirements, phase of the Survey. Advance cooperative work is also being initiated in the Lake States region.

Another step already taken is a canvass, in cooperation with the U. S. Bureau of the Census, of the wood requirements of the wood-using industries, as a part of the present and future wood requirements, phase of the Survey. Advance cooperative work is also being initiated in the Lake States region.

The Agricultural Appropriation Bill now before Congress carries an increase of $85,000 for the Forest Survey for the next fiscal year. It is planned to use $50,000 of this to expand the work in the Pacific Northwest, $25,000 to initiate intensive work in the Southern hardwood region, and $10,000 for individual assignments.

Mr. Grauer is a graduate in forestry of Michigan Agricultural College. He entered the Forest Service in 1907, serving successively as deputy supervisor, supervisor, and assistant district forester in charge of the offices of silviculture and of operation in the Rocky Mountain District. During the World War he served with the 10th Forestry Engineers, attaining the rank of Major. In 1924 he became district forester of the Pacific Northwest District. He will enter his new work with a wide experience in the development of silvicultural policies, management plans, fire protection plans and with a comprehensive understanding of the economic aspects of forestry.

Mr. Grauer assumes his new duties immediately, with headquarters temporarily in Portland, Oregon.

The Forest Service also announces the appointment of Horace J. Andrews as senior forest economist, to become regional project leader for the Pacific Northwest. He will assume his duties at the Pacific Northwest Forest Experiment Station this month. Mr. Andrews is a graduate of the University of Michigan and received the M. S. degree in forestry from that institution in 1916. He was formerly employed in the U. S. Forest Service, and later engaged in private forestry work and in teaching at three forest schools. He was closely associated with the development of the Michigan Land Economic Survey, and more recently has been in charge of the divisions of protection and lands in the Michigan Department of Conservation.

LEGISLATURE APPROPRIATES LARGE EQUILAZATION FUND

Operation Of Elementary Schools Explained In Article Given Here

A very interesting article is to be found in the Alabama School Journal for the month of January on the apportionment and distribution of the Equalization Fund. The last Legislature appropriated $900,000 to be used in equalizing the terms of the different counties of the state. About $70,000 had already been appropriated which was known as a Revolving fund and had for its objective the same as that of the $900,000 Equalization fund, making a total of $970,000 appropriated by the State of Alabama to be used to equalize educational opportunities.

Before any county can share in the apportionment of this fund it is necessary for them to do certain things. Each county in order to share along with the others must be levying and collecting annually the Three Mill county tax, the Three Mill district tax, and the One Mill county school tax.

Every county which has met the conditions set out in the above paragraph must be operating their schools at least seven months. The amount of money needed to do this is determined by finding the number of teachers necessary to operate the schools. One teacher is to be had for each thirty pupils in average daily attendance except where a one-teacher school is had the school is counted a unit regardless of the fact that she may not have over fifteen pupils in average daily attendance. Whatever the county funds lack supporting a seven months term under these conditions an amount is taken out of the $970,000 Equalization and Revolving fund and appropriated to the county to supplement their local funds.

As stated above each of the elementary schools must be operated at least seven months and the high schools nine months, but an interesting thing about this for a county like Chilton is that one-third of the proceeds of the one and three mill county school taxes are set aside for buildings, equipment and operating expenses before the amount needed for a seven months term is figured. That means that in Chilton County we would have over $200,000 for other than teachers' salaries to be used to improve our schools.

There is not a community in the county at this time which is not in need of a large building fund. From the information furnished by the Superintendent of Education there are six centers now where the people are making an effort to raise funds to erect better schools. All of these are in rural sections where there is little money and the matter of building is a very difficult problem. In all of the other large schools there are crowded conditions and additions needed to the buildings now being used. In six of the communities we understand that teachers are making an effort to teach around sixty pupils because there is no place in which to place another teacher.

We feel that the County Board of Education is to be commended on the fact that there seems to be an educational awakening among the people of the county in the matter of providing adequate schooling for the children. Recently the two tax elections were carried by handsome majorities. Of course in the matter of these elections it was not an enlarged program, but a matter of holding the opportunities already obtained and we feel that the time is fast approaching when the people of the county will not be satisfied with anything short of their best for the children. We have one of the best counties in the state from many angles. We are glad to note that in the Auditor's report recently made of the County Superintendent's office that it was stated that the educational affairs of the county are well managed. We believe that the officials of our schools deserve the support of all the citizens of the county who are interested in schools to assist them in putting Chilton County on the map educationally. We can do it, why not do it?

Mrs. Gentry was assisted in this lovely courtesy by her niece, Miss Louise Bates.

PROGRESS

Our living comfort and the high speed of modern business are largely the results of the invention and skilful adaptation of a multitude of time and labor saving devices and services.

The telephone is conceded high rank among such accessories in both business and social life.

Nearby or in distant places, the telephone brings individuals voice to voice—the nearest thing to being face to face.

In the business world or in home life, use of the telephone has come to mean economy, convenience, speed and personality in every contact.

Your telephone company's ideal of service is to give the most and the best at the lowest cost. To attain this ideal, the Bell system is constantly striving for higher standards of service and better methods of operation.

Progress in both has been the Company's urge in the past and it will continue to be in the future.

URGES TIMBER AS FARM ENTERPRISE

Auburn, Ala., Jan. 14.—For the production of timber as a farm crop Alabama presents natural opportunities equal to those offered by any like size portion of the world in the opinion of Colonel Page S. Bunker, state forester, who addressed county agents and other farm extension workers of Alabama gathered here for their annual mid-winter conference, January 7.

We have a long growing season, giving abundant time for tree development, centers of population to furnish a market are close at hand, and there are 23,000,000 acres of land in the state unsuited to crop production that will pay a profit in timber if it is properly managed, he explained.

Movement of the pulp industry southward was mentioned by the forester as a stimulus to the timber industry. Pulp mills are already in operation at Tuscaloosa and Mobile, and others are expected to enter the state soon, he added.

Prevention of forest fires, discriminate clogging, and the use of better business methods by farmers in making contracts for sale he declared, are steps that should be taken to place the timber business on a more secure basis.

Col. Bunker did not advise planting of trees for timber in Alabama except in rare instances, but instead urged conservation and proper management of stands already growing.

The state forester led a discussion which continued two hours and was a part of a program including discussions of the important practical farm problems which began January 6 and ended January 11.

Dr. C. L. Isbell, head of the department of horticulture and forestry at Auburn, participated in the discussion and called attention to the fact that there is an unusually good crop of seed of most trees this year.

CHEVROLET ANNOUNCEMENT CREATES A SENSATION

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 16.—Announcement last week of substantially reduced prices on the new 1930 Chevrolet Six, at the same time that the car embodying many distinct improvements made its public bow, created a sensation in automotive circles here.

Reductions of the Chevrolet Motor Company range from $25 to $50 on 7 of the twelve models in the 1930 line, while three new body types introduced for the first time this year are priced to parallel the new low figure on models retained in the current series. The present base price of $495 brings the six cylinder Chevrolet to within five dollars of the lowest price at which even the four cylinder Chevrolet was ever sold.

This is made possible, Mr. Knudsen explained, because 1929 was Chevrolet's greatest year, with an output of 1,350,000 sixes. Economies of precision manufacturing, plus savings effected by quantity purchase of raw materials, brought about lowered production costs, which, consistent with the Chevrolet policy, are now being passed on to the consuming public.

The new range is from $365 for the light delivery chassis to $675 for the sedan, as against 1929 prices of $400 for the light delivery chassis to $725 for the convertible landau. All prices are f. o. b. the factory, at Flint, Mich. A table of new and old prices follows:

MODEL	O. P.	N. P.
Roadster	$525	$495
Phaeton	$525	$495
Sport Roadster	New Model	$525
Coach	$595	$565
Coupe	$595	$565
Sport Coupe	New Model	$625
Club Sedan	New Model	$625

Sedan	$675	$675
Sedan Delivery	$595	$595
Light Delivery C.	$400	$365
1½ Ton Chassis	$545	$520
1½ Ton C. with cab	$650	$625

To meet the anticipated demand as a result of the lowered prices and the many improvements in the new car, the great chain of Chevrolet Plants strung across the Continent is now operating at capacity to assure immediate delivery of all models, Mr. Knudsen stated.

STUDENTS BUSY AGAIN WITH WORK AT AUBURN

again under way at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute after more than two weeks of Christmas holidays which students spent at home with parents and friends. Students returned January 3, and immediately buckled down to hard work after their vacation, as only 15 days remained before first-term examinations begin January 23.

That the 1929-30 session gives promise of being the best in the history of the institution was an opinion expressed by Dr. Bradford Knapp, president, as college reopened. He mentioned the increased enrollment, splendid interest taken by students in their classes, and the enlargement of the physical plant as evidence supporting this opinion.

Our attendance has been very good so far in January and we hope to continue it.

Mr. William Scarbrough spent Sunday with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Foshee.

Mr. Dick Burnett of Montgomery spent the week end with his mother, Mrs. Ethel Burnett.

Mr. Marvin Lowery from Montgomery spent Sunday with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Zack Lowery.

Miss Ertis Riggins spent Sunday with her grandmother, Mrs. Gantt Riggins.

The following article was written by Miss Nelson Melton, who attends the Mt. Pleasant School, and is in the Junior I Class, with Miss Hester Hall, as teacher:

Should I Cheat In School?

We should not cheat in school because it would give our classmates and teacher a bad opinion of us. They would not trust us in work or play.

We should all be honest with ourselves and study our lessons and get them up without having to cheat in class or on test. We all are hurting ourselves when we are cheating, and not our teachers.

If we cheat while we are young we will form a habit of cheating and it will stay with us through life.

If we cheat we will never know anything and will always depend upon someone else to get up our lessons.

We should not cheat in school because our fathers and mothers are paying out money for our books and other things that we need in school. They want us to go on through school and get an education. They want us to learn something so that when we are grown we can make our own living and not be begging for something to eat, somewhere to stay and some place to get our clothes.

We should not cheat at anything that we go to do, we should get it honest and within ourself.

We should not cheat in school because if we were to go to get a job we could not get one with cheating. We should learn everything that is said in class. We can if we will just listen and we can pass on tests without cheating.

NELSON MELTON.

TUBERCULOSIS REPORT

SHOWS 1,960 DEAD IN 1929

There were 1,960 persons to lose their lives from tuberculosis in Alabama the first eleven months of 1929, according to a survey completed by the Alabama Tuberculosis Association, and announced through its president, Dr. J. D. Heacock, of Birmingham. In 1928 the total number of deaths from this disease reached 2,331 and the 1929 figure is expected to show a satisfactory decline.

In July, September and November of 1929 this disease was the second cause of death in the state and second only to heart disease. In 1928 the same record was established, with three months showing tuberculosis to be the second cause of death.

While there is a slight indication that there might be a change of ratio, according to Dr. Heacock, tuberculosis will show some decline in its death toll.

In a health survey of Alabama for 1929 the number of deaths from influenza must be noticed. During the first two months of the year there were 2,243 deaths from this cause alone. As this is abnormal and epidemic, however, it is not used to affect ratios of regular death causes.

An amazing new kind of sugar has been described, as a hope for finding a cure for tuberculosis, recently at a session of the American Association for the Advancement of Science and at the Iowa State Medical Society. The sugar is produced by tuberculosis germs. Its discovery has been made possible through the annual sale of Christmas health seals. The sale of seals in Alabama is conducted by the county tuberculosis and welfare organizations and the Alabama Tuberculosis Association.

For every death there are nine persons suffering with the disease, officials of the Alabama Tuberculosis Association say.

The fight against tuberculosis is international, being carried on by more than 20 health organizations over the world, who are devoting much time and study to the tuberculosis problem both in treating and elimination.

Another business has been added to those in Clanton with the announcement of the opening of Clanton's new wholesale produce house, which is operated and owned by Evan Parrish, a Clanton County product, and business man in Clanton.

Larger Farm Co-op Assured For State

Auburn, Ala., Jan. 16.—That a larger and more effective organization of Alabama farmers is assured for 1930 was revealed here by county agents from 61 of the 67 counties. They participated in a discussion of cooperative marketing led by Prof. L. N. Duncan, director of farm extension work in Alabama, and Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation.

The discussion came during the 3rd day's session of the annual mid winter conference of farm extension workers of the State which began January 6 and ended January 11. The county workers based their opinion on conditions in the counties and on reports from local county Farm Bureau organizations.

During the confab each of the workers named the membership goal of each of the county organizations. These quotas showed that 18,635 members before spring of 1930 is the total for the State. This increase in numbers will make the voice of Alabama farmers powerful in the market of the world, Mr. O'Neal declared.

In leading the discussion, Director Duncan stressed the need of a strong farmer owned and farmer controlled organization as a necessity to economic equality for farmers. He added that such an organization is needed to make the educational program of the extension service more effective. Importance has been added to the farm cooperative idea due to passage of the Federal Farm Board act, Duncan declared.

S. F. Clabaugh, of Birmingham, president of the Protective Life Insurance Company, which is cooperating with the farm bureau in extending a life insurance service at low cost to organized farmers, reported that farm bureau members now have more than $1,000,000.00 of life insurance in force. It is group insurance—another benefit accruing to Alabama farmers as a result of organization, it was reported.

James Burnson of Chicago, a holdup man who stuttered when he took W. R. Thompson's watch and money, was identified by his victim because of the impediment in his speech.

"Round Town"

—By 'Doug'

That our town of Clanton is still among those generally referred to as "small towns" and that acts committed here rank with those generally referred to as "small town stuff," is very evident, in my opinion, judging from the amount of gossip slipped into my ear, and the ear of the Editor of this paper.

Not long ago, I read something, written by I don't know who, but I thought it was pretty good. It went something like this: That the short skirts, which have just about been replaced by the more modest length, did cause some disturbances among the males, is shown by a story telling about and incident occurring at a wedding. As the fat bride with over-stuffed ankles and knee-length wedding gown marched down the aisle of the church the organist became so fascinated with her undepinning that instead of playing a wedding march, he played, "How Firm A Foundation."

Another reason why I am an ardent admirer of the new length dresses. They add a touch of romance to the once homely girl, with her extremely short skirt. Another story—in favor of the long dresses, also in favor of the wearer of one, tells about a bow-legged woman, who contemplated marriage. She knew she was hiding something from her future husband, and wondered if she should tell all.

Folks, haven't you heard the story about Curiosity Killing the Cat? Well, stop wondering about the identity of the author of this column. It's not worth knowing.

Wonderings While Wandering

I often wonder about things in Clanton—things in general, so to speak. I wonder—

When local merchants are going to cease watching their competitors so close, and pay more attention to their own business.

When 'supposed-to-be' broadminded business men of our town will stop resorting to little cheap acts in attempting to increase their volume of business. You can't do wrong and get away with it.

Why a certain business man of Clanton has become so polite to me, lately.

Why some people of Clanton always begin to try to low-rate a fellow when he is succeeding—on the square. (Referring back to the second Wonder paragraph.)

Why the ladies of this town don't welcome the new comers to Clanton, better than they do.

Why a certain 'lady' became irritated at my referring several weeks ago to the extravagance of parties given in Clanton.

And I wonder what I will wonder next.

But there is one thing I do not wonder about. That is why a certain barber here showed a true sense of humor recently when I touched on a subject—shitting him. He certainly showed some real sportsmanship, so to speak. He's a regular fellow.

If Clanton should start this loving cup giving business, giving a loving cup to the citizen who is believed to have been most beneficial to his town, I would most certainly endorse Dr. V. J. Gragg for this honor. I have just been impressed by the accounts of the many things that man has done in aiding humanity. And I am a firm believer that "The Truth Will Out."

Sometimes I wish I had been a real newspaper reporter. And speaking of wishes. I wish—

I could get by, without working, like some young men do, here in Clanton.

That darkness lasted two hours longer each morning except Sunday, and four hours longer then.

That I had never used tobacco.

That I was twelve inches taller.

That I had a little log cabin in the woods for a place to escape from the world, for a rest, and live with nature awhile.

That a certain young lady wouldn't persist in refusing to give me a date.

That the people of Clanton would realize that they have two mighty fine men for pastors.

That writers for weekly newspapers received $14.13 per inch for what they wrote.

That certain people wouldn't stand in front of the mail boxes in the post-office to read their mail.

That the next rich man who died would will me a million dollars—then my next wish would come true.

That I didn't have to rack my inefficient brain to write this column, each week.

I was told of a conversation of two negro boys, lately, which was accidentally overheard. The negroes, in their conversation had reached the point of argument, a part of which was told me.

1st Negro: I know Mr. Flem sells a lot of stuff at the In'national place.

Forty-Seven Years Ago

The following items were taken from the issue of the Chilton View for January 18, 1883. The View was at that time, forty-seven years ago, the only paper published in this county.

During 1882 Probate Judge Callen issued 122 marriage licenses.

The State Legislature will convene next Wednesday to be in session for twenty-four days.

We regret to hear of the serious illness of Rev. James Mullins at his home in northeast Chilton. We hope he may soon recover.

Several families have lately removed to Verbena where they will reside hereafter.

County Treasurer Parrish has lately returned from a visit to relatives in Macon County.

Among the first business to come before the next Legislature are the discussion of the crop lien law and the convict system.

News In Brief

More than 500 million tons of soil were stripped from American farms last year by erosion—100 billion pounds of plant food washed out to the sea. This represents 21 times the annual requirements of all crops grown—a loss that $2,000,000,000 worth of commercial fertilizers would not replace.

Of the 46,580,000 men and women in the continental United States, who, in 1928, earned money with which to support themselves and their 72,726,000 dependents, about 35,000,000 chose their occupations from among eight great industries. These, in the order of number of employees, are manufacturing, agriculture, mercantile, transportation, Government, construction, mining, quarries, and oil wells, and banking. Figures are given out by National Bureau of Economic Research, New York.

The United States imported more raw silk, sugar, furs, newsprint paper, coffee, tin, wool, woodpulp, diamonds, raw cotton, gasoline, flaxseed, meats, lumber and numerous other products in the first nine months of 1929 than in the same period a year ago. This is shown in a bulletin, "Our World Trade," just published by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, which points out that American import trade in the first nine months of 1929 was the greatest for any similar period in history.

There are 22,000,000 dairy cows in the United States and the average production per cow is 4,600 pounds of milk yearly. But the cows in dairy herd improvement associations have an average yield of 7,457 pounds of milk each year. O. E. Reed, chief of the U. S. Bureau of Dairy Industry, figures that if all cows in the United States could reach the dairy association average 14,000,000 cows could do the work for which 22,000,000 are now required.

Williams-Sheppard

The marriage of Miss Jewel Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Williams of Billingsley, Alabama, and Mr. Furniss Sheppard was quietly solemnized Sunday afternoon, January 5th, at two o'clock at the home of Rev. F. A. Gibson. Those present were members of the immediate families and a few friends.

Mrs. Sheppard is very popular in social circles in Billingsley and Thorsby. Mr. Sheppard, formerly a well known young man of Billingsley, is now employed in Jemison, where they will make their home.

ENAMELS AND LACQUERS

When the new fast drying enamels are used in the home, they should be flowed on with a full brush. The work may be gone over but should never be brushed into the wood like paint. On a new piece either a flat paint or an enamel undercoating is used for the two undercoats, with a third coat of enamel. One undercoat and a coat of enamel are usually sufficient for re-finishing.

Lacquer is "flowed" on also, but it is inadvisable to go over the surface a second time. It is a good idea to try out the lacquer on a piece of board and then, if it proves too thick, to add a little lacquer thinner.

lines were erected and are now serving 1550 customers. Easter said that from 60 to 75 rural lines are in progress all the time and that the aim of the Alabama Power Company is to continue rural electrification developments indefinitely.
As lines have extended into rural sections farm people have taken advantage of the service. As they become acquainted with its advantages new jobs are assigned to electricity, which has proved itself to be an efficient and economical servant on the farms as well as in farm and urban homes.

Rural electrification was started in Alabama in January, 1924, by the Experiment Station of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute in cooperation with the Alabama Power Company. The Extension Service immediately joined the initial promoters and the three have worked together in keeping Alabama in the front rank among states in electrification of farms.

BIG ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN TELLS OF OPPORTUNITIES

of the country which circulates in the North and East.
Though just started in October, more than seventeen hundred replies have already been received from farmers of the North who are interested in improving their fortunes. Many of these men are the pick of their communities.
They have been successful where they are, but they realize that their opportunities are limited on the high-priced lands and among the congested conditions of the North. They are progressive and ambitious enough to want to move to this fertile section, where living conditions are ideal, there are no housing problems, no congested schools; where labor is plentiful, and churches of every denomination are abundant.

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad has been instrumental in the past in locating hundreds of such men, many of whom have grown to be among the South's most successful and prosperous farmer-citizens. The present campaign hids fair to induce many more of similar type to cast their lots with southern communities.

MT. PLEASANT JR. HIGH WINS 2 GAMES DURING PAST WEEK

Two basket ball games were added to Mt. Pleasant's credit column during the past week when they motored over to Stanton Wednesday afternoon and won a 16 to 7 verdict over the Stanton team, and then on last Friday they copped a 28 to 0 victory over the Concord Junior High team.

Jones, forward, and Davis, center, scored all of Stanton's points. Littlejohn, the crack center for Mt. Pleasant, led his team mates in scoring 8 points against Stanton and 10 points against Concord.

In the Stanton game Smith and Cooper, guards for the winners, played a great defensive game by keeping their opponents held back from the

Chilton High Loses Two Games Recently

The Chilton County High School quintet dropped two straight games here last week. An accurate passing and sharp shooting Jemison team took the number of the locals to the tune of fourteen to seven last Wednesday night. Both teams played a fast game throughout but Jemison had the edge on the locals and forced them to risk long shots from near the center of the floor.

The score between the teams was rather evenly matched till the last quarter when Jemison forged ahead to win by seven points.

The second game Clanton lost was played on the court here last Friday night with the Wetumpka team. This was also a fast game and was one of the best yet played here this season.
Clanton led Wetumpka for most of the game, the score at the of the first half being six to five and the final score eleven to nine in favor of Wetumpka.
Clanton defeated Wetumpka the previous week by a score of thirteen to eleven and this was the return game.

The Wetumpka girls team defeated the Maplesville girls team in a game just after the boys by a score of twenty to fifteen. This was also a good game, the score standing at fifteen all at the end of the game making it necessary to play off the tie. In the extra two minutes of play Wetumpka scored five points to Maplesville's none.

Clanton played Siluria in a return game at Siluria but the returns did not come in in time for this issue. On Friday afternoon Clanton plays a return game with Jemison on her court.

goal, thus causing them to rely mostly on long range shots.

The first half ended with Mt. Pleasant leading 10 to 6, but the last half found the defense of both teams tightening up, however, the visiting team broke through the Stanton defense twice to net 4 points and 2 points by fouls. Stanton's lone point for the last half came by a foul.

Friday's game with Concord was loosely played and uninteresting, but with a few days of practice the Concord players will present a much stronger team and should interest any Junior High school.

On next Friday, January 17, the Union Grove team will be at Mt. Pleasant with their return game. A clean lively game is assured, and a large crowd is expected. The game will be called at 3:20 P. M.

more than in previous years. Do you not feel the effect of it. Don't you feel it until it hurts? I am one myself.
I said to a lady a few days ago, she was asking for some help on a church out seven miles from Clanton, What have the chain stores given you? She said, "Nothing," looking over a list she had. It seemed to me that most every business man had given something to help those people get the church where they could worship in it. Fathers and Mothers, you will not stay here always, don't you want to help your children, can you do that by sending all your money to Wall Street? Your children no doubt at some time will want to go in business. If we go along and trade with chain stores and let them put all of our independent business men out what do you think your boy or girl could do. They would get certain articles to force them out. If you or your children should have bad luck in any way or have sickness and need help do you think they could get it?

I feel sure that you could tell what would happen. I heard a story today where a lady had passed a grocery for years to trade with a chain store. Her husband was taken sick, and she went to a chain store and told them the circumstances. They said, we can't help you, so she went to her home merchant and told him the story. He said, "Yes, ma'am, I will send them up." She said,
"I have passed you up to trade with Wall Street, I am not worthy of your groceries," and cried, "but you will get what little money we have from now on."

How about it, good people. You want to see your money stay at home, if you do STAY OUT OF CHAIN STORES. Trade with home merchanants. There is where you get credit.
You don't get any at the chain stores.

Yours respectfully,
J. A. MADDUX,

KILLED BY A NEGRO

Has Many Relatives In Clanton and Vicinity; Body Sent Here for Burial

Inquest into the death of B. F. "Big Mama" Hubbard, 37, World War Veteran and former city detective, who died early Sunday morning at a Birmingham hospital with bullet wounds in the abdomen, neck and left arm, was to be held Monday by Coroner Russum. It was reported Hubbard was shot at a negro house in the vicinity of Thirty-Second Street and Sixth Avenue, South, Birmingham, about 1:30 a. m. Sunday. He was found lying near the house by officers and was taken in an ambulance to the hospital where he died at 5:20 a. m.

A negro who gave his name as Robert Heath was arrested soon after the shooting and placed in jail on a technical charge pending the inquest. Heath is reported to have told Officers Bryan and Riley he fired three shots after Hubbard had fired through a door and threatened to enter the house.

Hubbard entered the Birmingham Police Department April 20, 1916, and served until April 28, 1928. He served 18 months in France during the World War and for the last several months had been employed as a private detective.

He came to Birmingham in 1915 from Clanton, Alabama.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Hubbard, Thorsby, Ala.; two brothers, G. T. Hubbard, of Clanton; and W. C. Hubbard, Thorsby; and three sisters, Mrs. B. F. Roberts, Clanton; Mrs. W. A. Jernigan, Eufaula, Ala.; and Miss Jennie Hubbard, Thorsby.

Funeral services were to be held at 2 p. m. Monday at Johns Funeral Home. The body was sent to Clanton for burial.

Interment took place in the Liberty Hill cemetery with a brief funeral service, conducted by Dr. S. J. Ezell. Martin of Clanton, was in charge of the body.

TWO KILLED AND SEVERAL INJURED IN TRAIN WRECK

Two persons were killed and approximately twenty-five injured, some seriously, last Monday night, when Louisville & Nashville Train No. 4, ditched seven cars, including the mail car, baggage car, three day coaches and two Pullmans.

The wreck occurred when the fast train entered a spur track from off the main track, at Trafford, Ala. The engineer, Tom Lee Harrison, of Decatur, and a youth, Henry Johnson, of Louisville, were killed.

Officials of the railroad are making a study of the wreck and at the time of this writing, an investigation is underway.

Mrs. C. E. Stapp Gives News Inspiring Report On Welfare Meeting

One of the most significant gatherings in the social history of Alabama according to a report by Mrs. C. E. Stapp, superintendent of child welfare for Chilton County, was the conference of county child welfare workers in Montgomery last week.

The conference brought together not only more than 300 officials of the departments of education and of health, representatives of the state institutions of higher learning, child welfare workers of the state and counties, and representatives of various social agencies of the state; but also—and what is more significant, many county superintendents of education, members of county commissioners, and judges of juvenile courts, who attended from 63 counties now organized because they

NEGRO HOUSE SHATTERED BY BLAST

Explosion Goes Off Under Floor of House in West End Monday Night

Two explosions, said to have been dynamite, resulted in the almost complete destruction of a negro house, located in the negro settlement, in West End, here, last Monday night, and the narrow escape from injury of two elder negroes and several negro children.

The two charges which exploded almost simultaneously, demolished the front of the house and ripped through the bedroom, blowing a bed on which the children had been sleeping, to bits.

According to the story given a representative of the News, the two elder negroes were sitting by the fireplace, while the children had gone to bed, with the exception of one, who is said to have told the others she smelled something burning in the house. Just as the elder negroes went to make an investigation, the first blast went off.

The elder negroes grabbed the children from the bed and started for the door, the report stated, when the second blast occurred, taking a large part of the room and destroying the bed where the children had been laying.

No arrests have been made in connection with the dynamiting, and no motive can be found for the act, according to investigating officers, Bookholdt and Lowery, who made an immediate investigation.

Condition Of Mrs. M. B. Arant Said To Be Varying At Hospital In Montgomery

It has been necessary for a blood transfusion to be made for Mrs. M. B. Arant, who has been confined in the St. Margaret's Hospital, in Montgomery for some time, according to attending physicians there. The transfusion was made last Saturday afternoon.

Those offering their blood for this transfusion were Clay Marcus, Arthur Littlejohn, Arthur Taylor, M. B. Arant, Bill Murphy, and Samuel Martin.

After the tests of the blood, Mr. Arant was selected to give the blood for the transfusion.

According to reports from the bedside of Mrs. Arant at the time of this writing, her condition is varying.

HIGH SCHOOL

Well Coached Local Talent To Appear In Entertainment
Friday Night

The Chilton County High School will present on next Friday (tomorrow) night, "The Dixie Blackbird Minstrel" at the auditorium of the high school, at eight o'clock.

This play is being successfully coached by Mr. Lowell Boler, a representative of the well known Wayne P. Sewell Co., of Atlanta, Ga. Mr. Boler brought with him, for this entertainment, many beautiful costumes, cateney songs and snappy jokes.

It is too well known here, the kind of plays and minstrels turned out by the above named producing company, and from all indications, "The Dixie Blackbird Minstrel" will prove to be one of their best ever presented in Clanton.

The entire cast of this minstrel is composed of talent of Clanton, which, as stated above, has been well coached in each part.

During the Christmas holidays, the auditorium of the local high school underwent a change which has not yet been seen by many people. The old seats there have been replaced with new and modern opera chairs, and all those attending entertainments given in the auditorium now, are assured of a good comfortable seat, as long as they are not all occupied, so as to insure yourself of getting a choice place.

Clanton Lodge Has Well Attended Meeting

The regular meeting of Clanton Lodge No. 423, A. F. & A. M., held last Tuesday evening was very interesting and well attended. A large number of the membership were present, according to reports and after attending to the regular business of the lodge delicious sandwiches and kilowatt hot coffee was served to those present, which included a number of visiting Masons. The refreshments were served by Messrs. L. E. Diefenderfer, M. F. Jones, and H. T. Pipes, who have charge of the matter of social activities of the lodge, and from all indications these gentlemen know how to make things interesting for the Masons of this locality. The regular meetings of Clanton Lodge are held on the first Saturday and the third Tuesday evenings, of each month, and all Masons are invited to attend and a special invitation is extended to visiting Masons.

The committee on refreshments have not stated that there will be refreshments at each communication, however, they indicated that if the membership did not attend regularly that they might miss a real treat. Clanton has a large number of Masons, and under the leadership of Grady F. Harris, Worshipful Master of the blue lodge, it is said that the lodge is doing much good in our little city.

Mr. Lee Bookholdt of Enterprise community was a business caller at the Chilton County Farm Bureau office last Friday.

Mr. E. H. Devaughn of Route 7 was in Clanton last Saturday on business.

New Kiwanis Club Officers Installed

Last Thursday was installation day with the Kiwanis Club of Clanton. Cohen E. Stapp, who has been president of the club since its organization two years ago, presented the President's button to Dr. V. J. Gragg, who has been elected club president for the year 1930. In return, Dr. Gragg presented to Mr. Stapp the gold button of Immediate Past President. Each of these gentlemen made their presentation with short and impressive speeches fitting the occasion.

The entire list of club officers for 1930 is as follows: Dr. V. J. Gragg, president; J. Mell Martin, vice president; W. M. Wyatt, secretary; J. R. Mullins, treasurer; H. G. Boyd, district trustee. Together with the above-named officials, the Board of Directors is composed of the following: J. C. Page, S. J. Ezell, W. M. Polk, L. C. Warr, Reddie Taylor, Eric Hart, E. A. Childs.

The board of directors held a meeting Friday night, at which time the scope of the work of the club for 1930 was very carefully surveyed, and some

MORE CHANGES IN BUSINESS IN CLANTON

Moatts Market And Farley Drug Company Change Hands Recently

During the past several days, two changes in the business world of Clanton have occurred.

Last week W. W. (Bud) Jones and Mack Culver purchased the place of business known as Moatts Market, and are now in absolute control. This transaction took effect on the fifteenth so we were informed. No change in the line of goods handled by this concern will be made. They will continue to handle their complete line of meats, fancy groceries and produce.

Mack Culver has been connected with the store for several years, and stated that they will endeavor to continue to give the same high quality of service and goods as they have in the past.

Mr. Jones is one of the outstanding citizens of this county, and well familiar with the cattle and butchering trade with several years of experience.

Mr. J. N. (Joe) Calloway has acquired possession of the Farley Drug Company, having purchased it from A. L. Farley last week. In the future this drug store will bear the name of Calloway Drug Company.

Mr. Calloway states that he intends to replenish the stock of the store and render to the people of Clanton and Chilton County some real drug store service. He has as his efficient clerks, at present, Grady Parrish and Gladys Johnson, both these young men have had quite a bit of experience in that line. Parrish was connected with the store before the recent change in ownership.

Mr. Calloway is also operator of the Calloway Motor Co., local Whippet and Willys Knight dealers, and will be remembered as having been connected with the Alred Drug Company for some time several years ago, until he entered the motor car business.

The Calloway Motor Company will continue in business for the time being according to Mr. Calloway.

STOLEN GOODS FOUND IN CAR LAST TUESDAY NIGHT

Last Tuesday night, City Officer Lowery uncovered some stolen goods in a car in front of the local theatre. The goods, consisting of an overcoat, pair of gloves and basketball suits, were property of B. R. Goltzman, of Clanton, the reports stated.

The car in which the stolen property was found is said to have belonged to a fellow named Price. Price was lodged in the county jail by Lowery, and is charged with public drunkenness, according to information. He remained in jail Tuesday morning.

MRS. PERRY MIMS DIED LAST

Smith, Editor of the Department of Agriculture and Industries:

Howdy, folks, howdy How are all of you today? We hope that all are well and enjoying the new year, 1930.

Recently we went up to Clanton and found most of the people of that section working together for the advancement of their community. We found that organized forces and institutions of Chilton County are pulling together for the betterment of agriculture in the county. The Kiwanis Club, the vocational and home economic teachers, the Extension service forces, the strawberry Associations, the newspapers, and the farmers themselves are working towards one end, and that is to the betterment of agricultural conditions.

Within the next few minutes I would like to tell you a few things that we observed on our trip into the county. Immediately after reaching Clanton we went to the office of W. M. Wyatt

KING OF ENGLAND SPEAKS OVER RADIO EARLY MORN

For the first time in the history of Clanton, residents here arose early on Tuesday morning, about four-thirty to sit cozily by their fire and listen to the King of England speak over the radio.

King George was scheduled to open the Naval Armament Conference at London shortly after noon last Tuesday. The difference in time, between London time and Clanton time, caused the sleepers here to have to rise early to hear the British monarch's voice, which came over the air clearly, thru Station WAPI and Station WBRC, in Birmingham.

SERVICES TO BE AT PRESBY-TERIAN CHURCH, SUNDAY, 26

Dr. G. S. Frazer will again hold services at the Presbyterian Church Sunday, January 26th. The morning service will be at eleven o'clock and the Vesper service, an especially beautiful service, at five o'clock in the afternoon.

Dr. Frazer will be pleasantly remembered by the splendid congregation which attended his services recently.

The Presbyterians deserve to be congratulated upon being able to have for part time minister a man who is both a brilliant speaker and capable minister. Dr. Frazer comes to us from Memphis, Tenn., where he was pastor of a church of 1,500 members with a building which is considered one of the three most artistic and beautiful in the United States.

BASKETBALL IS GAINING IN POPULARITY

Local Athletic Club To Play
Alverson Business College

That basketball is gaining this season, in popularity here, is evidenced in the interest being shown here and the spectators at the games played by the local teams, the high school and the team of the Clanton Athletic Club.

The Athletic Club team defeated Maplesville last week, as the result of a hard fought game, while the girls' team from Maplesville won over the local girls' team by several points. The Clanton Girls' team, at the beginning, is showing up well, considering the small amount of practice given before their first game. During the past week, they have been doing some strenuous work, preparing for the game on next Saturday night, when they will meet the girls' team of the Alverson Business College, of Birmingham.

According to information received from the president of the Birmingham college, they have two all-state players, Miss Verna Dickerson, a forward, and Miss Aylene Blackburne, a guard. These misses will play against the local girls' here next Saturday night. We were also informed that the latter player, is without a doubt, the best all-around girl player in the state today.

In the boy's team from the college, coming here to meet the Clanton Athletic Club team next Saturday night, we understand there will probably be an all-state forward, also Robert Montgomery and Cecil Chappell, two all-state guards from Woodlawn High School, and Wade Rich, the star of the games last year. Troy Rogers, center, is said to measure six feet and four inches in height. This game which will be played in the Maddox Warehouse, through the courtesy of Mr. J. A. Maddox, promises to be unusually interesting, due to the fact that the local players have been showing up extremely well themselves, lately.

On last Saturday night, the Clanton team defeated the strong team from the United States Rubber Co., of Birmingham, on the local indoor court to a tune of 32 to 15. "Doodle" Gore and Roy Connamer did some mighty good work in that game, while the entire team showed that they knew what team work was, judging from the way they passed the ball, keeping it almost from sight of the visiting players. Due to the coolness of the night, the game appeared to have gotten rather a slow start, but as soon as the local quintet began to pile up the score, the Birmingham lads, tried to wake up to the fact that they had met a real team which was well coached and quick to act.

The first quarter ended with the score 6 to 3; the second quarter at 18 to 7; the third quarter at 24 to 11, in Clanton's favor all during the game. Don't miss the game Saturday night at seven-thirty.

The meeting of the Democratic Executive Committee which has been called for next Saturday, January 25th, 1930, promises to be very interesting, due to the fact that the question of whether the committee will bar as candidates those who voted a Republican ticket for Presidential electors in the 1928 election, in the forthcoming Democratic primary.

This condition has shown up on both sides over the state and is becoming rather interesting. The meeting of the Democratic Executive Committee next Saturday will be held at the New Wilson Hotel.

The notice of the call for the State Democratic primary appears elsewhere in this issue of the News.

Timely Information

November 4th, 1929.

To Our Farmer Friends:—

Many of you, as well as many others in this county, have made a failure in the cotton crop this year, which has become too uncertain, under boll weevil conditions, for us to advance money, and we must find something else thru which we can aid the farmers of the county.

Milk and eggs and chickens seem to offer to us the readiest means to do this. These you can raise nearly all the year round without interfering with your cotton and corn crops with which to meet your present obligations and at the same time give you a steady income on which to live.

Start now to getting, in some way, two or three cows per plow, that will give you milk next year, and also build up your chickens to sell. You must aid yourself in some way—we can not furnish money to try to raise cotton and corn except under peculiar circumstances, but will in a small way aid you to get cows and chickens and from these you can get money for your support.

You may not want to do this, but you will be forced to if you stay on the farm, so why not start at it now?

A cow that will give two gallons of milk per day will net you at present prices about $10.00 per month, but you will have to raise her feed, which you can do in the spring by planting peas, velvet beans, peanuts, soy beans, and hay. You can do this without materially interfering with your other crops, with which to pay your debts.

Think on these things and get ready to do them with a will and strong determination to succeed.

Money will be harder to get next year than since 1921, and if you are not prepared by cows, chickens, hogs and other things, you will have difficulty in getting along at all.

With best wishes for your success,
MACON COUNTY BANK.

Dixon Didn't Starve

Eight years ago every body who knew him said that P. D. Dixon, of Cleveland County, North Carolina, would starve to death on the poor piece of land that he undertook to buy. All he took with him to the farm was a mule and wagon, a few chickens, and a wife and two babies. But he didn't starve. His farm is paid for he has six cows, the blue ribbon bull of the county 100 chickens and eight hogs. He sold $300 worth of cream last year, and has money in the bank. Besides that, to show for his year's work, he had on hand last fall 400 bushels of corn, 161 bushels of No. 1 potatoes, 133 bushels of wheat, 167 bushels of oats, 15 bales of cotton grown on 12 acres of land, and 12 tons of hay grown on 6 acres. It would no doubt have been an easy matter for him to starve but Mr. Dixon must have made up his mind that he wasn't going to do it.

Grass-Eating Stock Is The Kind To Buy

Will Rogers, who comes pretty near summing things up just about right, had the following to say about the collapse of the Wall Street stock market: "What does it mean? Nothing. Why if the cows of this country failed to come up and get milked one night it would be more of a panic than if Morgan and Lamont had never held a meeting. Why, an old sow and a litter of pigs made more people a living than all the steel and General Motors stock combined. Why, the whole 120,000,000 of us are more dependent on the cackling of a hen than if the stock exchange was turned into a night club."

Cream Checks Run Cotton Farm And Car

J. F. Mitchell, of Dyer County, Tenn., says he wouldn't have been able to run either his cotton farm or his Ford the past two years if he hadn't milked four good cows. His cream checks paid the entire grocery bill, chopped 35 acres of cotton, paid for extra help used in saving 650 bales of hay, and bought gas and oil for his car.

760 Eggs Every Second

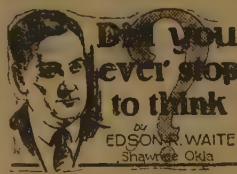

The U. S. Department of Agriculture states that in the United States every second 760 eggs are produced and $20 worth of wealth is created. Why should anybody sigh for the goose that laid golden eggs while faithful old Biddy shells out the shekels at that rate.

South Carolina farmers have shown a remarkable increase in the production of poultry in the past few years. Only three carloads, valued at $9,500, were sold cooperatively in 1923. Each year has shown a big increase and during the first four months of 1929, 92 carloads were sold cooperatively, bringing nearly $500,000.

R. H. Balard, president of the southern California Edison Company, says: "What a wonderful thing it would be if all fault-finding could be transmuted into cooperation!"

"What a waste of energy is involved in mere scolding, and how much of this scolding there is! Take—if you can pick it out—the industry that during the last ten years whose progress has meant the greatest increase in comfort and the joy of living. I have my own notion of what that industry is, but I won't tell. Each one can choose his own pet industry without any contradiction from me.

"Now having chosen this prize industry, look through the recent newspapers and see how many inches of space have been given in praise—and how many in condemnation of some merely trivial fault, or supposed fault. Read the congressional record and see how many speeches have held this industry up for the emulation of others and how many speeches have denounced this or that minor feature.

"Look over the comment on our public officials. How much space is given to that great majority of men whose sincere, earnest and honest hard work ought to be blazoned from the incompetent, or who may be careless?"

"Let's get together and try to co-operate for constructive policies. If criticism is needed here and there, let the criticism be constructive. If you first tell a fellow that he is doing a wonderful job, he will listen closely when you suggest some possible further improvement. Suppose you approach a man who knows that he has been doing a lot for the common good if you start in by telling him that his industry ought to be destroyed, you can't expect to get very far.

"Scolding only destroys."

S. A. Willmott, Advertising Manager of the London (England) Daily Mirror, Says:

That advertising has been a tremendous influence in raising the standard of living. Announcements of furniture creams, cleaning preparations, furnishing house etc., have depicted delightful homes that have been the envy of every housewife, and have created and ever stimulated a desire for something better. Shirt and collar manufacturers' announcements and tailoring advertisements have made men desire better clothes. Motor-car manufacturers and sports outfitters have each done their share in advertising not only their wares, but also in proclaiming the joys of the open air, and have made many a man and woman yearn for more leisure to spend out of doors.

Food manufacturers have depicted sumptuous repasts served on beautifully laid tables not only throwing around their goods a halo of high quality, but also arousing many a desire for better table linen and equipment.

At the same time, advertising has assisted very materially in providing the masses with better wages with which to satisfy these desires. By building up business, creating bigger and yet bigger sales, it has enabled employers to put more into the pay envelopes.

If by civilization is meant raising the standard of life, then advertising is indeed a vital civilizing force.

One Year Ago

Following are accounts of news items carried in the Chilton County News in its issue of January 10, 1929.

The town of Clanton installed last Thursday a modern chlorinating plant at the city well. This plant has been a long needed improvement in the town and was suggested by the State Dept. of the Board of Health.

Mr. Harry Margolis, of Uniontown, was a visitor to Clanton last Sunday. Harry, a popular member of the younger set of Clanton, has been in business in Uniontown for some time, having charge of Harry's Place.

The schools of Chilton County are closed this week on account of the flu condition, according to the notice received at this office from superintendent of Education B. Lawrence.

Something new for Clanton, a candy kitchen has been opened in connection with the Jones Cafe, which is located on Main Street next to the Alabama Harness and Shoe Shop.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Peebles, of Pickens County, Alabama, made a clear profit of $800 on 430 white leghorn hens from November 1, 1928, to July 1, 1929. A flock of 650 hens made a Lincoln County, North Carolina, farmer a profit of $1,541.77 in seven months in 1928.

ALABAMA FARM

POCKETBOOK BULGES

Farm pocketbooks in Alabama are bulging better than ever, especially since the cotton crop is worth ten millions more than last year, according to a report issued by F. W. Gist, federal and state statistician, with the Alabama Department of Agriculture. The following features are gleaned from this interesting and valuable report.

Alabama farmers raised 7,530,000 acres of crops in 1929, compared with 7,423,000 in 1928. This increase amounts to 107,000 acres.

Cotton leads with a crop of lint and seed worth about 129 million dollars. The other 16 crops for which estimates and values are made are for the most part worth more than in 1928. This record looks much better than early in the harvest season when prospects were not so good.

The satsuma crop, worth about half a million dollars, is about 4 times more valuable than in 1928, although other fruits are markedly reduced in value. Apples, peaches, pears and pecans were all markedly less in value.

Increases in crop yields per acre were noted in the case of cotton, corn, oats, both kinds of potatoes, cowpeas, and sugarcane syrup. Decreased acre yields were reported in peanuts, sorghum, and soybeans. In the case of peanuts there was an increase of acreage in 1929, but a decrease in yield and many fields were lost on account of wet weather.

Alabama produced a million bushels more of sweet potatoes this year. There was more sugarcane syrup, but less sorghum. There will be enough for farm needs and some to sell.

The Alabama oat crop was nearly double that of last year. Aside from the value of the crop, this shows a decided advance in growing winter cover crops: a sign of progressive farming, and a needed addition to feed crops.

Alabama made peanuts at the rate of 2 bushels for each of its inhabitants in 1929. This is at the rate of a pound for every person in the United States. Have you had your share? If not, the baseball season will open before many months.

Alabama exceeded last year's corn crop by 7 million bushels. In North Alabama, the yield was 65 bushels per acre—elsewhere the crop was above the

VERSATILE MR. REVERE

Paul Revere is known to fame chiefly because of his historic ride from Boston to arouse the "minute men" on the night of April 18, 1775, before the engagement with the British at Lexington and Concord. But, aside from this notable exploit, he was an uncommonly active and versatile citizen. He had taken part in the Boston Tea Party, and became a lieutenant-colonel during the Revolution, after serving as a lieutenant of artillery in the Crown Point expedition of 1756, during the French and Indian War.

In civil-life he displayed a variety of talents which a recent biographer thinks entitles him to be known as America's first "jack of all trades." He was a goldsmith, a copper roller, a dentist, an engraver, a powder manufacturer, a maker of picture frames, a hardware merchant, and, deplorable as it may seem, a seller of hard liquor.

Documents recently made public by his great-grandson include bills of lading showing that Paul Revere sold a consignment of rum at 60 cents a gallon, also gin at a proportionately low figure. This same great-grandson now heads a copper business founded by his distinguished ancestor, which still bears the name of Revere, in Boston.

But Revere's chief pride seems to have been in his dental skill, and he once sent a circular to prospective clients, which would be considered highly unethical today, in which among other things he said, referring to him in teeth: "He fixes them in such a manner that they are not only an ornament, but of real use in speaking and eating."

Longfellow immortalized Paul Revere's ride, but he didn't tell the whole story.

DOES THE WORLD REALLY WANT PEACE?

The naval disarmament conference which is about to meet in London is of immense importance to the whole world but of more immediate importance to the United States than to any other country. We pride ourselves on being the most peace loving people in the world yet we spend more money today on military and naval preparations for war than any other nation!

Perhaps we are wrong in believing that we love peace more than other people do. Hon. Anson Houghton, former ambassador to Berlin and then to London suggested as much in his address on assuming the position as the commission on international justice and good will of the federal council of churches. Pointing out that the United States has managed to get into at least one important war during every generation since the republic was established he said that his knowledge of European nations convinced him that each of its people love peace more than any others.

RECOGNITION TO BE GIVEN EARLY USERS OF NITRATE

An attempt is being made to find some of the farmers who pioneered in using nitrate of soda as a fertilizer in Alabama. As a feature of the centennial celebration of Chilean nitrate soda, suitable recognition is to be conferred on the farmer now living in this state who first used "Soda" and also on the farmer who has used it for the longest period of time.

It is thought that Chilton County will have several representatives among the early users of nitrate. Any farmer who has used nitrate of soda for 25 years or more should report his experience, for he may, unknowingly, be the first or the oldest user in the State. Names may be sent to County Agent C. E. Stapp, who will forward them to the committee which will make the awards.

The use of mineral fertilizers in the United States, according to County Agent Stapp, runs back to the last half of the past century. When the first farmers used mineral fertilizers there was much doubt about the value of the practice. It was a "newfangled" idea, about which very little was known. But as a result of modest farm tests and experimental research, it has now become an economic necessity in the agriculture of the county.

The first shipment of nitrate of soda was brought to the United States in 1830. Since then it has been used by four generations of American farmers. Today, with the exception of lime and marl, it has probably been utilized the longest of the inorganic substances now used for agricultural purposes.

New Plans Launched By The Chevrolet Co.

Detroit, Mich., January 23-- Following the announcement several days ago of the improved 1930 Chevrolet Six at greatly reduced prices, the Chevrolet Motor Company last week launched manufacturing and sales activities designed to meet the requirements of what promises to be another record year for the public acceptance of six cylinder automobiles.

Factory officials expressed themselves as highly gratified over the reception of the new Chevrolet Six at the New York National Automobile Show last week. Thousands of orders and hundreds of congratulatory letters from the nationwide Chevrolet dealer organization told something of the success with which the new product is meeting across the United States.

Meanwhile, so that the thousands of orders already on hand may be taken care of with a minimum of delay, the 16 giant Chevrolet plants are speeding toward capacity operation with all the haste consistent with Chevrolet's precision manufacturing methods. Employment at the Chevrolet factories is at the highest January level in the history of the Company with many of the plants maintaining two shifts.

At the same time the sales division under the direction of H. J. Klingner, vice-president and general sales manager, sounded the formal opening gun of the nationwide sales campaign. Wednesday, Jan. 8, at a mammoth Chevrolet dealer meeting in New York City. Two thousand dealers from various parts of the Atlantic seaboard heard the Chevrolet sales chief outline the Company's plans for the year.

The New York meeting was the first of a series of 41 similar gatherings that will be held this winter from coast to coast in a comprehensive effort to appraise the Company's far flung dealer organization of the plans that Chevrolet has arranged for 1930. In the course of these meetings, which will continue until the third week in February every Chevrolet dealer in the United States will have the opportunity of listening at first-hand to the Chevrolet message for 1930 and talking with Central Office officials.

Gatherings in each city embrace a business show in the afternoon and a banquet in the evening. The afternoon business meeting is perhaps the most unique and comprehensive ever undertaken by a large industrial organization.

These business meetings feature a number of playlets graphically depicting the successful operation of a retail automobile business in its various phases. All parts are played by members of the Chevrolet organization.

To make this business show possible more than a carload of drops, curtains and stage fixtures are taken to each city. Perhaps $50,000 worth of show equipment is required to stage the afternoon performance. A group of professional stage hands travel with the party and handle the work backstage.

In order to get the Chevrolet message over to the dealer organization in as short a space of time as possible, four groups of officials are conducting meetings simultaneously.

Heading the party that will conduct meetings in the southwest, California, and the Pacific northwest will be D. E. Ralston, assistant general sales manager. The party making northeastern cities will be in charge of J. C. Chick, assistant general sales manager, while the meeting in the southeast will be conducted by M. D. Douglas, parts and service manager. R. K. White, advertising manager, will head the group handling meetings in the central section of the country.

GOODGAME SERVICE STATION HANDLING TEXACO PRODUCTS

The Goodgame Service Station, which has been under construction in Thorsby, Ala., is completed and open for business.

This new filling station will handle the well known Texaco oils and gas, according to Mr. W. E. Huddleston, Jr., assistant to the local distributor.

The local agent for the Texas Company also announces the installation of another pump to dispense their product. This new pump was installed for J. D. Deason, in the western part of the county.

The Clanton Baptist church is to have a new organ soon.

Tuscaloosa will probably have another cotton factory soon.

She'll iron is said to be the best made. The same quality of ore is to be found over a great portion of northeast Chilton which will in the near future we hope make the name of our county famous in the world.

The State Legislature reassembled yesterday.

Labor is scarce around Carrolton due to the departure of so many "Cullud Gemmen" for the Georgia Pacific railroad.

The average Cobb County, Georgia, hen lays only 54 eggs per year. But there is one farmer in the county who gets an average of 174 eggs from each of his 556 hens. He figures his cash receipts at $5.51, and his net profit at $3.13 per hen over a 12-months period.

A SMOOTHER, FASTER, BETTER SIX

A CENTURY of helping American Farmers MAKE BETTER CROPS

The coming year rounds out an even century since the first use of Chilean Nitrate of Soda in the United States.

Andrew Jackson, famous "Old Hickory", of Tennessee, was President of the United States in 1830 when the first cargo of this nitrogen fertilizer arrived by sailing vessel from far-off Chile. That was years before we had the telephone, the telegraph.

TO-DAY—On sheer merit alone... strictly on the basis of the good it has done, Chilean Nitrate to-day is the standard nitrogen fertilizer. Last year more than 800,000 farmers used it to make more money from their crops. Every cotton champion in the South... and every corn champion... made his winning crop with Chilean Nitrate.

For nearly half a century, Experiment Stations have proved the value of Chilean Nitrate. In Pennsylvania, for instance, experiments have been conducted continuously since 1881! The success obtained by farmers who use it, leads many more each year to follow their example. Chilean Nitrate pays back its small cost many times over.

Do not confuse Chilean Nitrate with other fertilizers. It is the world's only natural nitrate nitrogen. Not synthetic, but the real thing, mined and refined in Chile and nowhere else. It will pay you to insist on Chilean Nitrate. It is quick-acting food for almost every crop that grows... proved by 100 years of use.

ONE OF THE STRONGEST FORCES IN THE WORLD

One of the strongest forces in the world is human desire. It is the force that inspires most human action. Create a desire in a man for a certain career and he will bend every effort to attain it. Create a desire in a man to possess a home or any material object and he will use all his resource to achieve that end.

Create in a man a desire for a certain kind of tooth brush and he will pass up all others for this particular brush.

Desire is created by advertising—judicious, well written advertising, and if the advertising is backed by good merchandise and modern merchandising methods it will sell the goods. Advertising has not created the law of human action. It merely takes advantage of laws of human reaction and conduct that have always been in existence.

VAGARIES OF GENIUS

Nothing is quite so mysterious as the workings of the human mind. A study of men classed as geniuses generally shows them to be a little "cracked" in certain respects. Sometimes their peculiarities have been harmless, in others they have led to positive insanity. A few examples will illustrate:

Napoleon was afraid of a cat: Peter the Great was afraid to cross a bridge; Martin Luther imagined that the devil appeared to him and he threw his ink bottle at the fiend; Samuel Johnson, Feethoven and Lincoln at times contemplated suicide.

Among the ridiculous antics of great men may be mentioned the occasional habit of Cardinal Richelieu to gallop around a billiard table, imagining himself to be a horse. Adam Smith, the great economist, once walked 12 miles to church, clad only in his nightgown. Bentham, the philosopher, wore large headed in winter and heavy leather gloves in summer. Many men of genius have been shockingly lax in morals as measured by adopted standards.

All this does not mean, however, that being a bit nutty is an infallible sign of genius.

Mr. H. B. Glenn of Route 6 was in Clanton last Saturday on business.

Miss Mable Howard and Mr. Davis motored to Prattville last Sunday afternoon.

Miss Katie Mae Rogers and Mr. Florence Harris spent last Sunday evening in Jemison as the guests of Mrs. J. S. McNeil.

The Editor's Soliloquy

From a Washington publisher who writes under the nom de plume of "Roderick Nelra" comes this:

The country editor, old and gray, Sat in his office at close of day: His eyes were tired, his head bowed down,

Across his brow a deep, deep frown, As he wondered why he'd heeded the plea

To publish a paper in that city: Or why he'd believed the promises made—

Redemption of which were so long delayed.

"Fool that I was: fool that I am! I've played the game like a true man—

Have tried to help make the old town grow,

What more I can do, I sure don't know: I've given my time and money, too,

To boost all good things, both old and new:

I've battled against the mail order house—

The support I've had wouldn't keep a mouse.

I've talked for the stores, and trade at home,

But the pay I've got wouldn't buy a bone.

I'm sick and tired of it all—

Of running 'round and hearin' 'em stall: 'Business is dull, ain't sellin' a thing; 'People ain't buyin'—the song they sing.

Or, 'Not this week, but next week, sure,'

And the next week—Next week we'll do 'er.

It's 'manana' this and 'manana' that,

But nix on the ad, you can bet your hat!

Their promises aren't worth a little red cent—

They don't buy paper or pay the rent. Nor clothes, nor food and things I need—

To keep the dollars is their creed. And they want all the community trade.

But to get it and keep it no effort is made.

Then there are a few men, loyal and true,

Their word is good, they're real true blue—

You can bank on a promise from any of them—

They're the town builders and real he men.

So I reckon 'after all is said and done, I'll still fight on 'til the battle is won."

—Roderick Nelra.

"Round Town"

—By 'Doug'

The Editor threatens to stop using these wandering thoughts of mine for the simple reason that too many are ready to claim he is the author of this column. Frankly, I should think he ought to be pleased with that accusation.

Was enjoying a right keen number over the radio the other night, when some member of the orchestra playing chirped up with an expression, sounding like "bou-boup-a-doup." If I'd had that person by the neck right then I would have asked him from what country he was from, and just what that expression meant in music. I think Helen Kane originated that chilling expression.

Authors are either made or born. I think the author of a letter I heard about, written to a young lady here, not many days ago, was made, because he signed another's name to it. I don't mean to say that he wasn't born, tho.

Speaking of being born, reminds me of something else. The tale about humans springing from monkeys, and some of them failing to jump.

I wish I knew what Wallace Cox could tell me about getting by  Let's have it Wallace.

I could keep on wishing forever, and while I'm at it, I'll make some here. I wish—

That the A & P Store wouldn't leave that paint on the bottom of their window like they did last Saturday night.

That some more letters would come to this column again, with suggestions.

That certain young fellows here wouldn't use the name of a good friend of mine, to make engagements with young ladies, like they did not long ago.

Joe Calloway just can't keep out of the drug business so it seems. Here he has taken upon himself a drug store. He certainly must be rather optimistic, buying a business this time of year. I'll wager he has something up his sleeve, too.

I wonder if it helps anyone to talk about hard times. I have heard of hard times since I was big enough to understand the English language.

The City Officials certainly have something for thought now, and a real opportunity to do some detective work. Somebody came near sending a few pickininnies to heaven, or wherever it is pickininnies go, last Monday night, out in Frog Level. I just wonder if any action will be taken about that blowing up—and when. (I bet I got told about that crack.)

(The paragraph for this space was 'blue-penciled' by ye Editor. He thought it was too plain spoken. But next week I'll try to go about the same idea, in a little milder manner, maybe he will let it pass then.)

I expected to hear a great big sermon last Sunday at church, about dancing. But fortunately, I didn't. Maybe it is to come later. The preachers may as well prepare several, 'cause I understand that there will be a dance here about every two weeks.

If I had a notion to do something, in town, at night, and get away with it, I'd wait until the city cop was in the picture show, or tinkering with a radio. I hate to see the night officers of Clanton do things like that when on duty, and I'd like to see the present officer keep his job.

Publicity is certainly a great thing. Take for instance Paul Revere. I wonder how many people know that three other men took a similar midnight ride on the same night Paul did. Each went in a different direction. Only Paul received the publicity, and Longfellow was his press agent. Paul won recognition through Longfellow's poem, "The Midnight Ride of Paul Revere."

And Paul isn't the only one taking midnight rides. They do taht right here in Clanton. Except they don't ride on horses, and I am sure if they did have to depend on a horse, there wouldn't be much of it going on, and the only reason those taking midnight rides (or runs) in Clanton are not famous, they haven't received the proper publicity, which I suppose they consider fortunate for them.

Be Sure to see "The King" in the Dixie Blackbird Minstrels at the high school tomorrow night.

COTTON GROUP HEAD A BORN ORGANIZER

Allen Northington, general manager of the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association, and newly elected president of the $30,000.00 American Cotton Co-operative association was born an organizer. His father, William T. Northington, Prattville, was organizer and president of the Continental Cotton Gin Company, Prattville. Allen Northington attended the public schools of Prattville. After graduating from the Prattville academy he entered the University of Alabama.

After receiving his college degree he organized the Autauga Bank and Trust company and served as president for several years. He then went to Birmingham where he worked with the Jemison and the Central Mortgage and Trust companies. In 1908 he returned to Prattville, organized the First National Bank and has served as president since that date.

Eight years ago Mr. Northington was elected secretary-manager of the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton association which has up to this year handled 557,204 bales. The association of which he is manager, has this year received approximately 100,000 bales, and farmers continue to pool several hundred bales each day.

and T. E. Wyatt, publishers and proprietors of the Union Banner, one of the two newspapers of the county. Here the story about how all forces are cooperating in an attempt to improve agricultural conditions was told.

Next we visited the Farm Bureau office and there we found C. E. Stapp, county agent, and Miss Zora Guy, farm bureau secretary, conferring with and advising several farmers on problems confronting them. Billy Smith, 20 year old editor of the Chilton County News, was next visited. Each one visited reviewed the fact that all forces interested in agricultural development are working hand in hand.

Chilton County has five banks which are advising farmers to follow recommendations of C. E. Stapp, county agent, in their farming operation. These banks are the Peoples Savings Bank, the First National Bank of Clanton, Bank of Verbena, Bank of Maplesville, Bank of Thorsby. These banks are not only advising farmers to fertilize according to Auburn recommendations, but are telling them frankly they will profit by following Auburn recommendations in cultivation, feeding, and along other lines.

The Kiwanis Club has very emphatically endorsed the agricultural movement. It has appointed an agricultural committee to look after its agricultural affairs. They have some real interesting agricultural programs. They make it a practice of conducting tours of various farms of the county each year.

The two full time white vocational teachers of the county are devoting their time to educating farm boys and girls, and adults farmers along the lines of better farming. These vocational teachers are Earl Thomas, Isabella, and J. P. Montgomery, Jemison. Two home economic teachers, Miss Cora Bell Maddox, Isabella; and Miss Leacy Newell, Jemison, are spending their time working with the girls and women of the county. Great agricultural advancements are being made in these communities.

Lawrence C. Johnson, Clanton, is the colored vocational teacher. It is said that he has done a great work in getting colored farmers of his community to follow improved agricultural practices and getting the boys interested in club work. His influence is radiating among his farmers and great improvements can be seen.

For about one and one half years County Agent Stapp has been active in carrying Experiment Station recommendations and the Extension Service program to the farmer. He is back of every progressive movement of the county for the betterment of agriculture.

Chilton county has two active strawberry associations, one is called Clanton Strawberry Growers' Association and the other the Thorsby Strawberry Growers' Association. They are at present preparing for action during the coming strawberry season.

In the Chilton County Farm Bureau farmers of the county have in their midst a cooperative organization which renders year round service in economical production of farm products and in disposing of these products cooperatively at prices in line with the leading markets of the country. This organization now has a membership of some three hundred of the most progressive farmers and others are aligning themselves with the organization each day. As they become members each farmer is issued a free insurance policy by the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation. Some are taking additional insurance which comes at a very reasonable price, in fact it costs only about one third as much as an ordinary life insurance policy.

Officers and directors of the Chilton County Farm Bureau, who are working with members of the organization in making a success of the organized movement in the county, are:

W. L. Popwell, president, Clanton; T. F. Patterson, vice-president, Verbena; J. S. Weldon, second vice-president, Clanton; W. L. Parrish, sec.; J. N. Dennis, Clanton; W. L. Popwell, Clanton; H. G. Boyd, Clanton; H. R. Mims, Clanton; I. M. Deason, Clanton; E. R. Piper, Thorsby; Judson Strock, Verbena; J. L. Smith, Clanton; W. L. Parrish, Clanton; R. M. Foshee, Clanton.

Sometime when you are in Chilton County it will be a real inspiration to visit some or all of the above named farmers, organizations and institutions. We feel certain that they will join us in extending to you an invitation to visit them.

PAINFUL INDIGESTION

"I SUFFERED from indigestion—everything I ate gave me heartburn," says Mrs. Mattie Mullins, of Pound, Va.

"For months, I did not see a well day. I worried along, but never felt well. I got a package of Thedford's Black-Draught at the store and began taking it—a dose every night before going to bed. I had been having an awful pain. After I had taken Black-Draught, this pain entirely stopped. I began to gain in weight, and rested well at night. In a few months I was feeling fine. My health was better than it had been in years. I keep Black-Draught in our home, and we all take it for constipation and upset stomach."

RESOLUTIONS ON THE DEATH OF MR. BEN TAYLOR

On Sabbath evening, January 5, 1930 as the twilight shadows softly fell, the spirit of our dear husband and uncle was taken home to God. Life of him meant loving service to friends family and church.

Funeral services were held at 11:00 o'clock, January 6, Mason in charge. He gave his life to God in 1881, married to Miss Mollie Calloway, December 28, 1882, ordained deacon 1900, became a Mason in 1911, age 69 years. Surviving him are his devoted wife and two brothers, J. R. and L. J. Taylor, four sisters, Mrs. Carmichael, Mrs. H. J. Hughes, Mrs. Tom Thompson, and Mrs. Mamie Jacks, and a host of relatives.

We will miss him here so much, yet we know he lives. He has laid down the cross and took up the crown. We know he will be ready to meet us one by one as we pass into eternity. He was loved by all who knew him. He has passed from earth to glory, like a flower to the sod, to await in joy and beauty in the Kingdom of our God. He has gone and left us desolate, but he is so glad and free. All our tears would turn to smiles if his rapture we could see. Oh, how good and brave and and evening. All are cordially invited the sorrow he gave us was because he went away.

So let's think of him with gladness, with unselfishness and say, Heaven is now dearer, sweeter, just because he went away.

His Neice, Mrs. E. D. Hand, Clanton, Ala.

East View News

On the past Thursday evening Rev. A. C. Nelson and family were invited to a surprise party at the home of Mr. N. O. Griffith.

The guests were met at the door and invited in by Mr. Griffith, and were entertained by the victrola and by games played by the young people, after which they gave Rev. Nelson a spool and told him to wind up the unwound thread and what he found at the end of the thread was for him, and his family. He was very much surprised when he came to a table filled with groceries which had been placed there by the members and friends of East View church. They all enjoyed themselves and returned home proud of what they had done and for the appreciation shown them by the Nelson family for what they had given.

Mrs. Elva Mims and Mr. and Mrs. Buck, Driver made a business trip to Montgomery one day last week.

Mr. J. P. Rushing and family had for their guest their daughter, Mrs. Sallie Strength, and Rev. and Mrs. A. C. Nelson last Friday.

Mr. A. B. Nelson and Mr. Jessie Nelson were in Clanton last Thursday and each one purchased a young mule.

Mr. Earl Vinson and Mr. Jessie Nelson had a collision last week on the Cooper and Enterprise road near the Pleasant Valley church. No one was injured, but both cars were damaged.

Rev. and Mrs. A. C. Nelson motored to Mt. Springs Sunday where he filled his regular appointment.

Miss Merle and Lucile Kelley visited Miss Catherine Strength Sunday.

Mr. I. L. Smith was in Clanton on business Monday.

Don't forget the services at the church next Sunday. Sunday school will be at 10 a. m., prayer service at 6 p. m. and preaching at 6:45 p. m. You have a cordial invitation to attend.

PRIMARY ELECTION NOTICE

Notice of Democratic Primary Election to be Held on the Twelfth of August, 1930, and Primary Election Regulations and Resolutions Adopted by the State Democratic Executive Committee.

1st. That a primary election be, and the same is hereby called to be held at the several polling places in this State, at the hours fixed by law, on the second Tuesday in August, 1930, for the nomination of Democratic candidates for offices to be filled in the general election next succeeding and that the candidates of the Democratic Party for all State, District, Circuit, Federal and County offices to be filled in the general election to be held in November, 1930, be nominated in the primary election to be held on the second Tuesday in August, 1930, under the provisions of the Statutes of Alabama governing primary elections.

2nd. That the following persons shall be entitled to vote in said election, and none others, viz:

Qualified white electors of this State who believe in the principles of the Democratic Party, and who agree and bind themselves by participating in said primary to abide by the result of said primary election, and to support the nominees of the Democratic Party therein.

3rd. The following persons, and none other, shall be eligible to be candidates for nomination in said primary election, viz:

Qualified white electors who possess the qualifications fixed by law for the respective offices for which they are candidates for nomination, provided, however: That no person shall become a candidate for any State, District, Federal or Circuit office or have his or her name printed upon the Democratic ballot in the primary election to be held on the 12th day of August, 1930, if such person either voted a Republican Presidential ticket in November, 1928, or openly and publicly opposed the election of the nominees of the Democratic Party or either of them or who opposed the election of the Democratic Electors for President or Vice President in November, 1928. Such proposed candidates shall also be required to pay the assessments fixed by this Committee on or before the date limited for paying such assessments, and for the filing of declaration of their candidacy.

4th. That candidates for nomination for all said offices, except as herein provided for, shall within such time as may be specified by this Committee file with the Chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee a declaration of candidacy as follows:

"I hereby declare myself to be a candidate for the Democratic nomination in the primary election to be held on the second Tuesday in August, 1930, for the office of _____.

I hereby certify that I did not vote a Republican Presidential ticket in November, 1928, or openly and publicly oppose the election of the nominees of the Democratic Party; or either of them, and that I did not oppose the election of the Democratic Electors for President or Vice President in November, 1928.

I further agree to abide by the result of the primary election in which I am a candidate, and to support the nominees of the Democratic Party in said election.

I further certify that I am a qualified white elector of the State of Alabama, and possess the qualifications fixed by law for the office for which I am a candidate.

Sworn to and subscribed before me, this _____ day of _____, 1930.

NOTARY PUBLIC.

Resolved Further:

That all candidates for Democratic nomination for county offices shall be filed at the same time and place, and in the same primary election, and that the Democratic County Executive Committees are authorized to fix the political qualifications of candidates for county offices, except that a candidate shall be barred from running as a candidate by such County committees, for the reason that such candidate did support the Democratic nominees, or any of them in the November, 1928, election.

All candidates, (except candidates for County offices) are required to file with E. W. Pettus, Chairman of this Committee, on or before March 1st, 1930, a sworn declaration of their candidacy in the form set forth in the foregoing resolution; and on or before March 1st, 1930 to pay to E. W. Pettus, Chairman, Selma, Alabama, the qualifying fee for such candidate.

The qualifying fees as fixed are as follows:

Two per cent of the annual salary from all sources, for one year for all candidates for State, District, Circuit and National offices, except State Senators and Members of the Legislature; and that the assessments for all candidates for State Senator and Member of the Legislature be fixed at $25.00, and $10.00 for all candidates for

A. A. JACKSON WRITES

Lomax, Ala.

Dear Editor News:

Will you be so kind as to give me a small space in your paper to say a few words in regard to the action of the executive committee of the Republican party in Chilton County?

At a meeting at the court house in Clanton on the 28th of December, 1929, they passed a resolution condemning anyone as being unethical, which means immoral and dishonorable, anyone who might participate in the primary and then fail to support the nominee in the general election.

This resolution makes no provisions as to what kind of a person might be nominated in the primary. In other words, if an immoral and dishonorable person was nominated in the primary, a voter would be unethical and dishonorable to fail to vote for the nominee in the general election.

As I see it the resolution does not represent true Republican principals, but prefers partyism in preference to morals and honesty. What about the candidate's oath. Is it in accordance with Republican principles? I do not think so.

I have been a life-long Republican and am still, but this committee's ruling will bar me and many other good Republicans from the primary unless this resolution is rescinded and the qualifications of the voter remain as they have been, it will hurt the Republican party of Chilton County and help the Democratic party.

But such are generally the mistakes of politicians who lead their followers in to the slaughter pen.

This resolution forces the candidates to take an oath as to how he voted in 1928, before he or she can run in the primary. Is not this a violation of the law or not? Will some one who knows give the truth in the matter.

Now, in conclusion, let me ask each voter to be careful where you let politicians lead you.

Yours for Republican principles,
A. A. JACKSON.

Mrs. Norman Roberts Hostess To New Wednesday Card Club.

Mrs. Roberts entertained members of the New Wednesday Card Club and a few friends on last Wednesday afternoon. The living and dining rooms were beautifully decorated with pot flowers and ferns.

After a session of card games had passed Mrs. J. B. Higgins was presented with the prize as she topped the score.

At a late hour the hostess served a tempting salad course and coffee to the following: Mesdames J. Lee Smith, Omar Reynolds, T. C. McSwain, J. C. Jones, C. Fenn Jones, J. B. Higgins, J. P. Hayes, Grady Broadhead, and to the guests, Mrs. N. E. Phillips, Mrs. Mack Wyatt, Miss Langston of Elba, and Miss Jean Johnson.

Baptist Missionary Meeting Last Monday Afternoon.

On last Monday afternoon at three o'clock the members of the Baptist Missionary Society met at the Clanton Baptist Church and had the regular monthly business meeting.

At this meeting Mrs. S. J. Ezell acted as teacher and gave a most interesting talk on the Bible. All six of the circles were well represented at this meeting. There were in number about fifty present. Everybody is urged to attend their circles regularly.

Mrs. Oscar Jones Hostess To Friday Evening Bridge Club.

Mrs. Jones entertained the members and a few friends at her home on First Avenue on last Friday evening. For this affair the house was decorated with ferns and pot plants. After a number of games the high score prizes were presented to Mr. and Mrs. John Armstrong as they topped the score.

Those enjoying this affair were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Jim Jones, Mr. and Mrs. John Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. Mack Wyatt, Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. John DeRamus, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Jones, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hayes, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Page, Mr. and Mrs. Deal, Miss Primm, Miss Dobson, Mrs. Hanson, Mr. Powers, Mr. Chas. Moore, Mr. Oscar Jones and the hostess.

AMERICAN NEWSPAPERS

Perhaps in no other industry is there such a variety of conditions as in the newspaper business. Totalled indiscriminately, there are something over 14,000 newspapers in the United States ranging from the smallest country weekly which prints only two pages in its own shop with additional pages printed by a syndicate, to the great metropolitan dailies which employ thousands of persons each.

For the smallest, probably not more than 25 pounds of paper is required each week, while the Chicago Tribune uses for one Sunday edition all the paper produced from timber grown on 240 acres of land.

According to Grover Patterson, the well known writer, the New York Times employs 3,100 persons, with a payroll of $25,000,000 a year. Hearst's newspapers and magazines use more than $50,000,000 worth of paper a year.

But in spite of the disparity between the smallest and the largest of American newspapers, the publisher of the small country weekly need not be overawed by the size of his metropolitan rival. The local newspaper has a place in the life of its community which the great dailies can not usurp if the local publisher is alive to his opportunities and makes the most of them.

ORDER FOR PUBLICATION TO NON-RESIDENT

The State of Alabama, Chilton County. Circuit Court in Equity, Jan. 6, 1930. S. E. Armstrong, et als, Complainants, vs. J. D. Armstrong, et als, Defendants.

In this case it is made to appear to the Register by the affidavit of J. B. Atkinson, one of the solicitors for complainants, that Cecil Armstrong, one of the Defendants, is a non-resident, and that his place of residence and post-office address is Millidgeville, in the state of Georgia; and further, that in the belief of said affiant, the said Defendant is over the age of twenty-one years.

It is, therefore, ordered by the Register that publication be made in the Chilton County News, a newspaper published in the County of Chilton once a week for four consecutive weeks requiring him, the said Cecil Armstrong to plead, answer, or demur to the bill of complaint in this cause by the 9th day of February, 1930, or in thirty days thereafter, a decree pro confesso may be taken against him.

Done at office in Clanton, Ala., this 6th day of January, 1930.

W. D. SPIGENER, Register.

Wednesday Card Club Entertained By Mrs. Oscar Jones.

On last Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Oscar Jones entertained the members of the Wednesday Card Club at her home on First Avenue.

The house was decorated with pot plants and ferns for the occasion. After a number of games had been played high score prize was presented to Mrs. L. F. Gerald.

At a late hour the hostess served a tempting salad plate with hot coffee to the following: Mesdames Hance Alred, John Browder, Frank Callen, L. F. Gerald, V. J. Heard, Arthur Johnson, N. S. Johnson, J. Watts Moore, John DeRamus, Grady Reynolds, Hugh Simpson, and Miss Bettie Mullins.

The Y W A's Were Served By Circle No. 1, Last Wednesday Evening.

On Wednesday evening, January 15, the Y. W. A.'s had their regular monthly business meeting at 5:30 o'clock at the Clanton Baptist church. Refreshments were served by Circle No. 1, to the following: Misses Mary Lee Pyron, Ethel Powell, Gladys and Bernice Williams, Lula Courtney, Alma Allen, Lilla Hefflin, Ruth Sessions, Louise Pack, Avis Grantham, Sarah Pollard, Lucille Sherwood, Ruby Cox, Mrs. Grady Hefflin, Mrs. Henry Lyon, and Mrs. S. E. Armstrong.

Business was attended to and officers were elected for the coming year. Miss Ruth Sessions was elected president, Miss Mary Lee Pyron, vice president, Mrs. S. E. Armstrong, secretary and treasurer, and Miss Lula Courtney, reporter.

The meeting adjourned in prayer by the leader, Mrs. Grady Hefflin.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. White of Isabella community were business visitors here last Monday.

Miss Lilla Hefflin spent the past week end at Mineral Springs community at her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Mims, Mr. and Mrs. Mose Mims, and Mr. and Mrs. Whit Mims of Birmingham attended the funeral of Mrs. Perry Mims last Saturday afternoon.

Billingsley News

The Fiddlers' Convention was enjoyed by those who attended, but on account of the severe cold weather, the crowd was by no means what was expected.

The Girls' Auxiliary met at the Baptist church Saturday afternoon at two-thirty o'clock. Mrs. P. L. Donahue, the counselor for 1930, had charge of the meeting. The program was arranged in the form of an athletic game. The points of the Standard for the year were the goals. Seven were present and a helpful meeting held.

The Senior and Junior B. Y. P. U. societies are working hard to be A-1 by the close of January. Interesting programs were rendered by both unions Sunday evening.

Dr. W. R. Seymour will preach at the Baptist church Sunday morning and evening. All are cordially invited to come and worship at each service.

Mrs. J. C. Hughes visited her sisters, Mrs. John Wanger, at Tuscaloosa, and Mrs. Willis Lawrence, at Eoline, last week.

Rev. J. W. Mitchell of Brent passed through Billingsley Saturday morning on his way to Evergreen church where he is pastor.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Wilson of Birmingham were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Traywick Friday and Saturday.

Mrs. W. A. Powell and attractive children, Dorothy and W. A. Jr., are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Baxter.

Miss Frances Apperson, a member of the Elementary School faculty, spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Apperson, at Jones.

Mr. Brasher and Mr. Todd from Chelsea spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Donahue.

Mr. and Mrs. Plumlee of Selma, Ala. were the guests of their daughter, Miss Dorothy Plumlee, the past week end.

Messrs. F. R. and Eudell Woodard of Clanton were the guests of Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Marlor Sunday.

Mr. G. T. Dickinson was in Maplesville Wednesday on business.

Money Saved By Ala. Weight & Scale Work

Department of Agriculture Makes Examinations of Heavy Scales, Gas Pumps and Packages

That the adjustment and correction of gasoline pumps and heavy duty scales saved the citizens of Alabama untold thousands of dollars, during the past 3 months, was shown by a report made to the State Board of Agriculture recently by Horace L. Flurry, State Sealer of Weights and Measures. This report rendered at the first quarterly meeting in 1930, in brief, showed the following money saving activities to the buyers and sellers of gasoline and other commodities in Alabama, according to Horace L. Flurry, chief of the division of weights and measures.

According to this report, of 343 pumps inspected, 145, or 42 per cent were found inaccurate. In each case these pumps were adjusted, where it could readily be done by the inspector. Where in bad condition, they were condemned for use until repaired and adjusted. In a few cases, old obsolete and faulty pumps were condemned and ordered destroyed, or permanently removed from use.

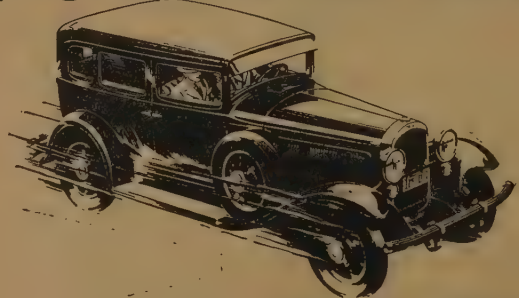

Regarding cotton scales, a large number were examined in answer to complaints. A large percentage of alleged errors in cotton weights were found due to loss of weight in moist cotton.

The installation of a heavy duty truck to test weighing scales used for livestock, coal and public weighing found 34 scales correct, 9 received adjustment, and 64 were condemned.

According to the report to Commissioner Seth P. Stotts, the inspector made 11,771 inspections, visited 2,980 places of business, inspected 7,742 devices used for weighing and measuring commodities. A total of 587 special investigations were made and 1,768 packages were weighed. A very important work of this division is in testing the quantity of kerosene and gasoline measuring devices, also in analyzing the quality. The amount of money saved through the activity of this single division can hardly be estimated, in the opinion of Commissioner Stotts, who said that untold thousands were saved each month through this inspection, and regulation of measuring and weighing devices.

Semester examinations are being held at the Institute this week on Thursday and Friday. Exemptions from examinations which are granted provided a student has an average of 95 on his semesters work are as follows:

Lois Thompson, Latin, English, Science and Algebra.

Byron Bean, History and Bible. Virginia Little, Bible. Margaret Peterson, Latin. Gerald Smith, Algebra. Marie Elland, History. Sallye Thompson, History. Carl Ekblad, Science. Wilma Goodgame, Biology. Mildred Jeffries, Biology. Frank McMurray, Biology. William Each who has just finished a course at the Massey Business college in Montgomery has accepted work with the Western Electric Company of Montgomery.

The Ladies Guild will meet with Mrs. Nels Peterson this afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Self of Birmingham spent last Sunday in Thorsby as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Peterson.

The senior class of the Public school presented the play "Out in the Streets" last Friday night, January 17th, at Baker schoolhouse. This play was presented by the class in Thorsby in December. The very bad weather and the lack of sufficient advertising resulted in a very meagre attendance.

Prof. Bean announces that the enrollment of the school has increased to around two hundred and sixty-five students. Examinations for the first month of the new semester are being held this week.

Miss Ruth Martin is coaching a play to be given sometime in February that will be entitled, "Bashful Mr. Robin." This play which will be presented around the fifteenth of next month will be given for the benefit of the Baptist church.

Next Sunday, January 26, will mark the first anniversary of the pastorate of Rev. J. W. Jones at the Baptist Church in Thorsby. The Rev. Mr. Jones came to Thorsby from Dora, Alabama, where he had been pastor for some time and took up his work with the Thorsby church and with the churches of Marbury and of Jemison.

These churches have been making progressive steps under the guidance of Rev. Jones and especially in Thorsby may this progress be noticed. The Thorsby Baptist church has almost completed a new and up to date church of concrete tile brick, the need of which was long felt. We are informed by Rev. Jones that during his stay in Thorsby and during his work among the various churches there have been one hundred and thirty five additions made to the membership of the various congregations.

J. W. Billingsley was seen this week with a saw and hammer in his hand and dressed in overalls. Someone suggested that he might be putting a few planks in his platform as a candidate for tax assessor.

The Christian Endeavor society was entertained last Saturday night at the Institute dormitory with a party. Due to the very inclement weather there were not many present, but a number of games played and the party was a very pleasant one.

The Thorsby Meat Market has again changed hands. Mr. D. H. Gentry has purchased the business from Mr. Leonard Hays who has been operating the market for some time. Mr. Gentry in addition to the meat department has installed a complete line of staple and fancy groceries and cordially invites the people of Thorsby and vicinity to stop in and visit his store.

Funeral services were conducted last Sunday afternoon at Collins Chapel church for the twelve month old child of Mr. Andrew Jackson of Thorsby.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Thorson and wife of Wauseeka, Minnesota, are spending the week as the guest of relatives in Thorsby. Mrs. Thorson is the daughter of Mr. C. P. Turnquist.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Rice spent last Sunday in Deatsville visiting relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Reagan, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Thorson, Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Foss and Miss Naomi Turnquist motored to Mitchell Dam last Monday and returned by way of Wetumpka and Montgomery.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Pate spent Sunday in Clanton as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Martin.

The ministers of Thorsby and their wives were entertained last Monday night at the home of Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Each at a party lasting from seven till nine o'clock.

The regular Sunday school class of the Congregational church was entertained last Friday night at the home of Jack Peterson. A number of interesting games were played and delicious refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorell spent last Monday in Birmingham.

J. H. Collins and family and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Marcus spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Aikens Collins.

IN MEMORY OF MRS.
MINNIE STROUD, DECEASED

On the 8th day of the present month at Woodlawn Hospital in Birmingham Mrs. Minnie Stroud passed through the valley and shadows to death, where we need fear no evil for the promise is that the rod and staff of our God will comfort us.

The age of the deceased was 37 years, 9 months and 9 days.

Minnie joined the church early in life and ever afterward lived a life correspondent to her profession. She loved the church, she loved her neighbors, she loved her home, and will be sadly missed in all of these relations, for it seemed her chief desire to do good, and be good. She leaves in sorrow for her going a husband, three children, mother, three brothers, and three sisters, besides a host of relatives and friends.

But we need not sorrow as others who have no hope. For it we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even then also those which sleep in Jesus will God bring with him.

The beginning of our sorrow and bereavement at her going is the beginning of her complete joy and happiness.

May all of us be faithful unto death, so that we may receive a crown of life. A Friend, R. F. Yeagan.

H. R. Oden Writes Most Inspiring Letter to News

Following, we publish a letter from Mr. H. R. Oden. Mr. Oden is one of the most progressive citizens of this county, and resides in the Isabella community:

Maplesville, Ala., Jan. 20, 1930.
Editor Chilton County News,
Clanton, Alabama.
Dear Sir:-

I noticed an article in last week's News which dealt with some interesting facts relative to schools, taxes, and conditions upon which Chilton County might greatly enlarge her school program.

Chilton County is a wonderful county. Cut up in rather small tracts or farms with most people owning and operating the farm on which they live, thus making living conditions more ideal for educating and developing good citizenship. Since the State is hard to please or rather requires so much before you can meet the standards set up, it makes it almost impossible for people living in rural districts to meet them. For instance, I live in Isabella Community where the majority of people have spent eight years on buildings and equipment and are not through yet.

Why not launch a campaign this spring for the county 1 mill tax, put it over, then walk up in front ranks with the other leading counties of the State?

I will agree we pay enough taxes, but this one mill is a matter of self defense, and by all means should interest every farmer and business man in the county.

People of Chilton County, have you ever stopped to think of what will be the results if we allow our rural schools to lag behind? The social features alone are sufficient reasons for the best of rural schools. Another is business. We know very well what would become of our business and professional enterprises should we neglect its rural or producing district.

Honestly, I can see a bright future for Chilton County, if we will only qualify for a share in the State's $970,000.00 Equalization Fund. If we failed to have the kind of schools then that we need the fault would be in the administration. What do you say, folks?

Yours very truly,

H. R. ODEN.

ANOTHER DEMOCRAT ADDED TO GROWING LIST OF ARRIVALS

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard S. McCraw have announced to the News the birth of a fine boy, on last Thursday night, at the home of T. W. Bryan, on Clanton, Route Seven. They have named the newcomer Charles Leonard.

We were also informed that Charles Leonard is a hard fisted Democrat and states that he means to show some spirit as soon as possible. The News congratulates the parents of this youngster, on having such a fine fellow to come into their midst.

Report of Meeting Of Welfare Workers

are interested in knowing better how to approach the problem of providing for each child in each county its rightful opportunity to become a dependable, worthwhile citizen of the State—a responsibility which they realize is in large part theirs.

Since the school is the avenue thru which every child must approach citizenship, said Mrs. A. M. Tunstall, director of the State Child Welfare Department, under the auspices of which the conference was held, and since health is fundamental in every social program, representatives of the department of education and of health were asked to meet the county representatives and child welfare workers, and to outline as clearly as possible methods by which the task can be accomplished with the least expenditure of time, energy and money.

Throughout the conference, speakers and leaders emphasized the common or joint responsibility of the various agencies for the preservation and the right direction of the interests of the children in their midst, and the place of the county child welfare worker in that undertaking was defined.

Governor Graves, who spoke at one of the meetings, and Dr. Stuart Graves acting director of the health department, called attention also to the economy ensuing to the State, in dollars and cents, through its program for salvaging the dependent and neglected children within its boundaries.

It is cheaper in actual dollars and cents to rescue a delinquent child and restore it to society than it is to electrocute it at the end of a career of crime. The Governor pointed out also that while Alabama has richer and more varied natural resources than any other area of its size, and the importance of developing these, she also has the purest strain of American blood to be found in America. That fact alone, he declared, makes the task of saving her youth more worthwhile than any other task she faces. Alabamians must be made to know, he stated, that the investment in a program of child welfare, to the end that the earning power alone of Alabama's youth be increased, is a better proposition for the state than is the development of a blast furnace, or other industrial undertaking. Statistics were cited to show that of all the positions in Birmingham which pay more than $5,000.00 a year, only 10 per cent are filled by Alabamians. If we do not give our boys and girls their chance, the Governor said, the girls and boys of other states will continue to grow into positions which Alabamians should be filling.

Dr. Stuart Graves, in reviewing the work done by the county units along the lines of education, child welfare and health, made the statement that the entire expenditure of $500,000 a year for health in the state represents a per capita expenditure of only the sum needed to buy four packages of chewing gum; and for the State Department of Child Welfare, only as much as the cost of one package.

Miss Myrtle Brook, director of child welfare training at Alabama College, pointed out the fact that Alabamians as a whole are not acquainted with the achievements of which the State justly is proud, and that if we come into our own as a State, the boys and girls, and the men and the women of the community must share in this knowledge and enthusiasm.

At the request of Governor Graves, Dr. Lee Bidgood, of the University of Alabama, summed up the achievements of the State Child Welfare Department over the ten years of its existence. Dr. Bidgood said: "The department began with a director and one worker, and no records, traditions or precedents. At the present time the staff consists of eighteen trained workers, and a file which contains the records of more than 7,000 children whose lives it has touched at some point."

"The principal values of this decade of service can not be measured by statistics; they lie in the lives of the children who have been made into useful haps saved from lives of degradation and crime; they are to be measured only in terms of human happiness and social betterment. The work of the department has saved the state from the costs of crime and criminal prosecutions that would probably have arisen, but for the salvaging of these human derelicts. In view of these facts, of the atoll, the chair is now is the time the Child Welfare Commission unanimously applauds the splendid work of the director of the department of child welfare and her staff, and commends it to the favorable consideration of the people of the state; it congratulates the state on the fine accomplishments of the department, and particularly upon the hundreds of lives (scattered throughout the 67 counties) which have been saved to usefulness and to normal paths of happiness thereby."

Mrs. Tunstall made public a report which showed that the work done in the year just closed was done at a cost of less than the $100,000 provided in the budget for the State Department of Child Welfare. Of the entire amount expended for salaries and expenses of state workers, maintenance of state headquarters, and for actual child care, $46,000 went toward child care, or practically 50 per cent of the entire budget.

This $46,000 has no reference to the amount raised by the county units and expended by them, she explained, but represents what has been done over and above the efforts of the county worker, and care for the child left on the door steps, so to speak, for which no county provision could be made.

"The school," Mrs. Tunstall reminded, in closing the conference, "is the avenue through which all youth must approach citizenship. The home is the beginning and the end of his journey. If the home be too weak to support the schools in their functions, can the youth in his turn, set up for himself and society a more worthy home? It is doubtful. If the influences about him, physical and moral, be destructive forces, can the schools of themselves overcome these forces? That, too, is doubtful.

"So we have in the State Child Welfare Department a governmental agency to lend its aid to the school, home and community. We believe that if the government can not lend a hand in considering the child and in prospering the home, then society must collapse and come forth again under a new order, if indeed it should ever be restored at all."

To turn dependence to independence, wrong living to right living, to bring the community to a higher level of opportunity and influence in every particular is the common task of the combined community forces. Education and health enter into any social program. Sickness and physical defects enter too largely into the causes of poverty, unemployment, immorality and thriftlessness to be disregarded by the social worker."

Chilton County was represented at this conference by Mrs. C. E. Stapp, welfare worker for the county.

New Kiwanis Club Officers Installed definite plans outlined. There is evident among the membership of the club a determination to make 1930 the best in the history of the club from the standpoint of Kiwanis activity and community service.

There are a number of new members ready to come into the club, and it is the expressed determination of all the members to make such a showing in the next few months that all those former Kiwanians who have dropped out will be anxious to come back and get in with the gang that is really doing something for Clanton and Chilton County.

Safety Essay Awards Go To State Pupils

for $10; and third prize is a bronze medal and check for $5. Each state and territory is entitled to one first and one second prize, while the number of third prizes depends upon elementary school enrollment. Thus, while Nevada receives one third prize, Pennsylvania receives 23 and New York 25.

The best essay from each state is entered in a competition in which three are chosen by a committee of national judges. First prize in this contest is a trip to Washington with all expenses paid, at which time the winner is presented with a gold watch, second and third prizes are gold watches only.

Conjointly with the essay contest, the Board conducts a safety lesson contest open to elementary school teachers of the eighth and lower grades. While no state prizes are awarded in this contest, the best lesson from each state is entered in a contest in which the winner receives a trip to Washington with all expenses paid, and a check for $500. Second and third prizes are checks for $300 and $200.

Prizes are donated by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. Names of the state winners follow:

First prize: Gold medal and fifteen dollars, Gertrude Eaton, Gilbert School, Florence.

Second prize: Silver Medal and ten dollars Eloise Holroyd, Dallas Academy, Selma.

Third prize: Bronze medal and five dollars Mary Eleanor Young, Junior High School, Selma, Jennie R. Young Byrd School, Selma, Golden Dungan, Coffeaville High School, Coffeaville, Allison Alford, Cresent Street, Andalusia, Bertharene Jones, Robert E. Lee School, Birmingham, Kenneth Weldon, Fairview School, Birmingham.

The essay by Gertrude Eaton will represent Alabama before the National judges.

The best lesson was written by Mrs. Kate Salsman Martin, a teacher in the Woodlawn Central School, Birmingham.

NOTICE TO WORLD WAR VETERANS

To World War Veterans And Dependents of Deceased World War Veterans

All World War Veterans who feel that they are now suffering with disabilities caused by their service should file claim for disability compensation. The World War Veteran's Act provides that all claims for disability compensation must be filed within five years from date of discharge, but for a good reason the Director of the U. S. Veteran's Bureau may extend that time another five years. April 6, 1930, is the expiration date and any Veteran who does not file a claim for disability compensation prior to April 6, 1930, will be denied the right to file a claim. Also all Veterans who have filed a claim for compensation who have not submitted to the Veteran's Bureau all evidence possible to procure, should secure such evidence and submit to the Bureau before April 6, 1930, as the law also provides that this evidence must be filed with the Veteran's Bureau prior to April 6, 1930. This article does not refer to Veterans who have established their claims and who are now drawing compensation but is intended to bear information to Veterans who have never filed a claim and who have not established their claims with the Veteran's Bureau.

All dependents of deceased World War Veterans should also file their claims for death compensation, otherwise known as dependency compensation, before April 6, 1930, as the law provides that their claims must be filed prior to that time. Fathers and Mothers who are now dependent or have been dependent since the date of death of their son who have not applied for dependency compensation should by all means file their claims. Widows of deceased World War Veterans who have not filed claim for dependency compensation should also file their claims prior to April 6, 1930. This article does not refer to Fathers, Mothers and Widows of deceased World War Veterans who have filed their claims and who are now drawing dependency compensation.

All World War Veterans and dependents of deceased World War Veterans who are in doubt as to their rights to file claim and as to the proper procedure to take should get in touch with the local Post of the American Legion in their community or should write to the Sub-Office of the U. S. Veteran's Bureau at Montgomery, Alabama, Sub-Office of the U. S. Veteran's Bureau at Gadsden, Alabama, and the Sub-Office of the U. S. Veteran's Bureau at Mobile, Alabama, or to the Regional Office of the U. S. Veterans' Bureau in Birmingham, Ala.

WATT BROWN TO ENTER RACE FOR GOVERNOR

Watt B. Brown, national democratic committeeman for Alabama, will enter the race for governor in the August primary election. Formal announcement of his candidacy, he says, in a statement issued Wednesday, will be forthcoming in February when he will explain the issues upon which he will appeal for public support.

In his preliminary announcement, Mr. Brown expresses a hope that by becoming a candidate he may be instrumental in helping to harmonize party differences. His statement follows:

"For several months I have been solicited to offer for governor, but felt that the paramount issue was for the democratic party to settle its past differences within the party ranks, and I did my utmost to bring this about.

"In my humble judgment, it would have been better for the democratic party, if the state democratic executive committee had invited all family differences to have been settled within the party ranks. But they thought different. The sentiment of the county committees seems to be divided on this question, bringing about a greater complication.

"When entering the campaign for governor, I trust that I may be in a measure instrumental in helping to harmonize the party differences, and shall be what influence I have to this end."

Dadeville Post Cash.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman L. Wood had their week end guests, their sisters, Mrs. E. H. Richards of Memphis, Tenn., and Miss Marguerite Cawthorne of Birmingham, Alabama.

MRS. ALICE WILLIAMS GOES TO BATON ROUGE, LOUISIANA

Mrs. Alice Williams, who has been prominently connected with the local offices of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company, for the past several years, left last week for Baton Rouge, La., where she will make her home in the future.

Mrs. Williams will be remembered by the people of Clanton as one of the most competent operators ever connected with the telephone company in Clanton. Her voice with a smile, will be greatly missed, as she has won for herself, many friends, through her wonderful personality.

EXTENT OF SCHOOL TERMS IS EXPLAINED

District Tax Fund Plays A Large Part in Determining Length of Term

In an interview with an official of the county education affairs, a representative of the News was given some information concerning the length of the various school's terms over Chilton County.

It was learned that the district tax of the various districts, played a large part in determining the length of the term of the schools in that district.

Where there is no district fund, the school term is limited to five and one-half months, and where there is a district tax the school term ranges from six months up according to the amount of the tax in that particular district.

Due to the holding of the recent tax election in November the schools are still being operated under the old system of districts, and it was stated that next year, all schools will be able to share in the district taxes. This brief explanation plainly shows that where there is no district tax, the school terms are cut short.

If further information is desired on this subject, Supt. B. Lawrence states that he will gladly give what he can on inquiry.

Verbena Schools Will Present Entertainment

Rehearsals for the play "Can You Beat It?" by Beulah King, have been started by the faculty of the Verbena schools. The play is being directed by Mrs. Barnett DeRamus. The cast of characters is as follows: Timothy Todd, Lee W. Douglas; Letitia, his wife, Lila Mae Jolly; Frances, his niece, Jettie Ward; Mrs. VanDresser, the social leader, Mrs. John Ward; Jan Meredith, the poetic peddler, Homer Crim; Dan Dickerman, Hollis Hiten; Sara, the maid, Edna Davis.

This is a three-act play full of fun with an ideal and unexpected ending. February 21 has been set as the date of giving this performance at the auditorium of the Verbena High School. This promises to be one of the most delightful entertainments of the year, given at Verbena, Alabama.

AL JOLSON TO APPEAR IN CLANTON AGAIN SOON

Another treat is coming to the theatre goers of this section, according to the management of the Wadesonian Theatre, here. They have announced that Al Jolson will appear here in the picture "Say It With Songs." This is an all-talking and singing picture. Jolson will be supported by several stars including little Davey Lee, in this picture, scheduled to be shown here Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, February 5, 6, and 7th.

Local Girl Becomes Manager Of A Bank

A report reached The News this week to the effect that Miss Tommye Parrish has been appointed as manager of the Morgan Plan Bank, of Bessemer, Alabama. Miss Parrish is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Parrish, of near Clanton, and a sister of Mrs. Leonard Parley.

She has been connected with this Industrial Loan System for approximately three years, during which time she also held the position as assistant manager. She is a graduate of the Chilton County High School.

Mr. C. C. Hayes of Jemison was in Clanton on business last Monday.

Dr. Wood Will Move Office To New Place

Dr. N. I. Wood Will Join Brother Here; Plan To Operate Small Infirmary

It was definitely announced this week by Dr. S. C. Wood that his brother, Dr. N. I. Wood from Ualde, Texas, will locate in Clanton, and that they will occupy the same office.

It was further announced that Dr. S. C. Wood's office will be moved from the Mullins Building, next to the Exchange Hotel, to the Johnson Building. There the two doctors will occupy a larger space than heretofore used by Dr. S. C. Wood. Some new surgical equipment will be added, as well as several rooms for patients, will be provided.

It was stated by Dr. Wood that their locating in the new quarters which are now being prepared will take place about the first of February.

Dr. and Mrs. N. I. Wood arrived in Clanton some few days ago and are occupying the home formerly occupied by W. T. Baker, near the high school.

BILL'S GARAGE INSTALLS NEW AUTO PAINTING OUTFIT

Among the improvements being made at Bill's Garage lately, includes the addition of an auto painting department. This department, we understand will use the Duco process, with an experienced operator of the shop.

Along with this Duco-ing shop, Bill's Garage has also added equipment made especially for the removing of dents from auto bodies and fenders. Mr. Fiquette, proprietor of the garage, says bring the dented cars to them, they'll fix them up.

"MRS. TUBBS OF SHANTYTOWN" TO BE GIVEN AT CROSS ROADS

"Mrs. Tubbs of Shantytown," is the title of a play to be presented at the Cross Roads schoolhouse on next Friday night, Jan. 31, according to Miss Mabel Parker, principal of the school.

This entertainment will begin at six-thirty, with admission at ten and fifteen cents. Proceeds for school.

DIXIE BLACKBIRD MINSTREL GOES OVER IN BIG WAY HERE

The presentation on last Friday night of the Dixie Blackbird Minstrels at the auditorium of the local high school by local talent, brought to the people of Clanton, one of the best entertainments ever staged here for some time.

The costumes furnished by the producing company, and the songs, jokes, etc., were among the latest. The house was crowded to standing room only. Several favorable comments were made on the new seats recently installed in the high school auditorium. A very neat sum was realized by the school, through this entertainment.

MEETING HELD TO ORGANIZE O.E.S. CHAPTER

Jemison Masons Give Banquet for Wives and Daughters Last Saturday

Masons of Jemison, Alabama and surroundings, were hosts on last Saturday night, at a well arranged banquet, given for their wives and daughters.

The banquet was held in the Masonic Hall in Jemison, with practically every Mason present, together with a splendid gathering of the girls and ladies.

The purpose of this entertainment was for the discussion of the possibilities of organizing a Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star. The discussion proved very interesting and the possibilities of such an organization in Jemison showed up extremely bright.

Several visiting Masons were present, among whom were J. B. Atkinson, H. Glenn Boyd, and Omar Reynolds, from Clanton. From Thorsby Mrs. D. H. Gentry, Mrs. W. J. Billingsley, and others were guests. A most interesting and inspiring address was made by Mr. Atkinson during the course of the banquet.

It was decided to hold a meeting on next Saturday night, at which several ladies interested in the organizing of an O. E. S. Chapter in Jemison will be present. Plans were discussed and laid out to have this district organized.

FAITHFUL WORKERS CLASS TO MEET TUESDAY AFTERNOON

The News has been requested to announce this week that the monthly business meeting of the Faithful Workers Sunday School class of the Clanton Baptist church will meet next Tuesday afternoon, February fourth, at the home of Mrs. V. J. Gragg at two-thirty. Mrs. J. E. Gowan and Mrs. W. E. Martin will be joint hostesses at this meeting. There will also be a package sale in connection with this meeting and all members are urged to be present.

REV. G. G. WILLIAMS TO PREACH AT CONCORD NEXT SUNDAY

Next Sunday, February 2, is regular preaching day at the Concord church, east of Clanton. Rev. G. G. Williams, pastor, will deliver the sermon.

Sunday school will begin at 10 o'clock a. m., with preaching following at 11 a. m. There will be a singing at two o'clock that afternoon. Everybody is invited to attend all these services.

POULTRY CAR

We have been asked to announce that there will be a poultry car in Verbena on February fifth, in Clanton on the sixth and in Jemison on the seventh. Farmers loading poultry on this car will be paid for their poultry as it is loaded.

WILL HAVE PACKAGE SALE AT CHURCH FEBRUARY 10TH

The Home Makers Sunday School Class of the local Baptist church will hold a Surprise Package Sale at the Baptist church on February 10th, according to an announcement given the News this week. This Sale will be held in connection with the annual meeting of all the Circles. Each package will be sold for twenty-five cents.

VIERRA'S HAWAIIANS TO BE AT THORSBY INSTITUTE

Vierra's Hawaiians are scheduled to appear at the Helen Jenkins Hall of the Thorsby Institute, Thorsby, Ala., on Tuesday night, February Fourth, according to an announcement given the News this week. These five wonderful entertainers are delightful interpreters of the music of the South Seas, and have a varied program, for the most part descriptive of the crooning, haunting melodies of their native land. Mr. Vierra is a splendid baritone and his associates are equally popular as singers, and as players of Hawaiian instruments.

The program begins at seven-thirty. Admission will be fifty cents and thirty-five cents.

ALA. POWER REPORT SHOWS OPTIMISM

Figures Issued By Power Co. Show Large Sum Invested

The splendid business, industrial and agricultural conditions existing in Alabama at this time are reflected in figures issued today by Alabama Power Company, which show that more than $500,000.00 has been invested in that Company's preferred stock since January first of this year. Sales, a large majority of which have been on a cash basis, have been made during the first three weeks of the new year at the rate of $30,000.00 for each working day. Sales have been so fast, according to the Company's statement, one fifth of the total amount scheduled for sale in 1930 has been disposed of in less than one-twelfth of the time allotted for it. This is indicative of both the sound business condition of the state and unimpeachable evidence that the people of Alabama have money to invest.

Power executives consider the phenomenal record of its investment department during the first three weeks of January as one of the most convincing barometers of business conditions (continued to back page)

Atkinson Did Not Pass Law To Tax Merchants

Mr. J. B. Atkinson, in a signed statement, given to the Editor of the News, states that he did not favor the passing of a law to tax the merchants outside of the corporate limits of a town, but within the police jurisdiction. His statement is as follows:

"My attention has been called to certain rumors being circulated, that I passed the law which placed a license tax upon merchants outside of the corporate limits of Clanton and within the police jurisdiction thereof. The law which authorized the Town Council of Clanton to pass the ordinance levying a tax on these merchants, was passed by the Legislature of 1927, and is found in Acts 1927 at page 674, and the bill was introduced by Mr. Ward of Geneva County, and the House Journal of the Legislature discloses that Hon. Percy M. Pitts, representative in the legislature from Chilton County joined Mr. Ward in passing the bill. Those who may be interested may find where Mr. Pitts voted for the law by looking on page 2610 of the House Journal of 1927. While I was connected with the Town of Clanton no ordinance was passed which taxed the merchants within the police jurisdiction and without the corporate limits of Clanton. I did favor the extending of the corporate limits of Clanton because to have done so would have given the merchants outside of the corporate limits and within the police jurisdiction thereof, representation on the Town council and they would have had police and fire protection. Fire insurance, telephone and electric light rates would have been (Continued on Last Page.)

ONE CARRIED TO HOSPITAL AS RESULT OF ACCIDENT

Mrs. P. V. Jones, of Tuscaloosa, was carried to the Central Alabama Hospital here last Saturday morning, suffering from shock and minor injuries, as the result of an automobile accident which occurred last Saturday morning near Jemison.

Mrs. Jones, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Robertson, was enroute to Florida, when the chauffeur driving the car, lost control, and the car turned over. Mr. and Mrs. Robertson were injured. The injured lady was rushed to the hospital by passing motorists. It was found on examination that her injuries were not serious, but were painful. Bates Motor Company brought the wrecked machine to their garage in Clanton.

DEMOCRATS LOWER BARS AT MEETING

Endorse Nine Months Free School; Urge Judicious Road Fund Expenditures

Pursuant to a call issued several days ago by Hon. J. B. Atkinson, Chairman and P. D. Wilson, Secretary, the Democratic Executive Committee of Chilton County met last Saturday at the Wilson Hotel in Clanton, with a large majority of the members of the committee present together with a large number of leading Democrats from the county. A resolution was adopted by the committee ordering a primary election to be held next August for the purpose of nominating candidates for the several county officers to be filled in the general election, to be held next November. All white qualified voters of the county were invited to participate in the primary, provided they are willing to abide by the results thereof and pledge themselves by so participating therein that they will support the nominees in the general election. The committee also went on record as favoring nine months free schools in the county. The question of a Health unit was discussed and every one present favored the adoption of a unit in this county.

The committee also went on record as favoring better law enforcement in Chilton County and called upon the citizenship to assert themselves to see that our road monies are more judiciously spent in the interest of the taxpayers, in general. The full text of the resolutions, passed by the committee, are as follows:

A Resolution
Be it resolved by the Democratic Executive Committee of Chilton County, Alabama, as follows:

1. That a primary election be held in Chilton County, Alabama, in accordance with the laws of said state, on the second Tuesday in August, 1930, for the purpose of nominating candidates for all county offices to be filled at the general election in Chilton County in November, 1930;

2. That all qualified white voters who believe in the principles of the Democratic Party and who are willing to abide by the results of said primary election and support the nominees thereof in the general election in November, 1930) are invited to participate therein, as candidates for nomination and as voters;

3. That any person desiring to become a candidate in said primary election shall file with the chairman of this committee, not later than the 1st day of April, 1930, a declaration of his or her candidacy, setting forth the office for which he or she seeks to be nominated and elected;

4. That we now re-affirm our belief in the principles of Democracy, and pledge ourselves to work to see these principles in effect in our government;

5. That we urge the citizenship of this county to become interested in bringing about better law enforcement in our county, and that they assert themselves to see that we have nine months free schools, and that our Public road monies are more judiciously spent in the interest of the taxpayers in general.

The report shows that the Alabama health certificate is given a ready entry into all states of the Union as well as in Canada.

The State apiary inspector is at all times ready to inspect bees, and where conditions warrant, issue sanitary certificates which will authorize shipment. Without this permit bees can not be mailed or shipped outside the state.

In cases of foul brood, a quarantine is placed around the infected apiary, and no bees are allowed to be moved from the diseased zone until normal conditions have been restored.

Mr. Atchison is an active member of the Alabama Beekeepers Association, an organization which has done much to advance the keeping of bees in Alabama.

The average annual income to Alabama apiarists is about one thousand dollars daily, for each day of the year.

NORTHINGTON HEAD OF NEW COTTON CO-OP

Montgomery, Ala., Jan.—: Allen Northington, general manager of the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association, has been elected president of the $30,000,000 Cotton Cooperative Association.

He was elected by the Association's board of directors, who unanimously proclaimed their confidence in his ability to give the Association a business administration as outstanding as his work for the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association.

Appointment of Mr. Northington to this position places him at the head of the largest commodity marketing organization yet set up by the Federal Farm Board. The $10,000,000 Farmers National Grain Corporation with the authority to extend its stock to $20,000,000 is second.

The new Cotton Cooperative Association proposes to market through a central sales agency the world's largest cotton crop.

Dallas, Texas has been selected as temporary headquarters for the association. C. O. Moser, president of the American Cotton Growers' Exchange, Dallas, was elected vice president and secretary. Charles G. Henry of Little Rock, Arkansas, a member of the Arkansas Cotton Growers' Association, was elected treasurer.

Members of the executive committee, besides the president are: Southeast division--U. B. Blalock, Raleigh, N. C. member of the North Carolina Cotton Growers' Cooperative Association.

Mississippi Valley Division--N. C. Williamson, Lake Providence, La., member of the Louisiana Farm Bureau Cotton Growers' Association.

Southwest division--Sam L. Morley, Oklahoma City, Okla., member of the Oklahoma Cotton Growers' Association.

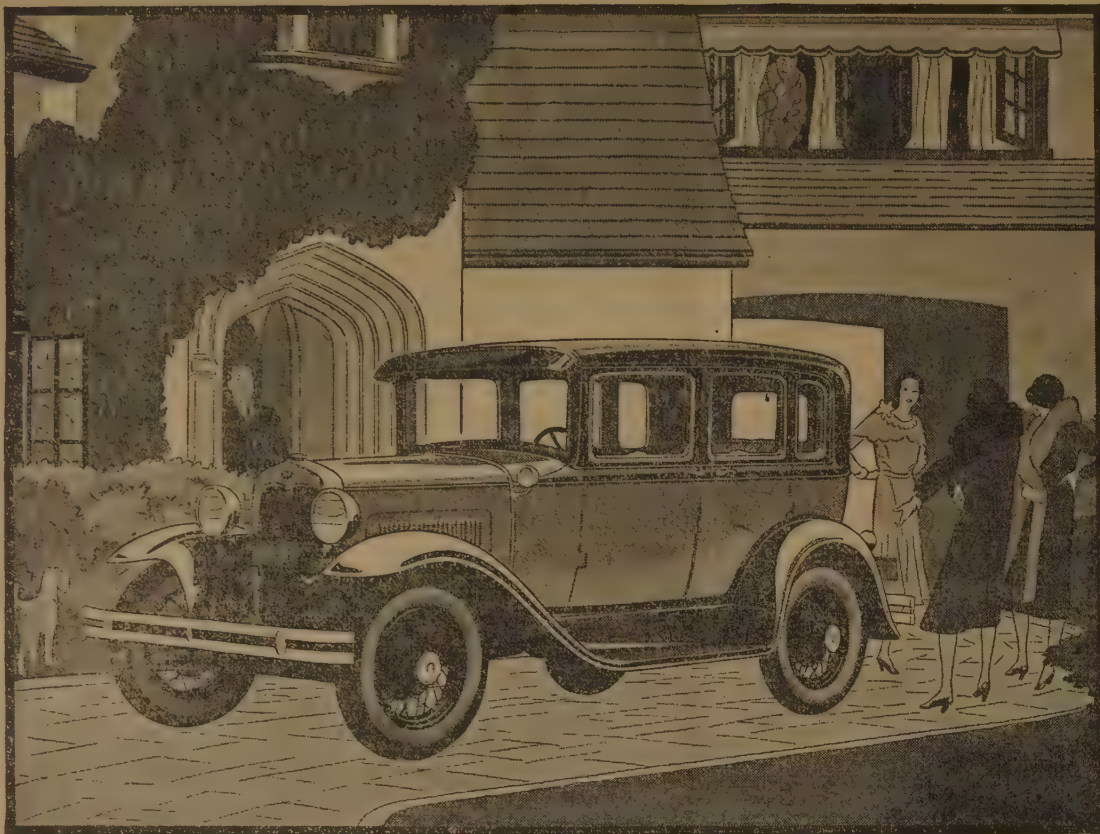

Far West Division--Gowan Jones, El Paso, Texas, member of the Southwestern Irrigated Cotton Growers' Association.

For more than 60 years Frank S. Walsh has sung in St. Luke's church, Baltimore, during which period the church has had three organs and five choirmasters.

If some of that understanding of the peace loving nature of humanity in general and some measure of belief in the good intentions of other nations toward us, gets into the spirit of the disarmament conference there is hope that our delegates may come back with a program agreed upon by all which will reduce our naval burden and that of the rest of the world and provide tangible evidence that we--and other countries--do desire peace.

New Beauty for the New Ford

THE NEW FORD TOWN SEDAN

In the Town Sedan you see a distinguished example of the unbroken sweep of line which adds so much charm to all the new, roomy Ford bodies. Radiator, hood, cowl, lower roof line, fenders, wheels—every point of design reflects the new style and beauty that have been placed within the means of everyone. All of the new Ford cars are finished in a variety of colors.

ANOTHER STEP FORWARD

THE introduction of the new Ford bodies has set a high standard of motor car value.

From the new deep radiator to the tip of the curving rear fender, there is an unbroken sweep of line—a flowing grace of contour gaining added charm from the rich and attractive colors.

You will take a real pride in the smart style and fresh new beauty of the Ford just as you will find an ever-growing satisfaction in its safety, comfort, speed, acceleration, ease of control, reliability and economy. In appearance, as in mechanical construction, craftsmanship has been put into mass production. New beauty has been added to outstanding performance.

A feature of unusual interest is the use of Rustless Steel for the radiator shell, head lamps, cowl finish strip, hub caps, tail lamp and other exposed metal parts. This steel will not rust, corrode or tarnish and will retain its bright brilliance for the life of the car. Here, as in so many other important details, you see evidence of the enduring quality that has been built into the new Ford.

Bankers Join Farm Agents In Program

Anburn, Ala., Jan. 30.—A program calling for more cows, more sows, more hens, and more 4-H club boys and girls is being sponsored by bankers and county agents in 20 north Alabama counties. This is reported by J. T. High, district agent, extension service, Alabama Polytechnic Institute, after attending three banker-county agent meetings in that section. The chief aim is to improve the financial status of farmers.

Details of the program were stated in concrete form by Mr. High. To increase the farm income they hope to induce 10 to 25 farmers in each county to become cream dairymen and 25 to 40 farmers in each county to begin raising poultry. A unit in dairying, as defined by the county agents and bankers, consists of five cows, one brood sow, and 100 hens, or five cows and two brood sows, or five cows and 200 hens. In poultry a unit consists of 100 to 300 hens, they say.

The program also includes education of farm boys and girls in better farm methods and development of better farm homes. The bankers and county agents recommend that at least 20 per cent of the farm boys and girls of club age be enrolled and given maximum instruction in 4-H club projects.

Other tenets of the county agent-banker farm program are the production of sufficient feeds and pastures for all livestock, proper fertilization of crops, use of the right varieties of field crops, and the practice of soil building. In all these things they advocate Auburn recommendations.

The meetings were held at Gadsden, Decatur, and Hamilton. They were called by District Agent High and J. S.

Wittmeier, president of the First National Bank, Oneonta, and chairman of the agricultural committee of the Alabama Bankers Association.

One Year Ago

January 31, 1929.

The long awaited day has arrived and the Clanton unit of the Alabama Mills Co. has turned out its first bolt of cloth, on last Tuesday morning.

There was cast over Clanton on Monday, January 14th, great sorrow when it was announced that Mrs. J. E. Edgar was dead. The circumstances surrounding her death were most pathetic, and produced keenest pangs of sorrow in the hearts of the many friends of the family.

team defeated the team from Pike Road, in Montgomery County, Wednesday night, January 16th, on the indoor court here by a score of 13 to 12.

Miss Madge Scarborough, elementary supervisor of Chilton County, returned last week from Mobile, where she attended a superintendents conference there. While in Mobile Miss Scarborough became seriously ill with flu and was confined to her bed for some time. She has now resumed her duties here.

ALABAMA LEADS IN PACKAGE AGE AND QUEEN BEES

Alabama has a strong lead in shipments of package bees and queen bees to northern states, according to the annual report of Thomas Atchison, state apiary inspector, who in his annual report to Seth P. Storrs, Commissioner, and the State Board of Agriculture, detailed the safeguards the Department was affording to the buyers and producers of Alabama bees.

The greatest danger in beekeeping or in shipment of bees lies in infestation from foul brood. For this disease, there is no remedy, except destruction.

Alabama bees can not be shipped from the State, unless accompanied by a health certificate signed by the Commissioner of Agriculture, certifying to freedom of disease. Thus far the inspection has been so carefully carried out that no case of diseased bees has ever been traced to Alabama.

Only 75 colonies of bees were found infected with American foul brood in 1929. This is a reduction of 31 cases over the year 1928. Foul brood moreover, is brought into the State through infected honey and seldom if ever thru infected bees. It is therefore very difficult, in fact impossible, to prevent

State Capitol News

Alabama's tax levy, for all state and local purposes, is the lowest, per capita, of any State in the Union, according to a survey, the results of which were recently announced by the National Industrial Conference Board. Although any sort of taxpaying is as a rule more or less unpleasant to the taxpayer, nevertheless it should be of interest to citizens of this State to know that they get off lighter in this respect than those of any of the other 47 states. Tax collections in Alabama, per capita, are a mere fraction of the figure for many other states. Announcement of the results of the tax survey was recently made public from New York, and attracted widespread attention over the country.

Alabama's state and local tax collections were lowest, amounting to only $17.68 per capita," it was announced. The highest per capita collection of state and local taxes was in Nevada, $89.84; California was second, $78.16 and New York third, $76.10.

The Alabama Automotive Trades Association at its recent annual meeting at Montgomery went on record as favoring exemption of automobiles from ad valorem taxation; issuance of automobile tags to the car instead of the individual owner as at present; and a gradual scaling down of price tags each month, with a cut of one-twelfth each month after October 1, to apply to new cars only. The executive committee was authorized to draw up bills embodying these recommendations for submission to the Legislature at its next session. The automobile men defeated a proposal to endorse a measure taking the two-cent gasoline tax from the counties and having it administered through the State Highway Department.

A. R. Pryor of Birmingham was elected president of the association, succeeding Charles E. Ingalls of Montgomery. The new executive committee is composed of S. E. Mary, Troy; Ted Brownell and Reese Adamson, of Birmingham; and John Todd, Mobile. Birmingham was selected as the place for the summer meeting of the association.

That Governor Graves is adhering to his announced policy of restricting the exercise of the parole power is indicated by a recent report of the State Board of Administration, for the last fiscal year, ending September 30, 1929. The report shows that during the year only 171 permanent paroles, conditioned on good behavior, were granted to state convicts, and 13 to county convicts. This is only a fraction of the annual volume of paroles issued during the preceding administration. During the year the Governor revoked the paroles of 34 state and two county convicts, a large percent of these being men who had been paroled during previous years and who in various ways failed to live up to the "good behavior" clause of their paroles.

Mrs. S. C. Wood Entertained Last Friday Evening.

Mrs. S. C. Wood entertained at a bridge luncheon at her home in Thorsby last Friday evening. The home was beautifully decorated with vari-colored flowers for the occasion. At this party Mrs. McDonnell Pearson topped the score and was presented with the prize, while Mrs. Lee Pate won the booty.

After a series of games a plate lunch with hot coffee was served to the guests.

Mr. J. Sorrell of Jemison was in Clanton last Monday. He was a caller at the office of Dr. Arthur Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Dennis, Miss Susye Griffin and Mr. Newton Popwell motored to Montgomery last Sunday afternoon.

Farm Leaders Comment On Cotton

"The staple of Alabama cotton has deteriorated until much of it is now shorter than mill requirements with the results that a heavy penalty is being placed upon growers," says Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn. "Meanwhile the farmers of India have improved the quality of their cotton until one-third of it competes with the American crop," Dr. Knapp continued. To help this situation the Experiment Station will work with farmers and spinners to the end that the quality of Alabama cotton may be raised to meet mill requirements.

"Strengthening the cotton Cooperative Marketing Associations of the south in order that they may handle the farmers' cotton more economically and in larger volume is the methods through which farmers of the south can expect to reap benefits from the Farm Marketing Act and the Federal Farm Board," says Allen Northington, general manager of the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association and president of the newly created $30,000,000 American Cotton Cooperative Association.

"It is right that we should urge farmers for appointment on Federal Boards and Commissions," says Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, vice-president and chairman of the legislative committee of the American Farm Bureau Federation. "Agriculture is one of the greatest industries in this country. In the past appointments on these boards other industrial groups have been recognized and farmers left out. He had a right to demand this representation. Congress and the president in the past, to some extent, have recognized this demand and the farmer appointees excellent service.

THE CHILTON COUNTY NEWS

J. B. ATKINSON, PUBLISHER

Published every Thursday at Clanton, Alabama in the interest of Clanton and the entire Chilton County

BILLY SMITH

Entered in the postoffice of Clanton, Alabama, as second class matter under the Act of Congress of March, 1897.

An Appeal To Democrats And Teachers Of Chilton County:

A careful survey has been made of the citizenship of Chilton County, which shows that if all the citizens who are of Democratic belief would register and pay their poll taxes, that the Democratic Party would have a substantial majority over those of the Republican party. That disclosure should challenge the patriotism of those Democrats who for different excuses permit themselves to be disfranchised as voters and cause them to be aroused to action in defense of good government, for it is evident that so long as the Democratic party of the county fails to win at the polls, just so long will the county lag in progress. That fact is made more evident because the Republican party in this County has had the opportunity on several occasions to elect men to office who were progressive and in every such opportunity those progressive republicans have been strangled, by the hydraulic silver pressure of a one man ruled political machine, at the polls.

Those Democrats should realize that they owe to the Democrats who are patriotic enough to pay their poll tax the duty to do their part to help bring about a progressive county. They should realize that a county is no more progressive than are the officers who manage its affairs, and they should consider that Chilton County is without a system of good roads, a Health Unit, and is not getting nine months free school for the boys and girls. They should realize that huge sums of money have been spent from the treasury of the county under the guise of road work and road machinery, which has brought naught to the tax payers, and that the commissioners court continues to levy each year a special road tax, a personal road tax, a property tax and place a fee of fifty cents on each man subject to road duty, who pays the tax, for the receipt, which goes into the pocket of the probate judge. Besides this they should realize that the state pays into the road funds of the county around fifty thousand dollars a year from the gas tax. That Chilton County is trying to work its roads, without the employment of a competent engineer, and the results of the efforts made towards working same, have been fruitless.

Those Democrats who permit themselves to be disfranchised because they fear they will fail to get a wee bit of business should realize that in so doing they are placing business above patriotic citizenship and silently making themselves slaves to a political party who would exterminate them from the county through high taxes and monopoly rule.

Those Democrats should realize that the county is at present without a Health Unit, and that the children and teachers at each school in the county are perhaps drinking water today that may be contaminated with germs, which may in the future bring death and destruction to many of them, when these water supplies would be tested and made pure if we had a health unit. They should realize that the officials of this county who are in control and have the power to put in effect the Health Unit have been requested to do so by every meeting called to consider the question. Also, that the Democratic Executive Committee of the county have unanimously endorsed the Health Unit; that the Medical Society, which is composed of all the Doctors of the county have endorsed it and that a large number of citizens have personally requested that the unit be put in effect and that these officials are so stupid and non-progressive with the county affairs, that they are afraid to do something that might bring about intelligent enlightenment, among the citizenship of the county.

Those Democrats should further realize that if they would pay their poll tax and register that the county under a democratic rule would build permanent roads, put on a health unit, give the boys and girls nine months free schools, employ a competent engineer to have charge of the road work and put trained men on the tractors and road machines and save the county from the large expense caused by tearing up of tractors and road machines by inexperienced men and boys. That a Democratic rule of the affairs of this county would mean the employment of trained teachers of our schools and cause the adoption of a uniform working hours for the schools over the county.

Those disfranchised Democrats should realize that there are enemies to the cause of education, who never sleep on the job and who will at every opportunity criticize the efforts of those who are trying to give the boys and girls a good education and will go to the extent of defeating every movement which has a tendency to up-build the educational machinery. They should also remember that the officials of Chilton County, who are entrusted with its general funds, have failed to respond to the cause of education. Those democrats should arouse themselves and help defeat those who are not in full sympathy with the cause of education. Every school teacher of this county should be aroused to the very height of indignation at a bunch of officials who keep down the pay of teachers and prevent the schools from operating nine months. And let us say this to the school teachers of this county: You are engaged in a great work, you have an opportunity to and are—we are sure—teaching the boys and girls of the county the high standards of citizenship, which includes loyalty to the flag and Government, yet there seems to be a neglect on the part of some who fail to impress the importance of electing to office men who are conscious of their moral obligations and who demonstrate live before the boys and girls that they can be emulated or pointed to as exemplary. It is believed that it is the prerogative of the teacher to instill in the minds of the boys and girls the fact, that our government should be run by those whose lives are clean and characters exemplary. Let the School Teachers of this county understand that the Commissioners Court of Chilton County can legally pay the expenses of operating the High School, the Smith-Hughes type schools and the vocational training school, and if they would do so, that would relieve the school board of that much expense and allow that amount to remain for the benefit of the elementary schools. Don't be led to believe that the commissioners court can not help the cause of education. They can do it, if they want to.

This paper appeals to every man and woman in this county in the name of education, to register and pay your poll tax and put men and women in office who want to aid the cause of education and progress of our county.

Poll taxes can not be paid after Saturday, February 1st, 1930. The Board of Registers will continue in session for this week and until the 5th of February, 1930. If you fail to qualify you may regret it.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Clanton, Ala., Jan. 29, 1930.

Editor News:

I would like to say a few words in reference to some political facts and ideas that seem to flourish especially in the climate of Chilton County.

In the first place, the act of registering, which you are required to do before you can become a full fledged citizen of this wonderfully great country of ours, appears to be really repugnant to quite a large number of people, especially women; and to a surprisingly larger number, it seems to be a meaningless waste of time and energy.

How anyone can feel that way about it is a most surprising fact to me. An unregistered man or woman occupies almost an identical rating as an alien. You are not known nor recognized as a citizen because you are not permitted to run for or hold office, not even by appointment. You can function in no capacity as a citizen. How can anyone qualified to register hold back and refuse to become a citizen of the greatest country on earth? Think of it!

Another thing. How can you afford to freeze to that little pitiful $1.50 per year and deny yourself the privilege of helping to elect or defeat those who seek the privilege of handling our public monies and attending to our common public roads, alms houses, jails, etc.? At the present price of commodities the purchasing power of a dollar is so small that anyone can spare one and a half per year to enfranchise himself and make himself a free American voter, with as much say so in the affairs of his country as any other person.

Besides, consider what you really buy for that $1.50 besides your own enfranchisement: You are contributing that amount towards the education and enlightenment of the boys and girls who are coming up, to take your place in the momentous affairs of our country after you have become too aged to do these many arduous tasks or have gone to another home beyond. Thousands and tens of thousands of children are growing up now who will live to hallow the memory of those who paid the bill and enabled them to equip themselves for an enlightened future.

Then still another thing I would like to refer to is the semi-secreteness of some of our hirelings we elect to serve us. Every taxpayer in the State or county is personally entitled to the same courtesy and consideration at the hands of these common employees. No political line or affiliation can deprive them of that inherent right. The records required to be kept by these public servants can neither, righteously nor legally, be kept secret. They are the property of the taxpayers of the county or state and are subject to the individual scrutiny of these taxpayers at any or all times. No state or county official has the right to refuse information or inspection of the records to any taxpayer, no matter what their religious or political creed may be. Justice demands the full exercise of these prerogatives.

Another thing, especially germane to the affairs of Chilton county. We have two political parties here and to my surprise and sorrow, in a great many instances, this line of political demarcation is rigidly drawn in social, fraternal and religious lines. Surely if a person is affiliated with either of these parties, he has good reasons "for the faith that is in him." If this is a fact, surely no one could blame him for following his convictions. Then where is the sense in falling out with another man because his convictions carried him in to a different party. Such behaviour as that is absolutely assinine, still, that very sentiment in our county has militated largely against the progress we should have had. Why keep alive so idiotic a social condition?

There are men in business who cringe and dodge all the time for fear they will miss a sale or a buy if they lean the least bit to one side or the other. Try to sit in both chairs at once and the day is coming when they will sit down and miss them both. Why can't we all be free men and not allow a little political difference in opinion to bow us down like a craven?

We need a better and more equitable school system with nine month terms for all 7th grade schools.

We need a better and more lasting road system with a qualified road engineer in full charge.

We need more cooperation and less vindictive prejudice.

In elections we need clean, fair and legal polling places honestly conducted. A fair and honest count, everything done decently and in order and that would give us a satisfied electorate. Let's all be friends, now and make this next election a credit to our county no matter who wins.

"Round Town"

—By Doug

I suppose it wouldn't be very out-of-the-ordinary for me to associate Time with Life, because Time has a lot to do with one's life. Some people have lived several years, in only a short space of Time, whether it be pleasantly or unpleasantly. During my short Time in newspaper work, I have lived more than several years. During a certain space of Time, one will be able to tell just who he can call his Friend, and who is pretending to be his Friend. But he can't do that unless he gets a good taste of Life, in its various forms.

Dr. Ezell preached an extremely fine sermon last Sunday at his morning service. He dealt in a plain way on this whispering, which is doing no one good. Whispering, Gossip, and Rumors, run hand in hand. It has gotten into the business life, church life—two of which it has no business in whatsoever. Gossip has always been interspersed into Political and Social Life, I suppose. But in my opinion, it is a mighty cheap way of doing business. Have you gossiped no self-respect? It is high time you acquired some of this much pretended self-respect and cut out your way of telling little things that misrepresent the truth, to try to increase your line of business. Remember YOU CAN'T DO WRONG AND GET AWAY WITH IT.

In last week's column, I mentioned something about our night cop, and stated that I would like to see him keep his job. Well, judging from indications recently shown up, I believe he will. Lowery seems to be a good sort of a fellow, and is not like some officers we have had on here. He stays on the job. Although he is new, he seems to know the ropes.

It is most certainly a very difficult task to undertake, writing a column like this. There are so many things to be considered, one—the reaction of those few who read it, is about the mainest one, I believe. One never knows when he will say something to offend some person, who is always carrying a chip on their shoulder, waiting for it to be knocked off, so they can start their 'belliakin.' Somebody say 'present.'

—Ideas—

Friend J. A. Maddox seems to have an idea he wishes to convey to the people, about trading with the chain stores.

D. A. Wingard has an idea that it doesn't pay to advertise. He needs something done for him * * * Tiffin & Klinner, furniture dealers, know that advertising pays * * * So does Mr. Lande of The Leader * * * I. D. Armstrong at the Clanton Shoe Shop, has begun to realize the value of advertising in the News and is enjoying a splendid business * * * Mrs. W. M. Polk has an idea that Life is one good thing after another * * * I have an idea that Life is one thing after another and that love is two things after each other * * * Prof. L. C. Warr has an idea that our high school is improving * * * I have an idea that he is right in that idea * * * J. A. Ruffin has an idea, a very disillusioned idea about advertising * * * I have an idea I'd like to explain to him * * * Buford Lawrence has a good idea * * * I have an idea he is a pretty good sort of fellow * * * M. A. Gore has an idea that business is rotten * * * J. Mell Martin has an idea for the benefit of this section, he is for improvement * * * I have an idea he is a jolly good fellow, if he is an undertaker * * * Broadus Connatser has an idea that it is a darn good idea * * * I have an idea that "Daddy" Fox has several good ideas and is no fool himself * * * Miss Virginia Murphy has an idea that "Independence" is the thing * * * I have an idea she's all wrought up over nothing * * * Mrs. E. E. Upchurch has an idea I like, that of friendliness * * * V. J. Elmore has ideas some people ought to know more about, for their benefit * * * Mr. McEathern, at Hill's, has an idea that business is going to be better * * * I have an idea he is right * * * And I have an idea that all the ideas expressed above may be wrong, and that I'd better stop that nonsense for awhile.

Snappy Stuff

Suing for divorce, Samuel Milton of Belfast, testified his wife made him sleep in the garret.

Mrs. Ethel Lowrie of Glasgow answered a matrimonial advertisement for a joke, married the man she wrote to and then both of them went to prison for bigamy.

Through heavy fines the police magistrates of London are attempting to put an end to itinerant street bands. Sergius Zalomir, a religious fanatic of Odessa, stabbed his son to death as "a living sacrifice."

A lone bandit who held up a grocery store in Chicago got only two cents from the till.

Professional dancers of Paris have formed a union to combat the encroachments of amateurs.

After saving a boy and girl from drowning at Calais, France, the modest rescuer ran away to escape giving his name.

One hundred steel houses are to be erected by the town of Derby, Eng., and leased at low rents.

"I'll teach you manners," said Justice Benham of London, as he fined Robert Lurman $50 for putting his hat on in court.

Walter Moulton of Chicago fell into an open elevator shaft at the tenth floor, but saved his life by grasping the cable and sliding down.

JUDGING OTHERS

It is trite to say that in judging the character and motives of another person we should try to imagine ourselves in his place. But how many of us do it? How many of us make a conscious and determined effort to be fair in our estimate of the other fellow?

In a recent article, Dr. Glenn Frank quoted an unknown author who has set forth some thoughts in this connection which are worth repeating, as follows:

When the other fellow acts that way he is ugly; when you do, it is nerves.

When the other fellow is set in his way, he's obstinate; when you are, it's firmness.

When the other fellow treats someone especially well, he is toadying; when you do, it's tact.

When the other fellow takes his time, he is dead slow; when you do, you are deliberate.

When the other fellow picks a flaw, he's cranky; when you do, you are discriminating.

When the other fellow says what he thinks, he is spiteful; when you do, you are frank, and so on.

It is really hard to apply to ourselves the same yardstick which we use in measuring our neighbor. But we ought to try to do it.

Business has been quite brisk in Clanton for the past week.

The following officers were elected at the last meeting of the Wood Bine Lodge (I. O. T. G.) for the ensuing quarter, J. W. Shores, C. T.; Miss Mollie Hannon, V. T.; T. M. Edwards, S.; A. A. Barnes, F. S.; W. H. Sartor, C.; P. D. Wilson, M.; Miss Dalie Thornton, I. G.; E. T. Sartor, O. G.; L. H. Stewart, L. D.

Messrs. Dawson and Co., of Jemison are now fitted up to do job printing. They are reliable young gentlemen and guarantee satisfaction with their work.

That a community is judged more by the manner in which its mercantile houses receive customers and the treatment accorded them, than by glittering promises never kept.

There are business houses right here in Norristown, and larger ones in Philadelphia, which retain constant patronage because of unflinching honesty which has become reputation. Honesty in advertising, honesty and fair dealing in personal contact between salespersons, officials and the public, have been the means of halting that bug-a-boo of business—the patronage turnover.

Few newspapers are large enough, or rich enough, to establish means of enforcing such honesty in advertising. To investigate each item of advertising is too costly.

But the public can not be fooled often. And the merchant who stoops to deceit to make a dollar, is the merchant who brings disrepute to town, and helps drive trade to neighboring cities.

Today, advertising is far more honest than ever in history.

Chambers of Commerce, Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions, have aided in this most desirable condition.

But a Town's Prosperity depends almost entirely upon the character of its business men.

Two Years Ago

February 2nd, 1928.

Reedie Taylor, general manager of the Clanton Model Shoppe and the Chicago Sales Co., left last Tuesday night for Eastern markets, where he will buy spring and summer goods for his stores.

The Robinson Department Store has moved into its new location, the building formerly occupied by Alred Mercantile Co., on Main Street.

Dr. Hopkins, children eye sight specialist, of Montgomery was in Clanton for several hours last Monday, having accompanied Dr. S. A. Barson on the latter's regular monthly visit to this city.

Mr. C. E. Stapp, recently elected superintendent of the Adult Department of the M. E. S. S., is putting on a vigorous campaign to enlist all the adult members of the church in the S. S. work.

The Department of Agriculture has visited many grocery stores and weighed thousands of ready packed groceries to check the weight. Short weight packages were ordered repacked and the grocer was warned.

Now, as always the home town newspaper is the best and cleanest exponent of constructive journalism.

High School News

The Senior Class is beginning to feel as if the time of graduation is near at hand. This fact was impressed upon them, as last week a representative of the Star Engraving Company of Dallas, Texas, visited them in order to demonstrate a new style diploma. The Department of Education has issued this new type of diploma for all high schools of this state. The diploma is about half the size of the old one and is in small, convenient, booklet form. It is encased in a leather back with the seal of Alabama engraved on it. The diploma itself is of durable paper, a fine imitation of sheepskin, with raised printing. These diplomas promise to be much more serviceable than the former type. The candidates for graduation are much pleased with them and each looks forward to possessing one.

The High School as a whole feels very much gratified over the large crowd that came out to see "The Dixie Blackbird" Minstrel. They appreciate the spirit of cooperation the people of Clanton showed. The High School is glad to announce that the debt of the Athletic Association has been somewhat reduced because of the play. They hope that during the year other entertainments may be offered you.

Mrs. J. N. Atkinson and little daughter, Norma, and Mrs. S. E. Armstrong and two little sisters, Alice and Gladys, motored to Montgomery last Sunday and spent the day as the guests of their father, Mr. W. W. Gilmore.

Mr. and Mrs. Gaston Robinson returned to Uniontown last Sunday to visit friends and relatives.

Alabama Weekly
Industrial Review

The following record of industrial activity lists items showing investment of capital, employment of labor and business activities and opportunities. Information from which the paragraphs are prepared is from local papers, usually of towns mentioned, and may be considered generally correct.

Haleyville--Battels Cafe moves into brick building recently erected on south east corner of public square.

Blue Springs--Plans under way for erection of new school auditorium.

Tuscaloosa--Gas main line of Southern Natural Gas Corporation completed as far as this city.

Haleyville--Road to Jasper improved.

Oneonta--Corlette Cafe, near Strand Theatre, changes hands.

Tuscaloosa--Building permits for 1929 had value of $742,718.

Riverton--Mississippi Power Company granted permission by Federal Power Commission to construct waterway development project on Tennessee River in vicinity of this town.

Florence--Oil drilling operations under way in vicinity of Gravelly Springs.

Greensboro--Libby, McNeil & Libby Company opens milk cooling station here.

Mobile--Ground broken for second warehouse which L. and N. railroad has started here within year.

Brewton holds election to vote on $60,000 bond issues for city hall and school construction purposes.

Alabama will spend $3,000,000 for new road construction in 1930, according to announcement of State Highway Commission.

Andalusia--Work of rebuilding Gantt dam progressing satisfactorily.

Tuscaloosa--Building formerly occupied by Haas store at corner of Sixth Street and Greensboro Avenue, being remodeled.

Huntsville--Twelve story Russell Erskine hotel opens.

Mobile building permits amounted to $1,649,940 in 1929.

Notasulga--Parent Teachers' Association opens cafeteria to furnish lunches to school children.

Sylacauga--Eagle Iron Works receives order for 600 light posts for Washington, D. C.

Mobile--Alabama Power Company to expend $14,000,000 on developments, improvements, extensions and operations in 1930.

Eutaw post office receipts for 1929 amounted to $8,531 against $8,292 for 1928.

Sylacauga--New floor placed in store occupied by Birdsey Flour Mills.

Records of a reception given to George Washington in 1790 show that 2,000 candles illuminated the hall, at a cost of about $10 an hour. The same illumination with electricity today would cost about 20 cents an hour.

Capital expenditures made by the railroads in 1929 for new equipment and additions and betterments exceeded 1928 and 1927, while the financial programs of the railroads for 1930 show an increase over 1929.

For year ended March 15, 1929, number of foreclosures on farms was lowest since 1923, according to Department of Agriculture's Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

Mr. Clayton Culver, who is employed in Montgomery with Swift & Co. spent the past week end in Mt. Creek, Ala., with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Culver.

Mr. Clarence Evans of Birmingham spent the past week end here as the guest of his mother, Mrs. Jean Evans.

Exchange Dots

Friends of Lister Hill have concocted the following slogan and whether or not you agree with it, it has its humor: "For HEFLItosis take LISTERINE."

—Tuskegee News.

Objections are made to the use of profanity on the radio. Why the proposed action on this line has been put off so long is hard to understand.

Profanity in public is always nauseating. To us its use on the radio is always unexcusable and unpardonable. Absolutely strict measures should be taken to make sure the use of profanity on the air will be eliminated. It should make no difference whether one guilty of this offense is rich or poor. He should be made to use decent language on the air. If he is incapable of using decent language his line of disgusting chatter should be stopped. If a man has such an undeveloped mentality that he can not talk over the radio without resorting to profanity he has no business on the air.

—Exchange.

Edward Bok came to this country from Holland at the age of six. He died the other day at the age of 66. In his sixty years of life in America he set an example of Americanism which every native born American would do well to emulate.

No more inspiring record of a man's life has ever been written than Bok's own autobiography: "The Americanization of Edward Bok," and ought to have a place in every school library; it should be required reading in every course in civics.

It is the fashion among critics to sneer at every thing which has made America great to belittle Bok and his work. He did more than any other man to make American homes more beautiful, American family life more attractive, to establish newer and higher standards of good taste and to turn the minds of Americans toward the appreciation of beauty and culture in all forms. All this as the editor of a woman's magazine. But he made a fortune and that of course is an unpardonable sin in the eyes of the unsuccessful and incompetent.

—Tuskegee News.

His foot moved an inch . .

and caused miles of motor wear.

All he did was step on the starter! Pistons leaped into action but the oil refused to flow. Sensitive to cold, it had to be "thawed out" by the very friction it was supposed to prevent. Many oils, in a single winter will rob your car of its speed, pep and youth.

Follow the lead of experienced motorists. Insist on Texaco Golden Motor Oil throughout the year. Free from all hard-carbon-forming elements—from all cold-sensitive impurities it flows freely at zero and responds in a flash to the command of the starter. Clean, clear, and full-bodied Texaco gives a finer, more enduring service under any weather or motor conditions.

FULL BODY

CLEAN-CLEAR-PURE

Here is an experiment that has been made thousands of times. Left in a snow bank over night—next morning Texaco flows freely—smoothly! Many other oils thicken and refuse to flow!

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Thorsen were the guests of honor at an old settlers party given last Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Reagan in Thorsby. Mr. Thorsen was very active in the establishment of this town thirty-two years ago and the guests at this affair were all old settlers who were here during the days during which the town was being built. Carl Peterson was the principal speaker of the evening and in his address he went in to detail in telling of the steps of progress which the town has made in the past. Mr. Peterson showed what steps the town has taken in the way of continuous improvement since the beginning and especially did he praise the cooperation shown the northern settlers by the natives, and the wonderful friendship which has existed between them since the beginning of Thorsby. Another feature of the party was the singing of songs by those present that were sung by them when the town was being founded. Mr. Andrew Franzén rendered one of his interesting comic songs which was thoroughly enjoyed by all. Mr. Thorsen was the next speaker on the program and he especially expressed his amazement at the rapidity with which the town had grown and with which the section has developed.

It was unanimously decided by those present to hold an old settlers picnic some time in the following summer. Mr. C. C. Peterson was made chairman of the committee to arrange for the picnic and a vote was taken to have the committee in charge to send invitations to the guests of honor, Mr. and Mrs. Thorsen, to be present.

Those present at this affair were the guests of honor, Mr. and Mrs. Sam A. Thorsen, of Waseca, Minn., Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Reagan, Mrs. Anna Villadsen, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Foss, Mr. Carl Peterson of Birmingham, Mr. and Mrs. James Bosworth, Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Hanson, Miss Esther Johnson, C. F. Carlson, Ed Peterson, E. F. Mead, Miss Ruth Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Howard, Andrew Franzén, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Petersen, C. P. Turin, J. L. Foss, J. A. Carlson, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Sæberg, Mr. Hattie Gerald, and Mr. Thomas R. Skove of Cleveland, Ohio.

The next lyceum number which will be given at the Institute is to be given next Tuesday night, February fourth, at seven-thirty o'clock. This entertainment is to be a first class number and everyone should be present to see and to hear it. This number will consist of a company of players and singers of Hawaiian music. The company is known as Vierras Hawaiians. The entertainment will consist of songs, dances, stories, instrumental music, and a special scenic effect. The program is under the direction of Mr. Alber Vierra, a splendid baritone and ballad singer, and will bring to the audience the real spirit of Hawaii and its enchanting music. Mr. Vierra came to this country, first appearing at the San Francisco Exposition, where he and his company were accorded a warm reception. It is said that Mr. Vierra is largely responsible for the subsequent popularity of Hawaiian music in this country. The admission for this program will be thirty-five cents for school children and fifty cents for adults.

The following letter was written by Mr. S. A. Thorsen who is visiting in Thorsby, to his local paper in Waseca, Minnesota:

Dear Mr. Caglin:-

According to your request I am going to give you a little detail of our trip South. As you know, we started on Saturday, the 11th, arrived in Chicago in due time, where we had a pleasant visit with our son-in-law and daughter over Sunday. We left Chicago Monday noon on the Dixie Flyer which is supposed to be one of the best trains out of Chicago for Florida winter tourists. Reaching central or southern Indiana we were delayed and detoured over 200 miles off from the route at Terre Haute, Indiana, arriving at Evansville about 4 hours later. On account of the floods, we were informed by railroad men at that place that the E. & T. H. Railroad was all under water for a distance of over 30 miles. We reached Decatur, Ala., on Tuesday where we enjoyed a pleasant visit with my brother and family, T. T. Thorsen with myself were the pioneers in building and colonizing in central Alabama about 34 years ago, where the foundation of Thorsby was laid. My brother has large land interests in the vicinity of Decatur, where one of his sons is managing their cotton plantations and is successful. While my brother has retired from active business, living in a comfortable home in Decatur. We expect to stop there on our return trip and look further into the improvements of that section.

We next visited the city of Birmingham where my wife has a sister, Mrs. Carl Petersen. Birmingham has made wonderful advancement and anyone who has been absent from that city for 25 years as I have, can hardly realize that it is the same town that has grown from about 30,000 to now approximately 300,000 population. The industries there are altogether in the iron manufacturing where the natural resources are unlimited, coal and iron are the main minerals with abundant lime rock.

Reaching our old town of Thorsby by car, I have never been so completely surprised in my life, to the general advancement and industrious people who have developed this particular section. While much of the improvement here can be attributed to a general spirit of the natives of Alabama as well as the northern people who have taken advantage of developments from the great Alabama Power Company as well as the state at large encouragements to good schools and road improvements. Extending thru the entire extent of the state from north to south is a paved highway with beautiful scenery surrounding it. The farmers in Chilton County, tributary to this highway, have diversified their farming methods, got away from a great deal of the one year crop, which is cotton, and have added fruits of different varieties as well as into the dairy in a small scale. I was told by our banker that over a hundred thousand dollars have been deposited with him from the strawberry crop alone, as a net profit to the producer. The country is adapted to a superior quality of fruit and the season demands a higher price for this particular fruit. Many of the farmers here have gone into the nut culture quite extensively; pecan nuts are a favorite nut, while they are slow to start to grow, but once in bearing they are very profitable. When I look back upon this particular section of 25 years ago and see the thousands of acres of red land that were at that time covered by wood it is unbelievable that so much could be accomplished in this space of time.

Yesterday we had a pleasant visit at the Mitchell Dam which was constructed and completed about ten years ago at the approximate cost of $15,000,000 by the Alabama Power Company who extend their lines to every part of the state as well as adjoining states, connecting with ten other dams which in all are considered the largest power development in the entire South. They have extensions, I was told, that reach clean across the United States and into Canada. The beautiful landscape scenery around Mitchell dam is compared with that of Switzerland by travelers. All these improvements are paying taxes in Chilton County, which naturally adds to resources of county funds. We also visited the Jordan Dam at Wetumpka which is a similar power institution. From there we visited the old city of Montgomery, capital of Alabama, which is a typical Southern town. I could not see a great deal of improvement there from 30 years ago. While farming in that section is altogether cotton growing and all colored labor.

We expect to continue our visit here a little longer and if I can see anything of interest I will write you again. The weather here at the present is very mild and today it rained.

With best wishes to all of our friends in Waseca, I am

Yours very truly,
S. A. THORSEN.

HIGH SCHOOL CLASS VISITS
CITY WATER SUPPLY DEPT.

Members of the Junior I Science Class of the Chilton County High School, reached the question, "Where Does Clanton Get Its Water Supply?" A trip to the city water plant was arranged for by their teacher, Miss Annie Laurie Clay, and through the courtesy of M. C. Smith, Supt. of the waterworks dept. the class was shown through the plant. Each pupil was to write a paper on the trip, and we publish one of the best papers handed in. It was written by Miss Roselle Gentry. Others who had good papers were Wade Alford, Helen Roberts, Ethel Wilkinson, and Ruth Jones.

Clanton's Water Supply
The source of Clanton's water supply depends upon two deep wells which are fifty feet in depth. They have two pumps which are called lift and force pumps. Each one of these pumps pumps 80 gallons per minute. This water is pumped to the filtering tank, here the purifying process takes place. They add 1 hydrated lime and 1 chlorinated lime. After the water leaves the purifying tank it goes into the filtering tank. Then from the filtering tank the water goes to the reservoir, 500 hundred gallons are then pumped to this reservoir. After the water is in the clear water reservoir it is then pumped to the tank on the hill and distributed to the customers by pipes. The size of the chief main is 8 to 10 inches.

There are 115,000 gallons of water used daily. The rate per 1000 gallons that is paid by the customers is $1.98, but if you pay prompt there is a discount of 10 per cent which will be $1.78.

50 horsepower six cylinder engine

Not until you drive the new Chevrolet Six can you appreciate what a wonderful improvement has been made in its famous six-cylinder valve-in-head engine. With its capacity increased to 50 horsepower, it has great reserve energy for sweeping up the steepest hills—for swift acceleration —and for sustained high speeds. Its power flows evenly and smoothly. And it is extremely flexible in traffic. In fact—it does everything you could possibly want a motor to do. Yet it is remarkably economical in its use of gasoline and oil. Come in today for a demonstration.

HOG OUTLOOK GOOD HUSBANDMAN SAYS

Auburn, Ala., Jan. 23.—Far-sighted Alabama farmers will not curtail their hog production to the present price outlook in the opinion of Prof. W. E. Sewell of the department of animal husbandry at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. Basing his opinion largely on the December pig survey of the United States Department of Agriculture, he forecasts that hog prices are not likely to go down within the next 10 months. He declined to forecast farther into the future.

"The fall pig crop of 1929 was practically the same as in 1928 for the United States as a whole," the animal husbandman said. "Ninety-eight and one-tenth as many sows farrowed pigs in the fall of 1929 as in the fall of 1928, and in the fall of 1929 the figures show that 99.8 per cent as many pigs were saved as in the fall of 1928. The number of sows bred, or to be bred, for farrowing in the spring of 1930 exceeds the number that farrowed pigs in the spring of 1929 by only 6 per cent. Of course, some of these sows will not farrow successfully. All of these figures indicate that the supply of pork for the next ten months is not likely to increase or decrease over 1929. Therefore, prices should remain about the same."

Continuing, Prof. Sewell said that at present prices Alabama farmers can make some money on hogs if they manage properly. Ordinarily hogs bring the best prices in April and September and farmers should plan their breeding and feeding operations to have pork ready for these peaks, he added.

He named the proper use of forage crops and home grown fattening feeds as an important factor in successful hog raising in Alabama.

Green feed and sunshine are important factors in increasing hatchability of eggs.

Speed of the separator, warmth of the milk, fresh cows added to or dropped from the herd, and cleanliness of the herd are all causes of variations in the cream test.

Went Away

"I WAS very much run-down in health. I had a dreadful ache across the middle of my back. I had a dull, tired feeling, and I dreamed the thought of having to do my household tasks. I was tired when I got up in the morning. I got no rest from my sleep, and I was sleepy all day long."

"My husband got a bottle of Cardui for me. It was not long before I began to show a decided improvement. My strength began to return and I felt much more like myself. The sleepy spells gradually quit and the pains in my back and sides disappeared."

LOCAL TEAMS ARE SHOWING GOOD WORK

Boys Teams Have 4 Games To Credit During Past Several Days

The basketball teams of the local high school and the Clanton Athletic Club, have been showing some very splendid work and sportsmanship during their playing this season, so far.

The High school team defeated the Montevallo high school last Saturday night, by a score of 22 to 17, with Harvey Melton and Ruphus Brown, showing up well. Melton scored 12 points of the 22.

The Clanton Athletic Club team lost to the Isabella team by a score of 13 to 15, while the Clanton girls' team defeated the girls' team from Isabella with a final score of 23 to 10. These games were played Wednesday night, January 22.

On last Friday night, the outstanding team from Crampton Lumber Co. of Montgomery met the team of the local athletic club, and were sadly defeated to a tune of 32 to 23. The visiting team from the Capitol City is reputed as being one of the best of its kind in the state. Roy Connatter for Clanton made 14 of the 32 points, with Doodle Gore scoring 10 of them.

All the above games were played on the indoor court in the Maddox Warehouse here.

On next Friday night, the high school team will meet the team from Pike Roads on the indoor court here. This game promises to be very interesting, while the outstanding game of the season for the high school lads, is believed to be that with the Sid Lanier High School of Montgomery, on Friday night, February 7, in Clanton.

CHEVROLET PREPARES FOR LARGE BUSINESS DURING 1930

Because of the popular nationwide reception of the new Chevrolet Six at lower prices, the Chevrolet Motor Company is preparing for a volume of business in 1930 that promises to break all records of the Company. Confidence over the outlook for a banner Chevrolet Year is widespread in the factory and dealer organizations.

This is the statement of Polk Brothers Motor Co., Inc. local Chevrolet dealers, who have just returned from Birmingham where Mr. Polk attended the mammoth Chevrolet sales meeting and banquet.

"Under the direction of H. J. Klingler, Vice President and General Sales Manager, of the Chevrolet Motor Co., the meeting embraced the most graphic and comprehensive sales presentation ever attempted by an automobile manufacturer," Mr. W. M. Polk said.

"The advance merchandising methods which the factory is suggesting to its dealer organization were adapted in the form of playlets, showing the proper procedure to be followed in the successful operation of a retail automobile business."

In connection with the Convention the 100 Car Club Members of the Birmingham zone, which embraces the retail salesmen who sold 100 or more Chevrolets in 1929, held their annual meeting, and installed officers for the year.

Assisting in the direction of the meeting were, in addition to Mr. Klingler, M. D. Douglas, Parts & Service Manager; L. S. Costley, Regional Sales Manager; P. Sever, Zone Sales Manager; W. L. Gibson, Assistant Zone Sales Manager; G. R. Varber, Zone Sales Promotion Manager, and the following men representing the Chevrolet Motor Company Central Offices: C. D. Asbury, Joe Glass; C. W. Luce; N. H. Pearson; J. J. Dobbs; and C. J. Seifert.

P. H. GUICE, AGE 67, DIED IN BIRMINGHAM HOSPITAL

P. H. Guice, age 67 years, of near Jemison, Ala., died Wednesday, January 22, at the South Highlands Infirmary, in Birmingham, following an operation.

The deceased was rushed to the Birmingham hospital last week in a Martin ambulance to undergo the operation. The body was brought to Clanton by Martin where it was prepared for burial. Funeral services were held last Friday afternoon at Providence, in the western part of the county with Rev. R. M. Honeycutt officiating, interment taking place in the Providence cemetery. Martin was in charge of the body. Surviving is the widow, three sons and two daughters.

TWO FILLING STATIONS HERE ARE NEARING COMPLETION

The two filling stations being erected on the main highway here, are nearing their completion. One, located directly across the street from Clanton Motors is being made ready to handle Standard Oil Products, while the other will dispense the well known Texas Oil Company products. Both stations are rated as first class.

We ought to attend church regular because we can find something at church that no other institution can give. Here is water for all who thirst; bread for all who hunger; life for all who are dying, and light for all who are in darkness. The church has something to preach that no other society of men can say. The church has the power of God in Christ Jesus our Lord. We rejoice with exceeding great gladness as we preach the unsearchable riches of God in Christ, because we know that in this worship there is power sufficient unto all the needs of men.

ALABAMA POWER CO. REPORT SHOWS OPTIMISM

The records of the Company show that stock sales have not been confined to any one or a few particular classes, but represent wide diversity, including professional men and women and purchasers in many other walks in life.

In commenting on the record of the Thomas W. Martin said: "The remarkable sales of our securities in Alabama not only substantiate the contention that business conditions are sound but reflect the public's confidence in the Company. It is also gratifying to us that in a very large measure the sales proved the advertising merits of Alabama's newspaper."

The total available generating capacity of Alabama Power Company's system touched one million horsepower for the first time in 1929 through the placing in operation during the year of new plants of nearly a quarter million horse power capacity, the Company announced here today.

The Jordan Dam hydro electric development on the Coosa River near Wetumpka, of 144,000 horsepower initial capacity, and the first 80,000 horsepower of the Gorgas No. 2 steam plant in Walker County, swelled the capacity available from all sources to 1,016,875 horsepower. Of this total $12,120 is in hydro, 210,395 is in steam and 294,360 horsepower is available in plants under lease by the Company.

The Power Company's expansion program in 1929 also included material progress in the reconstruction of the Lower Tallahassee hydro-electric development at Tallahassee, Ala., on the Tallapoosa River. This project consists of an initial installation of two 36,000 horsepower units, with provision for a third of similar capacity, and an additional unit of 12,000 horsepower for the Mt. Vernon-Woodberry Mills to replace the plant of that Company which was destroyed in order to increase the capacity of the development. Completion is scheduled for April 1st next.

New transmission and distribution lines of 457 circuit miles and sub-station capacity of 72,250 kva were also completed in 1929. Prominent among the new power lines were those from Martin Dam to Crooked Creek to connect with a line extending to Anniston; from Gorgas Steam Plant to the Mississippi State line; Flomaton to Brewton; from Rockcastle to Tuscaloosa and from Sycamore to Talladega. Sixty-five new communities were added to the Power Company's system during the past year, including the absorption of utilities serving 18 cities and towns and the extension of service to 47 communities previously without the benefits of electricity.

That the new year has ushered in an era of progress and prosperity for Alabama is evinced in the fact that Alabama Power Company's energy supply within its operating territory for the first twenty-three days of January was eleven per cent greater than for the same period of 1929. This increase, according to company officials, was greater than it had been for several months past and reflects a decided upward trend in industry and business conditions generally.

Considering that January of last year was one of the banner months of 1929, the splendid showing in the same month of the new year is reassuring and should dispel any doubt as to the soundness of present conditions.

Mr. Cecil Each who has been in Chicago for some time taking a course in electricity returned last Sunday to his home in Thorsby. He will now be employed with the Alabama Power Company at Lay Dam.

Mr. Sanford Nixon of Deatsville, Ala., spent last Sunday in Mt. Creek as the guest of Miss Hazel Baxley.

Co-Op Poultry Sales Add Big Money

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 30: Plans have been completed for 50,000 farmers of 50 Alabama counties to sell one-half million dollars worth of live poultry cooperatively within the next five months. J. B. Sylvest, marketing specialist of the Extension Service, Auburn, announced this week. A heavier movement of poultry through the cooperative channel is expected this year than last when 35,000 farmers of 42 counties sold $353,888.20 worth of live poultry.

This year sales had a record opening last week when farmers of Henry, Dale, Coffee, Geneva, Covington, Wilcox, Monroe, Escambia, Conecuh, Butler, Clarke, Lamar, and Marion counties loaded nine cars of poultry. This makes eleven cars sold cooperatively during January, and four are scheduled to load this week.

The cooperative sales are being conducted by the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation operating with district agents, county agents home demonstration agents, and the county farm bureaus. Mr. Sylvest said today that he expects to spend most of his time during the next 4 and 1 half months assisting farmers with their cooperative poultry sales. He is keeping in direct touch with the Eastern markets observes very closely all holidays and other celebrations of the Jewish and Hebrew races who are the heaviest consumers of poultry.

In addition to keeping in direct touch with the consumers Mr. Sylvest is keeping in direct touch with the county agents, home demonstration agents, and others interested in assisting farmers in their poultry sales. In this way he is keeping the farmers of Alabama informed about the poultry market and is assisting them in getting prices in line with the leading poultry markets of the country. He cooperates with the county agents and county farm bureaus in scheduling cars to appear at various points in Alabama when the farmers are ready to sell enough poultry to justify.

M. M. PUGH TO OPERATE
NEW STANDARD STATION

Satisfying the curiosity of many, comes the announcement that M. M. Pugh will operate the new filling station of the Standard Oil Company, which has just been completed, and is located on the Birmingham highway, directly across from the Clanton Service Station.

The exact opening date of this station has not yet been announced, but it is expected that it will be within the next few days. Mr. Pugh formerly operated the Woco-Pep Station in front of the courthouse, and is well experienced along that line, and is without a doubt, competent enough to handle this new modern station.

E. E. Smith, well known automobile salesman of this section, will in the future be connected with the Woco-Pep Station. This announcement came on the heels of that about Pugh going to the new station. Mr. Smith has assumed his duties at the Woco-Pep Station.

MANY GAMES ARE WON HERE

Athletic Club And The High School Teams Have Busy Season Here

Both the Clanton Athletic Club and the Chilton County High School quintet played a hard fast schedule during the past week. Both of these teams, despite the stiff competition which they encountered, came out with no defeats, winning all the games which they played by a good margin.

The strong Woodlawn Methodist Church team from Birmingham lost last Saturday night on the local court. The Woodlawn team is considered a very strong team and two of its players are Birmingham Southern men, nevertheless the Athletic Club defeated them by a score of twenty four to twenty two, Roy Connater leading in scoring for the locals and Nunnally for the visitors.

The Athletic Club also defeated the Jemison town team by a decisive score last Monday night on the local court. Jemison played a strong game and by

L. I. Courtney of Clanton Route 6 was in town last Thursday on business. He made a call at the News office while here.

ISABELLA HAS ACTIVE F. F. A. ORGANIZATION

C. E. Stapp Elected As An Honorary Member At Recent Meet

The Future Farmers of America Organization of the Isabella Community held its regular meeting on Tuesday, January 28th, at the Isabella Agricultural Building.

Houston DeRamus made a very interesting talk on the organization of the F. F. A. of Ozark. Following this talk, a general discussion was carried on concerning future plans. Oliver Manning, president of the F. F. A. of Isabella, gave out some valuable points on the work of the organization.

Mr. C. E. Stapp, County Agent, was elected by the boys as an honorary member, after which the program planning committee composed of Oliver Manning, Claude Conway and Oswald Mims, made plans for the next meeting. Herman Leroy is scheduled to address the next meeting on a subject of his own selection.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Rucker and children of Birmingham were guests of Dr. and Mrs. P. T. Hinkle last Sunday.

Local High School Gets Dental Inspection

Free Dental Inspection In Schools Being Carried Out Through State Department

Through the Alabama State Department of Health, free dental inspection will be given students of the Chilton County High School, according to information from Prof. L. C. Warr, principal.

This inspection, we understand will be given by local dentists, and was to take place this week. When defects are found by the doctors, they are to give such advice as they deem necessary for the proper care of the teeth of the students. The inspection will take a day or so.

County Board Vacancy

At a special session of members of the Chilton County Board of Education held last Tuesday, Mr. J. N. Dennis was appointed to fill the vacancy on the board caused by the death last Monday of Robert H. Bean.

The meeting was held in the office of the County Superintendent with the following members present: R. M. Smith, S. M. Yates, C. C. Conway, S. J. M. Webb, and Supt. B. Lawrence.

MAY BRING LARGE PASSENGER PLANE TO FLY OVER HERE

Mr. W. Shuping, representing the Reliable Flying Service, Inc., was in Clanton last Tuesday looking for a prospective field on which to land the five passenger plane he wanted to bring to Clanton for three days taking up passengers.

Fields suitable for this ship, were inspected, but on account of recent rains, were too wet. However, Mr. Shuping stated they would attempt to land, when the ground would permit.

KIWANIANS CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

Several Visiting Kiwanians Present At Meeting Last Thursday

Celebrating the fifteenth anniversary of the organization of Kiwanis International, the Clanton Kiwanis Club, held a most interesting and entertaining meeting on last Thursday night, at the local Baptist church.

The meeting, held in place of the regular Thursday noon meeting, was attended by the Kiwanians of Clanton, having as their guests the ladies, and several visiting Kiwanians. Dr. V. J. Gragg, president of the Clanton Club, presided at the meet, and the program was in charge of the Kiwanis Educational Committee composed of Rev. E. A. Childs, Raymond Smith, Erle Thomas with L. C. Warr, as chairman.

One of the outstanding features of the evening was an address by Rev. Keener Mathews, pastor of the First Methodist church of Bessemer and a member of the Bessemer Kiwanis, having as his subject, "Why I Am A Kiwanian." Other enjoyable features were a solo by Miss Hilda Hart, a reading by Miss Dorothy Dowling, and several selections on the piano by Mrs. W. E. Huddleston, Jr. The entire group engaged in several Kiwanis songs, with Mrs. Huddleston at the piano.

At this meeting, two new members were brought into the local club. These being Sam R. Powers of Lay Dam and John Hollis of Mitchell Dam. They were given a welcome address by Ernest Childs.

Accompanying Rev. Mathews from Bessemer were Mr. Bungardner, president of the Bessemer Club, Gordon Vail, secretary of the club, and Jones Deadwiler, each speaking briefly, and bringing greetings of the Bessemer Club to the Clanton Kiwanians.

The luncheon, which showed remarkable skill in its preparation, was served by ladies of the Baptist church.

CHILTON COUNTY CROPS IN 1929 VALUED AT $1,805,000

F. W. Gist, State and Federal Statistician has estimated the value of the cotton crop of Chilton County during 1929 at $1,805,000, according to a report appearing recently in the Montgomery Advertiser.

The same report also showed an estimated acreage in cotton of 43,000 acres, with 19,000 bales.

COMMITTEE GIVES BUREAU HOSPITAL DATA

Kiwanis Committee Secures Option On Land In Chilton County

The committee appointed from members of the Clanton Kiwanis Club to compile necessary data for presentation to the Veterans Bureau at Washington in an effort to secure for this county the big Alabama Veterans Hospital, has been very busy during the past several weeks, as evidenced by a report given the News this week.

The committee has secured an option of approximately nine hundred acres of land, which surrounds Lomax, Alabama, just north of here, on the Birmingham highway. These nine hundred acres contain three sites, believed to be very suitable for the location of the hospital. It was stated that something like 150 or 200 acres will be required for the buildings including the entire project.

All the data compiled by the committee has been forwarded to the proper authorities on the hospital at the Veterans Bureau, in Washington, and it was stated that the local committee was assured by the bureau that at the proper time, Clanton will be given consideration by the committee from the bureau, which will make an inspection of the various sites offered over the state.

FINNELL ANNOUNCES AS CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR

Col. Woolsey Finnell, State Highway Director and World War Veteran, yesterday sent his hat sailing into the ring where the gubernatorial contest will be waged, by filing formal announcement with Secretary of State John Brandon, that he is a candidate subject to the action of the Democratic primary, for governor of Alabama. He is the sixth candidate for governor to announce so far.

In his declaration of candidacy, Col. Finnell designated C. B. Verner, of Tuscaloosa, as his campaign manager. Mr. Verner who formerly served in the Legislature, is president of the Merchants Bank and Trust Company of Tuscaloosa, and a close personal friend for more than 40 years of the state highway director.

Favoring the most economical measures possible for the conserving of the finances of the state, will be one of the planks in his platform. Col. Finnell stated. He also announced that he will advocate free textbooks for the children in the public schools of Alabama, adding "our schools must be improved as fast as finances will permit."

Work Is Started On New Post Office Quarters

During the first part of this week, workmen began some real destruction on the building which, shortly will become the new home of Clanton's post-office.

It was stated this week, by those in charge that the work of remodeling the Chandler Building, near the railroad, on Main Street has started in earnest. The front of the building is being torn away, and we understand an entirely new front will be put in its place.

Mr. E. W. Danforth will be in charge of the work of rebuilding the place.

MAY CONDUCT EVENING SCHOOL AT COTTON MILL

Miss Clutie Bloodworth, head of the Adult Education Department from the State Department of Education, Montgomery was in Clanton last Wednesday working with Supt. B. Lawrence, in planning to conduct an Adult Evening School at the Cotton Mill here.

Recent reports from the bedside of Mrs. M. B. Arant at St. Margaret's Hospital, Montgomery, state that her condition is considerably better.

PALMER HALL TO OPEN AT MONTEVALLO

College Theatre Will Present
"Beggar On Horseback" February The 6th

With the opening of Palmer Hall, at Alabama College, Montevallo, Alabama comes the presentation of "The Beggar on Horseback," under the auspices of the College Theatre.

Palmer Hall is the new auditorium and administration building on the campus of the Alabama College, and will open tonight, with the presentation of the play.

"The Beggar On Horseback" is an ultra-modern satiric fantasy, representing a nightmare of a musical composer. The title comes from the German quotation, "Set a beggar on horseback and he'll ride a gallop." It was written by two young American newspaper men, George S. Kaufman and Mark Connelley.

A cast made up of approximately fifty students of the college will appear in the play tonight, opening at eight o'clock sharp. Admission will be thirty-five cents, with reserved seats at fifty seats.

Singing Convention Feb. 15th At Calera

Vaughn Quartet Will Appear On Program Sunday, Feb. 16; Meeting For 3 Days

The Alabama Holiness Singing Convention will be held at Calera, Alabama, beginning Thursday, February 3th, and closing on the following Sunday night, according to an announcement from one of the workers, Mr. J. W. Randolph.

The convention will meet in the school auditorium, and several outstanding preachers will be there assisting in the program.

Rev. J. A. Manasco, Alabama District Superintendent will be in charge of the rally and will do the preaching for the evangelistic services. Rev. P. M. Covington, pastor of the Calera church and one of the best doctrinal preachers in the country will entertain the convention and assist in the week end rally.

J. W. Randolph, of Jasper, was very active in securing the celebrated Vaughn radio quartet, of Lawrenceburg, Tenn., to sing at the rally on Saturday night, Feb. 15, and Sunday, Feb. 16th. The Riley Quartet of Bessemer will also be present.

Services will be held at night only, opening at seven-thirty o'clock, beginning February 13, and continuing until February 16th.

PROMINENT COUNTY BOARD MEMBER DIES

R. H. Bean Was Outstanding
Resident Of Chilton County

Robert H. Bean, age 56 years, died at his home in the Collins Chapel community, near here early last Monday morning, February 3, following a severe attack of pneumonia.

Mr. Bean was one of the most outstanding citizens of the community in which he resided and prominently known over the entire county, where he was born and has spent practically his entire life. He was a very active member of the Chilton County Board of Education, and held in high esteem by his associates, being an important factor in the upbuilding and progress of his section of the county.

Funeral services were held on the following Tuesday afternoon at the New Salem church, near here, with Masonic honors, conducted by Rev. Zack Appleton, with Martin in charge. The many and beautiful floral offerings and the large crowd attending the impressive funeral service, were evidence of the love for the deceased by those who knew him. He has been for years a member of the New Salem church.

The deceased is survived by his widow, Mrs. Doshie Bussey Bean, five daughters, Mrs. Clyde Mead of Thorsby, Miss Jewell Bean of Birmingham, Miss Pauline Bean, Miss Henrietta Bean and Miss Lois Bean. One son, Horace Bean, four brothers, John of Birmingham, Elbert of Clanton, Oscar of Tallassee, and Jodie of Clanton; two sisters, Mrs. W. P. Cleckley of Jemison and Mrs. Anderson Marcus of Thorsby.

"A LITTLE RELIGION IS A DANGEROUS THING," SUBJECT

These are trying days through which we are going. Not only is the strength of business being tested, but it is a time of testing our moral character.

On next Sunday morning at the Methodist church we will have for our subject: "A Little Religion Is A Dangerous Thing." I believe the discussion of this subject will be interesting to every person in Clanton. We therefore especially invite everyone who does not attend services elsewhere to worship with us at this service.

In the evening at 7:00 o'clock we will give the fourth of a series of lectures, on Palestine, studying particularly Galilee, Capernaum, Samaria, Jacob's Well and Sychar.

WILL HAVE ROLL CALLING AT SARDIS CHURCH ON FEB. 8TH

We have been requested to announce this week that the roll will be called at the Sardis church, near here, on next Saturday, February 8th.

It is urgently requested that all non-resident members of Sardis church be present at conference to answer to their names.

LETTER FROM L & N AGENT

Letter From Hester Deals With Competition Of R. R.

Following, we publish a letter, given the News this week by Mr. J. A. Hester, local L. & N. agent, and one of Clanton's oldest and prominent citizens:

To The Public:

Dear Friends:

Permit me to bring before you for your consideration some of the problems which the Railroads of your country are facing and at the same time solicit your patronage.

The Railroads which are the most valuable asset to our community are meeting with some very unfair competition and I am sure that the public does not realize how unjust the existing conditions are.

First, I would like to bring your attention the truck competition. Trucks contribute little or nothing toward the support of our town and community, (Continued on Last Page.)

Two Years Ago

The following items were taken from the issue of the Chilton County News for February 2, 1928:

Dr. P. T. Hinkle announced his candidacy for the office of Probate Judge of the county this week.

Announcement was made this week of the Consolidation of the Clanton Cash Store, managed by Mr. O. D. DeLoach and the Baltimore Store operated by Mr. Jesse Baker. The two firms will now operate under the name of the Clanton Cash Store.

The Chilton County High School basketball team defeated the Jemison team by a score of twenty-one to seventeen.

The Chilton County Farm Bureau has recently been organized and J. N. Dennis has been elected president.

INTERESTING WOOD PROJECT OF CALERA JUNIOR HIGH

An interesting wood project of the Junior III Class has just been completed. For one week the pupils of this grade in commercial and industrial geography have made a study of wood, the kinds, its uses and different products. When they had finished this they collected all the different species that could be found in Alabama.

Carrie Louise Whetstone won the prize with one hundred and seven samples of wood, Ben Tate, Nadine Vandiver and Gordon Frost also had a very nice collection. The prize, given by Miss Bishop, was a very nice book, "The Magic Garden," by Gene Stratton Porter.

George Williams made a very nice and interesting poster illustrating the waste of the forests in the United States.

The contest was enjoyed by all the pupils of the class. All worked hard for the best collection. They were all glad to see Carrie Louise win the prize because she had worked long and faithfully for the prize and deserved it.

REPORT SHOWS DECREASE IN ALABAMA LIVESTOCK

Alabama farmers produced a million and a half dollars worth of livestock during every week of 1929, according to the annual livestock report of state and federal statistician, F. W. Gist, who in his digest of conditions issued from the Department of Agriculture said:

"There are less animals on Alabama farms today than in 1929. There has been a slight increase in mules and in milk cows, but a drop in horses, other cattle, hogs, and sheep. Heifers kept for milk remain the same.

These losses are attributed to a number of reasons. Interest has turned toward cotton production with less interest in cattle. Second, larger losses by death during 1929. Third, less purchases for feeding purposes, due largely to the feed crop shortage of 1928.

Cattle sold and slaughtered in 1929 were 354,000 compared with 400,000 in 1918. Hogs were 873,000 in 1929 and 909,000 in 1928. Sheep were 24,000 in 1929 as compared with 41,000 in 1928; and chickens sold and eaten in 1929 were 7,656,000, and 9,392,000 in 1928. Eggs produced in 1929 were 47,394,000 dozens against 54,500,000 in 1928; and milk produced was 114,226,000 gallons against 120,384,000 gallons in 1928."

PRIMARY ELECTION NOTICE

Notice of Democratic Primary Election to be Held on the Twelfth of August, 1930, and Primary Election Regulations and Resolutions Adopted by the State Democratic Executive Committee.

1st. That a primary election be, and the same is hereby called to be held at the several polling places in this State, at the hours fixed by law, on the second Tuesday in August, 1930, for the nomination of Democratic candidates for offices to be filled in the general election next succeeding and that the candidates of the Democratic Party for all State, District, Circuit, Federal and County offices to be filled in the general election to be held in November, 1930, be nominated in the primary election to be held on the second Tuesday in August, 1930, under the provisions of the Statutes of Alabama governing primary elections.

2nd. That the following persons shall be entitled to vote in said election, and none others, viz:

Qualified white electors of this State who believe in the principles of the Democratic Party, and who agree and bind themselves by participating in said primary to abide by the result of said primary election, and to support the nominees of the Democratic Party therein.

3rd. The following persons, and none other, shall be eligible to be candidates for nomination in said primary election, viz:

Qualified white electors who possess the qualifications fixed by law for the respective offices for which they are candidates for nomination, provided, however: That no person shall become a candidate for any State, District, Federal or Circuit office or have his or her name printed upon the Democratic ballot in the primary election to be held on the 12th day of August, 1930, if such person either voted a Republican Presidential ticket in November, 1928, or openly and publicly opposed the election of the nominees of the Democratic Party or either of them or who opposed the election of the Democratic Electors for President or Vice President in November, 1928. Such proposed candidates shall also be required to pay the assessments fixed by this Committee on or before the date limited for paying such assessments, and for the filing of declaration of their candidacy.

4th. That candidates for nomination for all said offices, except as herein provided for, shall within such time as may be specified by this Committee file with the Chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee a declaration of candidacy as follows:

"I hereby declare myself to be a candidate for the Democratic nomination in the primary election to be held on the second Tuesday in August, 1930, for the office of _____

I hereby certify that I did not vote a Republican Presidential ticket in November, 1928, or openly and publicly oppose the election of the nominees of the Democratic Party, or either of them, and that I did not oppose the election of the Democratic Electors for President or Vice President in November, 1928.

I further agree to abide by the result of the primary election in which I am a candidate, and to support the nominees of the Democratic Party in said election.

I further certify that I am a qualified white elector of the State of Alabama, and possess the qualifications fixed by law for the office for which I am a candidate.

Sworn to and subscribed before me, this _____ day of _____, 1930.

NOTARY PUBLIC.

Resolved Further: That all candidates for Democratic nomination for county offices shall be filled at the same time and place, and in the same primary election, and that the Democratic County Executive Committees are authorized to fix the political qualifications of candidates for county offices, except that no candidate shall be barred from running as a candidate by such County committees, for the reason that such candidate did support the Democratic nominees, or any of them in the Noember, 1928, election.

All candidates, (except candidates for County offices) are required to file with E. W. Pettus, Chairman of this Committee, on or before March 1st, 1930, a sworn declaration of their candidacy in the form set forth in the foregoing resolution; and on or before March 1st, 1930 to pay to E. W. Pettus, Chairman, Selma, Alabama, the qualifying fee for such candidate.

The qualifying fees as fixed are as follows:

Two per cent of the annual salary from all sources, for one year for all candidates for State, District, Circuit and National offices, except State Senators and Members of the Legislature; and that the assessments for all candidates for State Senator and Member of the Legislature be fixed at $25.00, and $10.00 for all candidates for membership on State Democratic Executive Committee.

Candidates for State Senator and member of the House of Representatives are required to qualify with the State Chairman. In addition, all candidates should comply with the Alabama Corrupt Practice Law.

E. W. PETTUS, Chairman, State Democratic Executive Committee, Selma, Alabama. 1-23-3tc

ORDER FOR PUBLICATION TO NON-RESIDENT

The State of Alabama, Chilton County. Circuit Court in Equity, Jan. 6, 1930. S. E. Armstrong, et als, Complainants, vs. J. D. Armstrong, et als, Defendants.

In this case it is made to appear to the Register by the affidavit of J. B. Atkinson, one of the solicitors for complainants, that Cecil Armstrong, one of the Defendants, is a non-resident, and that his place of residence and post-office address is Millidgeville, in the state of Georgia; and further, that, in the belief of said affiant, the said Defendant is over the age of twenty-one years:

It is, therefore, ordered by the Register that publication be made in the Chilton County News, a newspaper published in the County of Chilton once a week for four consecutive weeks requiring him, the said Cecil Armstrong to plead, answer, or demur to the bill of complaint in this cause by the 9th day of February, 1930, or, in thirty days thereafter, a decree pro confesso may be taken against him.

Done at office in Clanton, Ala., this 6th day of January, 1930.

W. D. SPIGENER, Register.

In Memoriam

On December 23, 1929, the last remains of Mrs. Martha J. Adams, wife of Judge S. M. Adams, were laid to rest in their family lot in the Clanton Cemetery. She was the daughter of Mr. Elijah Whately, a prominent and respected citizen of Perry County, and was born August 9, 1845. Early in life the Providence that directs the lives of we mortals, destined that she should meet with Judge Adams who, like herself, was young in years and just laying a firm foundation for the long, checkered and useful career that has been his. Their acquaintance soon developed into that tender sentiment of love that was pure and true enough to last through the long, long years that have elapsed and that even seemed to burn with a brighter and holier radiance as life's sinking sun faded away into twilight that ushered in the shades of that last final night.

Several years ago this most devoted wife and mother suffered an accident that made of her a cripple, but with a fortitude that was sublime, she sat day after day and year after year in her rolling chair, while the radiance of that wonderful love and devotion never wavered, but she remained to the end that same devoted, sacrificing wife and mother as ever.

Mrs. Adams left behind her here her husband, Judge S. M. Adams; a son, Mr. Enoch Adams, of Thorsby; and a sister, Mrs. Heath, of Clanton; besides other relatives broadly scattered over the country.

Judge and Mrs. Adams have buried in their lot here three children, one son, Dr. J. B. Adams; two daughters, Mrs. Leila Hester, wife of Mr. T. J. Hester; and Lillie Adams.

The body of the faithful mother is sleeping with these loved ones here while her spirit has gone to visit them in that eternal home beyond the skies and no doubt, they are looking forward to the time when those left behind arrive over there and what a glorious family reunion that will be in that "beautiful city not built by hands, eternal in the skies.

RUPTURE

EXPERT HERE

E. J. Meinhardi, of Chicago, the well known Rupture Shield Expert, will personally be at the Gay-Teague Hotel, Montgomery, Ala., on Saturday only, February 15th, from 10:00 A. M. to 6:00 P. M.

Mr. Meinhardi is highly recommended by thousands of satisfied customers. Take advantage of this opportunity to see him as he will not visit any other city in this section at this time. There is no charge for consultation. This Appliance is for men only.

Mr. Meinhardi says: The "Meinhardi Rupture Shield" not only retains the Rupture perfectly, but it also contracts the opening in ten days in the average case, regardless of the size or location of the rupture.

The "Meinhardi Rupture Shield" has no understraps. It is perfectly sanitary, practically indestructible, and may be worn while bathing.

Rupture often causes Stomach Trouble, Backache, Constipation, Nervousness, and other ailments which promptly disappear after the Rupture is properly retained. Thousands of deaths occurring annually from strangulated rupture can be avoided.

SPECIAL NOTICE—All customers that I have fitted here during the last ten years are invited to call for inspection for which there will be no charge. (Come in and talk with these customers regarding their experience with my Appliance.)

Please note the above dates and office hours carefully. (This visit is for white people only.)—E. J. Meinhardi, Home Office, 1551 N. Crawford Ave., Chicago.

MUD AND THE FARMER

A recent editorial in the "Bureau Farmer" says that the barrier of mud which five months out of the year separates five million farm families from the markets where they sell their produce, and likewise buy their supplies, is of supreme importance in the agricultural economic situation.

According to this authority, there are almost two and one-half million miles of unimproved dirt roads in the United States, and nearly five million farmers live on them. Farmers in this country pay seven per cent of the highway tax, yet less than three per cent of them are situated on year-round highways.

Here is room for some "farm-relief" activity which will actually relieve. The greatest present need, in the matter of highways, is improved farm-to-market roads. These can be constructed, with a durable water-proof surface, at a low cost and without large maintenance expense.

The five million farmers now living with a barrier of mud between them and their markets, are deserving of immediate consideration. Good roads will probably do more than anything else to advance agricultural progress and prosperity.

"ROUND TOWN"
-by Doug

"I Saw Down And Go Boom," would have been very appropriate, if my left foot had not been doing its duty not long ago when I stepped on the piece of tin which is supposed to cover a small trench across the sidewalk at Farmers Hardware Store. That piece of tin should be fixed, before some one falls and tries to sue for suit a more responsible party, if there is one.

A very good representation of Clanton's "400" was seen at one of the outstanding social affairs which went over at the Wilson Hotel last Friday night. This affair which bore the earmarks of a well conducted dance, along with a good, well-tutored orchestra present, will perhaps be the starting point of some more of what the pleasure-loving people here used to enjoy, several years back. It is sincerely hoped by this columnist that nothing in the vulgar line will make its presence at these dances. The one at the Wilson Hotel last Friday night was a success. As yet I have heard nothing contradictory. It was no cheap affair, but carried out in a very high-class manner. Maybe the next one can be held at the Exchange Hotel, alternating.

Looks as if I am going to have to do something again which I do not fancy, and I'm going to quit it, if folks will let me. That is, jumping on somebody about something. Now, last Saturday, in two different points on the sidewalk in town, some kind of free entertainment was going on, and the walkway, blocked by spectators. I even saw several "ladies" walk out into the street to pass. It was always my idea to let those who come to our town on Saturday, to kind of have right-of-way on that day, but this was too much. "There Oughta Be A Law Against That."

Noticed an article in one of the daily papers which said that styles in men's clothes were changing, and that the change in the dress of women, is largely responsible for this. "History repeats itself," suits this thing exactly. New styles in men's wear show the return of the "claw hammer" coat, for evening wear. Brightly colored shirts are also advised for the well-dressed man, in his daily work, and several other outrageous changes are being made. I am an admirer of the new length of dresses for ladies, but why can't they let us males alone in this idea of styles. Maybe I can have some of my clothes made over to suit the new styles for men: have my shirts dyed red, my hose a bright yellow, my ties a deep green. And just think, those darn pestering spats are advised for the well-dressed man. I've about decided I will just stay out of the "well-dressed circle" and maybe the styles will eventually come back to suit the style of my old clothes. Here's hoping. And as far as I am concerned the ladies can shorten their dresses if it will help matters any. If you have an opinion of someone whom you barely know, an opinion which is not so good, then in justice to that person, you should make it a point to become better acquainted with them. During the past several weeks, I was fortunate enough to be thrown in company with certain people, whom I did not have such a good opinion. After being with them for some time, I found that I was all wrong in my first conclusion concerning them. Before judging someone, be sure you know about them, not of them. This does not always work that way, though. But try it.

Saw a workman in the building to be occupied by the post-office soon. Maybe things are going to start down that way soon, or maybe they have already started. It's all right to change the post-office, but can't say much for changing our postmaster. He is a very obliging fellow, I think.

The Independent Merchants of Clanton usually talk among themselves of cooperation, and when some fellow comes along with a pretty good plan for this "working together," they won't get together. There is that ever-present obstacle, talk before action. If the independent merchant here sits back and grumbles about hard times, and folks trading with the chain stores, who do they have to blame? Here Clanton has two good newspapers, each with a splendid circulation, offering the same opportunity to the independent merchant as they do to the chain stores, that of getting their message to the people over the county.

Folks, if you ever hear or see the initials, F. F. A., it means the Future Farmers of America. I found that out, out here in the Isabella Community, where they have a very active group in that organization.

If red hear means what they say about pep, well things will probably pick up down about Nettles Grocery Store. Go down there and meet the new manager, Mr. Teel, he succeeded Mr. Lowery this week. Let's give him a clad hand.

John Lusk and his associates up here at this A & P Store are competent, themselves. A rather fine bunch of young fellows come into our midst.

Of course Mr. McEathern, and his several assistants at Hill's need no boosting. They have won friends here by their preparedness and courteous treatment.

Following, I am quoting from a paper I see quite often, and each time I see it, it impresses me. Here it is:

The Path Of Success

I will not worry.
I will not be afraid.
I will not give way to anger.
I will not yield to jealousy or hatred.
I will be kind to every man, woman, or child with whom I come in contact.
I will be cheerful and hopeful.
I will trust in God and bravely face the future.
Houses, lands, bonds, automobiles, are fine possessions. But far more precious still to anyone in any station, are the measures of the mind and soul—composure, courage, cheerfulness, tolerance, kindness, hope—all these, and faith in something higher than the eyes see and the hands hold.

About all there is in life worth trying for, is suggested in those few lines. About the best method of climbing higher is to remain on the level.

Cut these lines out and paste or stick them where you will see them often.

Mt. Pleasant News

An entertainment was given by the Junior I and Junior II Classes of Mt. Pleasant Junior High School in honor of the Junior III Class, Friday night, January 31, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Mastin. It was sponsored by the faculty of Mt. Pleasant Jr. High School.

The pupils who attended the party were Dorothy Jones, Ruby Wells, Ruth Wells, Nelson Melton, Ilar Massey, Pauline Eiland, Mary Foshee, Eula Mae Riggins, Agnes Collins, Mabel Gillespie, Annie Chambers, Woodrow Price, Renfro Price, Grady Miner, Maurice Hodgins, Theodore Littlejohn, Welby Cooper, Carl Pate, Waylon Collins, Hiram Littlejohn, Curtis Traywick, J. P. Culp.

Different contests were tried. The prize winners of the automobile contest were Maurice Hodgins and Eula Mae Riggins. The prize winner of the flower contest were Maurice Hodgins and Pauline Eiland.

Miss Olys Bean, elementary teacher of Mt. Pleasant school was called home last Thursday on account of the death of her grandmother.

We are very glad Mrs. R. L. Foshee is improving so that her daughter, Mary, may attend school more regular. Misses Ruth and Ruby Wells spent Friday night with Miss Agnes Collins. Miss Rosa Lee Collins returned home Sunday from Birmingham where she has been visiting her friends and relatives.

Miss Mary Foshee spent Friday night with Miss Pauline Eiland. Miss Eula Mae Riggins spent Sunday with Miss Frances Duke.

We will have a ball game on our court next Friday.

APPORTIONMENT
OF SCHOOL FUNDS
IS EXPLAINED

In view of the interest manifested by the citizens of the county in our schools and the many questions asked about the available funds for schools, I am giving to the press an article published in bulletin form by the State Department of Education telling about the apportionment and distribution of public school funds. I trust that every citizen of the county will study this article. It will answer every question relative to the available funds for the schools.

I wish to take this opportunity to say that I am always glad to answer any questions that may be asked about our school system and we wish you to be informed about all matters having to do with our schools. If after you have read this article published by the State Department of Education you find in it points you do not understand I shall be glad to answer any question about it you feel like asking.

We have thousands of children in our schools and it would do you good to visit these schools and see these youngsters at work. They have in them great possibilities for development if they are only given the opportunity. Recently I heard Wm. Sysbee McNeill, one of our own county boys in a radio program and no doubt you heard him. He gave me somewhat the feeling of a proud parent who hears his own child deliver a great speech or do something else worth while. It made me love the county better. This boy has had the opportunity afforded him by our government to train himself for the work he is doing. Many of our Chilton County boys and girls have made good in life. In one way or another they have had an opportunity to prepare themselves for the different fields they are now in, and more of our boys and girls can do the same thing if they have only a chance. Let us give them the best we have and certainly they are entitled to at least the same advantages of training as the boys and girls of the other counties of the state.

Trusting that the article published below will be of benefit to you and the county, I am,

Yours for a larger and better school system.

B. LAWRENCE,
County Supt. Education.

Apportionment And Distribution Of Public Funds for Education
State Funds Classified Into 3 Groups
In Alabama, public funds for educational purposes are available from two general sources, namely, ad valorem taxes, which have been levied specifically for education, and legislative appropriations. The distribution of the funds from each of these sources will be discussed in this article.

Ad Valorem Taxes for Education County Taxes

By constitutional enactment any county in Alabama may levy a tax of four mills on the assessed valuation of the entire county, the proceeds of which are to be used to provide schools for the children in those counties. This means that for every one hundred dollars of assessed valuation in a county 40 cents may be received for the schools of that county. Of this sum, 10 cents must be spent for lengthening the school term. The remaining 30 cents may be spent for school purposes in accordance with rules and regulations prescribed by the county board of education. In doing so, the board must maintain, so far as practicable, a uniform term throughout the entire county.

District Taxes
The Constitution gives school districts the power to levy and collect a special three-mill tax for public school purposes. The funds arising from this special tax in any district must be used for the exclusive benefit of the public schools of that district. These funds must be apportioned and expended in accordance with such rules and regulations as the county or city board of education may prescribe.

State Taxes

The Constitution provides that a three-mill tax shall be levied and collected each year on the total assessed valuation of property within the entire state and that the proceeds from this tax shall accrue to the public school fund to be apportioned to the several counties of the state by the tenth of October or as soon thereafter as practicable. The public school fund of which these moneys are a part is now known as the General Education Fund, the distribution of which will be discussed later in this article.

J. L. Ruffin Attends Georgia Convention

Solution of the farm relief problem will come from the farmers of the United States themselves, rather than from any governmental aid, according to William H. Danforth of St. Louis, founder of the Ralston Purina Company, who was one of the principal speakers during a record-breaking convention of Southern feed dealers sponsored by that organization January 27 and 28 at Atlanta, Georgia. Mr. J. L. Ruffin of Clanton, Alabama, returned today from the convention, which he stated was the most enthusiastic ever held under the sponsorship of the Ralston Purina Company.

"Application of business methods to farming will bring the surest relief to those engaged in the agricultural industry," Mr. Danforth stated during his talk. "The use of accurate records on all livestock and poultry is absolutely essential for the farmer of today. In this way only can he detect the profit-makers or the profit-takers in his herds of cattle and hogs and his flocks of poultry. By careful checking on each animal and bird on his place he can cull out and use only the high producers and money makers.

"Carrying the business attitude of today further into farming," Mr. Danforth continued, "the farmer has learned that the steady cash income from diversified agriculture is one of his chief helps. This is especially true in the South, where it was formerly thought only cotton could be produced profitably. These men are now turning to dairying, poultry raising and hog raising to supplement their farm income. Within the past five years millions have been spent in the erection of milk condenseries, cheese factories, creameries, poultry fattening plants and in some cases packing houses, which provide markets for surplus products of the cow, pig and hen.

"As there is a constant cash market for the farmer for milk, cream, chickens, eggs, lamb, pork and by the sale of these he is able to pay cash for his feed, tool, farm implements, seeds and other commodities, it is naturally the one-crop farmer who is now suffering the most desperate financial condition. Naturally, the farmer who has this ready cash coming in regularly can pay cash for what he buys and thereby get a lower price on his purchases."

During the convention, Mr. J. L. Ruffin said, emphasis was put on new merchandising ideas which will help Southern feed dealers render better service to the feeders of poultry and livestock in their communities. It was pointed out by the various speakers during the convention that only by receiving cash can the dealer help the feeder in getting the most from his money. A feed dealer, he said, can not lend money as cheaply as a bank, and it stands to reason that credit purchases must cost the customer more than cash buying. "Merchants" said Mr. J. L. Ruffin, "are giving their customers who pay cash advantage of a lower price per ton for the prompt payment of bills."

WHO IS EDUCATED?

Amidst the confusion among various schools of thought regarding present-day education, it is really difficult to find a satisfactory yardstick with which to measure that elusive individual, the educated man.

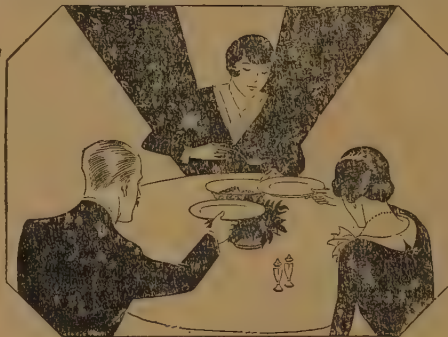

Many hold the view that no one is truly educated unless he is familiar with the classics, proficient in several languages living and dead, versed in higher mathematics, and so on. Another school, while recognizing the desirability of a classical education when circumstances permit, denies that the classicists have license to lord it over their more practical brethren, or to lay exclusive claims to real education. In this connection a thought recently expressed by the Boston philanthropist, Edward A. Filene, is pertinent. He declares that "the educated mind today is the mind which best learns how to use the knowledge in existence, particularly those truths which apply to the thing which he is doing."

And that seems to be a very good definition.

Peas Please

DR should there be a comma in the above headline so it would read: "Peas, please." Either way it rings true. Peas please and people ask you please to pass them. Here are three new ways of serving them:

These Hit the Spot

Curried Pea Omelet: Make an omelet as usual of three eggs, three tablespoons milk and one-half teaspoon salt. Combine one tablespoon butter, one tablespoon flour, one-fourth teaspoon salt, three-eighths teaspoon curry powder and three-fourths cup milk into a white sauce in the usual way. Add three-fourths cup canned peas to the sauce and pour hot over the omelet just before folding it over onto the platter. Serves four.

two egg yolks well, and add one cup pea pulp made by pressing canned peas through a sieve. Add one cup milk and one and one-fourth cups flour, two and one-half teaspoons baking powder and one teaspoon salt, sifted together. Add three tablespoons hot bacon fat and beat well, then fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake somewhat longer than the ordinary waffle. Serve with strips of crisp bacon on top and garnished round the edges with hot creamed peas. Recipe makes six waffles.

Potato and Pea Salad: Marinate one No. 2 can of peas and two cups of diced boiled potatoes in French dressing for a very long time. Add one-half cup diced pickled beets and one tablespoon chopped onion, and moisten with mayonnaise. Serve in lettuce nests. Serves eight.*

A Million Biddies
Leave Eggs Weekly

Auburn, Ala., Feb. 6.—Every week in Alabama now a million baby chicks are pecking through the egg shells in which nature produced them and stepping forth as live fowls. This will continue through the early spring season. Heat for hatching most of the chicks is furnished by hens, but more than ever before are coming from artificial incubators.

The figure as to weekly hatches is based upon an estimate by F. W. Gist, agricultural statistician at Montgomery, that 10 million chickens are raised in Alabama annually. Since mortality is high, the total hatch exceeds this by several million. Perhaps 90 per cent of these chicks are hatched in the spring season—from early January into April. February and March are the main hatching months, during which time hens and incubators are running at full capacity.

An estimate by Prof. G. A. Trollope, head of the poultry department at Auburn, is that commercial incubators of Alabama will turn out during the busy season 200,000 baby chicks each week. There are now 43 commercial hatcheries in Alabama having a capacity of 10,000 to 50,000 eggs each. In addition there are many smaller hatcheries. His estimate of 200,000 baby chicks per week is based upon an egg capacity of nearly 300,000 a week, thereby making a liberal allowance for non-hatchability of eggs.

To aid poultrymen in raising these chicks, H. R. Bailey, extension poultryman at Auburn, has written a circular. It is No. 119, "Grow Healthy Pullets," published by the Extension Service of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. It gives suggestions as to hatching, feeding, and management. Copies will be furnished free by county farm and home demonstration agents, or upon request to Mr. Bailey at Auburn.

FIRE LOSS DECREASES

The war against fire, according to statistics recently issued by the National Board of Fire Underwriters, is gaining ground.

The loss last year totaled $422,215,128, in contrast to losses of more than $472,000,000 in 1928 and 1927, and $561,000,000 in the record year of 1926, when fire waste was the greatest in history.

During 1929 the highest monthly loss was in January—$44,713,825—and the lowest in November—$29,061,869.

While the percentage decrease over preceding years was small, it gives cause for hope. Apparently the American public is at last heeding warnings and is cooperating to some extent with the various public and private organizations which are leading the war against fire. Without this cooperation victory is impossible.

During 1930, the National Board, because of the definite public interest shown in our fire record, will issue loss figures about 15 days after the end of each month. The war against fire is every citizen's war and every citizen gains when losses decrease. America's need is a great cooperative movement to understand and remove the causes that are responsible for our gigantic fire waste.

Letter From Stapp
About Poultry Sale

Clanton, Ala., Jan. 30, 1930.
To All Who Sell Chickens:

Beginning February 1st we will run several poultry cars through the county. The first car will stop as follows: Verbena, Feb. 5th—Afternoon. Clanton, Feb. 6th—All Day. Jemison, Feb., 7th—All Day.

Regardless of when or to whom you sell chickens you should cull them. In young stock always sell off the small, undeveloped birds and save only the strongest, most vigorous, best developed birds.

When you wish to sell off hens you should take pains to keep your best producers. The following points should help you to separate your best producers from your poorest producers:

Good producing hens are usually well developed, having good, clear eyes; intelligent looking head, large red comb, wide and long back; about three fingers' width between the pelvic bones on each side of the vent; about four to six fingers' width between the end of the breast or keel bone and the pelvic bones. The abdomen should be soft and fluffy and the vent large and moist. The legs should show very little or no color.

With poor producers you will find many of the following characteristics:

A long, weak looking head, small comb, narrow back; pelvic and keel bones close together, the vent small and dry, abdomen firm, legs and beak showing yellow color.

Trusting that the above points will help you, I am,

Yours very truly,
C. E. STAPP,
County Agent.

USE OF DOUBLE - BARRED CROSS—IS ACCIDENT

The victim of tuberculosis in Alabama, unless he lives in one of four counties, Mobile, Montgomery, Jefferson and Etowah, must become an inmate of Bryce Hospital at Tuscaloosa or the Sanatorium at the State Prison to receive treatment. Alabama is without a state hospital for the care and treatment of the tuberculous sick.

The campaign to make Alabama conscious of the white plague has been carried on with increasing momentum in the last few years, and this year the Alabama Tuberculosis Association with its officials from all over the state, plans to make every effort to bring the issue before state legislators.

The work of fighting tuberculosis in Alabama is carried on through the sale of the cherry Christmas seal, the proceeds of which go to the various counties and to the state organization to educate Alabama and assist in the war on the white plague.

When one sees the double-barred cross, according to Richard F. Hudson, executive secretary, one may rest assured that the emblem represents the united efforts of many groups to stamp out or control tuberculosis.

Adopted in 1902, the emblem is not only used throughout the United States, but has now been accepted by almost every country in the world.

Dr. J. D. Heacock, president of the organization in Birmingham says that the emblem was discovered quite by accident. During a meeting of the International Conference on Tuberculosis in 1902 a French Physician, Dr. Ser-siron, proposed the Lorraine Cross with its two bars as an emblem which should parallel the Greek Cross Agencies to represent tuberculosis work. The emblem was accepted. Every Christmas seal bears the double-barred cross, which assures one that every dollar spent for seals goes to fight tuberculosis in Alabama.

"It is important to use some kind of clean dry litter such as planer shavings, peat moss, or dry sand in the brooder house if clean, healthy chicks are expected."—H. R. Bailey, extension poultryman, Auburn.

some were said to have given the Athletic Club some of the stiffest competition they have encountered so far this year. The final score was nineteen to thirty seven in favor of Clanton.

B. R. Goldsman manager of the Athletic Club reports increasing difficulty, as Clanton wins more games, in scheduling strong teams. It appears that the strong teams of Birmingham and Montgomery are beginning to fight shy of the "Contry Boys" as one manager termed them in cancelling a game with Manager Goldsman for fear of being beaten. And any one has been keeping up with the games which the local team has played can see the reason why. We certainly have a championship team. The Woodlawn Methodist Church team after defeating a number of strong teams from Birmingham and winning a reputation as one of the strongest teams from the city came to Clanton full of hope expecting to win an easy victory as they had during their fifteen previous games, and had their unblemished record marred by the Clanton team. Manager Goldsman reports it increasingly difficult for him to schedule games with teams from Birmingham and Montgomery, having had several cancellations recently. The following schedule for the next few weeks was announced this week but if cancellations continue to come in as fast as they have in the last few days the schedule may be much different than it is now. The games scheduled so far are which any town the size of Clanton should be proud.

On last Tuesday night, the Clanton Athletic Club defeated the strong Norwood Baptist team from Birmingham, to the tune of 44 to 18. Roy Connasser showed some swell playing, scoring 22 points for Clanton. Doc Baker ranked next with 8 points. Todhunter, for Norwood was high-score man, making 6 points. This game was witnessed by a large crowd of spectators.

Selma Y. M. C. A. here Thursday, thirteenth.

Birmingham Electric here twenty-first.

First Baptist Church of Birmingham, here eighteenth.

Sixth Avenue Presbyterian of Birmingham, here nineteenth.

It seems to us that the people of Clanton should wake up and take more interest in the team which appears to be of championship quality and of a mistake was unfortunately made in the account of last week's games which we wish to correct. The statement was made that the Clanton Athletic Club was defeated by Isabella. In place of the Athletic Club the name of the Chilton County High School should have been inserted and we gladly take this time to correct this error.

PEOPLES TELEPHONE COMPANY URGES PATRONS TO PAY OFF

Do you want the Peoples Telephone Company to continue to operate? If you do you will have to pay your central fee, and it must be paid right away. The company hasn't enough money to operate on much longer, and unless those who have not paid come in and do so within the next few days, something will have to be done that the board of directors do not know about now if the central office is continued in operation.

House rent, lights, fuel and the salary of the operator must be paid and it takes money to do these things so the board of directors urges every one who holds a Peoples phone to pay your central fee at once and let's keep this service going. It is the cheapest telephone service in the world, and it is something that the people out in the country especially can not afford to be without.

If the company goes dead we will more than likely lose our franchise and we will probably not be granted another if we should want to start it up later. So we had better keep it going while we can. Think the matter over and act now.—Board of Directors, Peoples Telephone Company.

TWO CHILTON GIRLS ARE GIVEN POSITION AS HONOR STUDENTS

According to recent reports from Judson College, Marion, Ala., Misses Cordelia Gullledge of Verbena, Ala., a Sophomore and Miss Mary Ellis, of Clanton, a Senior at Judson, have been mentioned as Honor Students.

State News

Gadsden, Ala., Feb. 2.—Bernice Shew, age 6, was critically wounded while playing with a .22-caliber rifle at his home. Hospital attendants stated that the bullet from the rifle, when it accidentally discharged, entered the brain of the child.

Marion, Ala., Feb. 3.—Dr. Harry Henderson Clark of Furman University, Greenville, S. C., will succeed Dr. E. W. Baldy as president of Judson College on June 1st, when the resignation of Dr. Baldy takes effect.

Bessemer, Ala., Feb. 2.—Luther Harris, age 15, son of L. M. Harris, died Sunday as the result of being accidentally shot when he layed a rifle down on the ground. The rifle discharged, the bullet entering the lad's brain.

Gadsden, Ala., Feb. 2.—A new city jail will be erected here. The new structure will be fire proof throughout. During course of construction, all city prisoners will be confined in the county jail.

Letter From The Local L & N Agent

while on the other hand the Railroad taxes and pay rolls are a large factor in the support of our schools, the building of highways, etc. The L. & N. R. R. pays annually in this county $32,445.97, State, County and School taxes, $189.98 City taxes, $25.50 City license and in addition the payrolls of the local employees amounts to $11,175.91 per annum, and also the Railroad purchases cross ties and lumber at this station and a goodly portion of this money will remain in the community and add to the general prosperity by its circulation from one to another. We frequently hear the rail rate referred to as being high. Even if rail rates are higher than truck rates the public has a greater interest in the success of the rail carriers, as the rail carriers have a large part in sustaining our schools, churches and building our roads and assisting in the general welfare of our community.

Our prosperity and our standards of living are much more affected by service than by price. The Railroad question from the standpoint of the public interest is how to insure a continuation of the present efficiency and speed of service. Public opinion will largely determine the answer. Service will depend upon earning power, earning power will depend upon the kind of regulation to which Railroads are subject and the extent to which they are patronized by the public. With decreasing earning powers due to the transference of freight and passenger traffic to trucks and busses the valuation of Railroad property for taxation decreases, train service is reduced, and pay rolls decreased. Some communities and sections served by the L. & N. have commenced to realize that by deflecting freight and passenger earnings to other means of transportation they are hurting themselves not only directly, but indirectly.

Friends, let's think of this matter seriously and make a concerted effort to remedy the conditions and remove the menace which we are facing.

A & P MANAGER RETURNS TO BIRMINGHAM LAST WEEK

Mr. John Lusk, who was manager of the local A & P Store, left last Sunday for Birmingham. Mr. Lusk is succeeded as manager of the store by Messrs. A. Y. Trammel and J. B. Warren, who were connected with the store on its opening here, recently. These two young men are no doubt very competent to handle this grocery store.

ARTIST'S AND LECTURE COURSE TO OPEN AT MONTEVALLO

Montevallo, Ala., Feb. 4.—With its increased facilities through the opening of Palmer Hall, an auditorium which will seat more than 1600 persons, Alabama College is extending announcements of its Artist and Lecture Course numbers beyond Montevallo, and into surrounding districts within automobile distance.

The first number under the auspices of the Artist and Lecture Course Committee will be given on Saturday of this week, when the Ben Greet Players, an English Shakespearian company, will give "Twelfth Night" at a matinee, and "The Merchant of Venice" in the evening.

The Ben Greet Company is appearing in America for the first time since 1914. Their present tour will include principal colleges and universities between New York and California.

In Memory Of Mrs. G. A. Hughey

On January 30, 1930, the Death Angel visited the home of Mr. G. A. Hughey and took from the home the loyal and faithful wife and loving mother.

Mrs. Hughey, Rossa Alice Johnson, was born January 9, 1891, in Perry County near Marion, Alabama, and spent most of her life there with the exception of a few years spent in Oklahoma and Chilton County, Alabama. She became a member of the Free Will Baptist church at the age of 16 and was a devoted Christian throughout her life. At the age of 24, she was married to Mr. G. A. Hughey, and has served well her part as a faithful wife and loving mother.

Although Mrs. Hughey made her home in Chilton County only a few years she won, through her gentle and noble character, a number of friends who will greatly miss her. All those who knew her can only say, "To know her was to love her."

Left to mourn her loss are her husband and two sons, age 14 and 8 years, her mother, Mrs. Isaac Johnson, Spratt, Alabama, and seven brothers, Mr. J. J. Johnson, Mr. L. E. Johnson, Mr. E. H. Johnson, and Mr. J. E. Johnson, of Spott, Alabama, Mr. D. W. A. Johnson, Blocton, Alabama, Mr. A. A. Johnson, Ensley, Ala., Mr. A. S. Johnson, Billingsley, Ala., and two sisters, Mrs. Julia Nichols and Miss Lillie Johnson, Spott, Alabama, besides a host of relatives and friends. Her father, Isaac Johnson, went to his reward about twelve months ago.

Funeral services were held at New Cedron church near Billingsley on January 31, Rev. Paul Oden officiating. Interment was made in the New Cedron Cemetery.

CIRCLE NUMBER ONE TO MEET WITH MRS. MARCUS POLK, JR.

Circle Number One of the Clanton Methodist church will meet with Mrs. Marcus Polk, Jr., on next Monday afternoon, at three o'clock, according to an announcement given the News.

M. with Major Hoople, Melville Baker, officiating. The nuptial music will be in charge of Mrs. Gordon and Mr. Sid Gibson, assisted by Mrs. Maggie Jigg, Mrs. Metcalf. The wedding party includes Henrietta Zander, Mrs. R. B. Cotley; Benjamin Gump, Hollis Hiten; Andy Gump, Mr. R. E. DeSear; Min Gump, Mrs. John Hollis; Mac, Mr. Will Guldred; Groomsman, Hairbreadth Harry, Mr. Barnett Deramus; Bridesmaids, Lillie, Miss Lila Mae Jolly; Belinda, Miss Jettie Ward; Flower girl, Orphan Annie, Evelyn Caffey; Ring Bearer, Chester Gump, Reeder Cathey; Train Bearer, Katzenjammer Kids, Anne Ward, Judith Gibson.

Many out of town guests are expected among the most prominent are: Walt and Skeezix, Rachael, Goliath Gump, Mutt and Jeff, Tom Carr, Mary Gold, Mandy, Plato, Boots, Flapper Fanny, Freckles and his friends, Babe, Barney Google and Sunshine, Toots and Casper, members of the Rinky-Dink Club, Emmy Schmaltz, Moon Mullins, Kayo and others.

This entertainment is being directed by Mrs. Irbey DeRamus. Admission 20 and 35 cents.

VERBENA WILL PRESENT ENTERTAINING PLAY FEB. 21

Rehearsals for the play, "Can You Beat It?" are well under way. This play is to be given by the faculty of the Verbena School at the Verbena High School auditorium February 21, at 8 P. M.

The story is of one Letitia Todd, Miss Lila Mae Jolly, a social climber married to Timothy, Lee W. Douglas, just a plain good scout. Frances, Miss Jettie Ward, their niece, lives with them and keeps Letitia on edge because she wants to be herself. Mrs. Van Dresser, Mrs. John Ward, who socially owns the town, is about to give a party to which Letitia is bending every energy to be invited. Frances agrees to help and the play merrily tells of their effort to get the invitation. Jan Meredith, Mr. Homer Crim, the poetic peddler, who is an enthusiastic salesman of Trilly's Bunion Cure, arrives and promptly spills the beans. In taking account of her ancestors Mrs. Van Dresser has overlooked one branch of the family tree, old Dan Dickerman, Mr. Hollis Hiten, from Beeswax, S. D., and Frances cleverly arranges to force an invitation by bringing Dan in at the opportune moment. Well of course Jan and Frances have a sweet little love affair, and Sara, Miss Edna Davis, the maid, furnishes many a laugh. Everyone will go home well pleased.

This is one of the new royalty plays of the year and is being directed by Mrs. Barnett Deramus. Admission 20 and 35 cents.

HISTORY CLASS ADDS BOOKS TO LOCAL SCHOOL LIBRARY

The Senior III History Class of the local high school has added several volumes of American History to the library of the school.

The acquiring of these books was brought about through the sale of candy by the class, with Miss Annie Laurie Clay in charge.

Isabella News

Much work in Home Improvement has been done in this community thru the joint efforts of Miss Cora Belle Maddox, Home Economics teacher, and Mr. Erle Thomas, vocational agriculture teacher. The girls in Miss Maddox's Home Economics Department all have home projects which they work on the outside of school for improvement of their homes. Much interest is being shown in this phase of the work. During the last year the following have painted their houses with Davis's Ever Bright Paint: C. L. Lecroy, H. R. Oden, C. C. Williams, A. T. Lecroy, Luther Patterson, J. W. Williams, E. R. Bearden and R. T. Williams.

There are many who have started flower gardens, putting out shrubbery also. The people are grateful to these teachers for their interest in their community.

Home Economic Plays

The vocational girls will give two Home Economic plays entitled, "Doughnuts" and "Yes, We Have No Baking Powder," on February 15th, at seven-thirty.

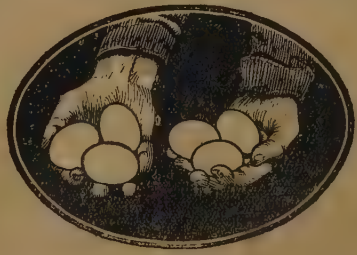

Come and enjoy the fun. Music will be furnished by the Kitchen Band. Old Home songs pantomimed, which will give everyone a thrill to recall the feelings of each song. Admission 15c and 25c.

The proceeds from the play will go to the Home Economics Department.

THREE SHOT IN WEEK END QUARRELS

Two Are Arrested Connected With Shooting; One In Hospital

Three persons were shot, one seriously, as the result of quarrels over the past week end in Chilton County. Reddie Traywick, young son of Ben Traywick, was placed in jail here, and Burton Tyus, son of Hall Tyus, sent to the Central Alabama Hospital, as the result of a misunderstanding between the two on last Saturday night, near the cotton mill.

According to the story given to the News, Traywick struck Tyus in the face with a pistol and then shot him, the bullet entering the latter's neck just above the breast bone and emerging from the other side. Tyus was carried to the hospital here, where according to reports, he is getting along all right, although his condition was at first thought to have been serious.

Traywick was arrested and placed in the county jail here, where at the time of this writing he is still held, charged with assault with intent to murder, according to information.

Vernie Smith, son of T. J. Smith, and Luther Mims, son of John Mims, were suffering from gunshot wounds as the result of a Sunday night brawl between the three, which occurred near the home of Headley, about five miles north of Clanton on the old Birmingham highway, according to information.

Headley was arrested and charged with assault and also with intent to murder, reports stated. He was released on bonds of $300 on each charge. Neither of those shot is said to be in a serious condition.

TAYLOR-HEFLIN MARRIAGE WAS QUIETLY SOLEMNIZED

On Wednesday night, of last week Miss Lila Heflin became the bride of Mr. Jimmie Taylor, when the marriage vows were read to this young couple by Rev. J. W. Jones, pastor of the Thorsby Baptist church in Thorsby, at his home.

Immediately after the ceremony which was performed in the presence of a few friends, the couple left for a short wedding trip, later returning to the home of the bride and then to Clanton, where they will make their home, occupying the bungalow formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Bob Baker on Third Avenue.

The bride is the attractive and charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nash Heflin of the Collins Chapel community, and was before her marriage, assistant to Dr. S. C. Wood. During her stay in Clanton she has been aided by her many friends.

The groom is the son of Mr. T. G. Taylor, and holds a responsible position with the Taylor Wholesale Grocery company of Clanton.

FARM BUREAU CONTEST WINNERS ANNOUNCED THIS WEEK

The contest recently staged by the Chilton County Farm Bureau, among the schools of the county resulted with Pleasant Grove school ranking first, with Baker school second, and Collins Chapel Junior High school at third.

LOCAL BAPTIST PASTOR WILL BEGIN SERIES

Congregation Asked To Hand In Familiar Proverbs As Subjects

Last Sunday night, at the evening services of the Clanton Baptist church, S. J. Ezell, pastor, began a series of sermons based on well known proverbs. The first subject was "Those Who Must Pay The Fiddler," and was followed by a large and appreciative congregation. The pastor has asked his congregation to hand in any adage familiar to them, on which they believe they may be able to construct a suitable sermon.

Those who have some familiar saying requested to hand in their suggestion to the pastor, or place it in the collection plate, and it will be given consideration, and if the pastor can find it out, he will deliver a sermon on it.

STAPP URGES FARMERS TO PLANT GOOD STAPLE COTTON

County Agent Stapp is making an effort to get farmers of Chilton County to plant cotton that will give high yields of good staple cotton.

Mr. Stapp states that the recent report of the Alabama Experiment Station shows that the average result of nine tests in central Alabama over a period of four years shows an average yield of 467 pounds of lint cotton of 15-16 inch staple per acre for leading variety, against 366 pounds of lint cotton of less than 7-8 inch staple for some of the lower yielding varieties.

Farmers desiring to plant one of the highest yielding varieties of good staple should see County Agent Stapp at once in order that he can arrange to get several cars of the best available planting seed for this year.

The News is pleased to state this week that Dr. J. P. Hayes, who has been confined to his bed at home here with pneumonia, is able to be out again and fully on the road to recovery.

THREE CASES TRIED MONDAY

Two Draw Fines In Mayor's Court Last Monday Morning

Three cases came up before Mayor Hart on last Monday morning for trial. Oscar Minor, who was arrested on last Saturday night by Chief of Police Bookholdt, plead guilty and was fined $25.00 and costs, according to information.

Henry Sawyer, negro, who was arrested on last Saturday afternoon by Officer Bookholdt, plead guilty before Mayor Hart and drew a fine of $10.00 and costs, and sixty days hard labor on the streets, the latter being suspended on good behavior. He was charged with assault, it was stated.

Addie Mae Wesson, young white girl, was arrested on last Thursday by Bookholdt, charged with petit larceny, the reports stated. Her case came up Monday morning, and was continued until next Monday, February 17th.

CHEST REPORTS CONTINUE TO COME IN; NEARING CLOSE

Following we give another report, handed in by Mrs. C. E. Stapp, County Welfare Worker. The reports given here comes from Thorsby, and is an additional report, as they had sent in donations at one time before, during the drive.

A complete report is expected to be given next week, of the Chest Fund Drive.

G. F. Harper, $5.00; Mrs. Irma E. Hanson, $5.00; J. L. Mixon, $5.00; E. N. Bentley, $5.00; Thorsby Mercantile Co., $5.00 (in trade); Miss Caroline Skinner $3.00; Thorsby High School, $2.00; Miss Jewell Martin, $1.50; Miss Clara Vines, $1.00; Miss Ruth Martin, $1.00; Mrs. Hattie M. Gerald, $1.00; A. P. Sorenson, 50c.

QUARTER MILLION DOLLARS STOP HERE; DOESN'T STAY

Something unusual in the way of occurrences in Clanton, stopped over for a short stay. This was $250,000, which was being transferred to Greenville from Birmingham, according to information.

The car containing this money was escorted by four armed motorcycle cops and stopped at Alfred's Station for gas. Just on leaving the city limits, the car collided with a truck, causing a slight delay. It was hard to see so much money pass us by, with only a short visit.

EDISON WAS EIGHTY-THREE YEARS OLD LAST TUESDAY

Last Tuesday was Thomas Alva Edison's 83rd birthday anniversary, according to Howard C. Smith of Montgomery who gave some high points in Edison's life last Tuesday at the noon program over Station WAPI.

Fifty years ago, Edison brought to the world, the electric light, which many people use, never thinking how they came to be able to have this luxury. One thing told about Edison, was his advice to young men, "Never Watch the Clock."

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Easterling, accompanied by Misses Selestia Bookholdt and Willie Mae Easterling motored to Birmingham Wednesday of last week, and spent the day.

DATES SET FOR MEETINGS WITH FARMERS

County Agent Will Discuss Important Items With Farmers

C. E. Stapp, County Agent, will meet with farmers over the county, during the next several days, at places and dates already set, for the purpose of discussing with them the latest fertilizer and seed varieties recently recommended by the experiment station at Auburn.

These meetings, Mr. Stapp stated, will be held in the school houses of the communities, and gives the following schedule of meetings to be held:

Next Monday night, February 17th, at Pleasant Grove; the following Tuesday night at the Union Grove school house, and on the following Wednesday night at Collins Chapel.

All those who are interested in these discussions are urged to attend the meeting in their community, or the nearest meeting held to them, as it is believed that much good information will be derived from them.

FIRE ALARM NOTICE

Beginning this month, the fire alarm on top of the Upchurch Drug Store will be sounded at twelve o'clock noon, on the first and fifteenth of each month, for tryouts. However, should the alarm be sounded more than once on these days, at the hour stated, there is a fire.

Music Study Club Of Clanton Will Meet February 18th

Mrs. Barney Roberts Will Act As Hostess To Club With An Interesting Program

The Music Study Club of Clanton will meet on next Tuesday, February 18th, at the home of Mrs. Barney Roberts, who will act as hostess, assisted by Mrs. L. C. Ross.

A very interesting program is on schedule for this meeting and all members are urgently requested to attend. Following is the program:

Roll Call—Current Events in Music in America.

Quiz—Mrs. J. B. Atkinson, Mrs. F. A. Childs, Mrs. Macey Jones, Mrs. John Armstrong, Mrs. Arthur Willis, leader.

National and Patriotic Happenings in America by Mrs. Glenn Boyd.

March, Sousa, by Mrs. Barney Roberts.

Bands in Public Schools, Mrs. Warr. Miss Clay, and Miss Morris.

Solo—Selected, Mrs. L. C. Ross.

Orchestras of America, Mrs. J. C. Jones.

The next meeting following this one will be held with Mrs. J. C. Page as hostess on March 18th.

MT. PLEASANT JR. HIGH DEFEATS UNION GROVE

In a hotly contested battle last Saturday afternoon the Mt. Pleasant basketball lads came out on the large end of the score over the Union Grove team, at Union Grove, 15 to 14.

This game was the most interesting and the most exciting one yet played by either team.

At the end of the half Union Grove was clinging to the lead, 11 to 8, but at the beginning of the second half the Mt. Pleasant boys came out of their slow movements which were evident all through the first half, and ran up a 5 point lead. Hodgins' with 6 points and Littlejohn with 7, were the high scorers for the winners. Glass, Jones, and Chandler were the main scorers for Union Grove.

The game was replete with thrills and excitement as a large crowd was lined around the court cheering for both teams.

These two teams will play on the indoor court at Clanton at an early date. Watch for the time and be there for these two junior high teams have developed a strong friendly rivalry between them and a real thriller for junior high teams will be forthcoming.

On Friday, February 21 Enterprise Junior High school plays Mt. Pleasant on the Mt. Pleasant court.

Mr. E. G. Caldwell, prominent merchant of Pletcher, Ala., was a visitor to Clanton last Tuesday, calling at the News office while in town.

POULTRY CAR BRINGS NICE SUM OF MONEY

Over Three Thousand Dollars Worth Of Poultry Sold At Car Door

The cooperative poultry car which ran over the Louisville & Nashville railroad during the first part of this past week, through the efforts of the Chilton County Farm Bureau, netted farmers of the county a very neat sum of money, and was well loaded.

The car stopped at Verbena on Wednesday afternoon, February 5th, taking on 3,077 pounds, paying for this poultry $644.72 at the car door.

On the following Thursday at Clanton all day 7,983 pounds were loaded on, and $1649.45 was paid to the farmers.

On the following Friday the car stopped at Jefferson loading 5,304 pounds and paying out $108.46.

The total number of pounds of poultry loaded on the car was 16,354, bringing a total of $3375.63 to the farmers and poultry raisers of this section. These figures came from the office of the County Agent here.

SUNBEAMS WILL HAVE PARTY AT THE CHURCH TODAY

Members of the Sunbeam Band will have a Valentine Party at the Baptist church this afternoon from 3 o'clock until five.

A good time is assured, and all members are urged to be present.

Alabama Ginners Are Facing Big Legal Question

Statewide Meeting Called to Consider Questions of Practice and Law; Also What Makes a Good Gin

Statewide interest among ginners and farmers is being manifest in the annual Alabama Ginners' Association, to be held February 18 and 19, at 10 A. M., at the Jefferson Davis Hotel, in Montgomery, according to a letter sent out by Joe N. Poole of Butler Springs, President of the Alabama Ginner's Association.

Mr. Poole states that this will be the most important meeting the Alabama Ginners have ever called.

A number of important subjects will be discussed, such as: "Should an oil mill pay a ginner a different commission to buy seed when gin is located at, or near, a railroad, compared to the amount paid to a ginner 10 to 20 miles distant from railroad?"

"Has the operation of oil mills under the Federal Trade Commission been of benefit or damage to the ginner?"

"Are the existing Alabama laws of benefit to the Alabama ginners; and also does the Association want to instruct its legislative committee to work for their repeal?"

"Shall the gins of Alabama be declared a public utility?"

On Tuesday night, February 18, there will be a banquet at the Jefferson Davis Hotel. Mr. Poole urges all interested parties to be present.

A number of outstanding authorities will take part in the discussion. Hugh White, President of the Public Service Commission, is expected to discuss gins as public utilities; and Seth P. Storrs, Commissioner of Agriculture, is expected to talk regarding present ginning laws as administered by the Department of Agriculture.

CLANTON LAUNDRY INSTALLS SMOKE ELIMINATOR OUTFIT

Leo Thompson, manager of the Clanton Laundry & Cleaning Co., stated this week that they had recently installed what is known as a force-feed coal burner, for the purpose of eliminating smoke from their steam plant.

This piece of machinery, electricaly driven, is also said to bring about a higher efficiency in operation of steam plants such as the laundry uses, and judging from the very small amount of smoke coming from the large smoke-stack at the plant, it is certainly doing what is claimed.

The installation of this smoke eliminator is just another step toward progress by the laundry, and will be a great benefit to the town, especially to that part near the plant.

Reddie Taylor left last Thursday to go to Montgomery, where he underwent a minor operation at a hospital there. He is expected to return to Clanton sometime this week.

THORSBY TO PRESENT PLAY

"Bashful Mr. Bobbs" Will Be Staged At Thorsby School Auditorium

"Bashful Mr. Bobbs," is the title of a play to be put on in the auditorium of the Thorsby Junior High School in Thorsby next Saturday night, February 15th, by the Thorsby B. Y. P. U.

If you are bashful and wish to be cured, it is advised by those in this play that you try the remedy used by Mr. Bobbs, that of falling in love. This remedy will be put to the test during the presentation of the play, proceeds from which will be applied to the new building fund of the Thorsby Baptist church.

Admission will be fifteen and twenty-five cents.

The cast of characters, which is made up of talent in Thorsby is as follows:

Bashful Mr. Bobbs, cousin to Marshall Bobbs, Erchel Martin; Marshall Bobbs, in love with Celestia and Jean, Luther Kendrick; Jean Graham, daughter of a millionaire, Sallie Thompson; Fred Henderson, young, married, hen pecked husband, Lester Pace; Kathryn Henderson, wife of Fred Henderson, Ruth Champion; Celestia Vandepool, engaged to Marshall Bobbs, Jessie Martin; Julie, French maid to Celestia, in love with Obadiah, Margie Champion; Frances Whittaker, a young flapper, Edna Raybon; Rosalie, another young flapper, Edna Childress; Mrs. Wiggins, keeper of the Bay View Hotel, Jewel Martin; Obadiah Stump, red headed country boy, servant, Marvin Davenport.

LOOK FOR YOUR NAME AND INVITATION TO DINE

Beginning this week, The Dixie Cafe will invite, through the Chilton County News, residents of Clanton to dine with them as their guests.

Elsewhere in this issue there is an invitation to some person or persons of Clanton, to dine at the Dixie on next Sunday. Mr. L. D. Easterling, proprietor of the cafe, stated that each week he will invite someone to be his guest, so keep on the lookout each week in this paper for your invitation. Maybe it will come soon.

Arbor Day May Be Changed Is Report

A change in the date of Arbor Day has been recommended to Governor Graves by the State Commission of Forestry. Heretofore the first Friday in March has been regularly observed, but many suggestions for setting a date in the fall rather than in the spring have been received. Arbor Day, or Tree Planting Day, is observed generally among the states, the exact date varying considerably. In some cases the State Legislature has legally set a certain day to be observed as Arbor Day, while in other states the matter is left to the Governor.

While tree planting can be done from late fall to early spring, as a rule it has been found most satisfactory to concentrate on this work during some particular season instead of extending it over so great a part of the year. Since the forestry interests of the state are nearly always much occupied with fire protection matters during the winter and spring, it is felt that the planting work should be taken care of before that time. The latter part of November and the early part of December are particularly suitable for such activities. Various women's clubs and other organizations have suggested a date during such season and in view of all the circumstances the Commission of Forestry has decided to second their recommendations.

Forty Seven Years Ago

The following news items were taken from files of the Chilton View published in this county a half century ago. The issue from which these notes were taken is that of February 15 1883.

The commissioners court met last Monday.

Messrs Minor Wooley and Seaborn Jones of Maplesville gave us a brief but pleasant call last Monday.

A grand ball at the court house last evening was the affair of the season. It was presumably in honor of good old Saint Valentine.

An eastern drummer while out West sent the following dispatch to his firm: "Met drummer from rival house who said he could outdrink any hair pin connected with our house. Maintained the honor of the firm. Will send liquor bill by mail.

Thin, Pale, Weak

"I HAD been through a bad spell of sickness which left me very weak," says Mrs. Virginia Spruce, of Stapleton, Va. "I was pale and felt lifeless, and my strength did not return. I spent most of my time on the bed. I was very nervous, and the least thing upset me. I did not have strength enough to lift a broom. At times I would have bad headaches, which would hurt me until I could hardly see. Someone asked me why I did not try Cardui. I had read of it, so I thought I would see what it would do for me. It was really remarkable how I came out. My strength returned, and my health was better than it had been in years. I gained in weight about ten pounds. My color was good, and I ceased to suffer from headaches. I have told my friends about Cardui because I was benefited after taking it."

MANY SAFETY DEVICES IN NEW CHEVROLETS

Evidence of the manner in which the automobile manufacturers is furthering the cause of safety by eliminating the hazard of mechanical mishaps is shown by the many safety features incorporated in the new 1930 Chevrolet.

Notable among the safety devices in the car are the Chevrolet-designed internal brakes which are new in their field. Many a motorist has had the unnerving experience of descending a long mountain grade to find his brakes becoming less effective the farther he descends—a failure known technically as "fadeout" and due to heat generated between the brake shoe and drum which wraps the shoe and lessens the contract of the brake lining with the drum. The hotter the brakes got, the less efficient they became.

Test on the General Motors Proving Ground show that fadeout has been eliminated in the new Chevrolet brake by a method of construction known as the "articulated shoe type," which compensates for heat distortion, and assures uniform braking facilities under all conditions of temperature. The wear on the brake lining also is uniform, and assures far greater service out of a set of linings than the old type brakes.

Test Chevrolets on the proving ground have obtained as high as 28,000 miles on a set of linings. It is pointed out that the average motorist will obtain considerably greater mileage in view of the severe driving to which test cars are put. Further tests show the brake will stop a car traveling thirty miles per hour in two and twentieths seconds within a distance of 48 feet.

The brakes are internal expanding all around, operating with equal efficiency on all four wheels. The parking brake is separate and operates on the rear drum. Adjustments are easily accessible without the removal of any plates.

Another safety feature of the new Chevrolet is the non-glare windshield on the new Fisher bodies. By the simple expedient of tilting the windshield slightly inward, instead of mounting it vertically, the reflected light of an approaching or following headlamp is deflected downward away from the driver's eyes. The twin-beam headlights, which enable the driver to throw the light on the road out of the eyes of an approaching driver, are a further Chevrolet contribution to the greater safety of the highways.

Broilers Are Ready For Alabama Tables

Auburn, Ala., Feb. 13.—"A unique opportunity has come to the people of Alabama. It is one which should be appreciated. It is an opportunity to eat early spring broilers—sweet and delicious—raised on Alabama farms. The opportunity is a result of deliberate planning."

So said George A. Trollope, head of the poultry department and H. R. Bailey, extension poultryman at Auburn, who suggested the opportunity last fall. They did it to demonstrate the fact that delicious broilers can be raised in Alabama and sold on the early market.

The suggestion was immediately transferred into action. People demonstrated a keen interest. Under the direction of the county agents and the home demonstration agents, early broiler clubs were organized in 19 counties of the State. Several of the big hatcheries placed eggs in their incubators; and baby chicks were bought by thousands by members of these early broiler clubs.

From day-old chicks until ready for the market these chicks were fed and managed as directed by the county farm and home demonstration agents. "Hence, they are first class," say the poultrymen. "They are the best."

And now the people of Alabama are being asked to buy them and enjoy them on their own tables; and also to get first-hand proof that Alabama broilers are among the best on the market.

It has been suggested that hotels and cafes serving luncheon clubs—Kiwanis, Rotary, Lion, Exchange and Civitan—serve early spring broilers at least twice during February. No doubt members of these clubs will approve the suggestion.

It is suggested also that hotels, dining cars, and cafes feature Alabama broilers. The same suggestion is made for the home table.

If you use a brooder, February 1 is a good date to commence and April 30 a good date to complete hatching.

Eating vegetables raw whenever possible is one way to get all the vitamins and soluble minerals present. In some cases they are lost in the cooking water.

"Peat litter is ideal for brooding purposes. It is a commercial product and costs about $3 per bale—enough for two average size brooder house floors."—G. A. Trollope, head poultryman, Auburn.

"Early spring is the right time to begin work on permanent pastures. Clear the area and order seed now. Successful stockmen who do not have permanent pastures are rare."—J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist, Auburn.

WHAT MAKES WOMEN BUY

It is well known by all five merchants and by husbands as well, that practically all buying for the home is either actually done by women or directed by them. For this reason the merchant's greatest problem is to attract the favorable attention of women to his wares.

Women are alert to grasp opportunities to secure merchandise at a bargain and they are more discriminating buyers than men, as a rule. They read advertisements and act upon the information obtained thereby.

In order to determine just what advertising mediums have the greatest influence on women's buying a survey recently made by a Los Angeles advertising club, developed some interesting facts. Replies from 1,000 women of all classes were obtained in answer to a questionnaire listing the various advertising mediums and asking what form of advertising influenced them most. Newspapers were credited with the greatest influence by 36 per cent of these women, magazine advertising by 22 per cent, street car advertising by a fraction over 4 per cent, while booklets, pamphlets and circular letters influenced less than 2 per cent.

Thus again is demonstrated what every wide-awake merchant must have already observed—that newspaper advertising is the most potent medium for reaching women buyers. And this applies with equal force to men buyers too.

CITIZENS OF AUTAUGAVILLE AID NEGRO ORPHANAGE TO BE BUILT IN AUTAUGA CO.

The Acme Child Welfare Association of Alabama at 360½ S. Jackson Street, Montgomery, has been favored by the citizens of Autaugaville by donating eighty acres of land, $6,000 for the building of the first and only orphanage in the State for negroes. The Marbury Lumber Company donated ten acres of land for the above purpose. All of this will be used for the Negro Orphanage purposes.

The citizens of the state are now asked through the newspapers, by letters and in person by the financial Trust Board to send in their donation at once. They are the only solicitors for the organization. The Association also takes this method of appealing to any and all friends, churches, fraternal societies, clubs and civic organizations that are interested in the Negro race and the State at large to cooperate with the Trust Board in helping to raise the $10,000.00 now needed for the erection of this orphanage. This being a statewide movement, every citizen should take an active part in putting the program over.

The churches, fraternal orders, day schools, B. Y. P. U., Christian Endeavor unions, ministers and school teachers are asked to make a donation to the organization Sunday, February 9, 1930. All donations will be announced through daily and weekly newspapers. Also the secretary will acknowledge all receipts of your collection direct.

Make all orders payable to the Child Welfare Association 360½ S. Jackson St. or to Hon. J. G. Hicks, Autaugaville, Alabama.

Good Advice From Federal Farm Board

Until they act collectively in producing and marketing their product, Burley tobacco growers will never have stability from year to year in the prices they receive, James C. Stone, vice-chairman, Federal Farm Board, said in an address prepared for delivery at 11 a. m. Wednesday, January 29, 1930, before the Farmers' Week Meeting held at the College of Agriculture, Lexington, Ky. The same thing is true as to producers of other agricultural commodities, he added.

In addition to collective action, Mr. Stone said he regards it of vital importance that farmers produce only crops and livestock best adapted to the sections in which they live. Kentuckians, he said have "a natural advantage over other sections in the production of blue-grass seed, race horses, Burley tobacco, sheep, lambs and wool, hemp, and possibly other products, but when it comes to wheat it is impossible for us to compete with the great wheat-growing sections of the Middle West." He suggested that it would not be easy to compete with the corn belt in production of hogs and cattle.

Mr. Stone outlined the purposes of the Agricultural Marketing Act which the Farm Board is administering and told of the Board's activities to date. "You can see from all these things," Mr. Stone said, "that the activities of the Farm Board are many and intricate. There is one thing which I wish to forcibly impress upon all of you, and that is that we do not feel that this Act is putting the Government into business, and it is our policy now to help farmers who are willing to help themselves, but as soon as they are able to run their business, it is our intention that the activities of the Farm Board shall gradually withdraw from the picture."

County agents and home demonstration agents, Mr. Stone told his audience, can be helpful in the development of the Farm Board program by:

First, holding group meetings in their respective counties to study the Agricultural Marketing Act, so that as many farmers in the country as possible will know what to expect from it.

Second, making a survey of the co-operative organizations in their immediate territory, finding out if these associations are organized to comply with the terms of the Capper-Volstead Act and therefore eligible for assistance under the Agricultural Marketing Act.

Third, encouraging farmers to join these co-operatives if they are found to be properly set up and efficiently managed.

Fourth, spreading the general idea of what cooperative action means and what a farmer can expect from a co-operative organization and what he can not expect, especially, that he can not expect the impossible.

Fifth, making sure that before any farmer joins a cooperative association he knows what he is joining and just how it can be expected to help him in the merchandising of his commodity.

"What you farmers are farming for is to make money," Mr. Stone continued. "To do this you are going to have to run your business intelligently and along sound business lines . . . Take tobacco, for example. There are very few growers who know the yearly demand for Burley tobacco, and if they did know the number of pounds needed, as long as they are unorganized individual producers it would be impossible for them to regulate the production to meet demand, but through intelligent organization this can be done."

"It has always been my idea that in the tobacco trade there are three interested parties—the grower, the manufacturer or processor and the consumer—and until all three parties are represented in the trade you will never be able to solve the problem satisfactorily. If the growers of Burley had their own organization and thru that organization could be represented with a representative of the manufacturer and one for the public, these representatives could meet and discuss the problems concerning all, such as the amount of Burley tobacco needed each year, and the kind most in demand, and by giving this information to the tobacco growers each year before they made their plans for growing the next crop, prices could be adjusted at a fair level and could be continued at a fair level over a period of years if the farmers themselves would follow the suggestions of a committee of this kind."

"The Farm Board is giving serious consideration to the development of a closer relationship of this kind in all lines of agricultural commodities, and we believe that great results will come from such contacts."

BEWARE OF A "SPREADER"

The farmer or cattleman must depend on prevention rather than cure in coping with contagious abortion as there is no known cure for this widespread disease, says the Bureau of Animal Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture. Probably the disease is most commonly introduced into healthy herds through the purchase of cows or pregnant heifers that carry the germs in their bodies. A cow with a calf by her side may be a "spreader" of the germs or may become a "spreader" later. Bulls and unbred heifers are less likely to carry the germs and may be added to non-infected herds with more safety. Other ways of spreading contagious abortion are through feed, drainage in pastures, bedding, and unpasteurized milk.

A bomb found by George Tyler, 9, of Chicago and carried into his home exploded five months later, completely wrecking the house.

News In Brief

Prosperity of the Nation in 1928 created 206 new million dollar incomes during the 12 months, when the country's total net income of individuals of $2,052,170,268 over the previous year, aggregated $24,625,488,175, an increase according to figures just compiled.

Approximately 17,500,000 acres of land in the United States has been destroyed by gully, or so severely washed that farmers can not afford to attempt cultivation or reclamation. This is enough land to support a nation, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and it exceeds the total area of tillable land in Japan.

Allen Northington of Montgomery, Ala., president of the new American Cotton Cooperative Association, greatest farm organization on earth, was placed in charge of the association's marketing activities by the directors, February 4, pending selection of a general manager.

Hope of an effective anti-tuberculosis serum is justified by the researches of Doctor Auclair of Paris, France. Using a substance taken from the pancreas of birds immune to the disease, he has developed a serum which renders rabbits and guinea pigs immune to the human tubercular bacillus. He does not yet claim the substance gives immunity to man.

PREPARE FOR PEACH WORM

The plum curculio, or so-called peach worm, has the distinction of causing more damage to the peach especially in the South, than any other insect, and in 1929 damaged the peach crop in Georgia alone to the extent of over $2,000,000. However, thorough and timely spraying or dusting with lead arsenate will control the pest under usual conditions, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Sometimes supplementary control measures have to be undertaken. Since the adult curculios are out on the trees in numbers by the time they are in full bloom, an application of lead arsenate when about 75 percent of the petals are down will kill many beetles before egg laying starts. A second application should be given when the "shucks" are shedding or when the small peaches are exposed and a final application may be advisable about four weeks before each variety is due to ripen. Farmers' Bulletin 1557-F, recently issued by the Department of Agriculture, gives spraying and dusting schedules and other detailed information on this pest, as well as on other insect pests of the peach.

FOOD
Your Corn Crop LIKES

Is it just another corn crop for you this year, or have you decided to join the ranks of farmers who make a crop that really is a crop? Now is the time to decide . . . and you can just as easily make a good crop. No luck to it . . . just one single rule for success. Chilean Nitrate of Soda is the difference between a good corn crop and a poor one. A side dressing with this nitrate fertilizer (the only natural nitrate in the world) greatly increases the yield. Makes larger ears with more corn per ear and more ears per stalk.

An Alabama Farmer

T. O. McConnell, Fayette, Ala., uses Chilean Nitrate on his corn crop says:

"I have used Chilean Nitrate of Soda on corn and 100 to 125 lbs. per acre will make me a third more corn. I am now fully convinced that it will pay larger profits than any fertilizer I have ever used."

Chilean Nitrate is not synthetic. It is mined and refined in Chile, largely by American capital, brought here in American ships and sold to American farmers at a low price.

See your local dealer. If he does not carry Chilean Nitrate, he can easily get it for you.

Hitch Hiking

We have spoken a number of times of our distaste of the too prevalent custom of Hitch Hiking. A self respecting person begging a ride has no more justification for his action than a man who stops a passerby and begs a quarter. Yet many continue to do so and would deeply resent the suggestion that they are beggars. The highways are full of these hitch hikers. They have become a nuisance to motorists and in many places a menace to safety. They are interfering with traffic. They are annoying drivers. They are endangering their lives. But we are more concerned with the moral factors. Those folks are simply begging, tho nearly all of them have money in their pockets and will not encourage a spirit of beggary. They should be learning self respect and respect for the rights of others. We wish that college teachers would explain to their pupils that such conduct is an "individual and social sin".

"ROUND TOWN"
-by Doug

Opinions expressed in this column by this writer have no connection with the general policies of this paper, being wholly those of the writer, in the manner they are written.

No doubt the readers of this column thought last week that I had turned philosopher. Well, frankly, I did have that turn of mind, to a certain extent.

Did you ever say something about someone, and then later regret it? Well, confession is good for the soul, so they say, and there is a young fellow here, to whom I'd like to offer something of an apology.

Seems like every now and then, things in the way of clerks, and employees in general, make a change in Clanton. During the past several days there has been something like a dozen change-ups in that way. It is about time the barbers took a few changes, so they could get some publicity again.

Turning again to a more serious thought, I pass to you the following which I have taken from someone else: "I have to live with myself, and so I want to be fit for myself to know. I want to be able, as the days go by, Always to look myself straight in the eye."

I don't want to stand with the setting sun, And hate myself for the things I've done.

I never can hide myself from me; I see what others can never see. I can never fool myself, and so Whatever happens I want to be Self-respecting and conscience free." Give those few lines some thought, and ask yourself if you are being fair to yourself.

Al Jolson seems to have made another hit with the ladies in Clanton, judging from the "boo-hoos" heard and somewhat seen at the theatre during last Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights. Rouge and powder manufacturers should encourage, if not back, Jolson's pictures, as we can imagine the damage done to facial make-up by the tears shed at these shows. And they say a woman never really enjoys a picture unless she can weep during the showing. You men need not laugh, I saw some of you with dampened eyes after the show, too.

The Editor of this paper suggested to me—or that is, he rather informed me that I was deviating somewhat from the meaning of the heading of this column, and that I should start all over again and see if I could do better in the future. I guess he is right.

After thoroughly enjoying an afternoon snooze last Sunday, thought I'd take a stroll 'round town. Naturally I walked to the business district first. All four corners of the intersection at Mullins & Moores, were being held down fairly well. Bob Evans and Eli Moatts on one, Alfonza Sanders and somebody else on another, two corners— I'm wrong there, that was somebody else, pardon me. Anyway, I think they were doing their part.

Strolled 'round by the bottling works, paused to look in through the window. I believe that man Horsely White is a "manly" "own-business" sort of a fellow, and lately I've noticed that Ne-Hi seems to be getting in regularly in these parts.

Couldn't understand why so many soda fountains were open last Sunday. I thought the druggists had an agreement about who was going to open each Sunday, but saw that Callows was open, along with Alfred's and Moore's. By the way, Moore has become rather optimistic lately, and appears to think that business is beginning to pick up at his place. Maybe it is the minds of the people, because he does have a very neat and attractive little store, with plenty of music, at no extra cost.

Somebody is going to be lucky here in Clanton once a week, anyway. The Dixie Cafe is going to invite, through the columns of this paper, a party to dine with them as their guest on Sunday. Watch for your name folks, you might be the lucky one, and they sure feed swell there too. But don't flirt with the waitresses. They won't flirt back at you. I've tried it.

A chance glance, the other day, brought to my view a distinguished looking man on the corner at Sartor's. I couldn't tell whether it was Tom Kemp, or "The Man On The Corner."

Here, I want to express my sincerest wishes for a very speedy recovery for W. M. (Mack) Wyatt, of The Union-Banner, who is in Birmingham, under treatment. He will be greatly missed.

Somebody started again to interfering with my affairs. Just when I think I'm progressing nicely with my girl friend, some of these handsome, "woe-be-unto-the-ladies" young men of Clanton go to see her and use their "everready" "me, which kind of knocks

Legislative Appropriations
For Education

State funds made available for education in Alabama by legislative enactment. One of these would include all appropriations which are made to institutions of collegiate grade and to eleemosynary institutions. These appropriations are payable either upon the requisition of the state superintendent of education or the principal officer of these institutions. The amounts to be received by these institutions are fixed by the appropriating act. For this reason these appropriations will receive no further consideration in this article.

The second group of legislative appropriations mentioned above includes all those which are to benefit public elementary and secondary education. Several bases are employed in apportioning the funds included in this group. In order that these bases may be more generally understood, they will be reviewed in this article.

In some cases the bases for the apportionment of these funds are prescribed by the appropriating act, but in other cases the legislature has left the determination of these bases to the State Board of Education. The distribution of all of these funds is made by the State Board of Education. Hence a distinction is made in this article between the apportionment and distribution of funds. By the apportionment of a fund is meant the determination of the amounts which each county can receive. By the distribution of a fund is meant the release of the amounts apportioned to the various counties. In the distribution of a fund, a county or city may not receive the entire amount apportioned to it due to failure to meet the conditions prescribed for full participation therein.

The bases provided for the apportionment of these funds are such that they are classifiable into three groups. In the first group are those funds in the apportionment of which the bases are wholly prescribed by legislative enactment. In the second group are those funds in the apportionment of which the bases are wholly prescribed by the State Board of Education. In the third group are those which do not belong wholly to either the first or second group. In this third group, therefore, are those funds in the apportionment of which the legislature has either prescribed a basis for distributing a portion of them or has prescribed a partial basis for their apportionment. After these prescribed bases have been followed, the State Board is given the responsibility for completing their apportionment and distribution.

The funds belonging to each of these groups are shown below:

The funds in each of these groups will be discussed briefly in order to show the bases which are now being used in their apportionment.

FUNDS IN GROUP I

Apportionment Prescribed by Legislature

As indicated above, each of the funds in this group is distributed by the State Board of Education according to bases which are prescribed in the legislative acts appropriating them.

Three Groups of Public School Funds

Group I

General Education Fund
Bonus Fund
Agricultural School Fund
Rural Library Fund
Attendance Fund.

Group II

Illiteracy Fund
Vocational Education Fund
Revolving Fund
High School Fund.

Group III

County High School Fund.
Rural School House Fund
Equalization Fund.

The State Board of Education distributes these funds, but they are distributed by the county and city boards of education in accordance with rules and regulations prescribed by them, except as provided by law.

General Education Fund

Money in the General Education Fund, constitutionally known as the Public School Fund, accrues to the credit of that fund during each fiscal year. The State Board of Education is required to apportion this money early in October. These funds must be apportioned among the several counties in the state in proportion to the number of children of school age therein, according to the latest returns from the school census. The school age is from 7 to 20, inclusive, and the school census is taken every even numbered year. For 1929-30 this fund amounted to $4,180,170.73 and the school census of 1928 was such that each county received $5.06 for each child shown to be of school age by that census in addition to such amounts as were due under the law. As was shown in the November issue of the Alabama School Journal, the per capita apportionment of this fund has been increasing.

Bonus Fund

This appropriation makes $268,000 available annually to the counties of the state. This amount is made available in order to reward counties which levy and collect a county-wide school tax. Each county receives from this fund $1,000 each year for each one-mill county-wide school tax levied and collected that year. Since the Constitution provides that only a four-mill county-wide tax for school purposes may be collected, it is clear that a county can receive a maximum of $4,000 each year from this fund.

Agricultural School Fund

The legislative act which makes this fund available specifies that each of the eleven state secondary agricultural schools shall receive annually $7,500, payable quarterly upon the requisition of the state superintendent of education.

Rural Library Fund

Appropriations aggregating $25,000 are annually available from the state for the purpose of establishing and maintaining libraries in the rural schools. Of this fund each county may receive an equal portion so that $373 are available each year to each county for the above named purpose. This amount is available in units of $10 each, but before any such unit may be received by a county it must first be locally $20 for the same purpose. On January 1st of each year all amounts which have not been claimed by the counties are consolidated into a common fund available to any county which meets the above condition. It is, therefore, possible for a county to receive more than its original pro rata share from this fund.

Attendance Fund

In order to provide means for a better attendance and physical and health program in Alabama, there is annually appropriated the sum of $850,000, to be known as the Attendance Fund. The act appropriating this money prescribes that it shall be apportioned to the several counties of the state in proportion to the aggregate attendance during the year next preceding that for which the apportionment is made. During the year 1927-28 the children enrolled in the public elementary and high schools of the state attended a total of 68,581,604 days so that each county this fund for every day of school attendance, therein during the preceding year. Due to the increased attendance in the state, this per diem figure has been decreased.

FUNDS IN GROUP II

Apportionment by the State Board of Education

The bases for the apportionment of the funds in this group are determined by the State Board of Education. The State Department of Education then apportions and distributes them in accordance with these bases.

Illiteracy Fund

The School Code of 1927 provides that the State Board of Education shall be charged with the responsibility for the removal of illiteracy in Alabama. For this purpose there has been appropriated a total of $50,000 annually. This money may be spent for the removal of adult illiteracy, for the training of atypical children who are not now provided for in the state child-caring institutions, and for providing proper educational opportunity for persons in the delinquent, corrective and penal institutions of the state. The amount to be spent for these services is left to the discretion of the State Board of Education.

Vocational Education Fund

Having accepted the Federal Vocational Act and Federal Rehabilitation

Act, Alabama legislatures have appropriated money to match any funds allotted to Alabama from the federal treasury by these or any subsequent federal acts. For the year 1929-30 the sum of $562,713 is available for the advancement of vocational education. Of this amount, $176,908 is from the Federal Government. Of the total amount available, the following sums are for special services: $44,611 for civilian rehabilitation, $15,000 for physical restoration and $7,500 for the service of the blind. These funds are administered by the State Board of Education for the promotion of vocational education in agricultural subjects, trades and industrial subjects, home economics and for the rehabilitation of disabled persons. This Board is authorized by law to cooperate with the Federal Board of Vocational Education and can pay to county boards of education who employ vocational workers a pro rata portion of the cost of instruction in approved vocational courses.

Revolving Fund

The "State Board of Education is specifically charged with the duty of equalizing public school facilities throughout the state, so far as it may be practicable, and in order to make it possible to increase the length of school terms in rural districts, and to care for that and other worthy purposes for which no adequate appropriation has been made, the said State Board shall expend so much as it may deem proper of the amount set aside annually by Legislature appropriated to the State fund for the use of the State Board of Education, provided at least 80 per cent of the amount appropriated, if used, shall be expended for lengthening of public school terms and otherwise bettering conditions in rural schools. . . ." (1927 School Code, Sec. 59.)

High School Fund

The 1927 Legislature appropriated to the State Board of Education the sum of $411,000 annually "to be appropriated to the several counties of the state for the further support and maintenance of more nearly adequate high-school facilities." That the State Board has authority to determine the bases upon which this fund shall be apportioned, but is required to prescribe conditions for its disbursement so that the purposes for which this amount is appropriated may be guaranteed. The act creating this fund also states that the State Board "shall have authority to set aside and expend such an amount of this fund as may be necessary for the proper administration and supervision of secondary education." This fund is now apportioned mainly in proportion to the average daily attendance of rural high-school children in the several counties.

This fund should not be confused with the County High-School Fund which is one of those in the third group of funds to be considered later. (continued next week)

RAILROADS evidence their faith in fundamental soundness of the Country by record-breaking investments in equipment and other improvements.

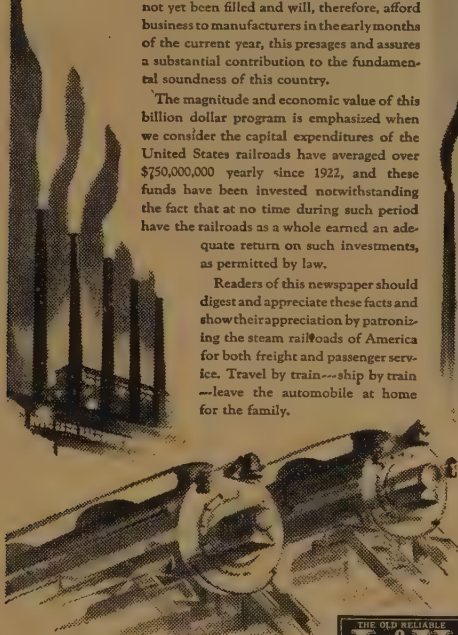

Again, the great steam transportation lines of this country have come to the front with buying orders for added equipment and bettered service. Again, thousands of workers and hundreds of industries have profited, and will continue to profit, by the investment on the part of American railroads in continuing to improve the freight and passenger service of the world's finest transportation system.

The "Railway Age" furnishes figures to show that, during 1929, orders for new equipment were the largest in the past five years, and, based on information furnished by the great trunk lines having one-half of the mileage of the entire country and doing more than one-half of the business, this magazine estimates that the total expenditures of the railroads for new equipment and other improvements during the year just started will aggregate $1,050,000,000, or 25% more than during the year 1929.

Taking into consideration the fact that a large part of the orders placed in 1929 have not yet been filled and will, therefore, afford business to manufacturers in the early months of the current year, this presages and assures a substantial contribution to the fundamental soundness of this country.

The magnitude and economic value of this billion dollar program is emphasized when we consider the capital expenditures of the United States railroads have averaged over $750,000,000 yearly since 1922, and these funds have been invested notwithstanding the fact that at no time during such period have the railroads as a whole earned an adequate return on such investments, as permitted by law.

Readers of this newspaper should digest and appreciate these facts and show their appreciation by patronizing the steam railroads of America for both freight and passenger service. Travel by train—ship by train—leave the automobile at home for the family.

CHAIN STORES ARE LIKE PARASITES

They Feast on Communities and Give Nothing in Return!

What is a nation anyway? Is not a nation just a composite of small communities, the strength of the whole being no greater than its component parts? How can a nation hope to become powerful and a factor in international circles if it is spotted with decayed, gone-to-pieces, has been towns, made such by the inroads of those parasitic creatures commonly known as Chain Stores—but which had better be called business vampires? The desired end is absolutely impossible unless all the inhabitants of the country band together with a firm determination to obliterate forever these community wreckers, these progress obstructors, these monopolistic combines that kill civic spirit, ruin communistic enterprise and make of the nation an unbalanced, lop-sided tottering structure—the fruits of business success going to the undeserving and the mere scum being left to the worthy whose efforts at community-building are God-given in their conception.

There is absolutely no justification for the existence of Chain Stores. They have built up tremendous businesses because they have misled the people, garbled the truth relative to goods and prices, unwarrantably slammed the Independent Grocers and gotten away with it. It is all a pity, for it is not as clear as the day that the only end to the growth of these gigantic Chain Stores is the complete ruination of small town business, and co-incidentally, the small towns themselves?

The leech has already sucked the lifeblood out of hundreds of God's own hamlets and villages, where HIS most loved and honored children, not used to the viperous methods of these unethical, wily, monsters, have stood helplessly by and seen their beloved town, literally "go to grass" because they didn't know any better than to purchase needed goods from these Chain Stores—didn't know that by so doing they were gnawing away at the heart of their own selves. The very blindness of the residents of small towns is what has brought about the phenomenal growth of these heartless Chain Stores. The people have thought they were saving a few pennies by trading at these Chain Stores, while, in reality they were penny-wise and pound foolish—pound foolish because their very existence was being jeopardized by such practices. It's a shame, and the crime MUST stop!

Let's go back a bit and see what the influence of the typical Independent Grocer was in fostering the growth of his community, and then let us ask ourselves the question, "Is he entitled to our loyal support, our earnest co-operation and our complete patronage?"

We have, hypothetically, just a wilderness. Along comes an imaginative creature who thinks that he sees, in this wilderness, the possibility of a thriving town. He is moved by a hundred and one reasons to think as he does—reasons so many that it would take a thousand words to elaborate on them. He is generally a merchant, a hopeful soul, with an optimistic turn of mind that impels him to "take chances." He finds a cross-roads and "pitches his tent," so to speak. He builds a store, unpretentious at first, of course, but he puts in stock such necessities and luxuries as he knows the hoped-for newcomers will need.

He brings with him not only an optimistic nature and a stock of goods, but generally some little capital and good credit in the distant cities. He's a likeable soul, and one by one, he magnetizes new residents to the little community that he has high hopes of seeing grow into a thriving town of God-fearing, man loving people. As the town grows, his popularity and value to the town also grows. Not only does he dispense only the best and latest in needed merchandise, but he is the general all-round counselor of the village. His advice is sought on weighty subjects, from "what to do for sick babies," to "how to raise funds to finance the building of new barns." He is the god of the community, as it were. He is an all-in-one to all men. Progressive, alert, thinking, kindly, human, pepinistic and full of faith in the downright goodness and honesty of his neighbors—he represents the last word in desirable citizenship—he not only is deserving of all of the trade of the little community, for whose growth he has been primarily responsible, but he should be the subject of the citizens' everlasting thanks for his foresightedness in making their delightful little town possible. Though the town grows, he is now wise, becomes less human and helpful. He caters, to not only the immediate town folks, but the farmers and their families for miles around. If ever a man was entitled to the fruits of his labor in the shape of continuous patronage and unadulterated business loyalty, this crossroads merchant is.

The progress of this happy communistic family is serenely uninterrupted until, perchance, one day, one of these parasitic Chain Stores—business vampires, rather, learns that Happytown. (for that is the name of the village we have been discussing) is ripe for a Chain Store. The store opens and we hear feverish talk among the villagers relative to the wonderful offerings of this remarkable institution.

And now let us return to Happytown. One by one we find Mr. Pioneer Merchant's customers leaving him—forsaking him to do their buying from a soulless, heartless, entity that is no more concerned with the growth of Happytown than it is with the fate of the ex-Kaiser. Mr. Pioneer Merchant soon learns what's the cause of this wholesale loss of customers. At first he says to himself, "Oh, why worry, they'll be back soon." But they don't come back at all—not because they are satisfied with the goods received from the Chain Stores, but because they think that they saved a few paltry pennies. Then our merchant friend begins to worry at the loss of trade and wonders where the end will be. Soon he loses his affable disposition, and as he commences to decay, so does the town start to go to seed. And before we know it, what was once a thriving prosperous, contented community, enjoying a healthy and steady growth, enlivened by that subtle influence for good—community, enterprise—is now a struggling, weak, half-hearted town, bound straight for obscurity and desolation. And the end is inevitable, unless—unless some "live wire" gets into Happytown with a campaign designed to "show up" these business vampires—show up their insidious methods and community killing conduct. And herein lies the hope and salvation of thousands of small towns the country over.

The time is coming when Chain Stores will be legislated out of existence. Several of them are in bad, so to speak, with legislative and industrial bodies at the present time.

Let us all put our shoulder to the wheel and fight the Chain Stores because we love our home town, because we love our communistic spirit of right, justice and the fellowship of man. Put the claw into the vampire's back by doing ALL YOUR PURCHASING with the Independent Grocers and your reward will be plentiful.

RUPTURE EXPERT HERE

E. J. Meinhardt, of Chicago, the well known Rupture Shield Expert, will personally be at the Gay-Teague Hotel, Montgomery, Ala., on Saturday only, February 15th, from 10:00 A. M. to 6:00 P. M.

Mr. Meinhardt is highly recommended by thousands of satisfied customers. Take advantage of this opportunity to see him as he will not visit any other city in this section at this time. There is no charge for consultation. This Appliance is for men only.

Mr. Meinhardt says: The "Meinhardt Rupture Shield" not only retains the Rupture perfectly, but it also contracts the opening in ten days in the average case, regardless of the size or location of the rupture.

The "Meinhardt Rupture Shield" has no underparts. It is perfectly sanitary, practically indestructible, and may be worn while bathing.

Rupture often causes Stomach Trouble, Backache, Constipation, Nervousness, and other ailments which promptly disappear after the Rupture is properly retained. Thousands of deaths occurring annually from strangulated rupture can be avoided.

SPECIAL NOTICE—All customers that I have fitted here during the last ten years are invited to call for inspection for which there will be no charge. (Come in and talk with these customers regarding their experience with my Appliance.)

Please note the above dates and office hours carefully. (This visit is for white people only.)—E. J. Meinhardt, Home Office, 1551 N. Crawford Ave., Chicago.

Pleasant Grove Notes

Most all the men are getting ready for another crop.

We are glad to say that we can have services again at Pleasant Grove in the new church. Rev. J. Limbrick delivered a fine sermon Sunday at eleven o'clock. He could not be with us Sunday night on account of illness of his wife.

Mr. Jim Culp and Miss Rosa Broadhead were happily married Sunday at two o'clock at the home of Rev. F. A. Gibson, with a few friends present. The community extends congratulations, wishing them a long and happy life together.

Mrs. Eddie Clock, Mr. and Mrs. Crawford Clock of Birmingham and Mrs. Jewett Gordon of Washington, D. C. were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Best Sunday, and attended services at the new church.

Rev. Limbrick and Mr. Tommie Williams dined with Rev. F. A. Gibson Sunday.

Mr. Lonnie Ray and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Mims.

Mr. Relious Headley was the guest of Miss Jessie Mims Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Aaron Roper was the guest of Miss Esther Mims Sunday.

Miss Mandy Durbin dined with Misses Minnie and Simmie Headley Sunday.

Little Miss Lettie Mims spent Saturday night with little Miss Elsie Meryl Griffin.

Miss Lottie Henley dined with Mrs. Tom Fox Sunday.

Mrs. Henry Scott and Mrs. Harvie Culp dined with Mrs. Mollie Scott Sunday.

Little Annelius Headley dined with Kenneth and Roy Durbin Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Best spent a few enjoyable hours with Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Headley Sunday night.

Mr. Sim Baker, Mr. Alvin and Clay Moatts were visitors to this community Sunday evening.

Mr. Robert Ward and Mr. Spaga Franklin were the guests of Misses Minnie and Simmie Headley Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Kliner are spending a few days in Selma this week.

Misses Kathleen Headley and Pauline Williams and Mr. Thomas Franklin were the guests of Misses Vera, Vivian and Vada Mae Kliner Sunday.

Mr. Angulis Chambers were among the visitors to this community Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Mack Durbin spent a few enjoyable hours with Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Headley Sunday afternoon.

The surprise party at Miss Gladys Sanders Wednesday night was enjoyed by a large crowd. Several interesting games were played.

We are glad to learn that little Charles Edwin Mims who has been ill with pneumonia, can be out again.

The singing at Pleasant Grove Sunday afternoon was enjoyed by a large crowd. The directors were Mr. Sam Henley, Minnie Headley, Inez McKee, Mr. Mack Durbin, Mrs. Etta Durbin, Mrs. Zella Scott, Mrs. Eula Culp, Organists were Mrs. Zella Scott and Mrs. Eula Culp.

We cordially invite everyone to attend our singing on 2nd 4th Sunday afternoons.

Mr. A. B. Milford was the guest of Miss Lottie Henley Saturday night.

Mr. Sam Jones was the guest of Miss Dorothy Mae Jones Saturday night.

How Ford Methods Cut Cost of Distribution

Lower profits in selling save you at least $50 to $75 in addition to the many savings in manufacturing

TWENTY-SEVEN years ago the Ford Motor Company was formed to provide reliable, economical transportation for all the people. That original purpose has never changed. The constant effort in every activity is to find ways to give you greater and greater value without extra cost—frequently at lowered cost. This applies to distribution and similar important factors, as well as manufacture.

For the Ford Motor Company believes that its full duty is not only to make a good automobile at the lowest possible price, but to see that there is no waste, extravagance, or undue profit in any transaction from the time the car leaves the factory until it is delivered to your home. It is obvious that hard-won savings in production will be of little value if they are sacrificed later through excessive selling costs.

EVERY purchaser of a motor car has the right to know how much of the money he pays is for the car itself and how much is taken up by dealer charges. If these charges are too high, one of two things must happen. Either the price of the car must be raised or the quality lowered. There is no other way. The money must come from somewhere.

In the case of the Ford, the low charges for distribution, selling, financing and accessories mean a direct saving of at least $50 to $75 to every purchaser in addition to the still greater savings made possible by economies in manufacturing. Ford charges are not marked up or increased to cover a high trade-in allowance on a used car.

The profit margin on the Ford car has always been fair to both the dealer and the public. Within the past three months, it has been possible to effect still further economies. Today, the discount or commission of the Ford dealer is the lowest of any automobile dealer. The difference, ranging from 25% to nearly 50%, comes right off the price you pay for the car.

THE business of the Ford dealer is good because he makes a small profit on a large number of sales instead of a large profit on fewer sales. He knows, too, that the extra dollar-for-dollar value of the car makes it easier to sell and more certain to give satisfactory service after purchase.

Consider also that the Ford car is delivered to the purchaser equipped with a Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield, an extra steel-spoke wheel, and bright, enduring Rustless Steel for many exterior metal parts, in addition to four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers and fully enclosed four-wheel brakes.

If for any reason you wish to buy certain small accessories, you will find that these, too, are sold at the usual Ford low prices. Replacement parts are also available at low prices through Ford dealers in every section of the country.

THESE are important points to remember in considering the purchase of a motor car. They show why it is possible to put so much extra quality into the new Ford and still maintain the low price. They are also the reasons why more than 35% of all cars sold today are Model A Fords.

SHAMEFUL JOURNALISM

Now that the hysteria has died down, all but the most superstitious must realize the foolishness of the recent craze at Malden, Mass., where the grave of an obscure priest, dead 60 years, was said to have worked miraculous cures. Of course, there were no miracles, and no real cures.

To an honest newspaperman, the outstanding fact about the whole pitiful business was the disgraceful part played by certain metropolitan daily newspapers and tabloids. These journals, in their insatiable hunger for the sensational, reported every wild and preposterous tale, printed fake photographs and in every possible manner exploited the credulity of the ignorant for the sake of selling extra-papers.

No attempt was made to get at the truth of the situation, or to explain the circumstances which surrounded the alleged miracles. To have done so would have spoiled the golden harvest the first day. Even when reported cures were denied by relatives of persons concerned, the newspapers refused to print the denials.

One decent reporter, Gardner Jackson, made a painstaking investigation of numerous cases and gave the facts in detail, none showing any evidence of a miracle. While the hysteria was still at its height, he wrote:

"The papers go on reporting cures; giving photographs. I've seen some of these photographs being taken—pitifully crippled children being urged to stand without braces before the camera men. I saw one boy collapse twice before he could get up strength to stand before the cameras with his braces in his hand. The Boston newspapers selling like hot cakes, are trading on the sincere faith of hundreds of thousands of their readers. It is shameful commercial journalism."

Thank heaven, the country press of America, whatever its other shortcomings may be, has never been guilty of such cynical exploitation of ignorance for selfish ends.

"INSIDE" INFORMATION

Do not peel rhubarb before it is cooked. The red skin gives an attractive color to the cooked fruit.

If building or remodeling a kitchen, make it oblong rather than square, to save steps in doing the work, and to distribute the equipment most advantageously.

There's one sure way to tell whether or not it will wash. Take a sample home and wash it under real laundering conditions. Also put it in the sun for a few days, covering up one half for later comparison, to see how much it fades.

Serve some kind of a fruit or vegetable salad every day, in which there is a crisp leaf of lettuce, cabbage, or, if these are not obtainable, raw vegetables and fruits of whatever kind you can get. Crated green carrot, chopped celery, green pepper, and thinly sliced Jerusalem artichokes and turnips are some of the foods you can get in winter time to put into salads; also apples, oranges, grapefruit, and grapes. Bananas are good in salad, but do not take the place of other fruits, as they contain more starch and sugar. Some of the dried fruits, particularly prunes and dates, are appetizing additions to salads, of mixed fresh and canned fruit.

before chicks arrive. Regulate the brooder so that it will hold a constant temperature of 90 to 95 degrees F.
Spread litter of some kind two inches over the entire brooder house floor.
Planer shavings, cut straw, pine needles or peat moss are preferred. Cover the litter near brooder with paper or cardboard for the first day.
Place a wire or paper roofing guard in a circle around the brooder about 20 inches from edge. This guard is left there for two days until chicks become accustomed to brooder. Care should be taken not to crowd them in too close to the brooder.
Provide at least one foot of hopper space for each 20 chicks. The lack of hopper space is responsible for many chick troubles. As chicks grow older increase hopper space so that all chicks can eat at one time.
Supply a sufficient number of water fountains, one fountain for each 35 chicks, when common fruit jars are used. Place water vessels on bricks so that they will be about two inches above the floor. This will help keep the floor dry around the watering equipment.

Receiving Chicks Around Brooder Chicks are usually ready to put around the brooder and feed when they arrive. Put the chicks around the brooder just before night on the day they are received.
Give them starting mash on paper or cardboard when they are 36 to 48 hours old. The all-mash starter is preferred.
Have room temperature 90 to 95 degrees F., being sure that there is plenty of ventilation, with no direct or floor drafts.
Kill all weak and deformed chicks immediately.
Feeding Chicks
Starting mash should be kept before the chicks continuously after the first feed is given. At six weeks of age chicks should be changed to growing mash and fed growing grain in open hoppers.

Supply plenty of fresh, clean water or milk, the latter being preferred.
Provide a succulent green feed at 10 days of age and get the chicks out on the ground as early as the weather will permit after they reach this age.

Who's President?
Heard a little story the other day down in Americus. A certain Italian was being examined for citizenship papers. He made an excellent record in his examination. The judge congratulated him and then said:
"Now Tony there are a few questions
I must ask you. They are all easy but I must go thru the formality of asking them."
"What is the capitol of the United States?"

"Washington"
"What is the largest city in the United States?"
"New York"
"Who is president of the United States?"
"Al Smith."
No Tony think hard. Who was the man who ran against him and beat him? Now tell me who is the president of the United States."
"Al Smith" again replied Tony; "I know he is president."
"What makes you so positive?" asked the judge?
"Well during the campaign last year,
I heard Senator Borah Senator Moses
Mr. Hoover, and other republicans say that if Al Smith was elected the mills and factories would shut down, business would go to the dogs, there would be a panic on Wall Street, and prohibiwet kindling

resists the flame ...

wet gas

resists the spark ...

Starting your car with wet gas is as troublesome as starting a fire with wet kindling. For wet gas is not only stubborn on the start, but feeble on hills, poky on the straightaway, and undependable in traffic. The colder the weather, the slower, more halting, its response.

Flashing, smooth-powered performances come only with dry gas. Texaco forms a dry gas. In every traffic and highway situation it performs brilliantly, yet quietly. It starts instantly in coldest weather, humbles the steepest hills and permits such snail's-pace driving that even in heavy traffic gear-shifting is almost unnecessary. Try Texaco today. Discover the pleasure of driving with a gas that yields its power instantly.

The NEW and BETTER
TEXACO
GASOLINE

1. A wet gas is an atomized mixture of gasoline vapor in which are suspended drops of raw gasoline.
 2. These drops of raw gasoline form an uneven mixture which resists the action of the spark.
 3. Result: Destructive crankcase dilution, difficult starts, slow acceleration—a sluggish motor.

1. The new and better Texaco vaporizes so readily that it forms a dry gas—an active mixture of gasoline and air.
 2. This pure, dry gas responds instantly to the action of the spark.
 3. Result: Lightning starts, rapid acceleration, smooth action—power!

for re-election and a party house cleaning will be fought to a finish. If his name is not on the August primary ballot he promised he will go into the November election to be judged by the people rather than by 27 he charged had attempted to wreck the "white man's party in Alabama."

All Seats Taken

The senator spoke for about two hours and 15 minutes. He was introduced by Dr. O. P. Spiegel, former pastor of the Central Christian church, who opened the meeting with prayer. Every available seat was taken and many stood both downstairs and in the balcony. Of the 75 or more persons who occupied seats on the platforms, fully four-fifths were women.

Mr. Hefflin lost little time in opening his attack on the 27 committeemen whom he termed "upstarts." He ridiculed Cyrus B. Brown, Montgomery; Chairman Edmund Pettus, Selma; and S. A. Lynne, Decatur, with verbal bullets. They are, he said, the "political masters" of Alabama. Their action here December 16, Senator Hefflin charged was unconstitutional, unfair, unjust and the "most miserable thing that has ever happened" in the political annals of Alabama. "For that," he shouted, "these 27 have got to be whipped out of the democratic committee. Certainly they must go. We have no other notion," he added. "They have denied me the right of trial in the court of my party; they have denied you the right to select your leaders, and to deny the right of self-government strikes at the basic principles of democracy."

Pungent Remarks

His remarks about the committee were pungent and brought frequent cheering and laughter. He said 27 members of the state executive committee had delegated Pettus, Brown and Lynne to administer the third degree to him because he did not support Smith for president. Mr. Hefflin charged that the committee had never attempted to adopt measures of reconciliation to bring the democrats together. "Not one of the 27 tried to have harmony. It was their duty to use conciliatory methods." In this connection, he said there is talk over the state of how "those boys were influenced."

The leadership of the democratic party in Alabama, so far as a majority of the committee is concerned is in a bad fix—in status quo, he exclaimed. He warned the 27 that they are going to face at the polls the greatest army of determined men and women that ever has been organized in Alabama. He said that the committee disfranchised as candidates over 100,000 democrats, but that "they are not going to get away with it."

Senator Hefflin also charged that President Hoover would have carried Alabama in 1928 by 19,000 majority had there been a fair count. In this connection, he warned his foes that there had better be no vote stealing this year as nothing would please him more, as a member of the senate, than to ask for an investigation.

By an almost solid vote, the audience went on record asking the state committee to rescind its action in barring any person desiring to become a candidate in the August primary. The senator said he counted only five hands when he asked for an endorsement of the committee's action. Four of them, he said, jokingly, were nearly deaf and could not understand the proposition. "Put them out," a voice yelled from the audience. "No, don't do that; let them have enough for seed corn," the senator said, smilingly.

Senator Hefflin stated that he still believed there would be a plan worked out whereby all could run in the primary. He told of the court action that has been started to test the constitutionality of the committee's action. He said he thought his procedure would be to stand on his sovereign right as a citizen and vote and offer his fee as a candidate. If that is not satisfactory, he intends, he said, to go to the mat with the committee in November and declared that he would "whip them to a "frazzle." Stamping his name on the ballot would be cumbersome and unsatisfactory.

Senator Hefflin charged that the "Roman-Tammany crowd" is trying to assassinate him politically. He further said that "the Catholic church will put sugar in the coffee of the state committee." The senator explained that he respected every man's religion and that he has never made a fight on an individual Catholic or that church's form of worship, but said the political system of the Roman church is where the danger lies. A movement is already on foot, he warned, for the election of Al Smith to the presidency in 1932.

In closing, Senator Hefflin said he would die before he would apologize for his action in the last presidential campaign. He reiterated that the committee's action was a violation of every principle of the democratic party and concluded with the sentence: "I am a democrat and I have kept the faith."

LOCAL TEAMS MAKING GOOD PROGRESS

Clanton Athletic Club Defeats Many Outstanding Teams Over The State

On last Friday night, the local high school team defeated the strong and well coached team of the Sidney Lanier High School of Montgomery, who came here with the idea in mind that they were going to have an easy game to win. The final score showed C. C. H. S. with 19 and Sidney Lanier with 14 points.

Brown scored nine of the nineteen points for Clanton, while Smith scored nine of the 14 points for Lanier. Lieut. Walker refereed this game, which was clean, well played.

The Clanton Athletic Club team met the team of Southern Bell Telephone Company, from Birmingham on the local indoor court last Saturday night, and sent them home with defeat, the final score being Clanton 27, Southern Bell 18, Foshee playing best for Clanton.

Last Tuesday night the Athletic Club played the Montgomery Teachers team, defeating them with a score of 23 to 10. Foshee again starred for Clanton. This visiting team from Montgomery, was believed, before the game, to be one of the strongest teams met by the local boys.

The Clanton Athletic Club will play the Southern Dairies team from Birmingham on the local court on next Saturday night at seven-thirty. The Southern Dairies team defeated the local club team, when they played them on the Birmingham court, and this game will create considerable interest here, when played on the Clanton court.

DRIVE UPON ILLITERACY WILL BEGIN

County Superintendent Asks Aid In Letter Given To The News

Following we publish a letter from B. Lawrence, Supt. of Education of this county in which he tells some interesting occurrences in the schools of Chilton County, and in which he asks the aid of the people of the county in the drive against illiteracy in this county, which will end April 1st, 1930:

Last week in visiting one of the schools I was checking up on the books in the library. This was a small school and I was interested in knowing how much the books were being used and how well they were taking care of them.

Last summer an Opportunity school was taught at this place. One man who is above fifty years old attended the school. Until that time he could neither read nor write but was one of the students who learned rapidly. The teacher told me that this man was now reading the books which the school had purchased in their library and was enjoying them immensely.

In discussing this matter with some people since visiting this school I stated that the amount of good derived from the school by this one man is enough to more than justify the cost of the entire school for all people who attended the school last summer. I have known this man all my life and he has always been a valuable man in his community. I have known his desire to read and write. He is now having an opportunity to enjoy good books and get a new insight to life.

Not many days ago I understand that a certain man wished to register in order that he might become a qualified voter. He found that he could not do so because of the fact that he could not write his name. He went to a friend of his who was interested in him and told him of his trouble. This friend took the afternoon off for the purpose of teaching this man how to write his name and in one afternoon the man had learned to write it. I am just wondering if there are not more people in the county who are willing to do that much for a friend and if there is a single person in the county who can not read and write and will let us know about it we will see to it that they are taught.

Not many years ago we felt that after people were grown that they had reached the age they could learn no more in school. We have found in our own county in the Opportunity school work that this old idea was entirely wrong. I do not recall any child who has ever learned as rapidly as some of the older people who attended the Opportunity schools.

At the present time the State of Alabama is putting on an intensive campaign in an effort to teach every man and woman to read and write by April 1st. This may seem an impossibility, but yet it is not impossible, for many people at least.

It is a humiliating fact that Alabama stands fourth from the bottom in total white illiteracy in the union. A fact still more humiliating to the people of Chilton County is that our county stands twenty-eighth from the top in the counties of the state in illiteracy.

I would be glad if the reader of this article would furnish the teacher of the local school with a list of all adults who can neither read nor write. If you will do this the teacher will then send the list to me and we will make an effort to have those who wish to learn to read and write taught. Let me urge every citizen to do his or her part in making it possible for everyone to read and write.

Yours for a better educational system,

B. LAWRENCE,
County Supt. Education.

THREE FINED FOR SUNDAY GAMING

Three negroes were tried before Justice of the Peace H. M. Simpson last Monday morning, answering to charges of Sunday gaming, which were brought against them last Sunday when Sherif Collins and Deputy Murrah arrested the negroes in a dice game, according to reports.

The negroes, Denny Cooper, Sam Williams and Cliff Owen were each fined fifteen dollars and costs, the information stated, and Cooper was placed in jail following the trial for failure to pay the fine.

HON. WINSTON HUDDLESTON ANNOUNCES FOR SOLICITOR

In this issue of the News will be found the official announcement of Hon. Winston Huddleston, of Wetumpka, Ala., for the office of Solicitor for the 19th Judicial Circuit of Alabama, subject to the action of the Democratic Primary to be held next August. Mr. Huddleston has held said office for the past three years, having been elected for a four year term in the general election in November, 1926, and he seeks to succeed himself, for another four year term.

Mr. Huddleston has been a faithful public servant during the time he has served as Solicitor and has many friends throughout the circuit who wish for him success in his race.

THREE ARE INJURED IN AUTO WRECK

Cornelius Lewis Received A Broken Leg, While Others
Get Cuts and Bruises

As the result of an automobile accident which occurred last Sunday night about eight-thirty o'clock, two miles south of Clanton on the Birmingham and Montgomery Highway, Cornelius Lewis, 21, of near here, C. O. Lewis, 23, of Verbena, and Cletus Duke, 20, near here, were carried to the Central Alabama Hospital here, in a Martin ambulance.

The younger Lewis was found to have been suffering with a badly broken and shattered bone in his right leg, just below the knee, and cuts and bruises. The elder Lewis received several cuts about the face and head, while Duke has a bad cut on his hand, and other cuts and bruises.

The accident occurred, according to the story given a representative of this newspaper, when the light car going south in which the injured trio were riding, attempted to pass another car, said to have been driven by Edwin Wagoner, of Clanton, and struck the front wheel, causing them to lose control of the lighter car, which ploughed off the highway, striking a telephone pole, injuring the pole and practically demolishing the car, which was brought to Clanton by a wrecker from Bill's Garage.

Occupants in the Wagoner car, stopped and assisted the injured boys, and summoned the Martin ambulance. Late reports from the hospital, state that the injured are doing as well as could be expected.

OFFICE OF COUNTY WELFARE WORKER HAS BEEN MOVED

Announcement was made this week of the removal of the office of Mrs. C. E. Stapp, County Welfare Worker, from the office of the Superintendent of Education to the rooms formerly occupied by Dr. T. J. Marcus, over the Clanton Brokerage Co. building.

This removal was on account of the crowded condition of the former quarters, and in her new quarters, Mrs. Stapp will have more office space, in which to carry on her work. Anyone wishing to see her may find her in the office on Saturday's and Monday's all day, and on Thursday mornings. It is necessary to make certain office days in order to allow for time to answer calls and visit schools.

F. R. Jones Takes Over Filling Station Here

Announcement was made this week, by Mr. R. J. Sumner, distributor of Woco-Pep products here, that Mr. F. R. Jones, of Tuscaloosa will now be in charge of the filling station, formerly that of John T. Ellis, on the highway, at the north edge of town. The station will be known as the Jones Service Station, dispensing Woco-Pep gasoline and oils.

Mr. Jones who has had some experience in the gasoline business, intends to bring his family here in the near future. See his announcement elsewhere in this issue.

CITY LICENSE INSPECTOR MAKES SECOND APPEAL

The City License Inspector is this week, making his second appeal to those within the police jurisdiction. On and after March 1st, an additional penalty of ten per cent will be added to the face of the license. It is estimated that there are something like seventy-five or more persons who have not yet secured their privilege license to do business in the city.

Couple To Observe Golden Anniversary

Fifty years ago on the twenty-fifth of February, eighteen-eighty, at the residence of Mr. Kenyon Wells in Verbena, Alabama, Miss Sarah Alice Wells and Mr. William Isaac Mullins were married in the presence of a few friends and relatives. Judge Jefferson Faulkner, Sr., of Montgomery performed the ceremony.

On Tuesday, the twenty-fifth of February, nineteen-thirty, Mr. and Mrs. Mullins will be at home to their friends from four to six in the afternoon, and from seven to nine in the evening—no cards.

BILL DICKERSON FREED ON RECKLESS DRIVING CHARGE

Bill Dickerson, negro, was freed last Monday morning in Mayor's Court here, from a charge of reckless driving placed against him by the state.

Bill, unfortunately and accidentally, tried to stop a Buick car with the truck he was driving, Tuesday of last week, which is said to have contained five hundred thousand dollars, en route from Birmingham to Greenville. Several witnesses were heard in the case by Mayor Hart.

BOARD WILL MEET TUESDAY ON HOSPITAL

Federal Hospital Board Will Select General Area
For The Site

A recent communication from Washington to the News stated that the Federal Hospital Board will meet on Tuesday, February 25th, 1930, at nine-thirty A. M. in room 1008 Arlington Building, Washington, D. C., for the purpose of considering a general area within the State of Alabama wherein the new Veterans Hospital will be located. This hearing is for the purpose of determining upon a general area within the state and not the specific site.

At this meeting the board will be glad to hear the views of any responsible local committee of the state on the subject of a general location.

It is sincerely hoped that Chilton County, or Clanton, will see fit to have a committee or a spokesman present at the meeting of the Federal Board on the date and time stated above, to give a representation of our county as a suitable site for this big hospital.

Ernest L. Fike Died On February The 12th

Funeral services were held on last Thursday afternoon at Marbury, Ala., for Ernest Linwood Fike, age 38, who died at the home of a relative in Verbena, Wednesday, February 12, following a lingering illness. The services were conducted by Rev. J. W. Jones, of Thorshy, with Martin of Clanton in charge of the body.

The deceased was at one time a prominent merchant of Thorshy Mercantile Company, at the time of its opening there some time ago. Failing health caused him to resign his position there, and he went West, later returning to Chilton County.

Surviving is the widow, two sons, three daughters, one brother, Ben C. Fike, of Nashville; one sister, Mrs. L. M. Ham of Montgomery, and his father, W. E. Fike of Marbury.

Mr. D. I. DeRamus of Verbena, Ala., was here last Tuesday attending to business matters.

Porter Plier Post Of American Legion Will Meet Here On Next Tuesday Night

At a meeting of the Porter Plier Post of the American Legion, Clanton, held last Tuesday night at the courthouse here, plans were made for the next meeting to be held on next Tuesday night, February 25th, also at the courthouse, at seven-thirty o'clock.

George Grant, Department Commander, from Troy, Alabama, will be present at the meeting Tuesday night and is scheduled to give an address. C. B. Simms, State Adjutant of Montgomery, will be here also for an address. Both these men are distinguished speakers, and are very active in the work of the American Legion.

Special Sermon At Methodist Church

On next Sunday night, February 23, at seven-thirty o'clock, Rev. Ernest A. Childs, pastor of the Clanton Methodist church will deliver a sermon, having as its subject, "Solomon's Temple."

This sermon will be dedicated to the Masons, and all Masons in the county are especially invited to hear this sermon.

Rev. Childs spent twelve days in Jerusalem making a special study of the temple and other sacred spots there. Seats will be reserved for Masons, and everybody is invited.

CITY OFFICIALS WERE ENTERTAINED LAST FRIDAY

On last Friday night, J. W. Franklin was host to city officials of Clanton at a stag dinner at his home on Second Avenue.

Several brief talks were made by the guests with many stories and toasts exchanged. Those enjoying the hospitality of Mr. Franklin were Messrs. Eric Hart, Mayor, J. H. Plier, H. S. Shaw, M. A. Gore, Grady Broadhead, G. C. Walker, Herbert Lowery, John Bookholdt, and Dr. T. J. Marcus.

FINAL APPEAL TO BE MADE TO FARMERS

Dr. Knapp Will Urge Cotton Acreage Reduction
Over WAPI

Auburn, Ala., Feb. 16.—To sell the people of Alabama on the merits of a reduced acreage in cotton this year, Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, will "take to the air" in a series of talks during the week of Feb. 17.

Over Station WAPI he will be heard daily between 12 and 1:30 p. m. Tuesday Wednesday and Thursday. He will conclude the series with a final appeal to farmers, bankers and business men at 7:30 p. m. Friday.

Dr. Knapp said he will go before the microphone armed with facts to show why fewer acres should be planted to cotton this year. He said he would also point out how the reduction can be advantageous to the entire economic structure of the state. His radio lectures will be based upon a bulletin which is being published for wide distribution over Alabama.

Clarence Lecroy On Glee Club

Mr. Clarence Lecroy of Maplesville, (Isabella community) who is attending Auburn, has been selected as one of the 53 young men who compose the Auburn Glee Club, for the present year. The Glee Club is under the direction of Prof. John W. Brigham, head of the music department at Auburn, and it is said that the club is the largest ever assembled at Auburn. The Club has recently made several trips to larger cities in the state, where they have successfully put on programs.

The many friends of young Mr. Lecroy congratulate him for this attainment and are proud with him in his giving our county representation on the Club.

Mr. J. A. Sample of Plantersville, Ala., was among the out of town visitors to Clanton last Tuesday.

Mr. W. A. Gullede of Verbena was in Clanton last Tuesday.

DR. JAMES J. DURETT FOR STATE HEALTH OFFICER

Dr. James J. Durett, of Tuscaloosa, who has for several years been in charge of U. S. Drug control division, under the department of Agriculture, has been nominated for State Health officer of Alabama to succeed Dr. Stuart Graves, who has been holding that office temporarily, since last August, according to an announcement made public by the state committee on public health.

Dr. Durett will assume the duties of the office April 15, 1930. He has held many places of trust and is said to have a wide experience in health work and is well qualified for the office.

FIDDLERS TO CONVENE AT VERBENA

Ninth Annual Event To Be Held At Verbena to Knock
The Blues Away

Announcement has been made by the Parent-Teachers Association of Verbena, Alabama, that the Ninth Annual Fiddlers Convention and Hog Calling Convention will be held at the Verbena High School auditorium on the night of March 7, beginning at eight o'clock.

On few other occasions is there such good cheer and complete enjoyment as at old time fiddling contests. We hear good fiddling over the radio, but that doesn't compare with hearing and seeing at the same time the artists of the resined bow as have appeared at Verbena in the conventions of past years; and the same will be true for this year. Do you remember the good fiddling of last year? The splendid orchestras? The mandolins? The hearty, hilarious, "hitching" hog calling? Well, it's all coming back with a bit more pep and vigor for this year. Prominent fiddlers of the three cornering counties, and others perhaps, will be here. All are invited to attend and participate.

Verbena will make sufficient preparation for the entertainment of the large crowd that will be in attendance. The auditorium is about the largest and most convenient in the section of the state, well seated, and will be sufficiently heated to make anyone comfortable. Plenty of parking space will be at hand, and cars will be conveniently placed for exit easily.

A fine list of cash and other prizes will be offered to the contestants. We hope to make our list even better than that of last year. And to do this we want to get our friends to make it worth while by notifying all fiddlers to write to the Secretary of Verbena P.-T. A. and give the names of any other fiddlers that would attend; invite them to come out anyway, even if we can not get them personal word. The same holds true for orchestras, banjos, saw players, anyone who plays a stringed instrument.

W. T. HAND OF JEMISON PAYS VISIT TO CLANTON

Mr. W. T. Hand, a prominent citizen of Jemison, Ala., and Chilton County, was in Clanton last Tuesday attending to business matters.

While here Mr. Hand was a most pleasant caller at the News office. We are always glad to have this gentleman pay us a call, and invite him to come again.

Mrs. Mary M. Hubbard Died Sunday, February 16

Funeral services were held last Tuesday morning for Mrs. Mary M. Hubbard, wife of W. C. Hubbard, who died last Sunday night at eleven o'clock, at her home eight miles west of Clanton. Interment took place in the Liberty Hill cemetery with Martin of Clanton in charge.

The deceased was a member of the Presbyterian church, and has lived in this county approximately ten years, coming here from Eufaula, Alabama. She was spoken of by her neighbors as a most estimable neighbor, and until the time of her illness, she was a very active religious worker, in her community.

At two o'clock Tuesday afternoon, four weeks ago, to the hour, Frank Hubbard, a son of the deceased lady, was buried in the Liberty Hill cemetery, and his mother will be laid to rest beside his grave. Surviving is the husband, three daughters, Mrs. W. A. Jernigan of Eufaula, Mrs. Victoria Roberts of Clanton, and Miss Jennie Hubbard, Clanton; two sons, G. Thurman Hubbard, and W. C. Hubbard, Jr.

LOCAL CLUB WILL MEET STRONG TEAMS

Four Games Scheduled For Coming Week Said
To Be Good

During the past week the basketball team of the Clanton Athletic Club, which has won fame over the entire state for its many victories over large and stronger teams and its few defeats has been drawing more attention.

The Calcott team from Selma met the Clanton lads on the local indoor court last Thursday night, and were defeated with a final score of 34 to 18, giving the local club another victory. On last Saturday night the Southern Dairies team from Birmingham came down here and defeated the club team with a score of 24 to 30. This Birmingham team is the only team that can boast of bringing defeat to the Clanton Athletic Club. Even then in the third quarter, the score was tied, 22 to 22.

Last Tuesday night, the team of the First Baptist church in Birmingham, played the Clanton Athletic Club team on the local indoor court, and met defeat, with a score of 44 to 17. At the half, Clanton's tally showed 19 points, and Birmingham 8. Gore playing best for Clanton with 19 points to his credit.

On next Friday night the strong team from the Standard Oil Company of Birmingham will play the local club team on the indoor court here at seven-thirty. This Birmingham team is the leader in the Office League of Birmingham bringing them into the spotlight as a team that will put up a good strong fight to win.

A team, said to be really stronger than the Southern Dairies team is scheduled to play the local lads here on next Saturday night, February 22, and this team is the Birmingham Electric Company team, rated as the leaders in the Industrial League, which is the largest and most prominent league of basketball teams in Birmingham. The Southern Dairies team ranks as fourth in this league.

This game seems to be attracting more attention than any other game played by the Athletic Club team, and without a doubt will be witnessed by an extremely large crowd of spectators. The boys of the Clanton Athletic Club deserve the entire backing of the people of Clanton because they are really working hard to make a good showing for Clanton in the athletic line, playing good, clean games throughout the season, with only two defeats.

On Monday and Tuesday nights, February 24th and 25th, the brilliant and fast team from the Marion Military Institute, of Marion, Alabama, will be guests of the Athletic Club here, when they meet on the indoor court both nights. This military institute team has a very good record behind them, and appear to be quick and easy on the throw.

Wednesday night, February 26th, there is another game scheduled to be played with a Birmingham team yet to be selected, according to the manager of the athletic club. This game will be played on the formal opening night of the new auditorium at Calera, Ala.

ANOTHER LUCKY PARTY WILL GET INVITATION FROM CAFE

Last week, marked the beginning of a series of invitations from the Dixie Cafe to residents of Clanton to dine there, as their guests. Mr. and Mrs. Renfro Mullins were the fortunate ones last Sunday.

Elsewhere in this issue, another invitation is issued, and one will be issued each week in the News. The names of the fortunate parties being drawn from a large number placed together, in a box. Watch for your name you may be next.

INSURANCE HEAD SEES PROSPERITY

This year is going to be the greatest in the history of life insurance business, Roger B. Hull, managing director of the National Association of Life Underwriters, declared in an address at the Tutwiler Hotel last Wednesday. The life insurance business has grown to enormous proportions, he said, but its past is insignificant compared to what it is to be in the future.

State Capitol News

According to S. H. Blau, State Auditor, early indications are that poll tax collections this year will fall below anticipations, and will fall below the collections of the last election year, which was 1928.

In 1928, toward the close of January, many tax collectors over the State wrote or wired the Auditor's office for extra poll tax books. This year only two counties made requisition for more than their usual supply, these counties being Mobile and Dallas, where poll tax payments were heavy.

Poll tax payments closed on February 1st, and the tax collectors are required by law to have their poll tax books returned to the State Auditor by February 15th. The State Auditor then checks these books to verify their correctness from a monetary standpoint. He then sends the poll tax books to the Probate Judge of the respective counties for filing and reference there.

While the State is put to considerable expense in printing and distributing the poll tax books and checking the same, the State does not keep any of the poll tax money. Every dollar of the same is certified to the State Department of Education, to be returned to the county where he tax was paid, to be used for school purposes there.

According to information from the State Department of Agriculture, farmers in South Alabama have already made their plans for the 1930 crop of cotton, and other crops. In North Alabama the freezing weather and heavy rains have delayed the preparations for spring plowing, while in Middle Alabama plowing has been started but has been delayed by recent heavy rains.

The present price of cotton is not encouraging to increased acreage for 1930, and farm economists are encouraging decreased acreage. Last year was a record year for fertilizer application in Alabama, and it is hardly likely that this record will be again broken in 1930, especially when the low price of the staple is considered. A high price for cotton might stimulate an increased acreage, but the cotton market is slow and draggy and has even dropped well below the Federal loan limit of 15.64 cents per pound for middling seven-eighths inch basis. The big farm question in Alabama naturally revolves around cotton, since of the 12 principal crops in this state the cotton acreage is nearly equal to the other 11.

Safe farming, as outlined by the Department of Agriculture, means the production of cotton as a cash crop, with the farmer raising enough to eat and feed in addition, so that he can not suffer if cotton is low. At present, it was stated, many farmers are in want because the price of cotton is below cost of production to most farmers.

The department also advises farmers to produce cotton on their best land, to avoid wet bottoms and also hilly soils that need constant terracing and to plant on fairly level lands that will hold fertilizer and admit of building up. The total cost per acre of producing cotton is given at $34.72, and it is pointed out that a large yield and a good price are needed to make cotton raising profitable. If land will not average at least one-third of a bale per acre, it cannot produce cotton at a profit, the department says.

Governor Bibb Graves in a recent address broadcast from Station WAPI, paid tribute to the radio as an agency which is contributing to the rebuilding of the family circle by making home life more enjoyable. The Governor pointed out that while other modern inventions have tended to disrupt home life, the radio keeps the family by their own hearthstone. The Governor's address featured the observance of the first anniversary of the establishment of the broadcasting station at the State Department of Agriculture. The Chief Executive urged Alabamians to have confidence in themselves and the future of their state and not to be depressed by temporary unfavorable economic conditions.

ALABAMA FARMERS ARE APPRECIATIVE OF EFFORTS

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 20.—That Alabama farmers are appreciative of the assistance given by the Federal Farm Board, and the Cotton Cooperative Association is demonstrated by the fact that they pooled approximately 5,000 bales of cotton with the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association Monday of this week.

Announcement to this effect was made today by Allen Northington, general manager of the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association, who said that the Alabama Association continues to advance Alabama cotton producers 15.64 cents per pound middling basis 7-8" staple despite the fact that cotton is bringing much below this price on the spot markets of Alabama.

Speaking in behalf of Alabama farmers Mr. Northington said all are very appreciative of the excellent service the Farm Board is rendering by making it possible for the Cotton Association to advance the 15.64 cents per pound. "This service is coming at a splendid time to assist in relieving the depressed economical conditions thru which we are now passing," Mr. Northington said.

Farmers Producing Cream As Sideline

Auburn, Ala., Feb. 20.—To secure a profitable sideline to cotton production that will enable them to operate on a cash basis many Alabama farmers are turning to cream dairying, which in most cases offers the greatest possibilities, according to Prof. F. W. Burns, extension animal husbandman at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. "Regardless of one's location in Alabama he is within easy shipping distance of some creamery," Burns said.

"It is a regular income-producing sideline for the farmer who raises cotton and corn," said the husbandman in naming advantages of cream dairying. "It furnishes a ready market at a fair price for home-grown feedstuffs and gives profitable farm employment at seasons when labor is least in demand. It contributes to more effective crop rotation and more fertile soils."

"It is best for the beginner to start with five good grade cows, one brood sow, and 100 hens," he recommended. "A unit of this size is balanced in that sufficient skimmilk will be available for both pigs and chickens. For a larger number of cows pasture and feed may be inadequate and the farmer might become discouraged when high priced concentrates must be purchased. On the other hand, a beginning with one or two cow swill result in returns so small that one has little justification for purchasing a separator and such other simple equipment necessary for successful cream dairying. Ordinarily it is inadvisable for one to start with purebred cows unless he has had experience. For a man with sufficient capital one or two purebreds are an advantage in that they serve as foundation animals for a purebred herd."

Mince Meat Is Not For Pies Alone

By JOSEPHINE B. GIBSON
Director, Home Economics Dept.,

Mince meat pie is a traditional winter holiday delicacy. But has it ever occurred to you that mince meat is suited to a wide variety of uses other than this time honored one? Busy housewives will be glad to learn that many pleasing cakes, cookies and pastries may be made quickly with it, for good mince meat is a combination of choice preserved fruits and finest spices ready to use without further preparation.

A perfectly spiced, rich fruit cake which will keep indefinitely is one of the most delicious things made from mince meat. This can be made merely by adding a few simple ingredients to pure mince meat before baking. Instead of assembling and preparing all the fruits and spices ordinarily needed for a good fruit cake.

Here is the recipe for this delicious—

Mince Meat Fruit Cake—In a one-pound can of pure mince meat add: 1 cup nut meats; ¼ cup raisins; 1 teaspoon vanilla; ½ cup melted butter; 1 cup sugar; 2 egg yolks; 2 cups flour; 1 teaspoonful baking soda dissolved in 1 tablespoon boiling water; 2 stiffly beaten egg whites.

Mix ingredients in order given and bake in a well-greased floured loaf-cake pan in a slow oven for about one hour. Frost with boiled frosting. Sprinkle with nuts and raisins.

Similarly, drop cookies made from mince meat are fruity, spicy, and altogether delicious. They are particularly fine for packed lunches, for they keep moist and fresh almost indefinitely.

Mince Meat Drops—¼ cup butter; ¼ cup sugar; 1 egg; 1 cup mince meat; ¼ cup flour; 2½ teaspoons baking powder.

Cream butter and add sugar, beaten egg, mince meat, and flour and baking powder which have been sifted together. Drop by teaspoons on a buttered baking sheet and bake in a hot oven for 10 minutes. This makes three dozen cookies.

Mince Meat Turnover Cake—2/3 cup butter; 1¼ cups sugar; 1 cup milk; 4 eggs; 3½ cups flour; ½ teaspoon salt; 5 teaspoons baking powder; 1 cup mince meat; ¼ cup granulated sugar.

Cream butter and add sugar and beaten eggs. Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt, and add to first mixture alternately with the milk, stirring to a smooth batter. Butter a shallow, square or oblong baking pan. Sprinkle pan with sugar and line with mince meat. Turn batter over mince meat, and bake in a moderately hot oven 45 to 50 minutes. Serve hot, with whipped cream; or lemon or vanilla sauce.

Mince Meat Tarts—2 cups flour; 4 teaspoons baking powder; 1 teaspoon salt; 3 tablespoons lard or butter; ¼ cup milk and water in equal parts; 1 pound can of jar of mince meat.

Mix dry ingredients and sift twice. Work in fat with tips of fingers and then add the liquid gradually, mixing with knife to a soft dough. Toss on lightly floured board, patting to ½ inch thickness. Spread with mince meat, and roll as for jelly roll. With a sharp knife, cut into one inch lengths—pinch one end of each roll together and place that end down on the baking sheet. This prevents the escape of any of the mince meat while baking. Bake in a moderate oven (375°) for 15 to 20 minutes.

Another suggestion the entire family will approve is for the use of mince meat in a new and delightful dessert for any season of the year! It is—tution has grown, will all be listed in the directory.

Mince Meat Sundae—To make a delicious fruit sundae, heat a can of mince meat in a pan of hot water for from 25 to 30 minutes. Open can and serve mince meat as a hot sauce on vanilla ice cream. If the mince meat is in a glass package, loosen top slightly and heat in a pan of water, being careful that the water does not come high enough to get into the jar. Mince meat sundaes are an excellent Thanksgiving dessert for the family which does not care for a too rich finish to a heavy dinner.

A good business man will not buy a farm or any property without first looking it over to see what it is worth. However, some will buy or loan money on land without an abstract.

Isn't it equally as foolish to buy a farm without looking it over as to buy it and not know whether the titles are good or not? Without an abstract you do not know where you are getting the land you look at or not.

Before investing in land in any way have an abstract made and be safe.

GRAPHITE DUTY WILL STAY UP

Black Efforts Defeat Old Guard Attempt To Wreck Alabama Industry

By HUBERT BAUGHN
Chief Washington Bureau, Journal and Associated Newspapers

Washington, Feb. 15.—As the result of a successful fight waged in the senate by Senator Hugo Black, the tariff bill will go to conference a few days hence carrying an increase in the import duty on graphite for the protection of the graphite industry of east Alabama.

A group of old guard republicans, led by Fess, of Ohio, sought to eliminate the increase in the graphite rate from 1 1/2 to 2 cents a pound which the Alabama senators had inserted while the tariff bill was pending in committee of the whole. Black made a vigorous speech, denouncing the move to "put out of business a small struggling industry in Alabama" and when he concluded the senate coalition of democrats and mid-western republicans voted with him and routed the opposition.

Protection Needed
Declaring that he was not a high-tariff senator, Black said that if the Alabama graphite industry was on its feet and making money he would not raise his voice in its behalf. "But," he asserted, "this infant industry, which is centered in my native county of Clay in the state of Alabama can not exist unless it is given further protection against imports from Madagascar and Ceylon."

Charging that the giant crucible manufacturers were opposing the increase because they preferred to import their graphite from Madagascar, where it is dug by children who are paid only seven cents a day, rather than buy domestic graphite and provide employment for American labor, the senator said the two-cent rate advocated by him would provide employment for several thousand Alabamians at a time when "a good many people are out of work in this era of so-called Hoover prosperity."

Opposers Paying Political Debts
Pointing out that he had opposed a tariff on pig iron over the protest of the steel interests of Alabama and had supported a tariff on manganese over the protest of these same interests, the senator asserted that he was unalterably opposed to a tariff system which operates largely to repay the special interests which supply campaign funds for the dominant political party, and at the same time seeks to crush the struggling graphite producers of Alabama.

Attacking the crucible manufacturers for trying to injure the domestic graphite industry so they could continue to import from countries where slave-labor is used, Black riddled the propaganda of the crucible interests that Alabama graphite is of inferior quality by producing a report of a bureau of mines test, describing it as the best in the world.

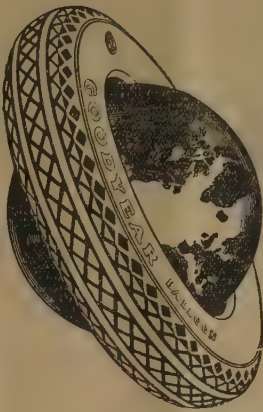

In addition to securing the rate increase, Black put through an amendment which will end the present practice of shipping in inferior products under the classification of graphite.—Montgomery Journal.

Farmers Urged To Reduce Cotton Acre'ge

In a radio talk today (1:15 p. m., Friday, February 14, 1930, station WRC at Washington, D. C.) Mr. Carl Williams, member, Federal Farm Board, had the following to say in regard to the desirability of cotton acreage reduction:

The recent weakness in cotton prices should be taken as a sharp warning to cotton growers. That weakness rests on two things—a low current rate of cotton consumption and trade anticipation of a larger crop in 1930. Cotton growers can not do anything about this year's cotton consumption, but they can do a great deal now about the crop of 1930. If they want a better price in 1930, it is not too late to plan to get it. They can get it by cutting down the acreage.

On 48,730,000 acres in 1926 there were produced 18,000,000 bales of cotton that brought the growers less than $1,000,000,000. The following year a crop of 13,000,000 bales was produced on 41,905,000 acres and was sold for $1,300,000,000; that is, the acreage of 1927 was reduced 6,825,000 acres below that of 1926, but the crop raised thereon sold for $300,000,000 more. This is not ancient history, it is a story only two or three years old.

In 1928 and again in 1929 cotton growers increased their plantings substantially above those of 1927. The crops were larger and prices have been lower. This last year's crop of 14,900,000 bales is bringing less money than the 1927 crop of 13,000,000 bales, although world stocks are lower. This policy does not pay. A cotton acreage of 40,000,000 acres, whatever the yield per acre, can be counted on to bring considerably more income than an acreage of 47,000,000 or 49,000,000 acres.

World consumption of American cotton in 1926-27 was 15,800,000 bales—a very high figure. Why? American cotton growers produced 18,000,000 bales and had to sell it for much less than it cost to produce it. Low prices always increase consumption. World consumption in 1927-28 was still high, 15,400,000 bales, because the textile industry had heavy stocks of low priced cotton to draw on. World consumption declined still further in 1928-29, has been less thus far this year than it was in the same period last year, and may be still declining. World stocks of cotton are not excessive. Domestic and foreign demand are likely to be somewhat stronger next year than this year. If the United States produces in 1930 a crop of 13,000,000 bales or less, growers may expect considerably better prices and larger incomes next year than they got last year.

The Federal Farm Board can not fix the world price of cotton. It can not fully protect farmers from the consequences of over-planting, neither can the cotton cooperatives nor the new American Cotton Cooperative Association. The Board wants to help farmers to help themselves. If growers will reduce their cotton acreage, they will thereby help themselves to better incomes. The interests of the entire nation are involved in this problem. The earnest cooperation of every farmer, merchant, banker, newspaper, educational institution, and every public spirited citizen of the South is invited to make effective this plain lesson of recent years.

FERTILIZER SALES AS YET NO
CLUE TO THE COTTON ACREAGE

The movement of Alabama fertilizers to date of February 15, amounted to 98,000 tons according to a report issued from the Department of Agriculture Monday by Seth P. Storrs, Commissioner of Agriculture. The average movement up to this date for the past two years has been 119,000 tons, according to figures compiled by W. B. Griffin, chief clerk of the Department, who has charge of sales of fertilizer tags.

This decrease to date of 18 per cent over the past two years has little meaning with regard to the possible acreage of cotton to be planted this year in Alabama. This is true, because a large percentage of this early moving fertilizer goes to South or South Central Alabama, which produces early truck for northern markets.

Of the 98,000 tons for which tags have been issued to date, fully 75 per cent has gone to southern regions for early crops other than cotton. The movement of fertilizer is now ten thousand tons ahead of this same date last year, but it is 54,000 tons behind 1927 at this date.

Early movements of fertilizer in Alabama at this season bear little reference to the total acreage of cotton to be planted, because the bulk of early shipments are applied to the approximately 20,000 acres of Alabama's truck crops.

It is realized that seasonal variations in earliness or lateness, rains, bad roads and scarcity of farm money always are factors of importance in fertilizer purchase and the time of purchase also. However, no forecast of cotton acreage can be made at this date from the sale of fertilizer tags in Alabama, due to the large amounts and heavy applications to truck crops.

A minor factor in tonnage movement is the present low price of cotton. Farmers are planning cotton acreage, but at the present low price there is little encouragement for anything but a decreased acreage. Viewed from this limited early outlook, the prospect seems to indicate a decreased acreage.

WILL THE PUBLIC KEEP FAITH WITH OUR RAILROADS?

It has not been so many years ago when this county was scarcely populated and when transportation was a problem. We have several citizens living who no doubt remember when the L & N Railroad was in its infancy in this county. They no doubt can recall the many problems that confronted the farmer and merchant at that time, in getting merchandise and agriculture products to and from the market. The L & N, before it operated a train, was forced to purchase most of its right of way and was caused to spend large sums of money to build its road. From its infancy it has yearly paid taxes on its right of way, tracks, depots and rolling stock to the state, county and Town. It has always been the policy of the Railroads to encourage every industry that located in our midst. They have aided the farmer in many ways.

The public has made heavy demands upon the railroads, in many different ways. It has demanded that the Railroads—regardless of the expense—buy equipment that is modern and up to the highest standard, to insure the traveling public with safe and adequate means of transportation. The railroads are required to build warehouses which are safe and adequate to store freight and express which may be delivered to it for shipment. It is required to keep an agent and other employees on the job every day in the week to receive passengers and see that they are furnished with comfortable conveniences, such as well heated, lighted and watered waiting rooms. The railroads are required to install and maintain the crossing of the state and county highways, over its tracks, and when an overhead bridge is built, they are expected to bear the major portion of its expense. The Towns have demanded that their depot be a building of substantial size and beauty that it will reflect credit on the town and community. The railroad at Clanton pays a large water bill each month to furnish the public with water at its station. Its pay rolls in the county are very large and many of our citizens are looking to it for work. Many instances might be noted whereby the railroads are expected to respond to the public demand for the highest and most efficient means of transportation, both passenger and freight. The railroads make their investments with faith and confidence in the citizenship, which it serves. Those who have businesses located upon and along the railroads should reflect and remember that their business was enabled to grow and prosper because the railroad first had faith and confidence in the people to build their transportation facilities, and further remember, that the state has at the expense of the taxpayers, constructed good highways and that the railroads contributed large sums of money for overhead bridges over their tracks, where the highways cross them, for the purpose of aiding the state to bring to the public means of travel, with as much safety as possible. The railroads have directly and indirectly contributed to the building of our highways, which the freight and passenger Busses are operating over, in competition to them. How much is the bus pay roll in your town? How do you like the looks of the Bus Depot? How much licenses do the Bus operators pay your Town, for the privilege of doing business therein? These questions should cause the public to think, and keep faith, with those who have contributed to our progress.

PRaises SENATOR ELLIS

The Shelby County Reporter takes great satisfaction in the fact that L. H. Ellis of Columbiana has announced his candidacy for the lower house from Shelby County. "As state senator, representing this senatorial district in the last legislature, Mr. Ellis was without question the strongest and most influential member of that body," says the Reporter. "It was his responsibility to organize and lead the group in the senate that made possible the passage of a revenue bill with provision for such development in education, public health and welfare work as the state has never experienced before."

Even allowing for the special pride which is thus shown in one of its own citizens, there is general recognition of the capable work done by Senator Ellis of Shelby in the last legislature and satisfaction will be afforded far beyond the bounds of his own county if the house of representatives next year is to have the benefit of the ability and progressive views he showed during the legislative deliberations of 1927.—Alabama Journal.

SENATOR HUGO BLACK RE-

FLECTS CREDIT ON STATE

Senator Hugo Black, in the short time he has been in the United States Senate, has shown marked ability and his positions on important issues has made for him already a splendid record. The Birmingham News, of Feb. 18th, 1930, in commenting on his stand on the Graphite duty fight made by Senator Black, has this to say about him:

"Alabama has reason to be gratified by the able-minded manner in which its junior United States senator defended its graphite industry in the Senate debate on the subject a few days ago. In his tilt with Senator Couzens, of Michigan, and Senator Fess, of Ohio, Senator Black reflected no little credit upon his state. His argument was factful as well as tactful. He knew his subject—had mastered it in all its details. The Couzens amendment to restore the old duty of 1 1-4 cents a pound on graphite, in place of the duty of 2 cents a pound adopted under the Black amendment to the Smoot schedule, was defeated. And it was defeated by reason of the convincing argument made against it by Senator Black. That argument was noteworthy for its happy temper and wise restraint in statement quite as much as for its cogent reasoning.

Incidentally, the low tariff views of the late Senator Underwood are courageously expounded in this debate by Senator Black. Here is a portion of Mr. Black's remarks:

"I am not a low tariff man. I have voted for low tariffs on practically everything that has been proposed. I voted for a tariff on manganese on exactly the same principle that I ask now for a tariff on graphite. I voted for a tariff on manganese over the vigorous protest of the people of Alabama who are engaged in the manufacture of steel. I voted for a low tariff on pig iron over the vigorous protests of the manufacturers of Alabama, and I call attention to the fact that Alabama is one of the largest, if not the largest, manufacturer of pig iron in the United States."

"I get weary of all this talk of prosperity, and the people in certain places, those engaged in the big business enterprises, seem to think that the only way to have prosperity is to make the rich companies richer, the big companies bigger, and the monopolies more monopolistic. They are perfectly willing to wring the last dollar out of the pockets of the toilers of this nation who work and earn it by the sweat of their brows, and to keep a tariff wall on their finished products, but the very moment you begin to talk about protecting something in the South or in the West, just that very moment some body rises and says, "No, that can not be used."

"When the department of the Republican administration which is responsible and has been through the years for these iniquitous tariffs, which have borne down the cotton farmers of the South and the wheat farmers of the West, investigates Alabama's graphite, the report is: "Yes, it is better than any graphite in the world for the use." Still, not willing to accept the verdict of the Bureau of Mines which is instituted for the purpose of looking into matters of that kind, they send forth their propaganda through their subsidized press in order to convince the people that the Bureau of Mines is wrong in its tests and can not be believed.

"It will be absolutely necessary, when this question is taken up, to discuss the question of ad valorem rates on the graphite products which have, down through the years, been granted benefit through the tariff. At the same time we find that those interested in those products are here and have been in this city for the last three or four days storming the walls of the House and the Senate saying: "We can not live if you put a little 2-cent tariff on graphite, but we insist that you keep the 60 per cent tariff we have had imposed on the products, which we sell to the people of the United States."

Opinions expressed in this column by this writer have no connection with the general policies of this paper, being wholly those of the writer, in the manner they are written.

As a matter of fact, folks, I came very near being A. W. O. L. this week, but eventually came to the point that I couldn't afford to miss this week, for fear you might not miss this column, like you should if it were gone.

Kind of feel right 'gossiped' this week, having just been around a bunch of the society-going young ladies of our famous self-styled "400" in Clanton, quite a bit lately.

It isn't for the fact that I would have to use the words 'she said' so much in this column this week, I'd tell you some of the prevailing rumors, but I'm afraid the typesetter would run out of the letters used in those two words, so guess I'll leave it off for awhile.

Anyway, I have learned that if you keep your ears and eyes open, and your mouth shut, you will learn more in the long run. People will begin to confide in you then.

All you ladies, young or old, who have just about given up the hope of ever being fortunate or unfortunate as to take upon yourself a husband, can just discard that idea, because it can be done. That fact has already been illustrated right in our midst.

And if you are in a hurry, just start practicing what little "It" you have. But it is best to know your fish before you start that, because he may be the kind that likes a girl who is not so "It-ish" but home-loving and quiet. I should not be trying to help Ellnor Glynn advise you, because I've never had any experience along that line, so to speak.

Bred in the bone, is the banking instinct, in the F. J. Callen family, I believe. Here Frank J. has gone back to counting money again at the Peoples Savings Bank, and he sure looks like he is in the right place there, too. And it takes Glenn Boyd to watch the dollars on the outside, and F. J. is a good one to watch them on the inside, when he gets them from H. G.

I, have just about completed by 'Who's Who in Clanton' and will put it in print sometime in the future. There are some questions in my mind just who is who, at times. Just when I think I have the laziest man picked out, I find another—and then still another. But I have them under close surveillance hoping to see which is the laziest.

Then there is the Most Popular Married man in Clanton. I can't fully decide on that. There seems to be so many, who think they are popular, and I don't want to hurt anybody's feelings in the final showdown. And of course there is the most popular Married Lady and I think I have that one fully decided.

My 'Who's Who in Clanton' will no doubt, be placed among those items, recommended by the Literary Guild, and other well known book societies, for person's libraries in Clanton, and it may be advised for them to secure several copies, to be safe in case some wear out, or get stolen—or maybe disguised.

Had a good look at all our city school teachers the other afternoon, while they were in the postoffice waiting for their evening mail (or male) and they all looked so good, it is going to be rather difficult to ascertain which is the best looking, for my Who's Who. Maybe I had better arrange to see them sometime when they are not expecting visitors at their homes, and then perhaps the truth will out thru any camouflage which might otherwise be used for safety.

Then there is the best automobile salesman to be selected. I think that lies between Joe Higgins, Sie Foshee, and Red Sherrod. Pardon me for using the word 'lies' just then. Perhaps the best day for that final selection would be on Washington's birthday this month, if they could be persuaded to follow George's example.

C. Fenn Jones would have stood a fine chance of being selected as the best dressed bachelor, some time ago, but I'm afraid he won't be in the line now.

The place of the 'Most On The Date Shown Above' business man in Clanton, seems to vary between John Page and another. Both are being seriously considered, but I'm under the impression that Page will be rated as such in my Who's Who.

Thomas Jefferson Littlejohn will probably be mentioned as the Most Changed Man, but two or three other recently married men are being considered also.

"He Who Attends to Other's Business, Leaving His Own" selection is going to be extremely difficult for me to decide on. There are too many possibilities there, and in fact may be several named for that distinction.

For the place of the 'Most Popular Single Man' there are several under consideration. There is Otto Jones, John D. Mullins, J. B. Warren, Red Wagoner, Mack Wyatt, and some others. And the trouble there, is going to be that I will have to take under consideration of what they think of themselves, as well as what I think about it.

Alabama Weekly
Industrial Review

The following record of industrial activity lists items showing investment of capital, employment of labor and business activities and opportunities. Information from which the paragraphs are prepared is from local papers, usually of towns mentioned, and may be considered generally correct.

Hamilton—County-wide poultry meetings held here recently.

Contract let by State Highway Commission for construction of section of highway between Whitesburg and Oneonta.

Hamilton—14,570 bales cotton ginned in Marion County prior to January 16, 1930, as compared with 12,115 to same date, 1929.

State Highway Commission will open bids February 26th for bridge construction between Union Springs and Hurtsboro in Bullock County.

Birmingham—Montgomery Highway being cleared and opened for traffic. Fairfield—American Traders Security Corporation acquired controlling interest in First National Bank of this place, and will add $110,000 to capital stock of bank.

Rd Bay—Alabama Power Company moved office to Elledge building on Center Street. Tuscumbia—Standard Service Station at corner of Sixth and Dixon Streets leased by E. A. Barrow and Ralph W. Webb.

Ink Drops of C. C. H. S.

The regular Tuesday and Thursday period of physical education for girls is now being conducted by members of Miss Clay's Senior I Hygiene Class. After studying physical exercise in the text books the girls are putting it into practice by volunteering to conduct it at the recess period. Those who have already successfully conducted this exercise period are Allie Pearl Kelly, Eloyse Jones, Charlie Pyron and Sallie Mahan.

We are so thrilled at C. C. H. S. Why? The Parent-Teacher Association voted in their last meeting to buy for us some beautiful pictures suitable for our school. Mrs. John VanDerveer volunteered to donate, complimentary, a sufficient number of frames. The framing of the pictures will be done by the boys of the manual arts department under the supervision of Mr. Horton Walker, who is in charge of this department. These new pictures will meet a long felt need for our school. The teaching of geography, history and English can be greatly improved by the picture method. This is truly visual education. History may be taught almost without the use of the text if pictures illustrating all important events are used as the basis of instruction. The work in English can be changed from the distasteful, lifeless subject to a most interesting study through the use of pictures. Sketches of the lives of artists, authors, musicians, poets, statesmen, appropriately presented and accompanied by appropriate pictures may help in the larger culture which is the rightful heritage of every child. We wish the children to know and own some of the best productions of the painters' thoughts and skill. Are they going to? Yes, because of our Parent-Teacher Association in Chilton County High School.

Did you ever see a miniature dairy or stable? No? May I suggest that you consult the Junior III Occupations Class for boys, or Mr. Walker, for such valuable information? The class is making a thorough study of live stock and how they may be improved. Numerous pictures from cattle and stock-breeding associations all over the United States have been donated pictures which have been posted on the walls of the recitation rooms in which this course or project is being conducted. This class has made a number of field excursions to nearby farms around Clanton. We feel that in this way a great deal of real practical knowledge is going to come from such a course as this. Moving picture slides have been procured, prepaid express from Vermont, and with the use of Curtis Carter's Picture machine the school is treated to a free picture show. Mr. Walker is to be congratulated for his excellent direction of this most worthy movement. This class is a 100 per cent working squad in every way. Come to see for yourself.

Watch this column for the next six weeks!

The students of Chilton County High are planning to publish a "Who's Who" in this section for the next six weeks. Beginning with next week, each class is to make known its most outstanding members, as the most intellectual, the most beautiful, the biggest booster, the most bluff, etc. The Seniors will start the ball to rolling by publishing their list first. Whom do you think will be their best?

We are very grateful to Mrs. Claude Jones, who donated thirty-one books of fiction to our library last week. These books add much to our library and will be a great aid to the students in the study of English. We appreciate the thoughtfulness of Mrs. Jones and regret very much to lose Mary Sue from our school. We wish for her every degree of happiness that may come her way.

We are deeply indebted to the Soils and Crops boys in Mr. Green's Senior One class for the many improvements they are making on our campus. This class is remodeling every part of the campus. Stakes are being driven down about three feet apart making a one-way drive. Shrubbery is being planted on the front of the campus, and flower beds are being arranged in different places on the campus. When completed, this will add greatly to the improvement of the school campus and the surroundings in general. A movement is on foot to pave a walk eight feet wide from the front of the building to the street. A splendid tennis court is being made.

"CAKE WALK" AT HOME OF
E. D. COGGINS, SATURDAY

The News has been requested to announce this week, that there will be a "Cake Walk" at the home of E. D. Coggins near Billingsley on next Saturday night, February 22. Boys are to bring the girls. Take a walk for a dime and maybe be lucky and get a cake. Everybody is invited. Proceeds for the Pleasant Hill church.

E. G. Caldwell of Fletcher was in Clanton last Tuesday attending to business matters.

R. M. Howe, of Tuskegee, Alabama was among the out-of-town visitors to Clanton last Tuesday.

Policeman William Hickling of Nottingham, Eng., put in an ambulance a woman fatally hurt by an auto when the hospital was reached he found that she was his mother.

Mrs. John Sohmer of Chicago had her husband arrested for beating her because she did not give him the allowance he wanted after he gave her his week's wages.

Because he could make a better living begging, J. C. Pallen of Plymouth, Eng., had his name stricken from the unemployment dole list.

Mrs. James Paleton of Farmsborough, Eng., celebrated her 101st birthday five months after her husband reached the same age.

Young Matrons S. S. Class Met Last Tuesday Afternoon.

Mrs. Dewey Rockett and Mrs. Horsley White were joint hostesses to the Young Matrons' Sunday School Class, on last Tuesday afternoon, at the home of the former.

The large room was artistically decorated with large white carnations for the occasion, and the colors of green and white were cried out. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. S. J. Ezell.

Late in the afternoon a delicious salad plate with hot coffee was served to the following: Mesdames Grover Walker, Hance Alfred, Milton Smith, W. M. Wyatt, Frank Scott, Grady Taylor, Flem Higgins, Walter Green, H. C. Poe, Joe Higgins, Joe Mims, Dewey Eubanks, Luther Foshee, Grady Heflin, Horsley White, Loren Smith, S. J. Ezell and Dewey Rockett.

Mrs. Dowling Given Shower At Thorsby.

Mrs. A. C. Dowling was the recipient of many dainty and beautiful handkerchiefs last Friday afternoon when Mrs. Relious Franklin honored her with a handkerchief shower, at the latter's home in Thorsby.

Bridge was enjoyed by those sharing this affair, and later a most delicious and well-prepared salad plate with hot tea was served to the following: Mesdames Spurgeon Calloway, Flem Higgins, Loren Smith, Norman Roberts, W. M. Polk, Jr., A. C. Dowling, and Mrs. Mack Gray, Pate, Alton Cox, Relious Franklin of Thorsby, and Miss Mary Goodwin Jones of Clanton and Miss Agnes Leary of Thorsby.

Y. W. A.'s Will Meet At Church This Afternoon.

The Y. W. A. will hold its regular monthly business meeting this afternoon at five-thirty, at the Baptist church. The organization will be entertained by Circle Number Four, with Mrs. Horace Popwell, as chairman. All members are urged to be present.

Miss Hilda Hart Gives Valentine Party.

Miss Hilda Hart entertained a few of her friends on last Friday night at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Hart, at a Valentine party.

The spacious living room of the home was decorated to suit the occasion and souvenirs, carrying out the Valentine idea were given the guests. Many interesting games and contests were enjoyed. Miss Mary Charles Cox was awarded a prize for constructing more words from the word Valentine. A delicious salad plate with hot chocolate was served.

Misses Mary Sue Jones and Sallye Mahan assisted the attractive little hostess in entertaining her guests who were Misses Helen Moore, Mary Charles Cox, Nell Neighbors, Mary Frances Raspberry, Messrs. Dan Smith, Joe Moore, John Ezell, Hal Broadhead and Lawrence Gerald, Jr.

New Bridge Club Is Entertained By Mrs. Dowling.

Mrs. A. C. Dowling was hostess on Tuesday afternoon of last week to the New Tuesday afternoon bridge club at her home on Sixth Street.

After a series of games a delicious salad plate was served to the following: Mesdames Spurgeon Calloway, who won high score prize, Norman Roberts, Milton Smith, Loren Smith, Joe Higgins, W. M. Polk, Jr., with invited guests, Mrs. Flem Higgins and Mrs. Paul Ousley.

Junior G. A.'s Meet Today At Church.

Members of the Junior G. A. will meet this afternoon at the Baptist church at three-thirty o'clock. A very interesting program is assured, and all members are urged to be present.

Intermediate B. Y. P. U. Has Social At Church.

The Intermediate Group of the B. Y. P. U. entertained on last Thursday night at a social given at the Baptist church with Mrs. Henry Lyons and Miss Dollie Mae Harris in charge. Those members enjoying this affair were Misses Marilyn Hardy, Margaret Jones, Tiny Hyman, Hilda Hart, Helen Moore, Dorothy Sessions, Nell Neighbors, Margaret Johnson, Janie Beth Johnson, Mary Charles Cox, and Messrs. John Ezell, Dan Smith, Joe Moore, Hal Broadhead, Dewey Williams, Alton Murrah, Cecil Carter, Cecil Jones, Carl Jones and Earl Gray.

Intermediate G. A.'s Meet Today At Church.

The Intermediate Girls Auxiliary will hold a meeting at the Baptist church this afternoon at four-thirty. All members are urgently requested to attend this meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Franklin and son, John Plier, motored to Montgomery last Sunday.

Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Jones were visitors to Clanton last Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernie Teel visited friends and relatives in Montgomery Sunday.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to publicly thank Dr. V. J. Gragg, Miss Grace Robinson and others at the Central Alabama Hospital here for the kind treatment given Burton Tyus, while he was confined in the hospital.

Burton Tyus,
D. H. Tyus,
Mrs. Mary Tyus,
FOR SALE

I have two pair match mules for sale or trade. Also some young milch cows, and will have some more pigs later. Have a registered Duroc Boar for service, 2 miles southeast of Clanton.—W. B. Cox, Clanton, Route 2.

SCRUB SIRES GIVE WAY TO PUREBREDS

Camden, Ala., Feb. 20.—Farmers of Wilcox County have placed a cooperative order for a carload of purebred bulls. They bought seven bulls of the same kind in January. The goal is to provide purebred sires for the entire county and eliminate scrubs, very few of which remain, declared W. A. Cammack, county agent.

TO OBSERVE WASHINGTON BIRTHDAY

Thorsby W. M. S. Plan For Amusing Entertainment In Thorsby

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Thorsby Baptist church will observe Washington's Birthday on next Friday, February 21st, at seven-thirty o'clock to ten o'clock p. m.

This entertainment will be held at the home of Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Jones in Thorsby and is to be, as the pastor terms it:

"A very truly yours affair. Will bring you to your senses. For nothing but the truth is told. In spite of consequences." Those attending this affair are to be their true self, and are to cast aside their extra fixings and come dressed to represent what they really are, instead of what they seem to be. Admission will be a silver offering to the church.

Dr. C. N. Parnell of Maplesville was in Clanton last Tuesday looking after business matters.

Mr. Ernest H. Davis of Plantersville, Alabama was attending Circuit Court here last Tuesday.

Rev. J. M. Metcalf and family of Verbena were visitors to Clanton last Monday afternoon.

Billingsley News

The Junior and Senior B. Y. P. U. visited the Indian Grave unions Sunday evening, and enjoyed the splendid programs which the young people of Indian Grave church are capable of preparing.

Royster
FIELD TESTED FERTILIZERS

"My farm was entirely run down, but through the use of Royster fertilizer is now conceded to be one of the best in the county,"

Says G. T. Ledbetter, Barnett, Ga.

NOT AN UNUSUAL STORY. For even on rich ground a farmer who does not fertilize is spending his capital instead of increasing it and making it pay extra dividends.

The reason thousands stick to Royster is because of the extra profits it brings. They deduct the cost of making a crop with Royster from the selling price of their crop and find a bigger dollar-in-the-pocket return than with cheaper brands.

Royster quality is not accidental. For 45 years this firm has been following the standard set by its founder—"We cannot continue to prosper unless our dealers and their customers reap real profits from our products." Royster Fertilizer is scientifically compounded—stronger plant food is released as the growing plant can absorb it—so assuring continuous growth. Ground extra fine—in full-weight bags—thoroughly aged—field tested—has been growing profit crops for 45 years. You can afford to pay a little more for Royster because Royster gives you the best return.

Providence B. Y. P. U.

Dear friends and loved ones, as our little union meets in regular service we can see a vacant place that can never be filled here in this world anymore. Our hearts are made sad, very sad, indeed, when we look around in our dear little band of workers and find that our very dear friend and co-worker, Marvin Merchant, has been taken from among us. We miss him. Marvin was ever so faithful and loyal to his community.

Dear Lord, we ask Thee to direct each of us; help us to so live here in this world that when the cold hands of death takes us from this world that we can be re-united with this dear friend in that world where there will be no pains, no sorrows. Blessed God, we ask thee to help this dear father, mother and dear sisters, hold them up by thy strong arm of faith. May their said hearts be comforted with Thy assurance that some day God is going to re-unite them, with their dear ones, and there will be joy and peace forever more. We ask it all in Jesus's name. A FRIEND.

WHY MAKE IT WORSE?

In spite of all that we may possess of knowledge, philosophy and religion, when viewed in its stern reality, life is a tragic thing. We may be profoundly thankful for the fact that "hope springs eternal in the human breast."

Man, like every living creature, is born under the sentence of death, which rests alike upon the king on his throne and the murderer in his cell. None is exempt.

That we can cheerfully and hopefully "carry on" in the face of this certainty and in the midst of the trials of our daily existence is convincing evidence of man's courage and fortitude.

These reflections are not intended to spread gloom or discouragement, but are merely a reminder that, taken at its best, there is enough anguish in the world, without anyone seeking to make the burden of another harder to bear.

Along the thorny paths of life each man can do much to aid, comfort and encourage his neighbor. Why, then, should we choose to do those things which needlessly bring added misery to others instead of joy?

LANDSCAPE PLANS MADE FOR ELMORE

Wetumpka, Ala., Feb. 20.—Definite plans have been made for more detailed work in landscaping Elmore County rural homes. The goal for 1930 is to beautify at least one home in each community by planting shrubs, lawns, flowers and making other improvements. This is reported by Miss Mary Olive Carnley, home demonstration agent, who plans to help the rural people with their beautification program.

Sam F. Brewster, landscape specialist, Extension Service, Alabama Polytechnic Institute, will visit the county to help with plans for the landscaping. He does similar work in many other Alabama counties, Miss Carnley said.

BRICK BROODERS USED IN BALDWIN

Bay Minette, Ala., Feb. 20.—The home-made brick brooder is growing rapidly in popularity among farmers of Baldwin County. A large number have already been built, and the total for the season will probably reach 200, reports E. E. Hale, county agent.

Farmers are discarding coal and oil brooders for the home-made brick structure, he said, because it is low in original cost, economical to operate, and considered more efficient than ordinary brooders in maintaining uniform and ample heat.

W. T. Fryan of Steubenville, Ohio, lost his nose in an auto accident. It was found in the wreckage and a doctor grafted it back on with 20 stitches. Fryan breathed naturally an hour later.

WHO'S PRESIDENT?

Heard a little story yesterday down in Americus.

A certain Italian was being examined for citizenship papers. He made an excellent record in his examination. The judge congratulated him and then said: "Now Tony, there are a few questions I must ask you. They are all easy, but I must go through the formality of asking them."

"What is the capital of the United States?"

"Washington."

"What is the largest city in the United States?"

"New York."

"Who is president of the United States?"

"Al Smith."

"No, Tony. Think hard. Who was the man who ran against him and beat him. Now tell me who is president of the United States?"

"Al Smith," again replied Tony. "I know he is president."

"What makes you so positive?" asked the judge.

"Well, during the campaign last year, I heard Senator Borah, Senator Moses, Mr. Hoover and other Republicans say that if Al Smith was elected the mills and factories would shut down, business would go to the dogs, there would be a panic on Wall Street, and the prohibition laws would not be enforced. Surely those gentlemen wouldn't have told a falsehood. All of these things have happened, so Al Smith must be president."—Griffin (Ga.) News.

THE EFFECT OF ALCOHOL ON THE BODY AND MIND

When one drinks alcohol it will injure the brain, nerve system, so that ability to do mental work is decreased. It produces disease and certain types of insanity. It makes the heart beat more rapidly and less strong. When one drinks alcohol he is not as good in his books as the ones who do not, and he can not be a good athlete.

To Enter Contest On Street Safety

Essay And Lesson Contests for Elementary Schools Announced; Students and Teachers to Participate

Washington, D. C., Feb. 13.—Stressing the need on the part of school Education Board, Washington, D. C., and Chief of the United States Bureau of Public Roads, today announced the completion of the plans for the ninth annual street and highway safety campaign for elementary school children and teachers throughout the United States. This campaign, consisting of two contests, one for children, the other for teachers, is conducted by the Board in cooperation with State, county and municipal educational authorities.

The one contest, open to all elementary school pupils of the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades, 14 years of age and under, is for the best essays on the subject: "What I Am Doing to Set a Good Example in Safety on the children to set a good example in safety on the nation's highways, Thos. H. MacDonald, chairman of the Highway Highways," while the other, open to all elementary school teachers, is for the best lessons on the subject: "Teaching the Essentials of Street and Highway Safety." The two contests are conducted simultaneously in the schools of the country.

Both state and national prizes will be awarded, and one pupil and one teacher, first national winners in their respective contests, will be brought to Washington as guests of the Highway Education Board for a week. While in Washington they will also be presented with their national prizes.

A total of $6,500 in cash prizes and medals is offered to winning contestants, the prizes being donated by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. In the contest for pupils, 442 medals and the same number of cash prizes are awarded, in addition to three national prizes. In the contest for the teachers there are no state prizes, but three national prizes are given. The teacher writing the best lesson on street and highway safety receives a cash prize of $500 and a trip to Washington with all expenses paid. That teacher writing the second best lesson receives a check for $300, while the third best lesson is awarded a prize of $200.

Gold, silver, and bronze medals are awarded to first, second and third prize winners of each state in the contest for school children, in addition to checks for $15, $10, and $5 respectively. Each state has one first and one second prize winner, while the number of third prizes depends upon the number of elementary school children enrolled. Thus, Nevada and several other states, where the number of elementary school children is comparatively small, are awarded but one third prize, while Pennsylvania is allotted 23 and New York 25.

Following the selection of the best papers from each of the 54 states and territories, the essays and the lessons are entered in competition for the national prizes. These papers are passed upon by a committee of three judges generally representing the field of education, literature and business. First prize winner in the national contest for pupils in addition to being brought to Washington as the guest of the Board, is presented with a gold watch while in the National Capitol. Second and third prize winners in the essay contest receive gold watches.

The date on which essays and lessons must be handed to the school principal is May 9. Essays must be not more than 500 words in length and each contestant is required to submit an illustration, either original or clipped from a magazine or newspaper, that is pertinent to the question of safety education. A selection from these illustrations will be used by the Board in preparing a safety poster for the contest in 1931. Safety lessons must be between 1,000 and 3,000 words and may take the form which the teacher thinks best presents the subject, such as a lecture, recitation, game or drama.

These contests have been conducted by the Highway Education Board during the past nine years and each year has seen an increase in the number of participants. Last year the number taking part totalled almost 600,000 pupils and 100,000 teachers, and this year an even greater number is expected to enter.

The best papers for each state are selected by a state committee, as a rule named by the State Superintendent of Public Instruction. After the selection of the prize winning essays from each state or territory, these papers, with the best lessons, are forwarded to Washington where those entered in the national contests are typed and numbered and submitted to the national judges without any indication as to authorship.

Mt. Pleasant News

In a lively game at Maddox's Warehouse last Friday afternoon, the Mt. Pleasant Junior High basketball team emerged victorious over the fast Union Grove quintet, by the score of 15 to 10.

Both teams played defensively rather than offensively as indicated by the score. Traywick, the clever little forward for Mt. Pleasant, led his teammates in scoring, by netting the ball for 9 points. Littlejohn, the rangy center for the winners, displayed his usual skill in getting the tip-off.

Daniels and Chandler led the Union players in getting four points each.

The Mt. Pleasant lead, which was rung up in the early part of the game was never overcome during the game. They were leading at the half, 11 to 4.

On next Friday afternoon at 3:20 Mt. Pleasant plays Enterprise on the Mt. Pleasant court.

Hints For Homemakers

By Jane Rogers

A GOOD way to avoid the rings and marks which a hammer often leaves on woodwork or other painted surfaces, is to cover the head of the hammer with a piece of soft, thick cloth.

A salad dressing that is especially good on cabbage or fresh salad greens, can be made in almost no time at all by blending powdered sugar in sour cream, with vinegar added to taste.

Advisory Committee Appointed by Board

The Federal Farm Board announced today that it has been advised by the cotton cooperative associations that they have selected, on invitation of the Board, an advisory commodity committee for cotton composed of the following members:

Bradford Knapp, President, College of Agriculture, Auburn, Ala.

Robert Armory, Armory-Browne Company, Boston, Mass.

U. B. Blalock, General Manager and Secretary-Treasurer, North Carolina Cotton Growers Cooperative Association, Raleigh, N. C.

H. Lane Young, Cotton grower, executive vice president Citizens & Southern National Bank, Atlanta, Ga., and chairman, Agricultural Committee, National Bankers Association.

A. H. Stone, vice president, Staple Cotton Growers Association, Greenwood, Miss.

Lynn Stokes, President, Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association and General Manager, Texas Farm Bureau Gin S. L. Morley, General Manager of Company (Cooperative), Dallas, Texas. Oklahoma Cotton Growers Association, Oklahoma City, Okla.

Mr. Armory was certified to the Board as an "experienced processor, cotton spinner" and Mr. Stokes as an "experienced processor, manager cotton gins."

This is the fourth advisory commodity committee to be set up by cooperative associations on invitation of the Federal Farm Board as provided by the Agricultural Marketing Act, the others being dairy products, wool and mohair and wheat

INSURANCE HEAD SEES PROSPERITY FOR YEAR

for the New York Central Railroad Company. He has held his present position with the National Association of Life Underwriters for several years and is said to be one of the highest salaried men in the United States.

Making National Tour

He is making a tour of the country, visiting local life underwriters' associations, going from Birmingham to Memphis Wednesday night, and from there he will continue westward to the Pacific Coast.

The successful life insurance salesman, he said, is intensely human; he is selling something worthwhile and in his work he is giving something outside of himself—sentiment. He said sentiment has its place in the business world and the business man who disregards it will not accomplish much.

"The salesman who expects to sell does so," Mr. Hull asserted, "and the salesman who fears he is not going to sell usually does not."

"Bigger Business To Come"

"When the stock crash came last October thousands of people looked in the chest and thanked God they had their life insurance policies. The depression that followed may set the country back for a while, but the people must equip themselves for the bigger business that is to come and the life insurance salesman must be ready to take their share of the business."

situation Dr. Knapp came to the conclusion that acreage in cotton this year should be reduced 15 per cent in Alabama. If this is done, the total for the state will be 3,000,000 acres in cotton against 3,589,000 last year, Dr. Knapp declared.

Vernie Teel was called to Rockford last Friday to attend the funeral of his grandmother, Mrs. E. B. Samuels.

J. P. Paynes, prominent hardware merchant of Maplesville was in Clanton last Tuesday attending to business matters.

Hon. L. F. Gerald has been attending court in Birmingham this week.

Faculty Play Ready For Presentation

"Can You Beat It?" a satisfying comedy in three acts, by Beulah King, will be presented by the faculty of the Verbena schools on Friday evening, February 21, at 8:00 P. M. This is one of the newer plays and promises an evening of enjoyable entertainment.

The cast has been working very hard and each one is well suited for their parts.

This play is being presented under the able direction of Mrs. Barnett DeRamus. The proceeds of this play will go to the Verbena Elementary school. The cast of characters follows: Timothy Todd, Lee W. Douglas; Letitia Todd, his wife, Miss Lila Mae Jolly; Frances, their niece, Miss Jettie Ward; Mrs. Van Dresser, the social leader of Beechbrook, Mrs. John Ward; Jan Meredith, Mr. Homer Crim; Dan Dickerman, Mr. Hollis Hiten; Sara, the maid, Miss Edna Davis. The public is cordially invited to attend this play. Admission 20 and 35 cents.

"AND MARY DID" WILL BE PRESENTED AT BILLINGSLEY

"And Mary Did" what? Well, Mr. Wise Guy, if you don't know, just listen to this: "And Mary Did," a tale of triumph in three acts, will be presented in the auditorium of Billingsley Elementary School on Saturday evening, February 22, at 7:30 o'clock. The cast of characters includes the following:

Mary Sterling, Miss Myra Keel; Lawrence Gray, who loves Mary, Mr. Buster Roebuck; Edith Smith, Mary's chum, Miss Vivian Silas; Mrs. Sterling, Mary's mother, Mrs. Myrtle Taylor; Danial Gray, Lawrence's father, Mr. Howard Bookholdt; Willie Sterling, Betty Sterling, little angels, Bernard Stroud, Lucille Griffin; Matilda, the maid, Miss Vesta Lette; Henry, the gardener, Mr. Archie Stroud; (Miss) O. G. Whittaker, a masculine monument to feminine freedom, Miss Mary Lou Gaines; Dressa Rand, from Bus-ton, Miss Claudie Eiland.

The play is sponsored by the Enterprise P.-T. A. Admission will be 15 and 25 cents.

WOMAN FALLS IN WELL AT WADSWORTH; BREAKS ANKLE

Last Tuesday, a stranger walked into the office of the News, stating he had a story which might be interesting. He gave his name as Charles Small, from the State of Maine, and said he and his wife, an Indian by birth, were touring through this part of the country, and as they neared Wadsworth, Ala., last Monday night, were attracted by the dying embers of a burnt house. They went over to view the ruins, the story went, and as he walked around the fire, his wife went around in the opposite direction. He said he heard screams and found they came from a well, the curbing of which had been burnt away.

Striking a match to look into the uncovered well, he saw his wife, with one foot caught behind the curb and the ground something like forty feet below the surface. A neighbor assisted Small in getting his wife from the well, by letting a chain down so she could catch hold.

She was brought to Clanton for medical attention, leaving Tuesday afternoon for Birmingham. Small stated the house burned about four o'clock that afternoon, and the accident occurred about eight o'clock Monday night.

M. M. PUGH OPENS NEW STANDARD SERVICE STATION

The new filling station of the Standard Oil Company, located near the Ford building, on the highway, opened last Friday for business, with M. M. Pugh, as manager.

Mr. Pugh will have as his assistants, Messrs. Durwood and J. L. Teel, two young men who have had quite a bit of experience in that line of business, having been connected with the Dief's Service Station for some time before.

Mrs. Douglas Jarvard, Mrs. Ralph Harper and Mrs. Hodge Zuber of Montgomery were visitors to Mrs. Grady Taylor last Friday.

DRIVE UPON ILLITERACY WILL BEGIN

County Superintendent Asks Aid In Letter Given To The News

Following we publish a letter from B. Lawrence, Supt. of Education of this county in which he tells some interesting occurrences in the schools of Chilton County, and in which he asks the aid of the people of the county in the drive against illiteracy in this county, which will end April 1st, 1930.

Last week in visiting one of the schools I was checking up on the books in the library. This was a small school and I was interested in knowing how much the books were being used and how well they were taking care of them.

Last summer an Opportunity school was taught at this place. One man who is above fifty years old attended the school. Until that time he could neither read nor write but was one of the students who learned rapidly. The teacher told me that this man was now reading the books which the school had purchased in their library and was enjoying them immensely.

In discussing this matter with some people since visiting this school I stated that the amount of good derived from the school by this one man is enough to more than justify the cost of the entire school for all people who attended the school last summer. I have known this man all my life and he has always been a valuable man in his community. I have known his desire to read and write. He is now having an opportunity to enjoy good books and get a new insight to life.

Not many days ago I understand that a certain man wished to register in order that he might become a qualified voter. He found that he could not do so because of the fact that he could not write his name. He went to a friend of his who was interested in him and told him of his trouble. This friend took the afternoon off for the purpose of teaching this man how to write his name and in one afternoon the man had learned to write it. I am just wondering if there are not more people in the county who are willing to do that much for a friend and if there is a single person in the county who can not read and write and will let us know about it we will see to it that they are taught.

Not many years ago we felt that after people were grown that they had reached the age they could learn no more in school. We have found in our own county in the Opportunity school work that this old idea was entirely wrong. I do not recall any child who has ever learned as rapidly as some of the older people who attended the Opportunity schools.

At the present time the State of Alabama is putting on an intensive campaign in an effort to teach every man and woman to read and write by April 1st. This may seem an impossibility, but yet it is not impossible, for many people at least.

It is a humiliating fact that Alabama stands fourth from the bottom in total white illiteracy in the union. A fact still more humiliating to the people of Chilton County is that our county stands twenty-eighth from the top in the counties of the state in illiteracy.

I would be glad if the reader of this article would furnish the teacher of the local school with a list of all adults who can neither read nor write. If you will do this the teacher will then send the list to me and we will make an effort to have those who wish to learn to read and write taught. Let me urge every citizen to do his or her part in making it possible for everyone to read and write.

Yours for a better educational system,
B. LAWRENCE,
County Supt. Education.

THREE FINED FOR SUNDAY GAMING

Three negroes were tried before Justice of the Peace H. M. Simpson last Monday morning, answering to charges of Sunday gaming, which were brought against them last Sunday when Sheriff Collins and Deputy Murrah arrested the negroes in a dice game, according to reports.

The negroes, Benny Cooper, Sam Williams and Cliff Owen were each fined fifteen dollars and costs, the information stated, and Cooper was placed in jail following the trial for failure to pay the fine.

HON. WINSTON HUDDLESTON ANNOUNCES FOR SOLICITOR

In this issue of the News will be found the official announcement of Hon. Winston Huddleston, of Wetumpka, Ala., for the office of Solicitor for the 19th Judicial Circuit of Alabama, subject to the action of the Democratic Primary to be held next August. Mr. Huddleston has held said office for the past three years, having been elected for a four year term in the general election in November, 1926, and he seeks to succeed himself, for another four year term.

Mr. Huddleston has been a faithful public servant during the time he has served as Solicitor and has many friends throughout the circuit who wish for him success in his race.

THREE ARE INJURED IN AUTO WRECK

Cornelius Lewis Received A Broken Leg, While Others Get Cuts and Bruises

As the result of an automobile accident which occurred last Sunday night about eight-thirty o'clock, two miles south of Clanton on the Birmingham and Montgomery Highway, Cornelius Lewis, 21, of near here, C. O. Lewis, 23, of Verbena, and Cletus Duke, 20, near here, were carried to the Central Alabama Hospital here, in a Martin ambulance.

The younger Lewis was found to have been suffering with a badly broken and shattered bone in his right leg, just below the knee, and cuts and bruises. The elder Lewis received serious cuts about the face and head, while Duke has a bad cut on his hand, and other cuts and bruises.

The accident occurred, according to the story given a representative of this newspaper, when the light car going south in which the injured trio were riding, attempted to pass another car, said to have been driven by Edwin Wagoner, of Clanton, and struck the front wheel, causing them to lose control of the lighter car, which plunged off the highway, striking a telephone pole, injuring the pole and practically demolishing the car, which was brought to Clanton by a wrecker from Bill's Garage.

Occupants in the Wagoner car, stopped and assisted the injured boys, and summoned the Martin ambulance. Late reports from the hospital, state that the injured are doing as well as could be expected.

OFFICE OF COUNTY WELFARE WORKER HAS BEEN MOVED

Announcement was made this week of the removal of the office of Mrs. C. E. Stapp, County Welfare Worker, from the office of the Superintendent of Education to the rooms formerly occupied by Dr. T. J. Marcus, over the Clanton Brokerage Co., building.

This removal was on account of the crowded condition of the former quarters, and in her new quarters, Mrs. Stapp will have more office space, in which to carry on her work. Anyone wishing to see her may find her in the office on Saturday's and Monday's all day, and on Thursday mornings. It is necessary to make certain office days in order to allow for time to answer calls and visit schools.

F. R. Jones Takes Over Filling Station Here

Announcement was made this week, by Mr. R. J. Sumner, distributor of Woco-Pep products here, that Mr. F. R. Jones, of Tuscaloosa will now be in charge of the filling station, formerly that of John T. Ellis, on the highway, at the north edge of town. The station will be known as the Jones Service Station, dispensing Woco-Pep gasoline and oils.

Mr. Jones who has had some experience in the gasoline business, intends to bring his family here in the near future. See his announcement elsewhere in this issue.

CITY LICENSE INSPECTOR MAKES SECOND APPEAL

The City License Inspector is this week, making his second appeal to those within the police jurisdiction. On and after March 1st, an additional penalty of ten per cent will be added to the face of the license. It is estimated that there are something like seventy-five or more persons who have not yet secured their privilege license to do business in the city.

Couple To Observe Golden Anniversary

Fifty years ago on the twenty-fifth of February, eighteen-eighty, at the residence of Mr. Kenyon Wells in Verbena, Alabama, Miss Sarah Alice Wells and Mr. William Isaac Mullins were married in the presence of a few friends and relatives. Judge Jefferson Faulkner, Sr., of Montgomery performed the ceremony.

On Tuesday, the twenty-fifth of February, nineteen-thirty, Mr. and Mrs. Mullins will be at home to their friends from four to six in the afternoon, and from seven to nine in the evening—no cards.

BILL DICKERSON FREED ON RECKLESS DRIVING CHARGE

Bill Dickerson, negro, was freed last Monday morning in Mayor's Court here, from a charge of reckless driving placed against him by the state.

Bill, unfortunately and accidentally, tried to stop a Buick car with the truck he was driving, Tuesday of last week, which is said to have contained five hundred thousand dollars, en route from Birmingham to Greenville. Several witnesses were heard in the case by Mayor Hart.

BOARD WILL MEET TUESDAY ON HOSPITAL

Federal Hospital Board Will Select General Area For The Site

A recent communication from Washington to the News stated that the Federal Hospital Board will meet on Tuesday, February 25th, 1930, at nine-thirty A. M. in room 1008 Arlington Building, Washington, D. C., for the purpose of considering a general area within the State of Alabama wherein the new Veterans Hospital will be located. This hearing is for the purpose of determining upon a general area within the state and not the specific site.

At this meeting the board will be glad to hear the views of any responsible local committee of the state on the subject of a general location.

It is sincerely hoped that Chilton County, or Clanton, will see fit to have a committee or a spokesman present at the meeting of the Federal Board on the date and time stated above, to give a representation of our county as a suitable site for this big hospital.

Ernest L. Fike Died On February The 12th

Funeral services were held on last Thursday afternoon at Marbury, Ala., for Ernest Linwood Fike, age 38, who died at the home of a relative in Verbena, Wednesday, February 12, following a lingering illness. The services were conducted by Rev. J. W. Jones, of Thorshy, with Martin of Clanton in charge of the body.

The deceased was at one time a prominent merchant of Thorshy Mercantile Company, at the time of its opening there some time ago. Failing health caused him to resign his position there, and he went West, later returning to Chilton County.

Surviving is the widow, two sons, three daughters, one brother, Ben C. Fike, of Nashville; one sister, Mrs. L. M. Ham of Montgomery, and his father, W. E. Fike of Marbury.

Mr. D. I. DeRamus of Verbena, Ala., was here last Tuesday attending to business matters.

Porter Plier Post Of American Legion Will Meet Here On Next Tuesday Night

At a meeting of the Porter Plier Post of the American Legion, Clanton, held last Tuesday night at the courthouse here, plans were made for the next meeting to be held on next Tuesday night, February 25th, also at the courthouse, at seven-thirty o'clock.

George Grant, Department Commander, from Troy, Alabama, will be present at the meeting Tuesday night and is scheduled to give an address. C. B. Simms, State Adjutant of Montgomery, will be here also for an address. Both these men are distinguished speakers, and are very active in the work of the American Legion.

Special Sermon At Methodist Church

On next Sunday night, February 23, at seven-thirty o'clock, Rev. Ernest A. Childs, pastor of the Clanton Methodist church will deliver a sermon, having as its subject, "Solomon's Temple." This sermon will be dedicated to the Masons, and all Masons in the county are especially invited to hear this sermon.

Rev. Childs spent twelve days in Jerusalem making a special study of the temple and other sacred spots there. Seats will be reserved for Masons, and everybody is invited.

CITY OFFICIALS WERE ENTERTAINED LAST FRIDAY

On last Friday night, J. W. Franklin was host to city officials of Clanton at a stag dinner at his home on Second Avenue.

Several brief talks were made by the guests with many stories and toasts exchanged. Those enjoying the hospitality of Mr. Franklin were Messrs. Eric Hart, Mayor, J. H. Plier, H. S. Shaw, M. A. Gore, Grady Broadhead, G. C. Walker, Herbert Lowery, John Bookholdt, and Dr. T. J. Marcus.

FINAL APPEAL TO BE MADE TO FARMERS

Dr. Knapp Will Urge Cotton Acreage Reduction Over WAPI

Auburn, Ala., Feb. 16.—To sell the people of Alabama on the merits of a reduced acreage in cotton this year, Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, will "take to the air" in a series of talks during the week of Feb. 17.

Over Station WAPI he will be heard daily between 12 and 1:30 p. m. Tuesday Wednesday and Thursday. He will conclude the series with a final appeal to farmers, bankers and business men at 7:30 p. m. Friday.

Dr. Knapp said he will go before the microphone armed with facts to show why fewer acres should be planted to cotton this year. He said he would also point out how the reduction can be advantageous to the entire economic structure of the state. His radio lectures will be based upon a bulletin which is being published for wide distribution over Alabama.

Clarence Lecroy On Glee Club

Mr. Clarence Lecroy of Maplesville (Isabella community) who is attending Auburn, has been selected as one of the 53 young men who compose the Auburn Glee Club, for the present year. The Glee Club is under the direction of Prof. John W. Brigham, head of the music department at Auburn, and it is said that the club is the largest ever assembled at Auburn. The Club has recently made several trips to larger cities in the state, where they have successfully put on programs.

The many friends of young Mr. Lecroy congratulate him for this attainment and are proud with him in his giving our county representation on the Club.

Mr. J. A. Sample of Plantersville, Ala., was among the out of town visitors to Clanton last Tuesday.

Mr. W. A. Guldge of Verbena was in Clanton last Tuesday.

DR. JAMES J. DURETT FOR STATE HEALTH OFFICER

Dr. James J. Durett, of Tuscaloosa, who has for several years been in charge of U. S. Drug control division, under the department of Agriculture, has been nominated for State Health officer of Alabama to succeed Dr. Stuart Graves, who has been holding that office temporarily, since last August, according to an announcement made public by the state committee, on public health.

Dr. Durett will assume the duties of the office April 15, 1930. He has held many places of trust and is said to have a wide experience in health work and is well qualified for the office.

FIDDLERS TO CONVENE AT VERBENA

Ninth Annual Event To Be Held At Verbena to Knock The Blues Away

Announcement has been made by the Parent-Teachers Association of Verbena, Alabama, that the Ninth Annual Fiddlers Convention and Hog Calling Convention will be held at the Verbena High School auditorium on the night of March 7, beginning at eight o'clock.

On few other occasions is there such good cheer and complete enjoyment as at old time fiddling contests. We hear good fiddling over the radio, but that doesn't compare with hearing and seeing at the same time the artists of the resined bow as have appeared at Verbena in the conventions of past years; and the same will be true for this year. Do you remember the good fiddling of last year? The splendid orchestras? the mandolins? the heasty, hilarious, "hitching" hog calling? Well, it's all coming back with a bit more pep and vigor for this year. Prominent fiddlers of the three cornering counties, and others perhaps, will be here. All are invited to attend and participate.

Verbena will make sufficient preparation for the entertainment of the large crowd that will be in attendance. The auditorium is about the largest and most convenient in the section of the state, well seated, and will be sufficiently heated to make anyone comfortable. Plenty of parking space will be at hand, and cars will be conveniently placed for exit easily.

A fine list of cash and other prizes will be offered to the contestants. We hope to make our list even better than that of last year. And to do this we want to get our friends to make it worth while by notifying all fiddlers to write to the Secretary of Verbena P. T. A. and give the names of any other fiddlers that would attend; invite them to come out anyway, even if we can not get them personal word. The same holds true for orchestras, banjos, saw players, anyone who plays a stringed instrument.

W. T. HAND OF JEMISON PAYS VISIT TO CLANTON

Mr. W. T. Hand, a prominent citizen of Jemison, Ala., and Chilton County, was in Clanton last Tuesday attending to business matters.

While here Mr. Hand was a most pleasant caller at the News office. We are always glad to have this gentleman pay us a call, and invite him to come again.

Mrs. Mary M. Hubbard Died Sunday, February 16

Funeral services were held last Tuesday morning for Mrs. Mary M. Hubbard, wife of W. C. Hubbard, who died last Sunday night at eleven o'clock, at her home eight miles west of Clanton. Interment took place in the Liberty Hill cemetery with Martin of Clanton in charge.

The deceased was a member of the Presbyterian church, and has lived in this county approximately ten years, coming here from Eufaula, Alabama. She was spoken of by her neighbors as a most estimable neighbor, and until the time of her illness, she was a very active religious worker, in her community.

At two o'clock Tuesday afternoon, four weeks ago, to the hour, Frank Hubbard, a son of the deceased lady, was buried in the Liberty Hill cemetery, and his mother will be laid to rest beside his grave. Surviving is the husband, three daughters, Mrs. W. A. Jernigan of Eufaula, Mrs. Victoria Roberts of Clanton, and Miss Jennie Hubbard, Clanton; two sons, G. Thurman Hubbard, and W. C. Hubbard, Jr.

LOCAL CLUB WILL MEET STRONG TEAMS

Four Games Scheduled For Coming Week Said To Be Good

During the past week the basketball team of the Clanton Athletic Club, which has won fame over the entire state for its many victories over large and stronger teams and its few defeats has been drawing more attention.

The Calco's team from Selma met the Clanton lads on the local indoor court last Thursday night, and were defeated with a final score of 34 to 18, giving the local club another victory. On last Saturday night the Southern Dairies team from Birmingham came down here and defeated the club team with a score of 24 to 30. This Birmingham team is the only team that can boast of bringing defeat to the Clanton Athletic Club. Even then in the third quarter, the score was tied, 22 to 22.

Last Tuesday night, the team of the First Baptist church in Birmingham, played the Clanton Athletic Club team on the local indoor court, and met defeat, with a score of 44 to 17. At the half, Clanton's tally showed 19 points, and Birmingham 8. Gore playing best for Clanton with 19 points to his credit.

On next Friday night the strong team from the Standard Oil Company of Birmingham will play the local club team on the indoor court here at seven-thirty. This Birmingham team is the leader in the Office League of Birmingham bringing them into the spotlight as a team that will put up a good strong fight to win.

A team, said to be really stronger than the Southern Dairies team is scheduled to play the local lads here on next Saturday night, February 22, and this team is the Birmingham Electric Company team, rated as the leaders in the Industrial League, which is the largest and most prominent league of basketball teams in Birmingham. The Southern Dairies team ranks as fourth in this league.

This game seems to be attracting more attention than any other game played by the Athletic Club team, and without a doubt will be witnessed by an extremely large crowd of spectators. The boys of the Clanton Athletic Club deserve the entire backing of the people of Clanton because they are really working hard to make a good showing for Clanton in the athletic line, playing good, clean games throughout the season, with only two defeats.

On Monday and Tuesday nights, February 24th and 25th, the brilliant and fast team from the Marion Military Institute, of Marion, Alabama, will be guests of the Athletic Club here, when they meet on the indoor court both nights. This military institute team has a very good record behind them, and appear to be quick and easy on the throw.

Wednesday night, February 26th, there is another game scheduled to be played with a Birmingham team yet to be selected, according to the manager of the athletic club. This game will be played on the formal opening night of the new auditorium at Calera, Ala.

ANOTHER LUCKY PARTY WILL GET INVITATION FROM CAFE

Last week, marked the beginning of a series of invitations from the Dixie Cafe to residents of Clanton to dine there, as their guests. Mr. and Mrs. Renfro Mullins were the fortunate ones last Sunday.

Elsewhere in this issue, another invitation is issued, and one will be issued each week in the News. The names of the fortunate parties being drawn from a large number placed together, in a box. Watch for your name you may be next.

INSURANCE HEAD SEES PROSPERITY

This year is going to be the greatest in the history of life insurance business, Roger B. Hull, managing director of the National Association of Life Underwriters, declared in an address at the Tutwiler Hotel last Wednesday. The life insurance business has grown to enormous proportions, he said, but its past is insignificant compared to what it is to be in the future.

State Capitol News

According to S. H. Blain, State Auditor, early indications are that poll tax collections this year will fall below anticipations, and will fall below the collections of the last election year, which was 1928.

In 1928, toward the close of January, many tax collectors over the State wrote or wired the Auditor's office for extra poll tax books. This year only two counties made requisition for more than their usual supply, these counties being Mobile and Dallas, where poll tax payments were heavy.

Poll tax payments closed on February 1st, and the tax collectors are required by law to have their poll tax books returned to the State Auditor by February 15th. The State Auditor then checks these books to verify their correctness from a monetary standpoint. He then sends the poll tax books to the Probate Judge of the respective counties for filing and reference there.

While the State is put to considerable expense in printing and distributing the poll tax books and checking the same, the State does not keep any of the poll tax money. Every dollar of the same is certified to the State Department of Education, to be returned to the county where he tax was paid, to be used for school purposes there.

According to information from the State Department of Agriculture, farmers in South Alabama have already made their plans for the 1930 crop of cotton, and other crops. In North Alabama the freezing weather and heavy snows have delayed the preparations for spring plowing, while in Middle Alabama plowing has been started but has been delayed by recent heavy rains.

The present price of cotton is not encouraging to increased acreage for 1930, and farm economists are encouraging decreased acreage. Last year was a record year for fertilizer application in Alabama, and it is hardly likely that this record will be again broken in 1930, especially when the low price of the staple is considered. A high price for cotton might stimulate an increased acreage, but the cotton market is slow and draggy and has even dropped well below the Federal loan limit of 15.64 cents per pound for middling seven-eighths inch basis. The big farm question in Alabama naturally revolves around cotton, since of the 12 principal crops in this state the cotton acreage is nearly equal to the other 11.

Safe farming, as outlined by the Department of Agriculture, means the production of cotton as a cash crop, with the farmer raising enough to eat and feed in addition, so that he can not suffer if cotton is low. At present, it was stated, many farmers are in want because the price of cotton is below cost of production to most farmers.

The department also advises farmers to produce cotton on their best land, to avoid wet bottoms and also hilly soils that need constant terracing and to plant on fairly level lands that will hold fertilizer and admit of building up. The total cost per acre of producing cotton is given at $34.72, and it is pointed out that a large yield and a good price are needed to make cotton raising profitable. If land will not average at least one-third of a bale per acre, it cannot produce cotton at a profit, the department says.

Governor Bibb Graves in a recent address broadcast from Station WAPI, paid tribute to the radio as an agency which is contributing to the rebuilding of the family circle by making home life more enjoyable. The Governor pointed out that while other modern inventions have tended to disrupt home life, the radio keeps the family by their own hearthstone. The Governor's address featured the observance of the first anniversary of the establishment of the broadcasting station at the State Department of Agriculture. The Chief Executive urged Alabamians to have confidence in themselves and the future of their state and not to be depressed by temporary unfavorable economic conditions.

ALABAMA FARMERS ARE APPRECIATIVE OF EFFORTS

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 20.—That Alabama farmers are appreciative of the assistance given by the Federal Farm Board, and the Cotton Cooperative Association is demonstrated by the fact that they pooled approximately 5,000 bales of cotton with the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association Monday of this week.

Announcement to this effect was made today by Allen Northington, general manager of the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association, who said that the Alabama Association continues to advance Alabama cotton producers 15.64 cents per pound middling basis 7-8" staple despite the fact that cotton is bringing much below this price on the spot markets of Alabama.

Speaking in behalf of Alabama farmers Mr. Northington said all are very appreciative of the excellent service the Farm Board is rendering by making it possible for the Cotton Association to advance the 15.64 cents per pound. "This service is coming at a splendid time to assist in relieving the depressed economical conditions thru which we are now passing," Mr. Northington said.

Farmers Producing Cream As Sideline

Auburn, Ala., Feb. 20.—To secure a profitable sideline to cotton production that will enable them to operate on a cash basis many Alabama farmers are turning to cream dairying, which in most cases offers the greatest possibilities, according to Prof. F. W. Burns, extension animal husbandman at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. "Regardless of one's location in Alabama he is within easy shipping distance of some creamery," Burns said.

"It is a regular income-producing sideline for the farmer who raises cotton and corn," said the husbandman in naming advantages of cream dairying. "It furnishes a ready market at a fair price for home-grown feedstuffs and gives profitable farm employment at seasons when labor is least in demand. It contributes to more effective crop rotation and more fertile soils.

"It is best for the beginner to start with five good grade cows, one brood sow, and 100 hens," he recommended. "A unit of this size is balanced in that sufficient skim milk will be available for both pigs and chickens. For a larger number of cows pasture and feed may be inadequate and the farmer might become discouraged when high priced concentrates must be purchased. On the other hand, a beginning with one or two cow swill result in returns so small that one has little justification for purchasing a separator and such other simple equipment necessary for successful cream dairying. Ordinarily it is inadvisable for one to start with purebred cows unless he has had experience. For a man with sufficient capital one or two purebreds are an advantage in that they serve as foundation animals for a purebred herd."

Mince Meat Is Not For Pies Alone

By JOSEPHINE B. GIBSON
Director, Home Economics Dept.,
U. S. Bureau of Education

Mince meat pie is a traditional winter holiday delicacy. But has it ever occurred to you that mince meat is suited to a wide variety of uses other than this time honored one? Busy housewives will be glad to learn that many pleasing cakes, cookies and pastries may be made quickly with it, for good mince meat is a combination of choice preserved fruits and finest spices ready to use without further preparation.

A perfectly spiced, rich fruit cake which will keep indefinitely is one of the most delicious things made from mince meat. This can be made merely by adding a few simple ingredients to pure mince meat before baking, instead of assembling and preparing all the fruits and spices ordinarily needed for a good fruit cake.

Here is the recipe for this delicious—

Mince Meat Fruit Cake—In a one-pound can of pure mince meat add: 1 cup nut meats; 1/4 cup raisins; 1 teaspoon vanilla; 1/4 cup melted butter; 1 cup sugar; 2 egg yolks; 2 cups flour; 1 teaspoonful baking soda dissolved in 1 tablespoon boiling water; 2 stiffly beaten egg whites.

Mix ingredients in order given and bake in a well-greased floured loaf-cake pan in a slow oven for about one hour. Frost with boiled frosting. Sprinkle with nuts and raisins.

Similarly, drop cookies made from mince meat are fruity, spicy, and altogether delicious. They are particularly fine for packed lunches, for they keep moist and fresh almost indefinitely.

Mince Meat Drops—1/4 cup butter; 1/4 cup sugar; 1 egg; 1 cup mince meat; 1/4 cups flour; 2/3 teaspoon baking powder.

Cream butter and add sugar, beaten egg, mince meat, and flour and baking powder which have been sifted together. Drop by teaspoons on a buttered baking sheet and bake in a hot oven for 10 minutes. This makes three dozen cookies.

Mince Meat Turnover Cake—2/3 cup butter; 1/4 cups sugar; 1 cup milk; 4 eggs; 3/4 cups flour; 1/4-teaspoon salt; 5 teaspoons baking powder; 1 cup mince meat; 1/4 cup granulated sugar.

Cream butter and add sugar and beaten eggs. Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt, and add to first mixture alternately with the milk, stirring to a smooth batter. Butter a shallow, square or oblong baking pan. Sprinkle pan with sugar and line with mince meat. Turn batter over mince meat, and bake in a moderately hot oven 45 to 50 minutes. Serve hot, with whipped cream; or lemon or vanilla sauce.

Mince Meat Tart—2 cups flour; 4 teaspoons baking powder; 1 teaspoon salt; 3 tablespoons lard or butter; 1/4 cup milk and water in equal parts; 1 pound can or jar of mince meat.

Mix dry ingredients and sift twice. Work in fat with tips of fingers and then add the liquid gradually, mixing with knife to a soft dough. Toss on lightly floured board, patting to 1/2 inch thickness. Spread with mince meat, and roll as for jelly roll. With a sharp knife, cut into one inch lengths—pinch one end of each roll together and place that end down on the baking sheet. This prevents the escape of any of the mince meat while baking. Bake in a moderate oven (375°) for 15 to 20 minutes.

Another suggestion the entire family will approve is for the use of mince meat in a new and delightful dessert for any season of the year! It is—tution has grown, will all be listed in the directory.

Mince Meat Sundae—To make a delicious fruit sundae, heat a can of mince meat in a pan of hot water for from 25 to 30 minutes. Open can and serve mince meat as a hot sauce on vanilla ice cream. If the mince meat is in a glass package, loosen top slightly and heat in a pan of water, being careful that the water does not come high enough to get into the jar. Mince meat sundaes are an excellent Thanksgiving dessert for the family which does not care for a too rich finish to a heavy dinner.

A good business man will not buy a farm or any property without first looking it over to see what it is worth. However, some will buy or loan money on land without an abstract.

Isn't it equally as foolish to buy a farm without looking it over as to buy it and not know whether the titles are good or not? Without an abstract you do not know where you are getting the land you look at or not.

Before investing in land in any way have an abstract made and be safe.

GRAPHITE DUTY WILL STAY UP

Black Efforts Defeat Old Guard Attempt To Wreck Alabama Industry

By HUBERT BAUGHN
Chief Washington Bureau, Journal and Associated Newspapers

Washington, Feb. 15.—As the result of a successful fight waged in the senate by Senator Hugo Black, the tariff bill will go to conference a few days hence carrying an increase in the import duty on graphite for the protection of the graphite industry of east Alabama.

A group of old guard republicans, led by Fess, of Ohio, sought to eliminate the increase in the graphite rate from 1½ to 2 cents a pound which the Alabama senators had inserted while the tariff bill was pending in committee of the whole. Black made a vigorous speech, denouncing the move to "put out of business a small struggling industry in Alabama" and when he concluded the senate coalition of democrats and mid-western republicans voted with him and routed the opposition.

Protection Needed

Declaring that he was not a high-tariff senator, Black said that if the Alabama graphite industry was on its feet and making money he would not raise his voice in its behalf. "But," he asserted, "this infant industry, which is centered in my native county of Clay in the state of Alabama can not exist unless it is given further protection against imports from Madagascar and Ceylon."

Charging that the giant crucible manufacturers were opposing the increase because they preferred to import their graphite from Madagascar, where it is dug by children who are paid only seven cents a day, rather than buy domestic graphite and provide employment for American labor, the senator said the two-cent rate advocated by him would provide employment for several thousand Alabamians at a time when "a good many people are out of work in this era of so-called Hoover prosperity."

Opposers Paying Political Debts

Pointing out that he had opposed a tariff on pig iron over the protest of the steel interests of Alabama and had supported a tariff on manganese over the protest of these same interests, the senator asserted that he was unalterably opposed to a tariff system which operates largely to repay the special interests which supply campaign funds for the dominant political party, and at the same time seeks to crush the struggling graphite producers of Alabama.

Attacking the crucible manufacturers for trying to injure the domestic graphite industry so they could continue to import from countries where slave-labor is used, Black riddled the propaganda of the crucible interests that Alabama graphite is of inferior quality by producing a report of a bureau of mines test, describing it as the best in the world.

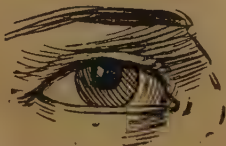

In addition to securing the rate increase, Black put through an amendment which will end the present practice of shipping in inferior products under the classification of graphite.—Montgomery Journal.

Farmers Urged To Reduce Cotton Acr'ge

In a radio talk today (1:15 p. m., Friday, February 14, 1930, station WRC at Washington, D. C.) Mr. Carl Williams, member, Federal Farm Board, had the following to say in regard to the desirability of cotton acreage reduction:

The recent weakness in cotton prices should be taken as a sharp warning to cotton growers. That weakness rests on two things—a low current rate of cotton consumption and trade anticipation of a larger crop in 1930. Cotton growers can not do anything about this year's cotton consumption, but they can do a great deal now about the crop of 1930. If they want a better price in 1930, it is not too late to plan to get it. They can get it by cutting down the acreage.

On 48,730,000 acres in 1926 there were produced 18,000,000 bales of cotton that brought the growers less than $1,000,000,000. The following year a crop of 13,000,000 bales was produced on 41,905,000 acres and was sold for $1,300,000,000; that is, the acreage of 1927 was reduced 6,825,000 acres below that of 1926, but the crop raised thereon sold for $300,000,000 more. This is not ancient history, it is a story only two of three years old.

In 1928 and again in 1929 cotton growers increased their plantings substantially above those of 1927. The crops were larger and prices have been lower. This last year's crop of 14,900,000 bales is bringing less money than the 1927 crop of 13,000,000 bales, although world stocks are lower. This policy does not pay. A cotton acreage of 40,000,000 acres, whatever the yield per acre, can be counted on to bring considerably more income than an acreage of 47,000,000 or 49,000,000 acres.

World consumption of American cotton in 1926-27 was 15,800,000 bales—a very high figure. Why? American cotton growers produced 18,000,000 bales and had to sell it for much less than it cost to produce it. Low prices always increase consumption. World consumption in 1927-28 was still high, 15,400,000 bales, because the textile industry had heavy stocks of low priced cotton to draw on. World consumption declined still further in 1928-29, has been less thus far this year than it was in the same period last year, and may be still declining. World stocks of cotton are not excessive. Domestic and foreign demand are likely to be somewhat stronger next year than this year. If the United States produces in 1930 a crop of 13,000,000 bales or less, growers may expect considerably better prices and larger incomes next year than they got last year.

The Federal Farm Board can not fix the world price of cotton. It can not fully protect farmers from the consequences of over-planting, neither can the cotton cooperatives nor the new American Cotton Cooperative Association. The Board wants to help farmers to help themselves. If growers will reduce their cotton acreage, they will thereby help themselves to better incomes. The interests of the entire nation are involved in this problem. The earnest cooperation of every farmer, merchant, banker, newspaper, educational institution, and every public spirited citizen of the South is invited to make effective this plain lesson of recent years.

FERTILIZER SALES AS YET NO CLUE TO THE COTTON ACREAGE

The movement of Alabama fertilizers to date of February 15, amounted to 98,000 tons according to a report issued from the Department of Agriculture Monday by Seth P. Storrs, Commissioner of Agriculture. The average movement up to this date for the past two years has been 119,000 tons, according to figures compiled by W. B. Griffin, chief clerk of the Department, who has charge of sales of fertilizer tags.

This decrease to date of 18 per cent over the past two years has little meaning with regard to the possible acreage of cotton to be planted this year in Alabama. This is true, because a large percentage of this early moving fertilizer goes to South or South Central Alabama, which produces early truck for northern markets.

Of the 98,000 tons for which tags have been issued to date, fully 75 per cent has gone to southern regions for early crops other than cotton. The movement of fertilizer is now ten thousand tons ahead of this same date last year, but it is 54,000 tons behind 1927 at this date.

Early movements of fertilizer in Alabama at this season bear little reference to the total acreage of cotton to be planted, because the bulk of early shipments are applied to the approximately 20,000 acres of Alabama's truck crops.

It is realized that seasonal variations in earliness or lateness, rains, bad roads and scarcity of farm money always are factors of importance in fertilizer purchase and the time of purchase also. However, no forecast of cotton acreage can be made at this date from the sale of fertilizer tags in Alabama, due to the large amounts and heavy applications to truck crops.

A minor factor in tonnage movement is the present low price of cotton. Farmers are planning cotton acreage, but at the present low price there is little encouragement for anything but a decreased acreage. Viewed from this limited early outlook, the prospect seems to indicate a decreased acreage.

WILL THE PUBLIC KEEP FAITH
WITH OUR RAILROADS?

It has not been so many years ago when this county was scarcely populated and when transportation was a problem. We have several citizens living who no doubt remember when the L & N Railroad was in its infancy in this county. They no doubt can recall the many problems that confronted the farmer and merchant at that time, in getting merchandise and agriculture products to and from the market. The L & N, before it operated a train, was forced to purchase most of its right of way and was caused to spend large sums of money to build its road. From its infancy it has yearly paid taxes on its right of way, tracks, depots and rolling stock to the state, county and Town. It has always been the policy of the Railroads to encourage every industry that located in our midst. They have aided the farmer in many ways.

The public has made heavy demands upon the railroads, in many different ways. It has demanded that the Railroads—regardless of the expense—buy equipment that is modern and up to the highest standard, to insure the traveling public with safe and adequate means of transportation. The railroads are required to build warehouses which are safe and adequate to store freight and express which may be delivered to it for shipment. It is required to keep an agent and other employees on the job every day in the week to receive passengers and see that they are furnished with comfortable conveniences, such as well heated, lighted and watered waiting rooms. The railroads are required to install and maintain the crossing of the state and county highways, over its tracks, and when an overhead bridge is built, they are expected to bear the major portion of its expense. The Towns have demanded that their depot be a building of sufficient size and beauty that it will reflect credit on the town and community. The railroad at Clanton pays a large water bill each month to furnish the public with water at its station. Its pay rolls in the county are very large and many of our citizens are looking to it for work. Many instances might be noted whereby the railroads are expected to respond to the public demand for the highest and most efficient means of transportation, both passenger and freight. The railroads made their investments with faith and confidence in the citizenship, which it serves. Those who have businesses located upon and along the railroads should reflect and remember that their business was enabled to grow and prosper because the railroad first had faith and confidence in the people to build their transportation facilities, and further remember, that the state has at the expense of the taxpayers, constructed good highways and that the railroads contributed large sums of money for overhead bridges over their tracks, where the highways cross them, for the purpose of aiding the state to bring to the public means of travel, with as much safety as possible. The railroads have directly and indirectly contributed to the building of our highways, which the freight and passenger Busses are operating over, in competition to them. How much is the bus pay roll in your town? How do you like the looks of the Bus Depot? How much licenses do the Bus operators pay your Town, for the privilege of doing business therein? These questions should cause the public to think, and keep faith, with those who have contributed to our progress.

PRaises SENATOR ELLIS.

The Shelby County Reporter takes great satisfaction in that fact that L. H. Ellis of Columbiana has announced his candidacy for the lower house from Shelby County. "As state senator, representing this senatorial district in the last legislature, Mr. Ellis was without question the strongest and most influential member of that body," says the Reporter. "It was his responsibility to organize and lead the group in the senate that made possible the passage of a revenue bill with provision for such development in education, public health and welfare work as the state has never experienced before."

Even allowing for the special pride which is thus shown in one of its own citizens, there is general recognition of the capable work done by Senator Ellis in the last legislature and satisfaction will be afforded far beyond the bounds of his own county if the house of representatives next year is to have the benefit of the ability and progressive views he showed during the legislative deliberations of 1927.—Alabama Journal.

SENATOR HUGO BLACK REFLECTS CREDIT ON STATE

Senator Hugo Black, in the short time he has been in the United States Senate, has shown marked ability and his positions on important issues has made for him already a splendid record. The Birmingham News, of Feb. 18th, 1930, in commenting on his stand on the Graphite duty fight made by Senator Black, has this to say about him:

"Alabama has reason to be gratified by the able-minded manner in which its junior United States senator defended its graphite industry in the Senate debate on the subject a few days ago. In his tilt with Senator Couzens, of Michigan, and Senator Fess, of Ohio, Senator Black reflected no little credit upon his state. His argument was factual as well as tactful. He knew his subject—had mastered it in all its details. The Couzens amendment to restore the old duty of 1 1-4 cents a pound on graphite, in place of the duty of 2 cents a pound adopted under the Black amendment to the Smoot schedule, was defeated. And it was defeated by reason of the convincing argument made against it by Senator Black. That argument was noteworthy for its happy temper and wise restraint in statement quite as much as for its cogent reasoning.

Incidentally, the low tariff views of the late Senator Underwood are courageously expounded in this debate by Senator Black. Here is a portion of Mr. Black's remarks:

"I am not a high tariff man. I have voted for low tariffs on practically everything that has been proposed. I voted for a tariff on manganese on exactly the same principle that I ask now for a tariff on graphite. I voted for a tariff on manganese over the vigorous protest of the people of Alabama who are engaged in the manufacture of steel. I voted for a low tariff on pig iron over the vigorous protests of the manufacturers of Alabama, and I call attention to the fact that Alabama is one of the largest, if not the largest, manufacturer of pig iron in the United States."

"I get weary of all this talk of prosperity, and the people in certain places, those engaged in the big business enterprises, seem to think that the only way to have prosperity is to make the rich companies richer, the big companies bigger, and the monopolies more monopolistic. They are perfectly willing to wring the last dollar out of the pockets of the toilers of this nation who work and earn it by the sweat of their brows, and to keep a tariff wall on their finished products, but the very moment you begin to talk about protecting something in the South or in the West, just that very moment somebody rises and says, "No, that can not be used."

"When the department of the Republican administration which is responsible and has been through the years for these iniquitous tariffs, which have borne down the cotton farmers of the South and the wheat farmers of the West, investigates Alabama's graphite, the report is: "Yes, it is better than any graphite in the world for the use." Still, not willing to accept the verdict of the Bureau of Mines which instituted for the purpose of looking into matters of that kind, they send forth their propaganda through their subsidized press in order to convince the people that the Bureau of Mines is wrong in its tests and can not be believed.

"It will be absolutely necessary, when this question is taken up, to discuss the question of ad valorem rates on the graphite products which have, down through the years, been granted benefit through the tariff. At the same time we find that those interested in those products are here and have been in this city for the last three or four days storming the walls of the House and the Senate saying: "We can not live if you put a little 2-cent tariff on graphite, but we insist that you keep the

"ROUND TOWN"
-by Doug

Opinions expressed in this column by this writer have no connection with the general policies of this paper, being wholly those of the writer, in the manner they are written.

As a matter of fact, folks, I came very near being A. W. O. L. this week, but eventually came to the point that I couldn't afford to miss this week, for fear you might not miss this column, like you should if it were gone.

Kind of feel right 'gossiped' this week, having just been around a bunch of the society going young ladies of our famous self-styled "400" in Clanton, quite a bit lately.

It wasn't for the fact that I would have to use the words 'she said' so much in this column this week, I'd tell you some of the prevailing rumors, but I'm afraid the typesetter would run out of the letters used in those two words, so guess I'll leave it off for awhile.

Anyway, I have learned that if you keep your ears and eyes open, and your mouth shut, you will learn more in the long run. People will begin to confide in you then.

All you ladies, young or old, who have just about given up the hope of ever being fortunate or unfortunate as to take upon yourself a husband, can just discard that idea, because it can be done. That fact has already been illustrated right in our midst.

And if you are in a hurry, just start practicing what little "It" you have. But it is best to know your fish before you start that, because he may be the kind that likes a girl who is not so "It-ish" but home-loving and quiet. I should not be trying to help Elinor Glynn advise you, because I've never had any experience along that line, so to speak.

Bred in the bone, is the banking instinct, in the F. J. Callen family, I believe. Here Frank J. has gone back to counting money again at the Peoples Savings Bank, and he sure looks like he is in the right place there, too. And it takes Glenn Boyd to watch the dollars on the outside, and F. J. is a good one to watch them on the inside, when he gets them from H. G.

I have just about completed by 'Who's Who in Clanton' and will put it in print sometime in the future. There are some questions in my mind just who is who, at times. Just when I think I have the laziest man picked out, I find another—and then still another. But I have them under close surveillance hoping to see which is the laziest.

Then there is the Most Popular Married man in Clanton. I can't fully decide on that. There seems to be so many, who think they are popular, and I don't want to hurt anybody's feelings in the final showdown. And of course there is the most popular Married Lady and I think I have that one fully decided.

My 'Who's Who in Clanton' will no doubt, be placed among those items, recommended by the Literary Guild, and other well known book societies, for person's libraries in Clanton, and it may be advised for them to secure several copies, to be safe in case some wear out, or get stolen—or maybe disfigured.

Had a good look at all our city school teachers the other afternoon, while they were in the postoffice waiting for their evening mail (or male) and they all looked so good, it is going to be rather difficult to ascertain which is the best looking, for my Who's Who. Maybe I had better arrange to see them sometime when they are not expecting visitors at their homes, and then perhaps the truth will out thru any camouflage which might otherwise be used for safety.

Then there is the best automobile salesman to be selected. I think that lies between Joe Higgins, Sie Foshee, and Red Sherrord. Pardon me for using the word 'lies' just then. Perhaps the best day for that final selection would be on Washington's birthday this month, if they could be persuaded to follow George's example.

C. Fenn Jones would have stood a fine chance of being selected as the best dressed bachelor, some time ago, but I'm afraid he won't be in the line now.

The place of the 'Most On The Date Shown Above' business man in Clanton, seems to vary between John Page and another. Both are being seriously considered, but I'm under the impression that Page will be rated as such in my Who's Who.

Thomas Jefferson Littlejohn will probably be mentioned as the Most Changed Man, but two or three other recently married men are being considered also.

"He Who Attends to Other's Business, Leaving His Own" selection is going to be extremely difficult for me to decide on. There are too many possibilities there, and in fact may be several named for that distinction.

For the place of the 'Most Popular Single Man' there are several under consideration. There is Otto Jones, John D. Mullins, J. B. Warren, Red Wagoner, Mack Wyatt, and some others. And the trouble there, is going to be that I will have to take under consideration of what they think of themselves, as well as what I think about it.

Alabama Weekly
Industrial Review

The following record of industrial activity lists items showing investment of capital, employment of labor and business activities and opportunities. Information from which the paragraphs are prepared is from local papers, usually of towns mentioned, and may be considered generally correct.

Hamilton — County - wide poultry meetings held here recently.

Contract let by State Highway Commission for construction of section of highway between Whitesburg and Oneonta.

Hamilton—14,570 bales cotton ginned in Marion County prior to January 16, 1930, as compared with 12,115 to same date, 1929.

State Highway Commission will open bids February 26th for bridge construction between Union Springs and Hartsboro in Bullock County.

Ink Drops of C. C. H. S.

The regular Tuesday and Thursday period of physical education for girls is now being conducted by members of Miss Clay's Senior I Hygiene Class. After studying physical exercise in the text books the girls are putting it into practice by volunteering to conduct it at the recess period. Those who have already successfully conducted this exercise period are Allie Pearl Kelly, Eloyse Jones, Charlie Pyron and Sallie Mahan.

We are so 'thrilled' at C. C. H. S. Why? The Parent-Teacher Association voted in their last meeting to buy for us some beautiful pictures suitable for our school. Mrs. John VanDerveer volunteered to donate, complimentary, a sufficient number of frames. The framing of the pictures will be done by the boys of the manual arts department under the supervision of Mr. Horton Walker, who is in charge of this department. These new pictures will meet a long felt need for our school. The teaching of geography, history and English can be greatly improved by the picture method. This is truly visual education. History may be taught almost without the use of the text if pictures illustrating all important events are used as the basis of instruction. The work in English can be changed from the distasteful, lifeless subject to a most interesting study through the use of pictures. Sketches of the lives of artists, authors, musicians, poets, statesmen, appropriately presented and accompanied by appropriate pictures may help in the larger culture which is the rightful heritage of every child. We wish the children—to know and own some of the best productions of the painters' thoughts and skill. Are they going to? Yes, because of our Parent-Teacher Association in Chilton County High School.

Did you ever see a miniature dairy or stable? No? May I suggest that you consult the Junior III Occupations Class for boys, or Mr. Walker, for such valuable information? The class is making a thorough study of live stock and how they may be improved. Numerous pictures from cattle and stock-breeding associations all over the United States have donated pictures which have been posted on the walls of the recitation rooms in which this course or project is being conducted. This class has made a number of field excursions to nearby farms around Clanton. We feel that in this way a great deal of real practical knowledge is going to come from such a course as this. Moving picture slides have been procured, prepaid express from Vermont, and with the use of Curtis Carter's Picture machine the school is treated to a free picture show. Mr. Walker is to be congratulated for his excellent direction of this most worthy movement. This class is a 100 per cent working squad in every way. Come to see for yourself.

Watch this column for the next six weeks!

The students of Chilton County High are planning to publish a "Who's Who" in this section for the next six weeks. Beginning with next week, each class is to make known its most outstanding members, as the most intellectual, the most beautiful, the biggest booster, biggest bluff, etc. The Seniors will start the ball to rolling by publishing their list first. Whom do you think will be their last?

We are very grateful to Mrs. Claude Jones, who donated thirty-one books of fiction to our library last week. These books add much to our library and will be a great aid to the students in the study of English. We appreciate the thoughtfulness of Mrs. Jones and regret very much to lose Mary Sue from our school. We wish for her every degree of happiness that may come her way.

We are deeply indebted to the Soils and Crops boys in Mr. Green's Senior One class for the many improvements they are making on our campus. This class is remodeling every part of the campus. Stakes are being driven down about three feet apart making a one-way drive. Shrubbyery is being planted on the front of the campus, and flower beds are being arranged in different places on the campus. When completed, this will add greatly to the improvement of the school campus and the surroundings in general. A movement is on foot to pave a walk eight feet wide from the front of the building to the street. A splendid tennis court is being made.

"CAKE WALK" AT HOME OF
E. D. COGGINS, SATURDAY

The News has been requested to announce this week, that there will be a "Cake Walk" at the home of E. D. Coggins near Billingsley on next Saturday night, February 22. Boys are to bring the girls. Take a walk for a dime and maybe be lucky and get a cake. Everybody is invited. Proceeds for the Pleasant Hill church.

E. G. Caldwell of Pletcher was in Clanton last Tuesday attending to business matters.

R. M. Howe, of Tuskegee, Alabama was among the out-of-town visitors to Clanton last Tuesday.

Policeman William Hickling of Nottingham, Eng., put in an ambulance a woman fatally hurt by an auto when the hospital was reached he found that she was his mother.

Mrs. John Sohmer of Chicago had her husband arrested for beating her because she did not give him the allowance he wanted after he gave her his week's wages.

Because he could make a better living begging, J. C. Pallen of Plymouth, Eng., had his name stricken from the unemployment dole list.

Mrs. James Palceton of Farnborough, Eng., celebrated her 101st birthday five months after her husband reached the same age.

Mrs. Mary Tyus,
FOR SALE

I have two pair match mules for sale or trade. Also some young milch cows, and will have some more pigs later. Have a registered Duroc Boar for service, 2 miles southeast of Clanton.—W. B. Cox, Clanton, Route 2.

SCRUB SIRES GIVE WAY TO PUREBREDS

Camden, Ala., Feb. 20.—Farmers of Wilcox County have placed a cooperative order for a carload of purebred bulls. They bought seven bulls of the same kind in January. The goal is to provide purebred sires for the entire county and eliminate scrubs, very few of which remain, declared W. A. Cammack, county agent.

BIRTHDAY

Thorsby W. M. S. Plan For Amusing Entertainment
In Thorsby

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Thorsby Baptist church will observe Washington's Birthday on next Friday, February 21st, at seven-thirty o'clock to ten o'clock p. m.

This entertainment will be held at the home of Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Jones in Thorsby and is to be, as the pastor terms it:

"A very truly yours affair.
Will bring you to your senses.
For nothing but the truth is told.
In spite of consequences."
Those attending this affair are to be their true self, and are to cast aside their extra fixings and come dressed to represent what they really are, instead of what they seem to be. Admission will be a silver offering to the church.

Dr. C. N. Parnell of Maplesville was in Clanton last Tuesday looking after business matters.

Mr. Ernest H. Davis of Plantersville, Alabama was attending Circuit Court here last Tuesday.

Rev. J. M. Metcalf and family of Verbena were visitors to Clanton last Monday afternoon.

Royster

FIELD TESTED FERTILIZERS

"My farm was entirely run down, but through the use of Royster fertilizer is now conceded to be one of the best in the county,"

Says C. T. Ledbetter, Barnett, Ga.

NOT AN UNUSUAL STORY. For even on rich ground a farmer who does not fertilize is spending his capital instead of increasing it and making it pay extra dividends.

The reason thousands stick to Royster is because of the extra profits it brings. They deduct the cost of making a crop with Royster from the selling price of their crop and find a bigger dollar-in-the-pocket return than with cheaper brands.

Royster quality is not accidental. For 45 years this firm has been following the standard set by its founder—"We cannot continue to prosper unless our dealers and their customers reap real profits from our products." Royster Fertilizer is scientifically compounded—stronger plant food is released as the growing plant can absorb it—so assuring continuous growth. Ground extra fine—in full-weight bags—thoroughly aged—field tested—has been growing profit crops for 45 years. You can afford to pay a little more for Royster because Royster gives you the best return.

Providence B. Y. P. U.

Dear friends and loved ones, as our little union meets in regular service we can see a vacant place that can never be filled here in this world anymore. Our hearts are made sad, very sad, indeed, when we look around in our dear little band of workers and find that our very dear friend and co-worker, Marvin Merchant, has been taken from among us. We miss him. Marvin was ever so faithful and loyal to his community.

Dear Lord, we ask Thee to direct each of us; help us to so live here in this world that when the cold hands of death takes us from this world that we can be re-united with this dear friend in that world where there will be no pains, no sorrows. Blessed God, we ask thee to help this dear father, mother and dear sisters, hold them up by thy strong arm of faith. May their said hearts be comforted with Thy assurance that some day God is going to re-unite them, with their dear ones, and there will be joy and peace forever more. We ask it all in Jesus's name. A FRIEND.

WHY MAKE IT WORSE?

In spite of all that we may possess of knowledge, philosophy and religion, when viewed in its stern reality, life is a tragic thing. We may be profoundly thankful for the fact that "hope springs eternal in the human breast."

Man, like every living creature, is born under the sentence of death, which rests alike upon the king on his throne and the murderer in his cell. None is exempt.

That we can cheerfully and hopefully "carry on" in the face of this certainty and in the midst of the trials of our daily existence is convincing evidence of man's courage and fortitude.

These reflections are not intended to spread gloom or discouragement, but are merely a reminder that, taken at its best, there is enough anguish in the world, without anyone seeking to make the burden of another heavier to bear.

Along the thorny paths of life each man can do much to aid, comfort and encourage his neighbor. Why, then, should we choose to do those things which needlessly bring added misery to others instead of joy?

LANDSCAPE PLANS MADE FOR ELMORE

Wetumpka, Ala., Feb. 20.—Definite plans have been made for more detailed work in landscaping Elmore County rural homes. The goal for 1930 is to beautify at least one home in each community by planting shrubs, lawns, flowers and making other improvements. This is reported by Miss Mary Olive Carnley, home demonstration agent, who plans to help the rural people with their beautification program.

Sam F. Brewster, landscape specialist, Extension Service, Alabama Polytechnic Institute, will visit the county to help with plans for the landscaping. He does similar work in many other Alabama counties, Miss Carnley said.

BRICK BROODERS USED IN BALDWIN

Bay Minette, Ala., Feb. 20.—The home-made brick brooder is growing rapidly in popularity among farmers of Baldwin County. A large number have already been built, and the total for the season will probably reach 200, reports E. E. Hale, county agent.

Farmers are discarding coal and oil brooders for the home-made brick structure, he said, because it is low in original cost, economical to operate, and considered more efficient than ordinary brooders in maintaining uniform and ample heat.

W. T. Fryan of Steubenville, Ohio, lost his nose in an auto accident. It was found in the wreckage and a doctor grafted it back on with 20 stitches. Fryan breathed naturally an hour later.

WHO'S PRESIDENT?

Heard a little story yesterday down in Americus.

A certain Italian was being examined for citizenship papers. He made an excellent record in his examination. The judge congratulated him and then said: "Now Tony, there are a few questions I must ask you. They are all easy, but I must go through the formality of asking them."

"What is the capital of the United States?"

"Washington."

"What is the largest city in the United States?"

"New York."

"Who is president of the United States?"

"Al Smith."

"No, Tony. Think hard. Who was the man who ran against him and beat him. Now tell me who is president of the United States?"

"Al Smith," again replied Tony. "I know he is president."

"What makes you so positive?" asked the judge.

"Well, during the campaign last year, I heard Senator Borah, Senator Moses, Mr. Hoover and other Republicans say that if Al Smith was elected the mills and factories would shut down, business would go to the dogs, there would be a panic on Wall Street, and the prohibition laws would not be enforced. Surely those gentlemen wouldn't have told a falsehood. All of these things have happened, so Al Smith must be president."—Griffin (Ga.) News.

Teachers, Pupils

To Enter Contest On Street Safety

Essay And Lesson Contests for Elementary Schools Announced; Students and Teachers to Participate

Washington, D. C., Feb. 13.—Stressing the need on the part of school Education Board, Washington, D. C., and Chief of the United States Bureau of Public Roads, today announced the completion of the plans for the ninth annual street and highway safety campaign for elementary school children and teachers throughout the United States. This campaign, consisting of two contests, one for children, the other for teachers, is conducted by the Board in cooperation with State, county and municipal educational authorities.

The one contest, open to all elementary school pupils of the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades, 14 years of age and under, is for the best essays on the subject: "What I Am Doing to Set a Good Example in Safety on the children to set a good example in safety on the nation's highways, Thos. H. MacDonald, chairman of the Highway Highways," while the other, open to all elementary school teachers, is for the best lessons on the subject: "Teaching the Essentials of Street and Highway Safety." The two contests are conducted simultaneously in the schools of the country.

Both state and national prizes will be awarded, and one pupil and one teacher, first national winners in their respective contests, will be brought to Washington as guests of the Highway Education Board for a week. While in Washington they will also be presented with their national prizes.

A total of $6,500 in cash prizes and medals is offered to winning contestants, the prizes being donated by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. In the contest for pupils, 442 medals and the same number of cash prizes are awarded, in addition to three national prizes. In the contest for the teachers there are no state prizes, but three national prizes are given. The teacher writing the best lesson on street and highway safety receives a cash prize of $500 and a trip to Washington with all expenses paid. That teacher writing the second best lesson receives a check for $300, while the third best lesson is awarded a prize of $200.

Gold, silver, and bronze medals are awarded to first, second and third prize winners of each state in the contest for school children, in addition to checks for $15, $10, and $5 respectively. Each state has one first and one second prize winner, while the number of third prizes depends upon the number of elementary school children enrolled. Thus, Nevada and several other states, where the number of elementary school children is comparatively small, are awarded but one third prize, while Pennsylvania is allotted 23 and New York 25.

Following the selection of the best papers from each of the 54 states and territories, the essays and the lessons are entered in competition for the national prizes. These papers are passed upon by a committee of three judges generally representing the field of education, literature and business. First prize winner in the national contest for pupils in addition to being brought to Washington as the guest of the Board, is presented with a gold watch while in the National Capitol. Second and third prize winners in the essay contest receive gold watches.

The date on which essays and lessons must be handed to the school principal is May 9. Essays must be not more than 500 words in length, and each contestant is required to submit an illustration, either original or clipped from a magazine or newspaper, that is pertinent to the question of safety education. A selection from these illustrations will be used by the Board in preparing a safety poster for the contest in 1931. Safety lessons must be between 1,000 and 3,000 words and may take the form which the teacher thinks best presents the subject, such as a lecture, recitation, game or drama.

These contests have been conducted by the Highway Education Board during the past nine years and each year has seen an increase in the number of participants. Last year the number taking part totalled almost 600,000 pupils and 100,000 teachers, and this year an even greater number is expected to enter.

The best papers for each state are selected by a state committee, as a rule named by the State Superintendent of Public Instruction. After the selection of the prize winning essays from each state or territory, these papers, with the best lessons, are forwarded to Washington where those entered in the national contests are typed and numbered and submitted to the national judges without any indication as to authorship.

Mt. Pleasant News

In a lively game at Maddox's Warehouse last Friday afternoon, the Mt. Pleasant Junior High basketball team emerged victorious over the fast Union Grove quintet, by the score of 15 to 10.

Both teams played defensively rather than offensively as indicated by the score. Traywick, the clever little forward for Mt. Pleasant, led his teammates in scoring, by netting the ball for 9 points. Littlejohn, the rangy center for the winners, displayed his usual skill in getting the tip-off.

Daniels and Chandler led the Union players in getting four points each.

The Mt. Pleasant lead, which was rung up in the early part of the game was never overcome during the game. They were leading at the half, 11 to 4.

On next Friday afternoon at 3:20 Mt. Pleasant plays Enterprise on the Mt. Pleasant court.

for the New York Central Railroad Company. He has held his present position with the National Association of Life Underwriters for several years and is said to be one of the highest salaried men in the United States.
Making National Tour
He is making a tour of the country, visiting local life underwriters' associations, going from Birmingham to Memphis Wednesday night, and from there he will continue westward to the Pacific Coast.
The successful life insurance salesman, he said, is intensely human; he is selling something worthwhile and in his work he is giving something outside of himself—sentiment. He said sentiment has its place in the business world and the business man who disregards it will not accomplish much.
"The salesman who expects to sell does so," Mr. Hull asserted, "and the salesman who fears he is not going to sell usually does not."
"Bigger Business To Come"
"When the stock crash came last October thousands of people looked in the chest and thanked God they had their life insurance policies. The depression that followed may set the country back for a while, but the people must equip themselves for the bigger business that is to come and the life insurance salesman must be ready to take their share of the business."

situation Dr. Knapp came to the conclusion that acreage in cotton this year should be reduced 15 per cent in Alabama. If this is done, the total for the state will be 3,000,000 acres in cotton against 3,589,000 last year, Dr. Knapp declared.
Vernie Teel was called to Rockford last Friday to attend the funeral of his grandmother, Mrs. E. B. Samuels.
J. P. Paynes, prominent hardware merchant of Maplesville was in Clanton last Tuesday attending to business matters.
Hon. L. F. Gerald has been attending court in Birmingham this week.

Faculty Play Ready For Presentation

"Can You Beat It?" a satisfying comedy in three acts, by Beulah King, will be presented by the faculty of the Verbena schools on Friday evening, February 21, at 8:00 P. M. This is one of the newer plays and promises an evening of enjoyable entertainment.
The cast has been working very hard and each one is well suited for their parts.
This play is being presented under the able direction of Mrs. Barnett DeRamus. The proceeds of this play will go to the Verbena Elementary school.
The cast of characters follows: Timothy Todd, Lee W. Douglas; Lefita Todd, his wife, Miss Lila Mae Jolly; Frances, their niece, Miss Jettie Ward; Mrs. Van Dresser, the social leader of Beechbrook, Mrs. John Ward; Jan Meredith, Mr. Homer Grim; Dan Dickerman, Mr. Hollis Hiten; Sara, the maid, Miss Edna Davis.
The public is cordially invited to attend this play. Admission 20 and 35 cents.

"AND MARY DID" WILL BE PRESENTED AT BILLINGSLEY

"And Mary Did" what? Well, Mr. Wise Guy, if you don't know, just listen to this: "And Mary Did," a tale of triumph in three acts, will be presented in the auditorium of Billingsley Elementary School on Saturday evening, February 22, at 7:30 o'clock. The cast of characters includes the following:
Mary Sterling, Miss Myra Keel; Lawrence Gray, who loves Mary, Mr. Buster Roebuck; Edith Smith, Mary's chum, Miss Vivian Silas; Mrs. Sterling, Mary's mother, Mrs. Myrtle Taylor; Daniel Gray, Lawrence's father, Mr. Howard Bookhold; Willie Sterling, Betty Sterling, little angels, Bernard Stroud, Lucille Griffin; Matilda, the maid, Miss Vesta Lette; Henry, the gardener, Mr. Archie Stroud; (Miss) O. G. Whittaker, a masculine monument to feminine freedom, Miss Mary Lou Gaines; Dressa Rand, from Buston, Miss Claudie Elland.
The play is sponsored by the Enterprise P. T. A. Admission will be 15 and 25 cents.

MARTIN ACCEPTS POSITION WITH T. C. I. IN FAIRFIELD

WOMAN FALLS IN WELL AT WADSWORTH; BREAKS ANKLE

Last Tuesday, a stranger walked into the office of the News, stating he had a story which might be interesting. He gave his name as Charles Small, from the State of Maine, and said he and his wife, an Indian by birth, were touring through this part of the country, and as they neared Wadsworth, Ala. last Monday night, were attracted by the dying embers of a burnt house. They went over to view the ruins, the story went, and as he walked around the fire, his wife went around in the opposite direction. He said he heard screams and found they came from a well, the curbing of which had been burnt away.
Striking a match to look into the uncovered well, he saw his wife, with one foot caught behind the curb and the ground something like forty feet below the surface. A neighbor assisted Small in getting his wife from the well, by letting a chain down so she could catch hold.
She was brought to Clanton for medical attention, leaving Tuesday afternoon for Birmingham. Small stated the house burned about four o'clock that afternoon, and the accident occurred about eight o'clock Monday night.

M. M. PUGH OPENS NEW STANDARD SERVICE STATION

The new filling station of the Standard Oil Company, located near the Ford building, on the highway, opened last Friday for business, with M. M. Pugh, as manager.
Mr. Pugh will have as his assistants, Messrs. Durwood and J. L. Teel, two young men who have had quite a bit of experience in that line of business, having been connected with the Dief's Service Station for some time before.

EXTENSION MEET VERY INTERESTING

Mell Martin Addressed Class At Meeting Held Last Saturday

The Chilton County teachers who take the College Course from Alabama College, Montealeo, had a busy day Saturday, February 22nd. The forenoon was taken up with the usual college class work which the teachers do every two weeks. Dr. Steelman, of the Sociology Department, of the college is the able instructor of this class.

A demonstration lesson in teaching reading was given by Mrs. Clara Bookholdt of the Thomas Junior High school in the afternoon. Mrs. Bookholdt brought six of her first grade pupils for the lesson. The lesson was taught to demonstrate to the teachers how a lesson should be taught to the pupils instead of assigned for the pupils to get the best way they can. The teachers enjoyed a profitable discussion among themselves as to the means by which such method can be used in other subjects in school. This work was under the direction of Miss Madge Scarborough, Elementary Supervisor of schools.

Another interesting feature of the meeting was a talk by Mr. J. Mell Martin in which he appealed to the teachers in the interest of the generation of boys and girls under their instruction. Mr. Martin had in mind the one mill tax which is to be voted on April 8th. He insisted that the teachers give citizens the facts in the matter if they did not understand. If this is done, Mr. Martin said, in a wholehearted spirit; that is, if the people know exactly how much their taxes will be after the tax is voted, there will not be over forty votes in the county against it. Every teacher appreciated the fact that such men are enough interested in our work of educating the future citizens of Chilton County that they will take time from their own work to show others the importance in this task of giving every child a chance.

EDUCATIONAL RALLY DAY AND DINNER ON GROUND

WILL DELIVER LAST OF SERIES SUNDAY

Next Sunday evening at seven-thirty o'clock will mark the close of a series of sermons at the Methodist church on the line by Rev. Ernest A. Childs, pastor of the church.

At the services next Sunday, Rev. Childs will have as his subject, "The River Jordan, the Dead Sea, and the Kingdom."

Every Christian looks back to events which occurred at these spots to confirm evidence of his religion, and these will be discussed next Sunday.

BROADUS CONNATSER WILL GO TO NEW ORLEANS SOON

Clanton will again part with one of its young business men, for a while, when Broadus Connatser leaves to begin spring baseball training, after spending some time here, looking after "Daddy" Fox's big furniture and hardware business.

Broadus is scheduled to be in New Orleans, La., about the fifth of next month, to go in training with the New Orleans Club.

BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT SATURDAY

Junior High Schools Will Play for Championship Of The County

The Junior High School Basketball Tournament will take place in Clanton on next Saturday, March 1st, according to an announcement made by Z. Y. Appleton, principal of Collins Chapel Junior High School.

The elimination series will begin at nine o'clock in the morning and the finals are to be played, beginning at seven o'clock that night. All games will be played on the indoor court at the Maddox Warehouse here. Admission for the elimination games will be ten cents, while admission to the finals will be 15 and 25 cents, for two games.

It is expected that the following schools of Chilton County will enter their teams in this tournament: boys teams, Enterprise, Vermont, Stanton, Mt. Pleasant, Union Grove, Concord, and Collins Chapel, while Baker and Cooper are somewhat pending. The schools who will probably send girls' teams also are, Collins Chapel, Union Grove, Vermont and Stanton.

All teams are urged to be on time for the drawing of teams for matches for the elimination series in the morning.

BURL PIERCE ARRESTED LAST TUESDAY BY SHERIFFS

Burl Pierce, young white man, was arrested last Tuesday morning by Sheriff J. D. Collins and Deputy Murrah, on a charge of larceny, according to information.

The arrest occurred just north of Jemison, and Pierce was brought to Clanton and placed in jail, where at the time of this writing he is still confined.

O. E. S. SCHOOL OF INSTRUCTION AT MAPLESVILLE, ALA.

The School of Instruction of the Order of the Eastern Star will meet at Maplesville, Alabama, on March 12, according to an announcement given the News. The Maplesville Chapter will act as hostess.

Mrs. Cora McAdory of Auburn, Worthy Grand Matron, Mrs. Effie Moore of Birmingham, Grand Associate Conductress, will be in charge of the work, with the Maplesville Chapter exemplifying the opening.

CITY PLANS TO BEAUTIFY PROPERTY

Receiving Bids From Painters On Job of Painting Water Works Bldg.

The Town of Clanton is receiving bids now from painters on the job of painting the water works building, according to information from the City Clerk's office.

It is the intentions of the officials to have the buildings painted on the interior and exterior throughout, and the work is expected to begin as soon as all bids are in and opened by the water works committee, the reports stated.

The property around the buildings is now undergoing somewhat of a beautification process. Shrubbery and flowers are beginning to show up in suitable spots on the grounds.

Last Monday, a State Sanitary Inspector was in Clanton for the purpose of looking over and inspecting the water works supply and system, and on completing his inspection, he pronounced the system, including the plant and supply as adequate, measuring up to the requirements of the health department, was pleased with the manner it was being conducted by M. C. Smith, city superintendent of water works.

PREACHING AT LOCK 12 SUNDAY AFTERNOON

We have been requested to announce this week that there will be preaching at Lay Dam on next Sunday afternoon, March 2nd, at two o'clock.

Rev. E. A. Childs, pastor of the Clanton Methodist church will deliver the sermon, and all persons in the community are cordially invited to attend this service.

CLANTON GETS RESIDENTS FORMERLY OF TUSCALOOSA

Miss Mattie Brandon, who is connected with the C. E. Hornsby Co. of Clanton, was a visitor to Tuscaloosa last week end, and returned Monday bringing with her, her mother, and her sister, Mrs. Gladys Harper.

They will in the future make their home near Clanton, occupying the Bruce home, just north of here.

BEN MARGOLIS RETURNS FROM TRIP TO COLORADO

Mr. Ben Margolis returned the latter part of last week from a tour of Colorado, Michigan. Ohio. He stopped over in Uniontown for a visit to his brother, Harry Margolis, and is now here visiting his sister, Mrs. M. Lande, and Mr. Lande.

This entertainment is decidedly different and promises a full evening of laughter and entertainment. All of the popular comic characters will be present at the wedding. Among the most prominent are: Moon Mullins, Mr. Horace Davis; Emmy Schmaltz, Mrs. Will Gullledge; Kayo, Billie Barrett; Jiggs, Mr. J. S. Hubbard; Maggie, Mrs. Metcalf; Walt, Watt Jones; Skeezix, (continued to back page)

MOORE'S STORE PUTTING ON BIG STOCK MOVING SALE

For the first time in some months, Clanton will have the opportunity to witness and participate in a real stock removal sale in the drug line, when Moore's Store opens their sale this morning.

Elsewhere in this issue of the News will be found a page ad from this popular store in which they are listing items with sale prices on them. Mr. Glenn W. Moore, proprietor of the store stated that the stock must go, and that he has placed prices on his goods that will make them move, if the people of this section want to save money on drugs, sundries, etc.

Hart And Reynolds Go To Washington Saturday

Mayor Eric Hart and Judge L. H. Reynolds left last Saturday to go to Washington, D. C., for the purpose of meeting with the Veterans Hospital Board, Tuesday to present a claim for the Veterans Hospital to be located in Chilton County. The Board was open last Tuesday to a public hearing and all communities who want the hospital could have a representative or representatives present at the hearing to present their claims.

Mayor Hart and Judge Reynolds intend to invite the Committee on Location of the hospital to visit Chilton County, and look over the possibilities of locating the building here, somewhere in this county. It is expected that Chilton's representatives will return the latter part of this week, and may they bring good news with them.

STOCK OF CALLEN'S STORE MOVED TO CAPITOL STORE

The stock of men's wearing apparel of the store known as Callen's was moved last Tuesday to the Capitol Dry Goods Store, where, according to Reed Taylor, manager of the two stores, they intend to put on a price slashing sale. These two stores will remain combined in the future.

CLANTON LADY ELECTED P-T. A. PRESIDENT

Mrs. L. C. Warr, wife of the principal of the Chilton County High School, was elected president of the Parent-Teachers Association, comprising the counties of Autauga, Elmore, Coosa and Chilton. The district meeting will be held in Clanton on April 4th.

This is a new step in the progress of the P-T. A. and we feel that much good will come from these district meetings with representatives from the various associations in the above named counties. Clanton people should rally to the cause of these conferences as many school problems and misunderstandings between parent and teacher will be discussed at the meetings.

NOTICE OF CHANGE IN HOURS OF SERVICE, BAPTIST CHURCH

Beginning Sunday the hours of service will be changed as follows. The B. Y. P. U.'s will meet at 6:30 p. m., the preaching service will be 7:30 p. m. At 11 a. m. the pastor will speak on the subject: "Lessons from the Death of Walter Martin." At the evening hour the subject will continue the series on "Familiar Proverbs" using as the subject: "Every tub must stand on its own bottom." The public is cordially invited to all services.

W. E. MARTIN LAID TO REST LAST MONDAY

Deceased Was One of Most Outstanding Residents Of The County

Prof. Walter E. Martin, one of Clanton's prominent citizens, died at his home on Tenth Street, last Saturday evening after a two weeks illness of pneumonia. Funeral services for the deceased were held last Monday at the Baptist Church in Clanton with Rev. S. J. Ezell officiating, and Mell Martin, undertaker, in charge. The Church auditorium was too small to accommodate the throngs of sorrowing relatives and friends who came to pay their last sad tribute of respect to the deceased. The body was laid to rest in the Clanton Cemetery, with Masonic honors.

Prof. Martin was born near Thorsby, Alabama, during the early part of 1893, and he had been a citizen of the county all his life. He attended grammar (continued on back page)

NEGRO WOMAN CARRIED TO ASYLUM LAST SUNDAY

Edna Powell, negro woman, was carried to the negro asylum at Mount Vernon, last Sunday.

The negro was in charge of Sheriff Collins and Chief Deputy Culp, who also came by the Atmore State Prison to get Kiah Carter, young white man, who was sentenced in Shelby County, and who is to also face a charge in this county for assault and battery, according to information. Carter, at the time of this writing is in jail here, the report stated.

Hill's Putting On A Big Celebration Sale

Bringing to the people of Clanton another one of their tremendous money-saving sales, the Hill Grocery Store is this week announcing their 19th Anniversary Sale, which will begin Friday afternoon and continue until Saturday night, March 8th.

Mr. McEathern, manager of the local Hill store, stated that in his opinion the prices in this sale are the most attractive he has ever seen since being in Clanton. He also stated that they will have a car load of flour in Clanton, which they are going to sell during this Anniversary Sale, and suggests to the farmers that they lay in a good supply, because the price is going to be so that they will be able to save a large sum of money on this flour. See the ad of the Hill Grocery Store elsewhere in this issue.

DR. UPCHURCH GONE INTO FISHING BUSINESS RIGHT

That Dr. E. E. Upchurch has gone into the fishing business on a big scale is evidenced by the large barrel of live minnows he has at his drug store here. Dr. Upchurch stated that he is experimenting with five hundred of these live minnows, and claims they are harder and livelier than the ordinary minnow which is caught in this section. He has these minnows shipped in and will sell them to fishermen throughout the season.

CARNIVAL AT MAPLESVILLE SCHOOL FRIDAY NIGHT

We have been requested to announce this week that there will be a carnival at the Maplesville school auditorium tomorrow night, beginning at seven-thirty.

Everybody is especially invited. This entertainment is being given under auspices of the Parent-Teachers Association and has been well planned.

E. G. CALDWELL SHOT BY OWN BURGLAR TRAP

Prominent Pletcher Merchant Seriously Injured Last Sunday Morning

Apparently forgetting that he had, the night before, set a trap, composed of a shotgun rigged up, to ward off burglars at his store, E. G. Caldwell, prominent merchant and postmaster at Pletcher, Alabama, was shot by the gun last Sunday morning, when he entered his store.

According to the story given us, Mr. Caldwell had gone to his store, and stopped to talk with some friends who were there and unlocked the store door and had taken only a few steps when the gun discharged, the entire load taking effect in his legs, just above the knees.

B. F. Hedgepeth, who was at the store with Caldwell, summoned a doctor, and Caldwell was rushed to the Central Alabama Hospital here, where attendants state that his left leg was seriously injured by the shot, while his right leg received only a part of the charge.

Late reports from the hospital state that Mr. Caldwell is doing as well as can be expected.

MULLINS & MOORE CORNER SEES BUSY DAY SATURDAY

The intersection at the Mullins & Moore Corner, at the highway saw an extremely busy day last Saturday, especially that afternoon.

One was perhaps reminded that times are not as hard as they say they are, judging from the traffic seen here Saturday. A traffic control signal would probably aid somewhat at this busy intersection of Clanton.

H. N. SMITH OF COOPER VISITOR HERE SATURDAY

Harrison N. Smith, prominent lumber manufacturer of Cooper, Alabama was in Clanton on business last Saturday. While in town, Mr. Smith was a caller at the News office.

He is very optimistic over the existing conditions and says he believes there is something real good in the way of business ahead. We are always glad to have callers like Mr. Smith.

VACANCIES IN C. M. T. C. ARE FILLING

Applications For Training Exceed Number Made Last Year

Major S. R. Tupper, U. S. Army, Chief of the Citizens' Military Training Camp enrollment in Alabama, Federal Building, Birmingham, has announced that reports being received by him indicate that all vacancies for attendance at the CMTC will be filled by midnight, March 1st. The response this year is greater and more enthusiastic than ever before.

Less than half of the young men applying last year could be accommodated. Funds and facilities were available for only 4400 while 8989 applied. Louisiana, the first state in the Union to exceed its quota, went over the top one day after enrollments began. Florida vacancies were exhausted in five days. All eight southeastern states, comprising the Fourth Corps Area, filled their quotas a month or more before the quotas opened, the Fourth Corps Area leading all others in the country. For the thousands disappointed last year, only early applications this year will secure for them an appointment.

ONE KILLED IN WEEK END ACCIDENTS

Young Lady Brought Here To Hospital From Auto Accident

J. A. McClain, of Albertville, Ala., died at the Central Alabama Hospital here as the result of injuries received when he was struck by an automobile while walking on the Selma Highway, near Maplesville, last Thursday night. The car which struck McClain, is said to have been driven by C. L. Kanipe, of Maplesville, and the accident reported unavoidable.

A Martin ambulance from here was summoned by Kanipe, according to information, and the injured man rushed here for treatment, succumbing early Friday morning.

McClain's body was sent to China Grove cemetery, near Troy, by Martin for burial, Saturday.

As the result of an accident which occurred about ten miles south of here last Thursday night on the Birmingham highway, Miss Sarah Nafelt, 21, of Nafelt, Alabama was brought to the hospital here with serious cuts about the face.

According to the story given the News, Miss Nafelt was traveling alone, when she attempted to turn a curve, her car left the highway and overturned. A Martin ambulance brought her to Clanton.

MT. PLEASANT TEAM DEFEATS STRONG ENTERPRISE QUINTET

On last Friday afternoon the Mt. Pleasant basketball boys coasted to an easy victory over Enterprise Junior High, 17 to 2. The game was expected to be close and interesting, but proved the opposite for the Mt. Pleasant boys were looping the ball into the net at random, while the Enterprise players were never able to break through the tight defense and reach the goal. Their few shots were from long range and proved futile. Hodgess, the husky forward for the winners, was high scorer, ringing up 5 field goals for 10 points. Littlejohn succeeded in getting the large majority of tip-offs for Mt. Pleasant.

With Smith back at his favorite position as standing guard, the team worked well in defensive play.

Don't fail to see the Junior High Tournament next Saturday at Maddox Warehouse.

THE LEADER OFFERING MORE BARGAINS TO BUYING PUBLIC

On the back page of this week's issue of the News will be found the ad of The Leader, one of Clanton's most popular and progressive dry goods stores. In this ad, Mr. Lande, proprietor of The Leader, is offering several money saving bargains to the people of this section.

A. & P. STORE CELEBRATING FOUNDERS WEEK HERE

The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. Store of Clanton is this week offering to the people of this section some mighty attractive prices on groceries, etc.

The manager of the local A & P Store states that prices on many articles they carry are now among the most attractive they have seen in some time, and advise that farmers come in and get a supply of what they will need while the prices are so suitable to existing financial conditions.

Douglas Clark of Birmingham was among the out-of-town visitors to our city last Saturday. While in Clanton Mr. Clark called at the News office and stated he wanted the News sent to him in Birmingham.

Mrs. A. C. Wells of Jemison was a recent shopping visitor to Clanton.

C. A. C. TEAM NETS 22ND VICTORY

When the Clanton Athletic Club played the Marion Military Institute on the local indoor court last Tuesday night, they marked up their twenty-second victory of the season, out of twenty-four games played.

On last Saturday night, the Edwards Motor Company team of Birmingham, came down here to play the local club the local court at the Maddox Warehouse, by a score of 33 to 3. This team and went back to Birmingham (continued on back page) wet gas like wet ignition makes your engine cough and sputter

Wet ignition robs your engine of its smooth rhythmic power. So does wet gas, especially in cold weather. Texaco is high test. It forms a dry gas—yet costs no more than ordinary gasoline.

No matter how low the temperature, Texaco assures a snappy start and brisk performance. It smooths out the hills—untangles the traffic and takes you further on every gallon.

What is more, Texaco will bring you an entirely new feeling of complete control. It forms an active mixture of gasoline and air—enabling you to drop from high speeds to a slow pace quickly without a cough or a sputter. Its amazing pick-up—its power on hills—these, too, are due to its readiness to form a dry gas. Decide now to stop at a Texaco pump and enjoy performance such as only Texaco can give.

1. A wet gas is an atomized mixture of gasoline vapor in which are suspended drops of raw gasoline.
2. These drops of raw gasoline form an uneven mixture which resists the action of the spark.
3. Result: crankcase dilution, difficult starts—a sluggish motor.

1. The new and better Texaco vaporizes so readily that it forms a dry gas—an active mixture of gasoline and air.
2. This pure, dry gas responds instantly to the action of the spark.
3. Result: Lightning starts, rapid acceleration, smooth action—power!

Hints For Homemakers
By Jane Rogers

If your old wooden drain board is the worse for wear, buy a piece of embossed linoleum, fit it to the board, and tack it down. The water will follow the indentations, and the linoleum is soft enough to prevent the chipping of your dishes.

Glazing adds a gay and appetizing touch to meats. In barbecuing beef, sear and brush frequently with the glazing syrup which is made by boiling, until the sugar is dissolved, one cup sugar, one-fourth cup water, and two tablespoons lemon juice, and then adding one-fourth teaspoon tobacco sauce, one tablespoon tomato ketchup, one-fourth teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Glazing requires steady, moderate heat.

Forty-Seven Years Ago

The following news items were taken from the issue of the Chilton View for March 1, 1883:

Governor A. H. Stephens of Georgia died on Sunday last.

The Legislature has made no appropriation for the state insane hospital. Statistics show there are over 1500 insane in this state.

The Legislature has just passed a law requiring all peddlers to take out a license.

It is estimated that in the two Carolina's, Georgia and Louisiana a total population of about 200,000 people white and colored are dependent upon the cultivation of rice.

JOHN A. DICKINSON OPTIMISTIC IN OUTLOOK ON SENATE RACE

John A. Dickinson, while unopposed for state senator from his district, which is composed of Autauga, Chilton and Shelby, is letting no grass grow under his feet. He is campaigning in the district just as if there were three or four candidates against him and announces that he will continue to do so regardless of whether any opposition develops, and he does not expect any.

"I have just completed a swing thru Chilton and Shelby," Mr. Dickinson said Thursday. "And I was greatly pleased with my reception in these two counties. There are many fine people in Chilton and Shelby and it is always a pleasure to go among them. It is needless to say that I was gratified at the assurance of support I received. My friends tell me that these two counties will go for me overwhelmingly."

Mr. Dickinson reports a general feeling of optimism creeping over the three counties of his senatorial district. He says there is a general feeling that "we are over the hill" and the going is going to be much easier from now on.

Chilton County Is Penalized For Lack of Revenue

Chilton County has again been penalized for not providing the maximum amount of revenue for the schools of the county. In the distribution of the money recently made all but 11 counties received the $4,000 appropriated to each county which has voted the Constitutional four mill tax. Eleven counties received only $3,000 and Chilton County is one of these.

From a study of the figures below it can easily be seen that all but Chilton County can afford to lose the amount of revenue which the one mill county school tax would furnish and the other penalty of $1,000.

We are publishing the names of the counties not having the four mill tax together with the enumeration and the state appropriations from General funds. They are:

County	White E.	Col. E.	State A.
Chilton	7,177	1,360	$ 37,233
Lowndes	991	10,152	51,386
Barbour	4,874	7,549	58,030
Green	865	5,101	25,580
Henry	4,539	4,334	36,996
Macon	4,577	7,829	41,186

Madison	14,387	5,956	84,240
Montgomery	12,262	19,239	132,027
Russell	2,639	8,351	48,442
Sumter	1,889	10,191	53,990
Wilcox	2,167	8,927	49,131

Again looking at it from another angle these same counties have the following number of white children with the appropriations shown:

County	White E.	State A.
Chilton	7,177	$137,233
Lowndes	991	51,386
Barbour	4,874	58,030
Green	865	25,580
Henry	4,539	36,996
Macon	1,577	41,186
Madison	14,387	84,240
Montgomery	12,262	132,027
Russell	2,639	48,442
Sumter	1,889	53,990
Wilcox	2,167	49,131

The State Equalization Fund was provided in order that just such inequalities as are shown above might be corrected. Of course the state in making appropriations was compelled to set a standard for local effort before each county could be assured of an equal term. These are startling facts, but yet they can be verified by referring to the annual report of the State Board of Education for 1928. The state is anxious to correct such inequalities and when the people of Chilton County have come to do what they can for themselves locally then an appropriation necessary to provide a minimum term of seven months elementary school and a minimum term of nine months for the high schools will be made.

From an article published in the papers a few weeks ago attention was called to the fact that half of the county tax funds would be set aside to be used for other purposes over and above a minimum of a seven months term. This would enable the County Board of Education to greatly enlarge its program and we feel that it is proper and right that the facts should be given to the people of the county; hence this article.

POWER OF THE COUNTRY

According to Ayer's Newspaper Directory, there are some 13,000 smaller city dailies and country weekly newspapers in the United States, outnumbering all other newspapers published. These are read by the great majority of home-owning, tax-paying American families. These newspapers are nearly all owned individually by the country editors and publishers and are read by the great middle class of people comprising our workers and thinkers from which our most successful national leaders are picked.

Like the painters and artists, the poets and musicians, the country editors of our country are mostly individualists. They do not live in the skyscrapers of the big cities, but constitute the great body political of Our Country and voice the consciousness of the nation—that means American conservatism, family life and business stability. They are stronger than Wall Street, more powerful than Congress or the Senate, and their voice is heard in the International Naval Conference and the Court of the World.

Pasture Suggestions

By C. E. STAPP

It is time to seed your pasture land. There is much good pasture and in the county being allowed to grow up in briars and bushes. Land intended for pasture should be cleaned off as for other crops.

A mixture of about 10 lbs. of Carpet grass, 5 lbs. of Dallas grass and 10 lbs. of Lespedeza makes a good mixture for the branch bottom pasture land of this county.

In Memory

I would thank you, Mr. Editor, for just a little space in which to express a few of my thoughts on the passing over of Prof. W. E. Martin, whose remains were consigned to their final resting place in the City Cemetery last Monday at high noon, while the glorious sun poured out its beauty upon the scene and the gentle and fragrant zephyrs of spring seemed to chant a soft requiem of farewell.

In my opinion, Clanton and Chilton County lost one of its most worthy citizens when Prof. Martin was called to the other side. He was preeminently a Christian gentleman in the very highest acceptance of those terms. A man who faced every phase of life with a brave smile and wavered not an iota from what he conceived to be right. As a friend, he was always ready and anxious to put his shoulder to the wheel and lend his aid in sorrow, sickness or adversity. As a teacher his success was always phenomenal. His daily walk in life was such that his example taught in his schoolroom lessons not taught in our school books, but more far reaching, important and lasting than anything you can learn from cold type.

A beautiful tribute to the character of Prof. Martin was exemplified by the immense throng that gathered at the grave to pay him that last, long farewell. Great numbers of pupils were there, ranging from the primary department to seniors in the high school, and all of them looked sad and sorrowful as though a dearly loved friend had left them. A great host of grown up people were there also, but from the silvered heads of the aged, on down to the young men and ladies, all seemed to be grieved sadly that they would see no more the dearly esteemed face of the deceased.

As I stood near and saw the last sad epoch in this good man's life, it almost seemed that I could hear the voice of the Master, as he welcomed our friend, "Well done, good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joys of thy Lord."

Most respectfully,

W. B. CORLEY.

News From B'ham Southern College

Birmingham, Feb. 27.—Two speakers of international fame who will appear on the commencement program at Birmingham-Southern College May 25 and 27 are John H. Finley, well-known editor and educator, of New York, and Dr. J. S. Rattenbury, outstanding lecturer of Southport, England, according to announcement of President Guy E. Snively.

Mr. Finley has been a principal editorial writer for The New York Times since 1921. He has also been very active in educational realms, having been president of Knox College 1892-99; professor at Princeton University 1900-03, and president of University of the State of New York 1913-21. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and a well known author. He received his A. B. and M. A. degrees from Knox College and did graduate work at John Hopkins University.

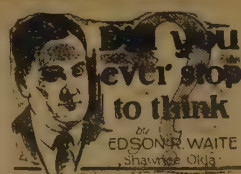

While in the States as a fraternal delegate to the quadrennial Methodist General Conference in Dallas, Texas, Dr. Rattenbury, one of the most outstanding clergymen of England, will deliver the commencement sermon on May 25.

SPEEDING UP THE WORLD

Probably the principal contribution of the telephone to the industrial age has been its speeding up of business and social contacts.

In this day, with wires carrying our messages in a few seconds to the grocery store around the corner, or to a great European capital, it is almost impossible to imagine a world without its telephones. The time when human contacts could be made only by letter or word of mouth seems as far away as the Golden Age of Greece.

The vast and complex ramifications of our industrial and social structure could not exist today without telephone communication.

Frank C. Mortimer, vice president of the Citizens National Trust & Savings bank of Los Angeles, California, says:

That there is no class in the citizenship of any nation which is entitled to greater consideration than the farmer. He constitutes the very fiber of the community in which he dwells.

The training afforded by its practice calls for the exercise of qualities that are predominantly moral in character. It means self-control. It means self-mastery. Long ago the farmer learned to forego immediate pleasure for the sake of some more distant good.

Through hardship and toil, on the frontier and the prairie, in the valleys and on the hillside, he has labored to supply the immediate wants of his household and food for the peoples of the earth. That which he has gathered and saved has become the foundation of our wealth as a nation. His steadiness, industry and sobriety are political virtues which make for the stability and permanence of our government.

Hints For Homemakers

By Jane Rogers

If your food chopper needs sharpening, run a piece of sandpaper through it, just as though the soap were food. It will both sharpen the cutters and remove any grease that may be on them. Rinse thoroughly in boiling water.

Tea biscuits sometimes turn out paler than they should. A teaspoon of sugar added to the recipe will help to give them the golden glow that adds so much to their appetite appeal. Tart shells, pie crusts, and rolls gain greatly in appearance if a little sugar syrup is brushed over them just before they are taken from the oven.

GOOD TOWNS AND TOWNS NOT SO GOOD

Observations of a Traveling Salesman

Were you ever in Goodtown, that busy little place, where you saw the neat looking railroad station with the beautiful flower beds, and the name of the town spelled out with white washed rocks? Do you remember, when you walked down Main Street, how your spirit soared as your subconscious sense absorbed the atmosphere of the community? Do you remember the clean, well-kept streets, the bright storefronts with modern, up-to-date windows and everyone walking with a sprightly, spriggy step that infused you with "oodles of pep?" Remember? Yes. That was Goodtown.

During my twenty years experience as a traveling salesman, covering nearly every state in the United States I have visited many different cities and towns. I have seen small hamlets become large cities within a few years; and I have seen the passing of many a small town within the same length of time—towns that were well on their way to become large and great, but on going back a few years later, I found the place almost deserted, the factories closed, the majority of the houses and the stores vacant, dilapidated and going to decay. The few people remaining bought their groceries from the Chain stores. That was the very thing that killed local pride in the beginning, undermined the civic foundation of the town and started it on the road to ruin.

Occasionally, during my travels, some brother traveling man would say to me: "Don't fail to make that town of So-and-So, for you'll find it a good, live place, where the people buy their groceries from the Independent Grocers." An invariably when I arrived at the town mentioned and met some of the merchants there, I found that the man was right. The town was a good one—busy and prosperous and every person in it alive and progressive.

In talking to the business men, I learned that they were proud of their home town; that they were "All for One and One for All;" that they worked together for the betterment of the community. The people of the town and the surrounding vicinity spent their money with the merchants whose money and energy helped to build the town; whose money and Co-operation had helped to establish the local banks, and had assisted in the building of good roads, good stores, good schools, good churches, etc. Local Paper Filled with Local Advertising. The local papers were filled with local advertising. They were patronized liberally by all of their business men. This made it possible to publish a big, interesting newspaper that reflected the spirit of the community, and demanded a wide circulation among the town and country folks. I found that the town had a commercial club which had made wonderful progress during the last few years in securing several new factories for the place, the local stock companies

IT ISN'T YOUR TOWN—IT'S YOU

If you want to live in the kind of a town
Like the kind of a town you like,
You needn't slip your clothes in a Grip and start on a long, long hike.
You'll only find what you left behind,
For there's nothing that's really new.
It's a knock at yourself when you knock your town.
It isn't the town—it's you.
Real towns are not made by men afraid
Lest somebody else gets ahead.
When everyone works and nobody shirks,
You can raise a town from the dead
And if while you make your personal stake
Your neighbors can make one, too;
Your town will be what you want to see,
It isn't the town—it's you.

owned and operated the town's largest industries; and that many of the men working in them owned stock, that every man in the place who wanted work could get it, and at wages above those paid in the cities.
The business men provided funds for a pure food show, a stock show, and a home-coming week each year. In all, the town seemed like one big family—everything running smoothly, and everybody happy and contented.

I was told there was not a Chain Store in that town. The people were too broad minded and intelligent to refuse to do their bit toward the up-building of their community. And so, I found the majority of these "good towns" to be just such places—"All for One and One for All."

So let us all be loyal to the town that we live in or near, the town that has helped you and me, and is ready and willing to help us again. You may be rolling in prosperity at the present time and may cherish the belief that you have a perfect right to buy what you please, when you please and where you please. However, the day may be very near at hand when you will need the friendship and cooperation of one or more of your home business men, whom you can bank on and men who will bank on you.

A good live, prosperous city or town is an impossibility without the support and cooperation of every person living within its allotted territory. A town with modern improvements of all kinds—such as good roads and streets, a sewerage system, good water, good schools, good churches, electric lights, etc., is not possible without a good, live, progressive lot of Independent Merchants. Stop and think for a moment. Do you remember one single improvement, municipal or otherwise, made in your town that was not wholly or partially promoted and engineered by one or more of your progressive business men?

If you buy your groceries from the Chain Stores, if you refuse to cooperate with your home people, you cease to follow the principles, "live and let live."

If your town is dirty, unsanitary, unprogressive, with real estate values depreciating, with idle factories and empty storebuildings, don't blame the town or the business men in it, but blame yourself. It is your fault and the fault of the other fellow who buys his groceries from the Chain Stores.

The big Chain Stores care nothing about your town or community. They do not care whether the roads and streets where you live are improved or whether they have a foot of mud or muck on them ten months in the year; they do not care whether your schools are warm and comfortable for your little boys and girls; they do not care whether you have good, pure drinking water to give them; they do not care how or where you make your money, just as long as you spend it with them.

Think this over seriously and make a resolution today that you will patronize your home business men, that you will spread the good doctrine of buying groceries from Independent Grocers so that they, too, will help to make the home town a bigger and better town—A Good Town.

State Capitol News

Dr. J. J. Durrett, prominent Federal Official and a native Alabamian, has been selected by the State Board of Health for the position of State Health Officer to succeed Dr. Douglas L. Cannon, who resigned owing to ill health. The action of the State Board is subject to approval by the Alabama Medical Association, which holds its annual meeting in Montgomery April 16-18. Dr. Durrett is Chief of Drug Control of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and is a former county health officer of Tuscaloosa County. It is expected that he will assume his new duties in April, relieving Dr. Stuart Graves, Dean of Medicine at the University of Alabama, who has been acting as State Health Officer pending the selection of a successor to Dr. Cannon.

A modern cold storage plant will be erected at the State Prison farm near Attmore, according to recent announcements by the State Board of Administration. The type of plant and equipment selected would cost ordinarily around $18,000.00, it is stated, but the actual cost to the State will be about $12,000.00. Lumber for the plant will be cut and milled on State land by convict labor, which accounts for the saving. Perhaps the most important use of the plant will be for cooling strawberries prior to shipment, which will not only preserve the berries, but make possible heavier loading of cars by cutting down ice requirements. Strawberries are being grown on an extensive scale on the prison farm near Attmore. The plant will also be used for chilling vegetables prior to shipment, and for the storage of large quantities of potatoes. The storage plant, will be ready for operation April 1st, and it is estimated will pay for itself within three years through savings effected by eliminating waste.

Alabama has become the leading state in the Union in the production and shipment of package bees and queen bees, according to report brought back from the recent annual meeting of the Honey Producers League and the association of Apiary Inspectors of America, held in Milwaukee. Thomas Atchison, apiary inspector of the Alabama Department of Agriculture, stated on return from the meeting that Alabama laws and methods of regulation were brought up before the Convention and received general commendation. No bees can be shipped from Alabama unless accompanied by a certificate signed by the Department that they are free from dangerous diseases. J. M. Cutts, of Snowdon, Montgomery County, was elected a member of the Board of Directors of the National Honey Producers Association.

Commissioner I. T. Quinn, of the Department of Game and Fisheries, calls attention to the close of the season for bobwhite quail on February 20th. This bird can not be legally hunted again until November 20th.

The department is not in position this year to purchase additional brood stock, both because exorbitant prices charged by brokers and because of inadequate revenues, and the public is urgently requested to cooperate in the production of this greatest of all game birds.

The State of Alabama and its various counties and municipalities will spend for public improvements and buildings during 1930 an estimated sum of $79,813,000, according to figures furnished by the Executive Department to R. P. Lamont, U. S. Secretary of Commerce. Of the above amount $10,000,000 will be spent by the State for roads and bridges, and $4,000,000 by the State for buildings for higher institutions of learning; $59,813,000 by the counties and municipalities for public improvements and buildings, and $6,000,000 by counties and municipalities for school buildings. These figures do not include expenditures for expansion of industries and public utilities doing business in the State.

THE PASSING OF WALTER E. MARTIN

For two weeks prior to last Saturday evening the entire citizenship of this community was constantly waiting to get the latest reports from the bedside of its citizen, Walter E. Martin, who had been seriously stricken with pneumonia. As our citizens went about their daily vocations and callings, and would meet one another, invariably the first question asked would be, "Have you heard from Prof. Martin?" And last Saturday evening when the news spread over the community that Walter was dead, many would drop their heads and with dampened eyes walk away, in sorrow and grief or shake their heads and say, "We have lost a good man" and we had.

During the illness of Mr. Martin, many fervent prayers were offered for his safe recovery. The people were anxious that he be spared. Walter Martin had labored with many of the children of the county for the last fifteen years to teach them the high ideals of good citizenship. He had lived an exemplary life before his fellow man. He may have made mistakes, as all human beings do, but what he did do he was conscientious and sincere, and thought that he was doing the right and proper thing and that which was best, under the circumstances. The people in general respected and honored him because they knew his purpose was to do right and because he was a good citizen, and they wanted him to live and enjoy the fruits of his labors. His death came so suddenly, however, that he has left tracks upon the sands of time, which will be felt by many of his students and associates. We sincerely trust they will be better enabled to build for themselves a better future. His life, though short, was a noble one. His life, though short, was a noble one. The funeral services were held at the residence of Mr. Martin, on Monday, Feb. 25, at 10 o'clock. The services were held at the residence of Mr. Martin, on Monday, Feb. 25, at 10 o'clock. The services were held at the residence of Mr. Martin, on Monday, Feb. 25, at 10 o'clock.

COUPLE CELEBRATE
GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Mullins Display Heirlooms To Many Guests

An event of unusual historic interest in Clanton's social life was the celebration of the Golden Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. William Isaac Mullins at their lovely home on Main Street, Tuesday, February 25th, from four to six and seven to nine.

The guests were received by Mrs. S. J. Ezell, and ushered to the receiving line by Mrs. J. Watts Moore.

The bride was handsomely gowned in black crepe romaine with which she wore a shoulder corsage of yellow freesias. The groom wore a boutonniere of yellow also.

The living room was artistically decorated in masses of Claudius Pernet roses, yellow jonquils and carnations attractively arranged in silver baskets and bowls. Under the chandelier hung a golden wedding bell, symbolic of the fifty years of health and happiness enjoyed by the popular couple.

Mrs. N. S. Johnson presided over the bridal book, in which were written the names of all the relatives and friends enjoying the happy occasion with them.

An interesting feature of the occasion was the room in which were displayed the heirlooms of the family, consisting of spinning wheel seventy-five years old, hand woven coverlets, counterpanes and blankets eighty-five years old, a bread tray which has been in use for six generations, the old family clock, still ticking, which has ticked away their fifty years together, an old vegetable dish the young man bought before he was married, three old family Bibles, an old album, the bed, dresser and chair with which the young "Isaac and Rebekkah" started their career.

In the dining room the color motif was repeated in the decorations and beautiful appointments. The dining table with its covering of lace over yellow satin was centered with a huge bowl of graceful snapdragons in rich shades of yellow and gold. Silver centerpieces held yellow mints and tall burners and tapers completed the pretty effect. Plushy yellow sandwiches and cakes further carried out the golden idea.

Mrs. Emma Hugh Jones and Mr. Arthur Johnson served coffee from a silver urn. Others assisting in serving were Mrs. Frank Callen, Mrs. Hance Wood, Mrs. Grace Broadhead, Mrs. Oscar Jones, Miss Bertie Mullins.

Mrs. W. I. Mullins was first met during the evening by Mrs. William Huddleston, Mrs. Calumet Mullins, Mrs. Frank Mullins, Mrs. Mabel Orr and Mr. Charles Moore.

Fifty years ago, the longings of a love match were soon a reality when Sarah Alice and William Isaac Mullins were married. Sarah Alice was the daughter of William Isaac Mullins.

lins, son of Reverend James Arthur and Carizada Mullins. They were married in Verbena, Alabama, by Judge Jefferson Faulkner of Montgomery. Isaac's Rebekkah of old could not have been more beautiful nor more loyal and faithful to her lover than has been Sarah Alice to the William Isaac of this sketch. A red-haired, red-blooded Irishman of courage, determination, and unlimited energy took his "Rebekkah" immediately to the rolling hills and green valleys of the Mullin's settlement, near Mount Zion Baptist Church, where they spent a busy, happy honeymoon dreaming over Fate's future for their long voyage together.

After one and one-half years their dreams visualized larger opportunities, and they moved to Kinechee where they engaged in ginning, milling, farming and the mercantile business, for the next ten years with considerable success. It was in these years that William Isaac found his cue or bent in life in the mercantile business. "Still achieving, still pursuing," still dreaming, still visualizing, they saw a fair little town of promise, Clanton, to which they moved in the spring of 1893. Here, too, "Still achieving, still pursuing," they have wrought life's work and done it well. "Laboring and waiting," they have lived to see their early dreams and aspirations in the full fruition of material success, a Christian home, and six noble sons and daughters who "Rise up and called them blessed."

Enjoying the celebration with them were all the children, J. R. Mullins, Mrs. Emma Mullins Moore, Mrs. Nell Mullins Gowan, William K. Mullins, Mrs. Kathleen Mullins DeRamus, and Frank A. Mullins, ten of the thirteen grand children, one great-grandson, daughters-in-law, sons-in-law, sisters, cousins, kindred, and large hosts of friends in Clanton, Chilton County, and the State at large.

Basketball Season Over

Basketball season has come and gone, and the boys of C. C. H. S. are beginning to make preparations for another sport. Baseball is now on the minds of quite a few of them. In the meantime, quite a few are going out for spring football especially some of the younger ones who are trying out their mettle on the new six-year ruling. It is now a law made by the Alabama High School Athletic Association that a pupil in the seventh grade may try out for football. That means he will have six years in which to play football or any type of organized high school athletics. We have several prospects who will furnish valuable material for baseball this spring. Among them, Benson Simms, Paul Cox, Rufus Brown, Harvey Melton, and William Robinson. There are quite a few others who will come out.

C. C. H. S. boys and girls regret the loss of Prof. Walter Martin. It is with deep regret that the boys and girls of our high school feel in the loss of Mr. Martin. Almost every boy and girl in this school has once been a pupil under his instruction. All feel that he has been a great help to them in many ways.

Basketball Tournament at Selma

The Chilton County High School has just completed a very successful season in basketball. Though they did not win all the games, they all proved to be worth seeing. The season was closed by the tournament at Selma on the 23rd and 24th of this month. The team felt rather confident that they would win some laurels, but much to their chagrin they lost two of three games they played. Orville won over them first. Friday night they defeated Uniontown who had beaten Orville that morning. This encouraged our boys, but Greensboro proved a hard foe, and the game was lost by one point to Greensboro. Although no honors were taken, it is felt that the trip was worth while. The number of students who went showed the fine spirit of the student body, and that they were back of their team in every way.

New Program in Physical Education

The Junior I, II, and III Classes of C. C. H. S. are putting on a special program in physical education. This program is to secure one thousand points before April first. To secure these points, the pupil must improve on different exercises. And at the same time each one receives a certain number of points according to the difficulty of the exercise. The aim of this program is to be able to qualify in the 1,000 points in order to participate in the Play Day Exercises to be held at Alabama College, April 14th and 15th. This club was organized under the excellent direction of Miss Edna Coffield, who is our physical education teacher. The Club met Friday February 21, and the following officers were elected:

President, Margaret Jones; Vice president, Dorothy Sessions; secretary, Evelyn Maddox; Group Captains, Mary Robinson, Margaret Jones, Imogene Simms, Clyde Jones. We are expecting this club to have a large delegation at the Play Day Exercises.

Meat Story Contest Will Close April 1st

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 27.—University scholarships are to be awarded as major prizes in the seventh national meat story contest just announced for high school girls of the United States. The contest is held annually under the direction of the National Live Stock and Meat Board and has the indorsement and support of the U. S. Department of Agriculture and educational institutions throughout the country. The contest is intended as a supplementary project to the regular home economics work of high school girls. More than 16,000 students representing high schools in every state participated last year, it was said. The 1930 contest, which has just been launched and will come to a close on April 1, will have an entry list as large, or even larger than 1929, the sponsors believe. Contestants are permitted to write on any angle of the subject of meat they desire. These essays will be judged by a committee of prominent home economics authorities.

The interest of leaders in this field of instruction is attested by the fact that many of them have served as judges in past contests, including such personages as Dr. Louise Stanley, chief of the bureau of home economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture; Miss Margaret Fedde, director of the home economics department, University of Nebraska; Prof. Mabel V. Campbell, director of home economics, University of Missouri; Dr. P. Mabel Nelson, head of the department of foods and nutrition, Iowa State College; and others.

The revelation by a government survey that the average housewife's knowledge of meat is very limited is said to have been one of the incentives for establishing this project for housewives of the future.

A PRACTICAL DEMONSTRATION

An experimental inter-communication electric transmission line running from New Orleans to Kansas City, a distance of nearly 700 miles, was successfully operated for eight hours last group of public utility companies serving Louisiana, Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Kansas and Missouri. More than 1,000 towns and cities participated together in the experiment and the entire system was operated as a single unit.

There was no interruption during the test period and all the plants in the huge chain were in constant communication with each other.

Such a hook-up means that power can be distributed in the smallest hamlet or the largest city and that distance need not be limited as to location by territorial boundaries adjacent to city power plants. A demonstration of this kind shows future possibilities for decentralization of both industrial and population congestion.

THREE IMPORTANT FACTORS ENTER INTO THE COST OF YOUR AUTOMOBILE

1. How much it costs to make the car
2. How much extra you pay the dealer
3. How much it costs for operation and up-keep

THE PURCHASE of an automobile involves a considerable amount of money and it should be carefully considered from all angles before a final decision is made.

The value of the car to you depends on the value built into it at the factory, how much extra you pay the dealer for distribution, selling, financing and accessories and what it will cost to operate and maintain the car after purchase. Each of these factors, as it relates to the Ford car, is frankly explained below.

Economy in production

THE FORD CAR is made economically because of the efficiency of Ford production methods. The money saved through this efficiency is put back into the car in improved quality of material and in greater care and accuracy in manufacturing. The constant effort is to eliminate waste and find ways to make each part better and better without increasing cost—frequently at lowered cost.

Because of Ford economies in large production and because the Ford organization operates on a low-profit margin, the price you pay for the car is much less than it would be under any other conditions. Yet it brings you many unusual features of construction and performance.

At least $75 extra value is represented alone by the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield, the Rustless Steel, the four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers, and the five steel-spoke wheels. The unusually large number of ball and roller bearings and the extensive use of fine steel forgings instead of castings or stampings are additional features that reflect the high quality built into every part of the car. Throughout, it is a value far above the price you pay.

Low dealer charges

THE SAME PRINCIPLES of efficiency and economy that characterize the manufacture of the Ford car are applied also to distribution. Obviously it would do the public little good to save in production if these savings were sacrificed later in excessive costs of selling, financing and accessories.

The Ford dealer, therefore, operates on the same low-profit margin as the Ford Motor Company, his discount or commission being the lowest of any automobile dealer. He does a good business because he makes a small profit on many sales instead of a large profit on fewer sales.

NOTE THESE LOW PRICES

Roadster . . .	$435
Phaeton . . .	$440
Coupe . . .	$500
Two-window Fordor Sedan . . .	$600
Three-window Fordor Sedan . . .	$625
Cabriolet . . .	$645
Town Sedan . . .	$670

(All prices f. o. b. Detroit)
Low charges for time payments through the Universal Credit Company

The lower cost of selling, combined with the low charges for financing and accessories, means a direct saving of at least $50 to $75 to every purchaser of a Ford, in addition to the savings made possible by economies in manufacturing. The money you pay for a Ford goes into value in the car. It is not wasted in high dealer charges.

Low up-keep costs

IT IS IMPORTANT to remember that the cost of your automobile is not the first cost only, but the total cost after months and years of service. Here again there is a decided saving when you buy a Ford.

The cost of operation and up-keep is lower because of simplicity of design, the high quality of material, and the reduction of friction and wear through unusual accuracy in manufacturing and assembling. The reliability and longer life of the car contribute to its low depreciation per year of use.

The intelligent, painstaking service rendered by Ford dealers is under close factory supervision and is a factor in the low up-keep cost of the Ford. All labor is billed at a flat rate and replacement parts are always available at low prices through Ford dealers in every section of the United States.

In two, three or five years, depending on how much you drive, the saving in operating and maintaining a new Ford will amount to even more than the saving on the first cost of the car.

FORD MOTOR COMPANY

Work To Cure The Dairy Industry

Many Varied Lines of Effort Being Undertaken to Market Surplus—
A Word of Caution

By W. F. Jensen, Manager American Association Creamery Butter Manufacturers.

There has been quite an improvement in the butter market from the low point of a few weeks ago. This is due to the greater demand for butter, stimulated by low prices and the tremendous activities which have started throughout the heaviest consuming crease the use of butter.

Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co.

Along in November, when the situation assumed a rather dark aspect we established contact with the representatives of this retail grocery store chain, operating fifteen thousand stores throughout the heaviest consuming centers in the United States. We saw the necessity for increasing consumer demand as the only remedy, and met with a hearty response from these large retail distributors.

Since the latter part of November the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. has consistently retailed butter around five cents per pound above the wholesale market quotations on bulk butter. They are still doing this, although their margin is small. It takes about two cents to cover the cost of freight, printing and cartoning the butter, leaving not to exceed three cents per pound to cover retail cost of distribution.

I am told by these people that they have noticed the effect of featuring butter, keeping the price down, etc., and that December and January will show from eight to ten per cent increase in butter sales in comparison with prior months.

Other chain store companies have been active, of course. I am not so familiar with their operations. My feelings toward the chain store development have been somewhat mixed, but I do not hesitate to give credit for the consistent and helpful attitude of the A & P Stores.

LEADERS ADVISE FARMERS TO GROW MORE FEEDS

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 27.—As far as possible every family on Alabama farms ought to produce its own hay and corn for feeding livestock. The acreage in corn and hay in Alabama should be increased for this purpose. Pastures are important for our livestock. It took half of the cotton crop last year to pay for the feed brought into the State to feed livestock, and to supply food for the family, which could have been produced on the farm.

This is a recommendation of the state-wide committee on a Safe Farming Program for 1930, and bankers, county agents, Chamber of Commerce officials, vocational teachers, and farmers are being urged to assist in carrying this recommendation to every Alabama farm.

Carl Williams, cotton representative of the Federal Farm Board, recommends "that no banker finance for production credit, nor merchant credit, nor landlord permit, nor farmer dare to plant any cotton on any land until he has assured a food crop for his family and a feed crop for his stock."

The Alabama Farm Bureau Federation is urging each of its members to follow this recommendation, says Edward A. O'Neal, president. To emphasize the importance of this program Mr. O'Neal said that Alabama is producing about one-third of the hay needed by the state. "Each year several million dollars are spent out of the state for hay that can easily be grown at home." It is estimated that the saving to Alabama by growing the hay needed will approximately pay the state's annual commercial fertilizer bill," he said when quoting J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist, Auburn.

After explaining that the Experiment Station has found that each dairy cow needs two tons of legume hay, each mule two tons of hay, each beef cow two tons of grass hay, and each sheep one-fourth ton of legume hay, President O'Neal said that it is recommended to farm bureau members that one acre be allowed for producing hay for each horse, mule, cow, or ten sheep fed on the farm. He said that experiments have shown that it is easily possible to make two tons or more of hay per acre on the average soils of Alabama when both a summer and winter crop is grown.

Mr. O'Neal discussed at length things organized farmers can do this spring in supplying the farm with hay. He said to follow oats or wheat and vetch or winter peas by either Sudan grass, soy beans, cowpeas or a mixture of cowpeas and Sudan grass will greatly increase the hay production in the State. He advises that each farmer talk this over with his county agent or farm bureau officials.

CROW LONGER STAPLE OF COTTON, EXPERTS SAY

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 27.—Alabama farmers should plant only good land to cotton in 1930 and should plant the best seed of the best varieties that will produce a staple of at least 7-8 to 1 inch staple.

This is one of the recommendations of a Statewide committee on a safe farming program and cotton acreage adjustment for 1930 which is composed of Bradford Knapp, president of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, chairman; Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, Montgomery; Allen Northington, general manager of the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association, Montgomery; S. P. Storrs, commissioner of agriculture, Montgomery; R. N. McCloud, president of the Alabama Bankers Association, Huntsville; J. S.

Wittmier, chairman of the committee on agriculture and marketing, Alabama Bankers Association, Oneonta; M. A. Vincentelli, secretary-treasurer, Alabama Bankers Association, Montgomery; J. B. Hobdy, director of Vocational Education, Montgomery; L. N. Duncan, director of extension, Auburn; M. J. Funchess, director of the experiment station, Auburn; W. C. Lassiter, editor of the Progressive Farmer, Birmingham.

Commenting upon the improvement that should take place in the quality of cotton Dr. Knapp makes the following striking statement in an article prepared for the Progressive Farmer: "It is well known to many people that the quality of cotton in the South has gone down materially, especially in length of staple. Due to the advent of the boll weevil and the necessity of growing early maturing varieties the South for 20 years has put the emphasis upon the weight of lint per acre and has thought too little about the quality of that lint, until today we are apparently face to face with a crisis when the quality of Indian and other foreign grown cotton is on the increase and the quality of American cotton on the decrease. Unthinkingly, we have made competition from abroad more possible than ever.

"Supremacy in cotton growing in the South can be maintained only by a continued intelligent, scientific breeding of varieties that produce a quality of cotton superior to foreign grown cottons. I am confident that we have enough brains in America to produce cotton of one inch or better staple which will yield enough lint cotton per acre to make a profitable return for the farmer's work and thus restore the supremacy of America's cotton, if it is to have any supremacy.

"We need a rededication of our effort to the production of high class cotton in the South. Single varieties for communities, careful handling of seed, energetic cooperation with experiment stations and cooperative marketing of the product on a quality basis are matters of immense importance to Southern farmers."

President O'Neal said that the Farm Bureau is squarely behind a program for better quality cotton and last year made a start in furnishing cotton growers of the State with seed that will grow better staple and return more money to each acre of cotton produced in Alabama when it distributed approximately 10,000 bushels of improved cotton seed. These seed included Cook's 1627 and Cook's 307-6.

He said that the Farm Bureau continues to promote this work and is this year distributing improved seed. These seeds are DPL4-8, Cook's 307-6 and Cook's 1627. All of these varieties have been carefully selected and all the seed last year produced cotton of 7-8 inch and better length staple.

SAFE FARM PROGRAM FOR 1930 IS RECOMMENDED

At the request of the Federal Farm Board and the United States Department of Agriculture a state-wide committee on a safe farming program and cotton acreage adjustment for 1930 has been appointed and a safe farming program for Alabama during 1930 in view of the present cotton situation has been written and approved.

The committee is composed of Dr. Bradford Knapp, President of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, Chairman; Edward A. O'Neal, President of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, Montgomery; Allen Northrup, General Manager of the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association; S. P. Storrs, Commissioner of Agriculture, Montgomery; R. N. McClellan, President of the Alabama Bankers Association, Hartselle; J. S. Wittmer, Chairman of the Committee on Agriculture and Marketing, Alabama Bankers Association, Oneonta; M. A. Vincentelli, Secretary-Treasurer, Alabama Bankers Association, Montgomery; J. B. Hobdy, Director of Vocational Education, Montgomery; L. N. Duncan, Director of Extension, Auburn; W. C. Lassiter, Editor of the Progressive Farmer, Birmingham.

The following safe farming program has been approved and will be sent to farmers, bankers, county agents, vocational teachers, and others interested in agricultural development, who will be urged to assist in carrying this program out:

Summary of a Safe Farming Program for Alabama, 1930, in View of The Cotton Situation

1. Every possible acre ought to be planted to legumes for soil improvement.

2. Every feature of the Auburn program for improving soil fertility and the wise use of fertilizers ought to be carried out in 1930.

3. As far as possible every family on the farm ought to produce its own hay and corn for feeding livestock. The acreage in corn and hay in Alabama should be increased for this purpose. Pastures are important for our livestock. It took half of the cotton crop last year to pay for the feed brought into the State to feed livestock, and to supply feed for the farmer, which could have been produced on the farm.

4. Every family ought to produce as far as possible on the farm its own eggs, milk, and a good home garden. This will save the farmer the cost of buying these things and the loss of cash income in the payment of unnecessary expenses.

5. Every family ought to have a marketing plan for the sale of its products. The sale of cash income in the payment of unnecessary expenses.

6. When the foregoing needs have been taken care of, cotton must continue to be the chief source of income for the cotton farmer in every section, but it is pointed out that in 1930 there should be a limitation of acreage in order that production may be adjusted to the demands of the market. Such an adjustment in Alabama can readily be taken care of by shifting acreage to corn and hay and other crops mentioned above.

7. Only good cotton land should be planted to cotton in 1930 and the seed to be put in the ground for this year's crop ought to be the best seed of the best varieties, which will produce a staple of at least 7/8 inch and 1 inch.

8. The wage plan for 1930 is to be at least 15 per cent of the average planted to cotton in 1929 to the other crops above suggested, particularly the hay and corn and pastures, not forgetting the legumes.

The above program for Alabama is in conformity with the Federal Farm Board's proposal to adjust acreage in cotton down to forty million acres, and the quota above suggested is in full conformity with the policies of the Federal Farm Board and the Cotton Cooperatives. The needs of the banker and the credit merchants of Alabama is an adjustment of cotton acreage on the above program in order that we may have profitable prices in the fall of 1930. Let us take this step in 1930 and not be forced to take it in 1931.

Adjustment now will bring relief in 1930 and put millions of dollars in the pockets of cotton farmers; adjustment later will mean debts in 1930 instead of profits; debts, from which we will not be relieved in some years to come.

The income from the 1924 crop was estimated at one billion, seven hundred million dollars. The 1925 crop was a larger crop, but brought only a billion and seven hundred forty million dollars. The 1926 crop was practically eighteen million bales and sold for approximately five hundred million dollars less than the 1925 crop.

The total gross loss to farmers in cultivating nearly six million acres in 1926 is estimated at seven hundred fifty million dollars. We face exactly that same situation this year. We have had an acreage too large for safety. Let us not cultivate a great acreage at a net loss.

Wisdom in our program will bring us out on the right side of the ledger in 1930.

Use Of Electric Energy In Homes Increases In '29

Birmingham, Ala., Feb. 24.—Electric labor-saving and comfort-giving appliances in Alabama homes were used more in 1929, under the stimulus of lower domestic rates, than in any previous year, with few if any increases in service bills over former schedules, Alabama Power Company announced here today.

The consumption of electricity during the year climbed 75 kilowatt hours per residential customer following the establishment of a reduced schedule of domestic rates by Alabama Public Service Commission on January 1, 1929.

In the twelve-month period the new rates have been in effect, the value of electric appliances purchased by the homemakers of Alabama broke all records. Major appliances, constituting the bulk of the purchases, included upwards of 3,000 electric stoves, and thousands of electric refrigerators and electric water heaters of the new low-wattage type. It is estimated that there are 12,000 homes in Alabama cooking electrically.

The still wider application of electricity to household tasks in Alabama is anticipated, as the new rates are designed that they decrease with the increased use of energy.

Annual Outlook Report Excerpts

State And Federal Statistician Gives Notes From U. S. Agriculture Department Report

The annual outlook report of the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., completed in cooperation with agricultural colleges and extension services and Federal Farm Board, has been carefully examined by F. W. Gist, State and Federal Statistician, with reference to its application to Alabama farm conditions.

The following excerpts, therefrom, are offered as being peculiarly of interest to Alabama farmers:

The domestic market may improve later in the year, but it is unlikely that the demand for farm products in the summer and fall of 1930 will be as good as during last summer and fall, according to the report. The demand for some farm products already has been affected by the decline in industrial activity since last June. Butter, cotton, and wool have been noticeably affected, and apples, potatoes and grains have failed thus far to make the usual seasonal price advances.

The outlook for farm mortgage financing and for marketing credit is more favorable than a year ago. On the other hand, the outlook for production credit appears less satisfactory in most of the South.

The acreage and production of cotton in the last five years, excepting 1927, have been at comparatively high levels. It seems certain that any increase at present would be unwise.

Hog prices in 1930 are expected to average at least as high as in 1929, and possibly higher. A reduction in the slaughter supplies is indicated, but this probably will be partially offset by a decrease in foreign and domestic demand for hog products.

Beef cattle raisers who contemplate expanding production are faced with a general tendency to increase the number of cattle and with a downward trend of prices over the next decade.

The underlying dairy situation is not as bad as would appear from present butter prices, but unless dairy herds are closely culled and more heifers sent to slaughter, there will be a further er increase in the size of dairy herds in 1931 and 1932.

The present outlook for poultry and eggs does not justify any increase in production of chickens over 1928, either for eggs or meat, unless producers are willing to face the prospect of reductions in price levels.

The number of peach trees of bearing age is still so great as to make possible heavy production and unfavorable marketing situations during the next few seasons.

The pecan outlook is for a material increase in production of improved varieties during the next decade with some reduction in prices.

Cantaloupe prices probably will be lower this year in the early producing sections, and a moderate decrease in acreage in the intermediate and late sections is recommended in order to raise prices to the level of a few years ago. Watermelon growers should plant a somewhat smaller acreage.

Prospects for strawberry growers now seem to be better than in any year since 1926; smaller acreages are in prospect, and there is likelihood of reduced yields in some districts.

The present prospect is for favorable cabbage markets until August in view of relatively light holdings of old cabbage and reduced acreage in southern areas. Further increase in late cabbage acreage does not seem warranted. A reduction in peanut acreage of ten to fifteen per cent is recommended.

Alabama Farmers Are Talking Organization

Montgomery, Ala. Feb. 27.—"As never before Alabama farmers are manifesting interest in organization and co-operation, announces Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, who said that approximately 500 farmers have made personal visits to and thousands of letters have been received by Farm Bureau Cotton Association within the past two weeks asking for information as to how to pool cotton and draw the 15.64 cents per pound middling basis which the association is advancing.

Allen Northington, general manager of the cotton association, announced yesterday afternoon that farmers are pooling from 1000 to 5000 bales of cotton each day, depending largely upon the weather conditions. Over 110,000 bales of cotton have been received. This is a record delivery for the association as the biggest delivery in one year up to this year was a little over 106,000 bales.

FLASHES FROM THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

A Congressman from Maine objects to the appearance of "Idaho potatoes" on the House restaurant menu in red ink. "Propaganda" he terms it, jealously guarding the reputation of potatoes raised in his own state. Now, what are we going to do about "Chicken a la Maryland," "Virginia ham" and "Boston beans"?

Paulina, the five-year old daughter of Nicholas Longworth, Speaker of the House of Representatives, is probably better known than any child in the United States. Recently she celebrated her fifth birthday by a trip to Congress and, attired in blue satin dress and orchid stockings, seated herself in the gallery to watch Daddy wield his gavel. Representative John Tilson of Connecticut formally introduced her to the House and Representatives stood and applauded. Paulina, puzzled at the reception, also started to clap, but her nurse restrained her.

"Prepared salad dressings have broken up more homes than all the chorus girls in the world."

So thundered New York's fiery Representative Fiorelli La Guardia to a listening House. No, it wasn't a debate on divorce laws. A bill to tax colored cooking compounds was before Congress, and Mr. LaGuardia insisted that such compounds were utterly harmless as compared with other culinary iniquities, prepared salad dressing.

MITES ARRANGED FOR C. L. MERONEY

Alabama College Board Secretary Was Buried Monday

Montevallo, Ala., Feb. 23.—C. L. Meroney, president of the Merchants & Planters Bank here, died at 7:25 a.m. Sunday.

Funeral services were held at the Montevallo Baptist Church at 2:30 p.m. Monday, with burial in a local cemetery.

Mr. Meroney was also secretary of the board of trustees of Alabama College, secretary-treasurer of the Alabama Cotton Mill, as well as a merchant and enthusiastic church worker.

Active pallbearers were Mr. Elliott, Mr. Lucas, Mr. Williams, Mr. McConaughty, Edward Lyman, and George Jackson.

Honorary pallbearers were the deacons of the First Baptist Church and the Merchants & Planters Bank.

Surviving are the widow; four daughters, Mrs. W. E. Wofford, Carter, Mrs. G. Mrs. W. B. Peebles, Alice, Ala. Misses Mildred and Elouise Meroney, of Montevallo. Other survivors are four grandchildren, Bill Wofford and Mary Wofford, Betty and Will Peebles; one sister, Mrs. Drucilla M. McMath; two nephews, John Adams, of Anniston, and Phil Shriner, of Cincinnati; four nieces Miss Lula Meroney and Miss J. E. Knox, of Birmingham; Mrs. R. B. Royster for cotton

... "Increases my yield 50 to 100 pounds of lint and makes me $10 to $20 an acre more profit than any other fertilizer. Royster starts my crop off well; matures it two weeks earlier—and I get a better staple," so says Mr. W. Tilson, of Mize, Miss.

The man who uses Royster Fertilizer knows that $20 an acre extra profit is more important than "saving" 50 cents an acre with a cheap fertilizer.

Royster Fertilizer is scientifically compounded—plant food is released as the growing plant can absorb it—so assuring continuous growth. Ground extra fine—in full-weight bags—thoroughly aged—field tested—has been growing profit crops for 45 years. You can afford to pay a little more for Royster because Royster gives you the best return.

acter and between the ages of 17 and 24 may apply for the Basic Course at these camps. If he can pass the required physical examination and is of good moral character, as certified to by a reputable citizen, who knows him, he may attend these camps.

Attendance at these camps means no obligation for future military service. Those who attend are no more likely to be called to the colors in time of war than any other man. However, if they volunteer or are selected, they are more likely to secure rapid advancement and be able to serve their country more effectively. Military training is not the primary object. The training at these camps stressed citizenship, self reliance, initiative, good fellowship and how to work and play hard and effectively. The moral and religious influences are kept at a high standard.

All necessary expense covering transportation, camp facilities, food, clothing, laundry, medical examinations and attendance and services of instructors, is furnished free by the government. It could not be duplicated by private enterprise for less than several hundred dollars for each member and it is an offer, as a purely business proposition, unequalled by any government at any time.

Young men from the southern portion of Alabama go to Fort Barrancas, Pensacola, Florida and from the central and northern to Fort McClellan, Aniston, Alabama, except from the three northeastern counties, from which they go to Fort Oglethorpe, Chattanooga, Tennessee.

Young men desiring additional information and application blanks should get in touch with C. M. T. C. Headquarters, 256 Federal Building, Birmingham, or with their County Chairman.

Big Bargains In Good Used Cars

Polk Brothers Motor Co. Will Hold Spring Selling Sale Beginning Saturday, March First

There are many real buying opportunities in the used car market just now, according to George Polk, Sales Manager for Polk Brothers Motor Co., local Chevrolet dealers. In this connection he points out the fact that cars now being offered for sale were taken in trade on new cars during the winter months and ample time has been had for proper reconditioning.

"The Spring seasonal selling will soon be at its height," said Mr. Polk. It is the wise buyer who will take advantage of the opportunity to buy now while stocks are in greatest variety and selection and prices at the lowest.

The used cars we are offering now in this Spring selling event we are holding, beginning next Saturday, March 1st, will give many thousands of miles of excellent service and offer greater actual economy than any other time of the year.

It is our intentions to sell every used car in stock during this selling campaign, said Mr. Polk, and all cars have been greatly reduced in price, some as high as $100.00.

It is also well to keep in mind the reputation of the dealer from whom a used car is selected, continued Mr. Polk. Remember that the dealer who has built a reputation for dependability--honest values--fair dealing--performance, and who has earned the good will of his clientele by years of fair dealing is the merchant from whom to buy a used car and we believe the Polk Brothers Motor Co. has earned such a reputation.

Mr. Polk further states that all cars will have the price marked on windshield or price tag and that your present car will be accepted at a reasonable price as part payment on car you select, and that prices will be the same regardless of whether it is a straight sale or trade taken in.

Their terms of sale, according to Mr. Polk, will be 40 per cent down and balance in small monthly payments, or 50 per cent down and balance October First--plus small GMAC charge.

Their advertisement, giving description and prices of a few of the cars offered, will be found elsewhere in this paper.

LETTER FROM L. H. BEAN OF JEMISON, ALABAMA

Chilton County News.
Clanton, Alabama,
Gentlemen,

Please allow me space in your paper to say just a few words in regard to the taxes of Chilton County. I have just noticed another Special Tax election called by the County Board to be held in April, 1930. I have just been wondering where this tax business will stop at. Voters, it seems to me we are paying too much taxes already for what we are getting out of it. We do not need any more money to run our schools, we just need more brains, and we are in bad shape to get that at present. This tax question is getting to be burdensome on the taxpayers. I believe they will get their eyes opened this fall when they will have 10c cotton and 40c meat.

Mr. Voter, just meet your tax collector in front of the courthouse door defeated by a final score of 13 to 10, a victory for the Clanton lads.

The Marion Institute was also played and defeated last Monday night, on game and that played last Tuesday night, were both two of the closest and hardest fought games ever played by the Clanton Athletic Club team, it is believed by many.

The Marion Institute boys were entertained in Clanton during their two days stay here by various residents, and a dance was given for them last Monday night, following the game. Music was furnished by a puplar orchestra from Montgomery.

Last night the Clanton Athletic Club played the team of the United States Rubber Company, at the formal opening of the new auditorium at Calera, Alabama. But the final score could not be learned at the time we went to press. This game at Calera marked the close of the basketball season for the Clanton Athletic Club. And if the victory fell to them it marked their twenty-third victory out of twenty-five games played this season.

The only team who has at the time of this writing, defeated the Clanton team is the Southern Dairies team of Birmingham, who brought the two defeats to the local lads.

next June, and see the homes and farms sell under the tax hammer at our present tax rate. I think it is high time for the people to put their foot on any more tax increase in Chilton County. We have to judge the future by the past, and that being the case you can plainly see the more money you give to your school bunch the worse your schools are.

Bro. Lawrence had a very interesting piece in the papers last week concerning the old people and the Opportunity schools and how fast these old people could learn. That is all true. These older people go to school to get something out of it and they get down to hard work to learn. They are not running all over the county playing ball and keeping their minds torn up.

Bro. Lawrence in his letters to the County papers last week says they are going to put on a campaign to educate all the old people by April the First. If he is successful with this then we can see our way clear along this line, so we will just shut down all of our schools and have nothing but the Opportunity schools, and wait until our children get old to educate them. It will be much cheaper an d better on the parents, as our young people know too much now of things none of us should know.

No, Mr. Voter, sit down and figure up your taxes and other expenses and see just what you can stand, and if you are able to stand more taxes and keep old lizzy running, go to it.

school in the Thorsby community and after completing his grammar school work he entered the Chilton County High School at Clanton, and graduated therefrom with honors. He then took up his chosen profession, that of teaching school, and soon attained a high standing as a school teacher. He taught at Cedar Grove, Pleasant Grove, Collins Chapel, Clanton and at the time of his death, he was principal of the Baker Junior High School, which is located some four miles west of Clanton, in one of the county's most prominent communities. He had been a resident of Clanton for the past eight years and was a member of the Clanton Baptist Church. He took an active interest in religious, fraternal and civic movements, being at the time of his death teacher of the Young Mens Sunday School class and Worshipful Master of the Thorsby Masonic Lodge.

He was married to Miss Mary Pate, some several years ago, and to this happy marriage was born Gladys, who is now twelve years old, and he is survived by his widow and Gladys, his father, mother and several brothers and sisters, and a host of friends, throughout the county and state.

Prof. Martin, as a school teacher, had very few, if any, superiors, with like training and opportunities. He was true to his trust and not only did he teach the high ideals of life in the school room, but his own conduct, behavior and demeanor as a citizen, father and man, set before his pupils and fellow man an exemplary life. And he possessed a sterling character and was held in high esteem by the citizenship of Clanton and Chilton County.

In the death of Prof. Martin, the educational profession of the State and county has sustained an irreparable loss and the county and town have lost a good citizen and the News, with the large host of friends of Clanton and Chilton County, extend to the bereaved family its sincere sympathy, for the loss they have sustained.

RALLY DAY AT VERMONT TOMORROW

Program To Consume Large Part Of Day; Dinner On The Ground

A big day is anticipated at the Vermont School (Sardis) on Friday, March 7th, which is tomorrow. The Vermont School with the neighboring schools will stage what is called an Educational Rally Day. The program for the day is scheduled to begin at ten o'clock in the morning, adjourning early in the afternoon.

The opening exercises will be conducted by Rev. J. D. Deason at ten o'clock, followed by the appointment of committees. Following this an introductory speech will be made by Supt. B. Lawrence.

Other speakers are also on the program. These include residents of the community. At eleven o'clock a. m. Mr. P. W. Hodges of Montgomery will deliver a very interesting address to the gathering. Following this address, dinner will be served picnic style. From one to two o'clock committee work will take place, and at two-thirty that afternoon, basketball games are scheduled.

Judging from the statements from M. W. Mims, principal of the Vermont school, this day will be one long to be remembered by those who are fortunate enough to attend. All patrons and friends of the school are urged to lay aside all work for Friday and be at this meeting, as business of importance will be transacted on that day.

COUNTY EDUCATION BOARD PASSES RESOLUTION FRIDAY

At the meeting of the Chilton County Board of Education, held last Friday, February 28th, at the courthouse, the following resolution was read and passed on by the members present:

"Mr. Webb moved that the Chilton County Board of Education ask the schools of the county not to spend more than one-half day per week in inter-scholastic games and that these games be had on Friday afternoon of each week and that any teacher who violates this regulation will be penalized the amount of his salary for the day on which such games might be played and that the Superintendent be authorized to give notice to the principals immediately of such action."

Mr. J. N. Dennis seconded the motion. Motion was carried by unanimous vote.

REEDIE TRAYWICK IS GIVEN PRELIMINARY HEARING HERE

Reedie Traywick, who was connected with the shooting of Burton Tyus several weeks ago, was given a preliminary hearing last Friday morning before Justice of the Peace H. M. Simpson, according to information. Traywick was bound over to the action of the Grand Jury, and released under bond of $750, the information stated.

DAUGHTER OF C. C. WILLIAMS ACCIDENTALLY CUT BY AXE

The three year old daughter of Columbus Williams, of the Isabella Community was badly cut on her neck last Saturday when she stepped in the way of an axe, which is said to have been in the hands of a son of Robert Williams.

The story given the News stated that the Williams boy was cutting at a tree, and just when he swung the double-bladed axe backward, the little girl stepped too near, and a gash was cut in her neck. She was rushed to the Central Alabama Hospital for aid, and was discharged on the following Sunday.

Dr. H. M. Nix, dentist, of Maplesville, was among the out-of-town visitors to Clanton last Tuesday.

Fiddlers Convention At Jemison, March 8

There will be a Fiddlers Convention at Jemison, Alabama on next Saturday night, according to an announcement given the News this week.

The convention will be held in the auditorium of the Jemison high school and will begin at seven-thirty o'clock.

All fiddlers are invited to be present and participate in this affair. Prizes are to be awarded and a large crowd is expected to attend. Admission will be fifteen and twenty-five cents.

CHILTON COUNTY BOYS WILL ENROLL IN CLUB WORK SOON

County Agent Stapp is mailing club boy's enrollment blanks to the principals of the schools in Chilton County, with the request that the boys who desire to do club work this year be given an opportunity to enroll.

The club boys pledge is as follows: "As a true member, I pledge my head to clearer thinking, my heart to greater loyalty, my hands to larger service, and my health to better living, for my club, my community, and my country."

The club boy's motto is: "To make the best better."

Three hundred and thirty Chilton County boys did club work last year.

The Annual Club Boy's Rally will be held at the courthouse in Clanton on March 28th.

JAMES C. JONES LAID TO REST LAST MONDAY

Death Comes As Shock To Many Friends Over The County

Mr. James C. Jones, one of the leading merchants of Clanton, died at his home on Seventh Street, last Saturday afternoon at 5:45 after a few hours illness, caused from a stroke of apoplexy last Thursday, while he was engaged at his store on First Avenue. The deceased was born in this county December 22nd, 1873, the son of W. W. Jones and Eliza (Mullins) Jones, who were pioneers in the settlement of this part of the state.

He was married to Miss Sophia Lee Mullins, on October 11, 1900, and established his home here in Clanton, where he has since been engaged in business. During which time he was always progressive and actively interested in all civic and business movements, which were designed to make the town and community bigger and better. He was a real booster for his (continued to back page)

Mother of W. W. And D. A. Wingard Dies

News was received yesterday of the death of Mrs. D. S. Wingard, who succumbed following injuries received in a fall some time ago, in Birmingham.

The deceased is the mother of two of Clanton's well known citizens, W. W. and D. A. Wingard.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at three o'clock in Columbiana, Alabama. Many persons from here were in attendance.

We have been requested to announce this week, that the Sunbeams will meet at the Baptist church here on next Saturday afternoon at three o'clock. All members are especially urged to attend this meeting.

BAKES OVER TWELVE THOUSAND BISCUIT IN FEBRUARY

A record that is believed has not been equaled in Chilton County is held by Mrs. Mattie Williams at the Dixie Cafe. During the past month of February, which is the shortest month in the year, Mrs. Williams has cooked for use at the cafe twelve thousand five hundred and sixty biscuit, according to a record which was being kept at the cafe for the News.

Mrs. Williams is well known for the delicious pies and cakes she bakes, as well as the dinners prepared under her supervision.

NEGRO MINSTREL SCHEDULED AT MT. PISGAH, MARCH 13TH

We received an announcement this week to the effect that there will be a negro minstrel at the Mount Pisgah school, four miles north of Clanton, on Thursday night, March 13, beginning at seven-thirty-five o'clock. Admission will be fifteen and twenty-five cents.

There will be a wedding and divorce case carried out in this side-splitting minstrel. Proceeds go to the school.

ADULT NEGRO SCHOOL IS BEING TAUGHT HERE

The Colored Adult School which is being taught at the Clanton Colored City School, opened on Monday, February 24th, with a good attendance.

It is believed that this school will be a great aid to the negroes of Clanton, who were not fortunate enough to learn to read and write in their childhood. E. W. Burt is acting as instructor at the school.

POULTRY CAR IS COMING NEXT WEEK

Will Be On L & N Tracks At Clanton, Jemison And Verbena

County Agent Stapp announced this week that there will be another cooperative poultry car over the Louisville & Nashville Railroad next week.

The car is scheduled to be at Clanton on next Thursday, March 13, at Jemison on Friday the 14th, and at Verbena on next Wednesday, March 12th, in the afternoon only. It will be in Clanton and Jemison all day.

The car which was brought here in several weeks ago, bought poultry at the car door and paid something over three thousand dollars for same.

Cash will be paid for the poultry at the car door, and it is requested that the fowls to be sold, are not fed corn on the day they are to be brought to the car. The following prices will be paid for the poultry. Hens, 21½¢ per pound; Stags, 18¢ per pound; Roosters 11¢ per pound; turkeys 23¢ per pound.

Home Coming Day At Walnut Creek Church

As announced a few weeks ago, the Home-Coming Meeting, which has been looked forward to, will be held at Walnut Creek church on next Sunday, March 9th.

The services are to begin about nine-thirty in the morning, and the forenoon will be given over to visiting ministers, until eleven o'clock, at which time Rev. F. A. Gibson will be expected to deliver a sermon.

The program for the afternoon will be given over to an old time prayer and praise service, which will be conducted in the old time manner.

Everybody is especially invited to come and spend the day, and help it to be a day which will be long remembered.

CHARLES A. WILLIAMS KILLED LAST MONDAY, MARCH 3RD

Funeral services for Charles A. Williams, age 29, were held at Highland Church, yesterday morning at eleven o'clock.

Williams, who was employed by a power company in Waterbury, S. C., was killed when a telephone pole fell on him, according to reports. He is the son of Robert Williams, of near Clanton.

C. L. SMITH PURCHASES GARAGE BUSINESS IN MAPLESVILLE

Mr. C. L. Smith, of Maplesville, Ala., was in Clanton last Monday, and while in town called at the News office.

Mr. Smith has just recently purchased the garage business of W. A. Gore, in Maplesville, and states that he will continue to operate the business in the same stand under the same name, that of the Maplesville Garage and Service Station. He extends to his friends in Clanton, Maplesville and elsewhere an invitation to call and see him.

W. M. U. Observes Week Of Prayer This Week

All circles of the Woman's Missionary Union of the Clanton Baptist Church have been observing the Week of Prayer. During this week, meetings have been held at the church here, and the meetings will come to a close with the one this afternoon, at three o'clock.

The observance of the Week of Prayer for Home Missions has been observed all over the Southern Baptist Convention this week. The meetings have been well attended in Clanton.

TEACHERS HOME AT MARBURY DESTROYED BY FIRE MONDAY

The home for teachers at the Marbury School was destroyed by fire which broke out at 7:45 a. m. Monday. Members of the student body acted as salvage workers and saved most of the furnishings and effects on the lower floor.

The building was valued at $10,000 and loss in effects and personal belongings is expected to swell the total loss several thousand dollars more. It is probable that the teachers will be housed temporarily in a building near by which is now vacant.

DISTRICT S. S. TO CONVENE AT VERBENA

All Sunday Schools In District Urged To Send Representatives

The district south of Clanton will hold its next meeting at Verbena, on March 9, beginning at 2:00 P. M. All Sunday Schools in this district are urged to be represented, and ready to make a report on the number of points reached on the Standard of Excellence.

The February meeting which was held at Mountain Creek was well attended. Although, all the schools in this district were not represented.

Following is the program for the March meeting:

3:30 P. M. Announcements and adjourn.

Vermont J. H. S. Boys Win Co. Championship

A fast and interesting game of basketball was played at Maddox Warehouse Saturday night in the final game of the season between the strong teams of Vermont and Enterprise. Both teams showed high marks of sportsmanship and played a clean but hard game.

Enterprise was first to score but before the game had progressed far the Vermont boys had formed such a strong defense that the Enterprise team never found a chance to score another field goal after the first quarter.

Both teams played hard but the Vermont lads could not be defeated with Houston as center, who was able to get the tip-off in most jumps. Ratliff and Short, as guards for Vermont, played fast and with their splendid pass work to Ratliff and Sansom, forwards for the Vermont team, they were able to take the lead.

B. LAWRENCE RETURNS FROM SUPERINTENDENT'S CONFERENCE

Supt. B. Lawrence returned on last Thursday night from Atlantic City, N. J., where he has been for the past several days attending a Superintendent's Conference of the National Educational Association.

Mr. Lawrence states that the meeting proved extremely interesting and beneficial, in the educational lines, as many important questions were discussed, which included several concerning religious questions which arise in schools.

He states also, that emphasis was placed on the equalization of school apportionments. He returned by way of Philadelphia, stopping for a visit to the Independence Hall, and also stopped in Washington for a short visit.

Mount Pisgah School Is Destroyed By Fire

Fire, which is said to have been caused by a falling spark, destroyed the Mount Pisgah schoolhouse last Monday afternoon. The school is located about four miles south of Clanton, and was a two-room wooden structure.

Supt. Lawrence met with patrons of the school immediately after the fire, and it was decided to continue school, using the church. A small amount of insurance was carried on the building. With the exception of one stove, all the contents of the building were saved. Misses Nora Wood and Evelyn Littlejohn are teachers at the school.

IVEY CHILDERS AND WILL WATSON ARE IN AFFRAY SATURDAY

According to reports reaching the News this week, Ivey Childers and Will Watson had an appointment with each other last Saturday in Clanton, to settle a question, which, according to the story, Watson wished to settle right away.

Watson is said to have called Childers several names the latter didn't like, so Childers used a knife on Watson to settle the argument, the report stated. No serious damage was reported done, as Childers administered aid to his victim after he had cut him, it was stated.

SERVICES AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY MORN

Dr. Frazer of Montgomery will be in Clanton next Sunday to deliver a sermon at the Presbyterian church. Services will begin at eleven o'clock, and everyone is invited.

FRANK WELLS OF JEMISON IS BADLY BURNED LAST TUES.

Frank Wells, of Jemison, Alabama received painful burns on his back and hands last Tuesday morning, when his clothing caught fire, while he was dressing in front of an open fire place, reports stated.

DEMOCRATS HAVE MANY CANDIDATES

County Candidates Have Until Midnight of April 1 To Qualify

Democrats will have a large number of National, State and District candidates from which to select the party nominees for the general election to be held next November. The time for county candidates to qualify will not expire until midnight of April 1st, 1930, and it is expected that there will be a full ticket, from the county. The candidates for National, State and District offices, which the voters of this county will have to vote upon, in the Democratic Primary to be held on August 12th, 1930, are as follows:

For United States Senator
John H. Bankhead, attorney of Birmingham, Alabama and Frederick I. Thompson, publisher of Mobile, Ala., to succeed Senator J. Thomas Helms, who was barred from running in the primary, by the state committee, because he opposed Alfred E. Smith, the (Continued on Last Page.)

Thieves Get $1100 Loot From Grocer

Thieves who gained entrance to the J. Lee Smith Wholesale Grocery Co., Warehouse by sawing a bar from a window and removing others, made away with cases of cigarettes, said to be valued at $1152.00, Tuesday night.

A quick check-up of the stock showed only the cigarettes missing. The robbery was not discovered until Wednesday morning when the warehouse was opened. Mr. Smith stated that there is only a small possibility of securing a clue at present, but the robbery will be fully investigated, it was stated.

PASSION PLAY TO BE GIVEN AT B'HAM AND MONTGOMERY, ALA.

An announcement of extraordinary interest to Alabamians is that the world famous Freiburg Passion Play, direct from Freiburg, Germany, where it has been given at regular intervals since the year 1254, is to appear in Montgomery and Birmingham. The Passion Play will be in Montgomery on March 7th, 8th and 9th, and in Birmingham on March 10th, 11th, 12th and 13th.

The Freiburg Players are similar to the Oberammergau Players, with the exception that they devote their entire lives to the promotion of the Passion Play and have vowed to carry their impressive drama to the world, whereas the Oberammergau Players only give their play once every ten years and never outside the village of Oberammergau. The Freiburg Passion play antedates the Oberammergau Play by 400 years.

The Freiburg Players inherit their roles and are trained for their parts (continued to last page)

MRS. LAURA EDWARDS DIED LAST TUESDAY MORNING

Funeral services for Mrs. Laura Edwards, age 39, were held last Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock at Highland cemetery, seven miles north of here. Mrs. Edwards died Tuesday morning, March 4, at Hill's Infirmary following an operation. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. S. Hand, with Martin of Clanton in charge.

Surviving is her husband, Lee Edwards, three sons by a former marriage, Mac Hayes, Sam Hayes, of Haynes, and Oscar Hayes; Willie Charles Edwards and Gladys Edwards, and her mother.

INTERESTING FARM MEETING HELD MONDAY

Farmers, Business Men Meet To Discuss Safe 1930 Farm Program

On Monday of this week a splendid meeting of some sixty men of Chilton County representing the banks, supply merchants, Farm Bureau, fertilizer dealers, cotton buyers and farmers in general met at the call of H. G. Boyd, president of Peoples Savings Bank, for the purpose of discussing a safe farming program for this year.

Mr. L. N. Duncan, Director of Extension work in Alabama, was the principal speaker. Mr. Duncan discussed the Agricultural Marketing Act and the workings of the Federal Farm Board. He also stressed the importance of farmers of Chilton County adhering strictly to a safe farming program this year.

Mr. S. P. Storrs, Commissioner of Agriculture, was present and made a splendid short talk relative to the co-operative spirit of his department in Montgomery and the desire of the Department of Agriculture to help in every way to improve agricultural conditions in Alabama. Mr. Storrs stated that recent study of his department shows that the farmers of Alabama have a market in the industrial centers of Alabama for fifty million dollars worth of feed and food stuff that they did not produce last year. In other words the industrial centers are having to buy more than fifty million dollars worth of feed from farmers in other states.

After considerable discussion County Agent Stapp recommended that all forces in the County adopt at least the following projects for their safe farming program for this year:

1. Build up and maintain the fertility of farm soils through the use of legumes, livestock, rotation of crops, and terracing where needed.
2. As far as possible, make the farm produce the family food supply by making a home garden, and having "the cow, the sow, and the hen" produce milk, meat and eggs sufficient for home needs every day in the year.
3. Plan for and plant such crops as will insure feed for the livestock.
4. Work out your farming system so as to utilize your time to the very best advantage every week in the year.
5. Study and put into practice the recommendations of your Experiment Station relative to variety of seeds, proper use of fertilizer, etc.

DR. GUY H. UPCHURCH DIED HERE LAST FRIDAY, MARCH 7

Dr. Guy H. Upchurch, age 49, widely known druggist of Atlanta, died at the home of his brother, Dr. E. E. Upchurch, here last Friday, following a lingering illness.

THREE CHILTON BOYS HAVE ENROLLED FOR C. M. T. C.

Among the hundreds of young men who have already been fully enrolled for training at the Citizens Military Training Camps, are three from Chilton County. These young men are Henry N. Parrish of Clanton Route Five, Dolphus L. Howard of Verbena, and Levi C. Baker, also of Verbena.

These young men can consider themselves very fortunate to be able to attend these camps, at which all expenses are paid by the government, and will run from June 13 to July 12, this year. They will go to Camp McClellan, Alabama.

Chilton County may send eight young men to this camp this year, and that means only five more have a chance of getting in. Applications for this training at the expense of the government should be sent in at once. For further information as to how to send in applications, inquire at the News office.

Fiddlers Planning Big Time At Verbena, Ala.

Reports are coming in from fiddlers who will be present at the Ninth Annual Fiddlers Convention to be held in Verbena High School auditorium Friday night, March 7, beginning at eight p. m. Widespread interest is being shown throughout this section by many who have never been to a fiddlers convention. As most of the folks have at times past attended one or more of these affairs, and will be in attendance (continued to last page)

In Memory of My Teacher

Clanton, Ala., March 3, 1930.
Chilton County News,
Dear Editor:
Will you please publish the following in your good paper:
On February 22, 1930, death came into the home of W. E. Martin and carried him up to a better world than this to live. It seems mighty hard to give him up, but we know all things work together for good for those who love the Lord. I know Mr. Martin will be greatly missed in his home, but no one can tell how much he is missed in the school room unless you were a pupil. I miss him so much. He was one of the best teachers I've ever gone to school to. He was always ready and wanting to help me with my lessons or any problem I might bring to him. I'm writing a bit of poetry:
God loves us, this we know,
In many ways his love doth show.
By all things seen His power is shown,
And all around is mercy shown.

He gave us a teacher to keep awhile,
All things on us did seem to smile.
His stay with us did fill our heart
With love that only death can part.

His hair was dark, his eyes were bright,
His presence filled our lives with light.
But after all that could be done
God called; he went and left us all alone.
The parting filled our heart with pain

But our great loss is Heaven's gain,
But after a while we'll meet again
Then good-bye dear teacher, not Forever with the Lord to reign.

farewell.
Our love for you, no tongue can tell.
But when we meet then we shall spend Eternity that never shall end.

Forever with the angel throng,
Forever sing the new, new song;
Forever praise the Lord above,
Then we shall know the height of love.

—A PUPIL,
Myra Nell Yeargan.

Insurance Agent Admits Killing Wife Thursday

Says He Poisoned Her, Then Faked Auto Accident

Andalusia, Ala., March 1.—Tillman E. Davis, insurance agent of Florida, confessed to sheriff's deputies here today that it was poison he had administered and not injuries received in an automobile wreck which killed his wife, upon whose body an autopsy was held last Thursday night. Davis told his questioners that he faked the automobile wreck, which occurred near Florida Thursday, to cover his deed.

Religious disputes contributed to domestic unhappiness, which, Davis said, drove him to substitute strychnine for a headache tablet which he gave his wife Thursday morning.

In the signed confession held by the Sheriff's office, Davis is quoted as saying, "After three years of married life I reached the conclusion that we could not get along. I was dissatisfied. My wife was a Holiness and I was of the Methodist faith and we disagreed in this respect to a great extent. While living out in Louisiana, at one time I took a gun and decided to get rid of her, but decided later to put it off.

The alleged confession then relates that Davis and his wife drove to a filling station where he substituted the poison for the headache powders. It relates further that the strychnine did not take effect until they had reached a point near Florida. Mrs. Davis was described in the confession as rolling and jumping about in the car.

Women Marrying Out Of Alabama Lose Their Vote

The legal residence of the husband being that of the wife, under the Alabama law, an Alabama woman who marries and goes with her husband to another state to make her home, loses her right to vote in Alabama. This is the effect of a ruling by the Attorney General's office, answering an inquiry from the chairman of the board of registrars of Clarke County.

The chairman said a feminine voter in that county, about 18 months ago was married and went to live in Mississippi and has resided there with her husband ever since. What the chairman wanted to know was whether the woman's name should be stricken from the list of qualified voters of the county, or not. It was ruled that it should, inasmuch as her legal residence is now in the State of Mississippi.

"Vagabond King" At The Alabama, B'ham

Birmingham has been selected as one of the twenty important cities of the United States and the Alabama, one of the leading theatres, which will be first to run "The Vagabond King"—the first perfect, all-talking, singing, natural color, musical romance of the audible screen.

A premiere showing of this great attraction will be given at the Alabama Theatre, Friday, March 7th. The theatre will close its regular attraction that afternoon at 5 P.M., and the house will reopen for the premiere of "The Vagabond King" at 7:30, the performance starting promptly at 8:30.

Dennis King, who sky-rocketed to fame in the well remembered New York production of "The Vagabond King," again creates the fascinating role of the dauntless Francis Villon in Paramount's enchanting adaptation of this gay musical romance. Photographed throughout in natural color, "The Vagabond King" emerges as captivating entertainment in which lilting melodies of a distinguished and lasting pattern, romance, adventure and breath taking splendor are blended into harmonious entertainment.

The possessor of a remarkable singing voice, Dennis King is sure to win much favor when audiences hear him sing the stirring "Song of the Vagabonds" and other Primal numbers. Tall, handsome, athletic, King gives every promise of being one of the most popular Broadway favorites to come to the screen.

Playing opposite King is the fair-haired, lovely Jeanette MacDonald, also a Broadway favorite, who recently made her debut, and an auspicious one it was too, with Maurice Chevalier in that gay musical play, "The Love Parade." In "The Vagabond King," Miss MacDonald is thoroughly at home in a role that suits her talents to perfection. Miss MacDonald also sings several songs in charming fashion.

Others who do good work include Lilian Roth, cast in the tragic role of Hugnetto, O. P. Heggie, last seen with Jeanne Eagels in "The Letter," and Warner Oland, who recently created the role of "Fu Manchu."

In addition to the "Song of the Vagabonds" the other songs featured in this picture include that delightful romantic ballad, "Only a Rose," "Some Day," "Love Me Tonight," and "Hugnetto Waltz."

Prices for the premiere showing the evening of March 7th, all seats $1.00. The regular run of this great attraction starts Monday, March 10th. Admission price for the regular run will be 50c from 11 A. M. to 1 P. M.; 75c from 1 P. M. to 6 P. M. and $1.00 from 6 P. M. to 11 P. M.

Chilton County Abstract Co.

M. D. FOSHEE, Manager

A good business man will not buy a farm or any property without first looking it over to see what it is worth. However, some will buy or loan money on land without an abstract.

Isn't it equally as foolish to buy a farm without looking it over as to buy it and not know whether the titles are good or not? Without an abstract you do not know where you are getting the land you look at or not.

Before investing in land in any way have an abstract made and be safe.

Statewide Dramatic Tournament To Be Held at Auburn Next Month

Auburn, Ala., March 1.—The annual State High School dramatic tournament will take place this year at Auburn, April 4 and 5, and all Alabama high schools have been invited to send representatives. Eighteen have accepted the invitation and will enter teams to present one-act plays. Interest expressed by high school officials indicates that 30 institutions will enter before the closing date for entries on March 25, it was stated Saturday by Prof. J. B. Rutland, head of the English Department, and John D. Shaver, director of the tournament.

Competition in the presentation of one-act plays will feature the tournament. Preliminary and final showings will be presented. The winning cast will be awarded a trophy. Judges will be chosen from members of the Auburn faculty, the Little Theater, of Auburn, and the Auburn players.

Many Vegetables Can Be Planted This Month To Erase Damage Done By Freeze

Let's not be discouraged over the killing of the vegetables during the past few weeks. Due to the unusually warm weather, followed by very low temperatures, many vegetables were killed that would ordinarily survive our winter temperatures. Tendergreen, which was killed in most instances in this section of the State, will ordinarily survive our winters. Even though it may be killed back to the ground, under average conditions it will put forth new growth. This is being said in the paper so that Alabama garden people will not be discouraged and will make other plantings for winter harvest. Such experiences should also cause many to take advantage of the uses of the hotbed and cold frame as explained in our December message to you.

Choice For Planting Is Wide

There are many vegetables that should be planted this month. The exact date to plant must of necessity be governed by the section of the state and the weather conditions, but practically all of the following vegetables may be planted sometime during the month in the various sections of the State: asparagus, beets, Brussels sprouts, broccoli, cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, chard, collards, kale, kohlrabi, lettuce, mustard, onions, parsley, parsnips, English peas, Irish potatoes, radish, rhubarb, (roots), spinach, turnips, and tendergreen.

Don't Forget Asparagus

Asparagus surely should be in every home garden. One year crowns should be used and these should be set immediately if possible. They should be set in rows 4 to 5 feet apart, spacing the crowns about 18 to 24 inches in the row. These crowns should be set 4 to 6 inches deep, depending on the type of soil. Mary Washington is the leading variety for this section.

Beets, carrots, parsnips, radishes, and turnips planted this month will provide a continuous supply of root crops to supplement potatoes.

Plant These As Early As Possible

Brussels sprouts, broccoli, cabbage, and cauliflower should be planted as early as possible. They will all do best where planted in the hotbed and cold frame and later transplanted to the open field. Cauliflower is particularly a cold weather crop and must be started early and rushed to maturity before the arrival of hot weather. Broccoli, an Italian vegetable, has not been widely grown in this State, but it should be given more consideration. Its requirements are quite similar to cauliflower, but it produces heads more easily than cauliflower. The culture is about the same. The plants should be thinned out to stand about 15 inches in the drill. The variety of vegetables should be increased by planting a few of the so-called "new" vegetables, which have been overlooked in our home garden work in the past.

Plant Rhubarb In North Alabama

Rhubarb is only recommended in the northern sections of the State, due to its cool season requirements. It is a very heavy feeder and requires rich soil and heavy applications of fertilizer.

Barnyard manure is excellent for this crop. For those interested in growing this crop the setting of the roots is recommended in preference to planting the seed.

Yours very truly,
JULIAN BROWN,
Extension Horticulturist.

JAMES C. JONES WAS A MAN OF GREAT WORTH TO CLANTON:

When death claimed the life of Mr. James C. Jones, who is familiarly known here as 'Mr. Jim Jones,' last Saturday afternoon the Town lost an active builder, a good citizen and man. He invariably engaged in work that was directly or indirectly for the betterment of the Town and community. His business was in helping farmers to make the country a living and many families in the future, will no doubt, miss, the assistance that Jim Jones heretofore gave them, when they were in need. The Methodist Church and other religious and civic bodies will miss his counsel and advice in their deliberations, on important questions, also his liberality, in contributing financially to public subscriptions.

Mr. Jones did not seek to exalt himself and take a self-appointed place in the front ranks and use high sounding words or try to make a big show. He humbled himself and quietly did his part and the general rule found him doing more than his share. The people of his town exalted him and he was held in high esteem by his fellow townsmen and business men throughout the state.

The thirty odd years of his life in Clanton as a citizen and business man was not spent in vain. He erected many monuments to himself, during that time and he was unselfish and broadminded in doing so.

The people of Clanton and Chilton County will miss Mr. Jones and his good wife and immediate family will of course miss him and with a large number of friends the News, extends to Mrs. Jones and the relatives of Mr. Jones, our sincere sympathy, in the loss they, together with the town and community have sustained.

A PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR

STATE OF ALABAMA
Executive Department
Montgomery

WHEREAS, I am informed that the Government of the United States will, as has been the custom for the past eight years, conduct in the year 1930, from June 13 to July 12, inclusive, a series of Citizens' Military Training Camps, and

WHEREAS, these camps will be conducted at Fort McClellan, near Anniston, Alabama, at Fort Barrancas, Florida, at Fort Oglethorpe, Georgia, and at Fort Bragg, N. C. on the above named dates, all of which camps will be open for young men from the various sections of the State of Alabama, and

WHEREAS, the mission of these camps is to bring together for a month's training, under healthful surroundings, young men from all walks of life and on a common basis of equality, and by supervised athletics, military drill and instruction in citizenship, to develop them physically and morally, to promote a wholesome respect for discipline, to teach the value of team work, fit them for leadership in peace or war and impress upon them their obligations and responsibilities as citizens, and

WHEREAS, it is my pleasure as the Governor of Alabama to bring to the attention of the people of our state all activities looking toward the development of highest type of citizenship within our borders,

NOW THEREFORE, I, Bibb Graves, Governor of Alabama, do hereby recommend that the young men of our state take advantage of these opportunities and I invite said young men and parents of these young men to render every possible aid and encouragement in making the Citizens' Military Training Camps to be held as above set forth an unqualified success in 1930, excelling all previous camps heretofore held.

In testimony whereof I have hereto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed at the Capitol, in the City of Montgomery, on his 1st day of March, A. D. 1930.

BIBB GRAVES, Governor.

Sorry, folks, to have disappointed you last week, but was out working on a case which I thought I would be able to give you something sensational, and when I was late with my copy, the Editor turned me down. Said if I couldn't be on time, I could stay out.

Overheard a conversation the other day, which concerned the county board of education. The parties were discussing the actions of the board, and both were members of said board. Seems they are going to invite any suggestion anyone might wish to offer at their meetings. Well, that will be a good thing, because if anybody has anything they would like to suggest, the way is open now.

Was just thinking how much business opticians ought to be getting in Clanton. There are so many people suffering with I trouble.

Jack Hayes has just found out that dancing is something really enjoyable, having attended one here recently. Now the Athletic Club is giving one in his honor. I think Jack feels about it like I do. About the only way to learn is to just jump in, feet first, with arms outstretched, and let your head take its course.

To get a line on some clerks, and storekeepers in Clanton, just come to town real early some morning and see who comes out to sweep off the sidewalk in front of their store. A large loud speaker connected with a radio would come in handy for those sweepers. Then it could be called their morning exercise, and besides add a little joy to the job.

For the past day, or so—maybe it has been several days, insurance agents seem to think that I need some of their wares. And if they keep on, I have a feeling some of them may wish they had taken out more for themselves.

The fellow who started calling them "easy payments," ought to have something done to him. I'd like to do something awful to him.

The time has come for fishing tales to begin to commence to start floating around. Have already heard several. But they sounded like some of last years, just brushed up a bit.

That reminds me that I must have the Biggest Fisherman, in my Who's Who in Clanton. I suppose I'd better take to keeping tab on Hugh Simpson. Mr. Alfred and several others in town. They might try to pull something over us, when it comes to throwing the line. I'm speaking of fishing lines.

Short sayings—J. Mell Martin likes to attend Kiwanis luncheons—M. Lande doesn't like to be bothered early in the mornings—C. Hill Grocery Co. Observes Birthday

Nineteen years ago this spring James D. Hill and Nelson P. Hill opened business in Birmingham with the purchase of six grocery stores. This week two hundred and forty-five stores in Alabama owned and operated by these two men from the home office of the company in Birmingham are celebrating the nineteenth anniversary of the foundation of the business with the largest sale of foodstuffs ever held in the state.

Mr. J. W. McEathern, manager of the Hill Store in Clanton, announces that this state-wide observation of the anniversary has required weeks of preparation on the part of the entire organization. Every effort is being made to give Hill patrons the greatest values they have ever found.

The Hill Store here is among the finest in the entire system and Mr. McEathern takes great pride in this and the fact that it is actually a part of this community, purchasing, as far as possible, their daily needs, vegetables, poultry, eggs, and other supplies from this section. It is the policy of the Hill Grocery Company to give preference to local products at all times. During 1929 over one million dollars was spent by the Hill Grocery Company for Alabama vegetables, eggs, milk, poultry, fruits and fresh meats. This is to say nothing of the vast quantities of canned goods and other products packed in the state. The Hill company operates only in Alabama and is an Alabama owned, controlled and operated institution. It employs over eight hundred Alabama people.

Its headquarters in Birmingham are located in its own building, which occupies one-half of a city block. It is 400 feet long by 140 feet wide, two stories in height, with a basement under one section. It houses the general warehouse, offices, shipping department and refrigeration rooms. All foodstuffs handled by the stores, which is not purchased locally, are received by this distribution depot. One hundred and thirty-five people are employed in this vast building, which is one of the most modern of its kind in the country and one of the largest in the South. Besides owning this building, James B. and Nelson P. Hill, own thirty of the properties on which Hill stores are located. They have the utmost faith in Alabama and its future and all of their interests are in this state.

In speaking of the coming celebration, Mr. McEathern said: "We are anticipating record business during this event. It is one of the largest things we have ever undertaken and we know that our plans are right. It is a pleasure to be connected with Hill's. Every employee is proud of the firm for which he works. Besides being the largest food-distributing company in the state, it gives us great satisfaction to work for a firm which stresses to such a degree the importance of service to its patrons. Every Hill customer must be entirely pleased. Every article sold in a Hill store is guaranteed and the purchaser will be given his money back if he is not completely satisfied."

"Every employee of the Hill organization who has been working for the company for one year or more has his life insured in favor of his family at no cost to himself. The expense of carrying this insurance is borne by the Hill Grocery Company under a group insurance policy issued by one of Alabama's home life insurance companies. Besides this life protection each employee is a member of a mutual benefit association which pays his salary if he becomes sick or disabled." pletely satisfied.

"Every year since the Hill Company has been in business improvements and expansions have been made. In the past five years the growth has been very rapid. The business is increasing steadily. The most modern methods and equipment are employed. Hill customers expect more from Hill stores than from others and it is the intent of every individual connected with the company to see that this expectation is fulfilled."

"President James B. Hill extends a invitation to every Hill customer and friend visiting Birmingham to visit the Company's new warehouse and offices."

Messrs. Frank Callen and Reedie Taylor attended the meeting of the stockholders of the Alabama Mills company recently.

The Baptist Sunday school is leading in the contest which was opened between the various Sunday schools of the town this week. The Baptists sprung into the lead immediately and are holding up well.

A fashion show will be given at the high school auditorium on March the thirteenth.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Box of Birmingham were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Reynolds Sunday.

Mr. Charlie Gulleage of Verbena was in Clanton last Tuesday, and dropped in at the News office. Mr. Gulleage has lost some fine mules and was out looking for them. He said he had a small clue as to their whereabouts. We hope he locates them without any trouble.

Prof. W. E. G. Sutton of Verbena was attending to business matters in Clanton last Saturday.

Who's Who In Senior II Class

The Senior II Class got their heads together last week and agreed that the following are the most outstanding students in their class:

Most intellectual, Ernestine Childs; prettiest girl, Mary Goodwin Jones; most handsome boy, Jack Byrks; best athlete, Harvey Melton; most courteous, John Ponder Lawrence; biggest booster, Joe Earl Gowan; most original, Ernestine Childs; most attractive, Bernice Williams; wittiest boy, Paul Cox; most popular boy, Edwin Wagoner; most popular girl, Gladys Melton. Look for "Who's Who" in Senior I Class next week.

Our school was greatly honored last week by a visit from the State Department of Education in the person of Miss Jesse Garrison. She is in charge of physical education and is a young lady of most charming personality. She held the audience spellbound during her talk. She not only told the school of the new physical education program for every pupil in school in stead of the old system that has given training only to the few and selected few, but when the time arrived on our regular program for the physical education class, she went down to the football park with the class and in person worked with them. All physical training now is to be the objective instead of merely carrying out commands made by the one in charge. For example she would say: "Everybody pick apples," "All pick strawberries," "Touch the fence," "Touch the concrete." These are thought processes at the same time the pupil receives the proper physical training to suit him at his particular stage of development. Miss Garrison left these three words with the school: That the three incentives in life are to make ourselves attractive, interesting and efficient.

Chilton County High School was honored last week by a visit from the University of Alabama by Dr. Elasingame. His talk was most impressive. He showed among other things, that the most growing institution in Alabama is not the University of Alabama or some other college in the state, but it's Kilby Prison, and that the sad part of it is that they are young men under twenty-one years of age, in some cases. Their trouble being, they haven't justified themselves honestly among people. They are looking for thrills. Dr. Elasingame has encouraged our Senior Class to enter the debating club now being sponsored by the University. Our school will first compete against Verbena, Thorsby, Isabella and Jemison, and if we win out, we will then speak against the other winners at the University, and if we win there, will be presented with a year's scholarship at the University of Alabama. Whether we win or not, our school will be given a silver loving cup for our participation in the contest. The Senior Class has entered this contest most heartily.

"Bettie Lou" Coming Here March 21

We have another splendid play, entitled "Bettie Lou" which will be presented in the high school auditorium, March 21. This play is not one of Wayne P. Sewell's productions, but it is reputed to be just as good. It has been staged in some of our larger towns, and high schools with splendid success. Mrs. Rhea Cobb, of Demopolis, Alabama, is in charge. Mrs. Cobb comes to our school most highly recommended. This play promises in every way to come up to "Dixie Blackbirds" if not surpass it. You will hear more about this play in next week's issue of "Ink Drops."

Improvement of School Grounds Progressing

Our school grounds and campus continues to look better as new improvements are made. Earl Wilson, with his team of mules and plow, has flat broken most of it, which will be sodded in Bermuda and other yard grass. All of this work has been done by the boys of Mr. Walker's and Mr. Green's classes, which has grown out of problems arising in their classes to put into practice some of the things suggested in these texts. These are called projects which is one-fourth of each year's work consisting of nine weeks to each project.

Social Items

Mrs. Joe Higgins Hostess To Bridge Club.

Mrs. Joe Higgins was hostess on last Friday afternoon to the Young Matron's Bridge Club at her attractive home on Fifth Avenue North. Early spring flowers were used in the decorations for the affair.

After a series of bridge games, Mrs. Norman Roberts held high score, and was presented with a lovely box of handkerchiefs. The hostess assisted by her sister, Mrs. Loren Smith, served a delicious and well prepared salad plate with tea to her guests who were:

Mesdames Norman Roberts, Julius Burnett, Spurgeon Calloway, Mrs. Polk, Jr., Wallace Cox, Paul Ousley, Milton Smith and Loren Smith.

Mrs. Relious Franklin Honored With Surprise Party.

Mrs. Relious Franklin was honored on last Monday afternoon, when a number of her friends arrived at her home in Thorsby, bringing with them bridge cards, tables refreshments, and a lovely gift of dainty handkerchiefs. The occasion being a surprise party and handkerchief shower in honor of Mrs. Franklin's birthday.

Bridge was enjoyed at two tables, at the conclusion of which, Mrs. Lee Pate held high score and was presented with a box of handkerchiefs. Mrs. Frank Thompson was presented with the booby prize.

Delicious ice cream and cake was served to the following: Mesdames Lee Pate, Frank Thompson, Relious Franklin, Mac Grey, and Miss Rachel Peterson of Thorsby, and Mesdames Joe Higgins, Loren Smith, Flem Higgins, and Spurgeon Calloway of Clanton.

Auto Dealers Need Only Single County License

An automobile dealer or agent from an adjoining state who brings automobiles into Alabama and sells and delivers them here, can be required to pay tax and take out license only in one county the attorney general's department rules in an opinion announced Monday. The opinion answered the question asked as to whether such a dealer or agent should be required to pay tax and license in each county where sale and delivery of automobiles are made.

In other opinions rendered Monday it was held that a license inspector in Alabama has authority to arrest a person who fails to properly display a license tag on his automobile, and that ship brokers representing non-resident principals are not subject to license tax.

ANALYZE THE ALLOWANCE ON YOUR USED CAR

If a dealer pays you more than the true worth of the car he must make up the difference by extra charges on the new car or re-sell it to some one else at too high a price

PERMANENT value is always better than a temporary bargain in the purchase of an automobile. It pays to look ahead and consider reliability and ultimate up-keep costs, as well as comfort, safety, speed, and beauty of line and color.

Since most automobiles are bought for replacement, the value set on your used car is a factor in almost every purchase. Frequently it is given an importance beyond its true worth.

Used cars have a definite market value and you are justly entitled to an allowance based on that value. It is not fair that you receive less. It is not to your best interests to receive more.

IF a dealer pays you more than the true worth of the car he must either re-sell it to some one else at too high a price or make up the difference on the new car. This he cannot do unless he is allowed an excessive profit on the car or on financing, extra equipment and other charges. In either case, you pay the bill, for no way has yet been found to give something for nothing. The money must come from somewhere.

You may not get the largest used-car allowance from the Ford dealer, but that very fact should give you confidence that you are receiving full value in the new car. Ford charges are not marked up or increased to cover a high trade-in allowance on your old car.

Because there is no waste, extravagance or undue profit in manufacturing, distribution or selling, every dollar you pay for a Ford brings a full dollar in return. In lower first cost, in reliability and long life, in the low cost of operation, service and replacement parts, the Ford will save you much more than the seeming difference in trade allowance.

FURTHERMORE, at least $75 extra value is given to you in the new Ford in the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield, the Rustless Steel, the five steel-spoke wheels, and the four Houdaille hydraulic double-acting shock absorbers. The unusually large number of ball and roller bearings, and the extensive use of fine steel forgings instead of castings or stampings, are other features that show the extra quality built into the Ford car.

Roadster, $435	Phaeton, $440	Tudor Sedan, $500	Coupe, $500	Sport Coupe, $530

Farmers Have Pooled 120,000 Bales Cotton

Those Drawing 15.64 Cents A Pound Will Not Be Called On For Margin If Cotton Sells For Less

Montgomery, Ala., March 6.—Where farmers place their cotton in the Annual pool of the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association and are advanced 15.64 cents per pound middling basis there will be no margin call on the member in case of decline in the market and if the cotton should eventually sell for less than 15.64 cents there will be no loss to the member, says Allen Northington, general manager who declares, "If we should sell the cotton for more than 15.64 cents plus handling charges and expense the member will get the benefit of same."

Through the assistance of the Federal Farm Board the association continues to advance 15.64 cents per pound middling basis 7-8 inch staple to producers who pool their cotton.

The association to date received 120,000 bales of cotton which is a record delivery to the association during its history, exceeding the largest yearly delivery by nearly 15,000 bales. Judging from the number of bales it is receiving each day, it is reasonable to believe that we will receive 130,000 to 150,000 bales before the pooling season closes.

"As never before farmers are seeing the importance of building a strong marketing organization to take care of their needs during depressed economical conditions," writes Mr. Northington. "Present economical conditions are bad, and if it was not for the fact that Alabama farmers have during the past 8 years built up the farmer-owned and farmer-controlled organization which recently received the endorsement and support of the Federal Farm Board it would have been impossible to be receiving the service which they are now receiving from their cotton association. It can readily be seen that if these farmers, sticking together as they have, have built up an organization that can render maximum service during such a depressed time that it is very important for more farmers to join the organization and be ready to aid themselves during future depressed conditions. This can be done only by farmers working together year after year and building strong farmer-owned and farmer-controlled marketing associations. Therefore, let me urge that each member make a desperate effort to get your neighbors to join us in building an organization to serve in the betterment of agriculture."

"If you have cotton on hand, or know of any of your producer friends who still possess cotton and wish to pool it, please ask for details at your county farm bureau office, or take the matter up with us direct."

Poultrymen Can Pool Eggs And Get Cash Advance

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 28.—Plans have been completed for Alabama poultrymen to place their Spring eggs in cold storage cooperatively, receive an advance of 20 cents a dozen, and hold the eggs for better prices, announces Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation.

This is made possible through the cooperation of the Farm Bureau, the Alabama Extension Service, county farm bureaus, and a cold storage concern in Birmingham. Extension specialists are in charge and the Farm Bureau finances the project. District agents, county agents and others cooperate.

The objects of this project as stated by President O'Neal are:

To enable poultrymen to realize to a greater net return than would be secured were the eggs dumped on the local market at low spring prices.

To remove a quantity of eggs from local markets during the season of high egg production and low prices.

To further convince egg dealers and the consuming public of the fact that good Alabama eggs will come out of cold storage in as good condition as eggs produced in any other section of the country, and to encourage people of this State to use Alabama stored eggs.

"The shippers will be advanced 20 cents per dozen when the eggs are received," Mr. O'Neal said. "This advance check will be issued by the Alabama Farm Bureau every two weeks to the County Farm Bureau which will handle the payments to the producers. The Alabama Farm Bureau assumes all responsibility for the sale of all eggs placed in storage under this project and obligates itself to consummate sales in a manner most advantageous to shippers."

Poultrymen interested in this project should ask for details at their county farm bureau office.

Frank Guess, 80, of Newport, Ind., claiming his wife supported him, filed suit asking $10,000 damages from the driver of an automobile which struck and fatally injured her.

Farm Facts

Scrub farmers are a greater handicap to a commonwealth than scrub livestock.

Chickens are kept on about 90 per cent of the farms of the United States.

Family living expenses for 195 families in Tompkins County, N. Y., averaged $772 each in 1928.

A farmer who makes no plans is sometimes like a blindfolded seaman "walking the plank."

The importance of correct posture is one of the points being stressed in the state-wide health contest now in progress among 4-H club girls.

Experiments prove that there is no advantage in staying chicks for 48 to after hatching. Feed them when they come from the incubator well.—G. A. Trollope, head poultryman, Auburn.

The six essentials for rearing sturdy children are: proper food, sunshine—either real or artificial—exercise and rest, proper clothes, protection from infection, and a wholesome mental outlook on life.

Plant diseases rob the American people of about $1,500,000,000 annually. Bulletins, which may be had free from Auburn or the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, will help farmers prevent and control disease.

"INSIDE" INFORMATION

Watercress fine chopped and creamed with butter, makes a delicious spread for graham bread sandwiches for club meetings, teas, and other social occasions. Minced parsley, flavored with a few drops of lemon juice, and mixed with butter, is another appropriate spread for sandwiches that are to be cut into fancy shapes with cookie cutters.

Corned meat kept over into the next summer should be watched closely in the spring, as the brine is likely to spoil. If the brine appears to be rosy, remove the pieces of meat and scrub them thoroughly with a stiff brush and hot water. Then repack and cover with new brine. The brine should be kept in a cool place, as the sugar in it has a tendency to ferment.

Allow mud stains to dry and brush carefully before any other treatment. Sometimes nothing else is needed. Or, if the fabric is washable, use soap and water. On other fabrics, try sponging with wood alcohol, denatured alcohol, or plain water. Mud stains may be taken off black silks of firm weave by rubbing the spot with a cut raw potato. The thin film of starch left by the potato can be brushed off when dry. This treatment is not recommended for any other materials. It leaves a spot on any except black fabrics.

For washing and rinsing utensils a clean, safe water supply is absolutely necessary. Contaminated water may be a source of danger not only to persons living on the farm but also to those who use milk from the farm. Wells and springs should always be protected from surface drainage. The drainage from privies, hog pens, barnyards, and other sources of contamination should always be away from the well, and both springs and wells should be walled in, curbed, and tightly covered.

COSTS AND FARM INCOME

In his annual report L. J. Taber, master of the National Grange, declares that the task before the American farmer is not only to produce efficiently, but also to reduce at every opportunity the costs of production.

In other words, the farmer's profit depends upon his being able to produce his crops at a cost below the price at which he must sell them, rather than upon the size of the crops themselves.

Obviously one of the chief aids to economical production is the employment of modern equipment suitable to the needs of the individual farmer concerned. Such equipment, judiciously selected, effectively used, and taken care of when not in use, is essential to success under present day conditions.

Another important feature of profitable farming is the raising of as much food and feed as possible at home. As has been so often pointed out, the cow, sow and hen, with hay pasturage and a good garden, are among the most valuable adjuncts of a sound farm program.

The decisions made along these lines during the next few weeks will largely determine the farmer's profit or loss during 1930.

ARE YOU A GAMBLER?

Many men who would resent being classed as gamblers are really gamblers of the most reprehensible type. We refer to those who fail to protect persons dependent upon them by means of insurance.

Heads of families, especially, who do not carry a reasonable amount of life and fire insurance are gambling with fate. Without such protection many a family is left destitute when the husband's life is snuffed out or the savings of a lifetime are swept away by fire without warning.

Insurance is one of the most beneficial devices which civilization has developed, and while it costs something, the cost is relatively small compared with the sense of security it brings.

Every man owes it to himself and to his family to provide this protection. He who does not is a gambler indeed.

A MISSISSIPPI FARMER'S RADIO GOT IT MIXED UP

From Lucedale (Miss.) Times

The following radio mix-up story is taken from The Slocumb News and Slocumb Observer, which copied it from The Lucedale (Miss.) Times:

"A George County farmer recently bought a triple dial radio set and not being familiar with the fine points of tuning in, brought in three stations, WOCO, MERIDIAN, KWKH, Shreveport, and WLS, Chicago, badly scrambled. A man at Meridian was talking about good roads; Hello Doggone Henderson at KWKH was lambasting the chain stores and a nigger was preaching at the Friendly Farmer's station in Chicago. Here is what the George County man heard:

"The Old Testament tells us that chain stores are nothing more than a bunch of hijackers—and listen to the words of the Prophet Isaiah—and doggone your buttons—you will find hard-surfaced roads all the way from Meridian to—Jericho, we read in books are muddy and—that a bar of soap purchased in a local chain store only weighs seven ounces—and after passing through Laurel turn to—the Holy City is sure coming down out of Heaven, three wise men bought a pund of Hello Doggone coffee C. O. D. one dollar—and passing through Ellisville turn North—to Sodom and Gomorrah—on account of a bad detour and a State bond issue is being talked of in Jackson—David was a man after God's own heart—and dad-blame you I don't give a cuss for the Federal Radio Commission—Turn South just West of the home for the feeble-minded—and confound you pusillanimous pup—there is a bad washout just West of Hattiesburg and the road—to salvation is undergoing repairs, making it necessary to give e'm fits unless you God will be upon the confounded, plaguetaked chain stores—and the Lord repented that he had made man—After you leave Poplarville—Bilbo will veto the bond issue—unless you patronize the home merchants—those who pay the taxes to build the roads—will join the merchants' minute men—It rained five weeks and forty night—and Station KWKH will fight 'em till Hades freezes over and then skate on the ice near Eastabutchie and I pray God your whole—pound of Hello Doggone coffee—may be preserved blameless until the coming—Legislature meets and a hard-surfaced road bill may be passed—and may the God of Peace—take you down to Sally's house and clean you up with Sapolio—and may the Lord have mercy on your soul!"

Boys Win Radios With High Yield

Auburn, Ala., March 6 Four 4-H cotton club members of Alabama distinguished themselves in growing cotton in 1929 to the extent of winning radio receiving sets. They are Walter Heflin, Otis King of Greensboro, Miss Lucille Lovan of Moulton, and Guy A. Turner of Vinegar Bend. They all made prize-winning yields, using a home mixture of fertilizer, including Chilean nitrate of soda.

Kirk made 2,686 pounds of seed cotton, or two bales, on his acre. The value of his crop was $202.07. His total cost was $20.23 which left him a net profit of $139.24 on his acre. The cost per pound was 24 cents.

On his acre Otis King made 1,802 pounds of seed cotton, valued at $140.55. His cost was $47.15, leaving a profit of $93.40. Cost per pound was 2.6 cents.

Miss Logan made on her acre 1,850 pounds of seed cotton which cost her $45.58. The value was $143.38 and her production cost per pound was 2.5 cents.

An outstanding fact about these four club members is that each held production cost under three cents per pound. This cost included rent on land, fertilizer, seed, preparation of land, cultivation, picking, and ginning. Three of the four used poison for boll weevil control. The four made the highest yields in their respective districts among those who used Chilean nitrate of soda which was required to win one of these radio receiving sets.

Fiddlers Planning Big Time At Verbena, Ala.

at this one, you are urged to come early after seven o'clock, at which hour the doors will be opened, and you may secure a close up seat. Although the auditorium is the largest in this section of the country present indications are that it will be filled on his occasion.

Despite the so-called hard times, which are only times like any others, with some of the cents missing, the business men of this section have responded readily to appeals of the gift committee by donating a number of valuable prizes for the fiddlers on this occasion. The prizes range all the way from a shave and a haircut to a splendid cash prize of $10.00.

The manner of awarding the prizes will be determined by the fiddlers before the performance begins. They will also be accorded the privilege of electing judges for the contest.

The prices of admission will be the same as heretofore, 35c for adults and 25c for the children. Fiddlers or other performers are admitted free, of course, and are guests of the P-T-A. for the evening. Provision will be made for their comfort and enjoyment of the occasion.

A complete list of those merchants and other business firms that made donations to the gift committee will be published next week, along with the name of the prize, and the winner of it. The P-T-A. very sincerely thanks these firms for their co-operation in putting on the Convention. They appreciate the number of dollars of expense they were spared by a number of other firms joining in with them by using advertising space on the posters put out. Patronize them.

And above everything, come to the Fiddlers' Convention and Hog Calling Contest at Verbena on March 7. Forget that hard times are here; we are having a big party that night and "a good time will be had by all."

Passion Play to Be At B'ham & Montgomery

from childhood. Since 1760 the parts of the "Christus" and "Judas" have been portrayed by members of the famous Fasnacht family, and in the company that is now making a world tour there are four members of this family. Georg Fasnacht, Jr., the "Christus," is the fifth generation to play the part. Georg Fasnacht, Sr., is now completing his 29th year in the role of "Judas." Augusta Fasnacht, mother of Georg Fasnacht, Jr., is "Mary, the Mother of Jesus," and Ditty Fasnacht is "Mary Magdalene."

The purpose of the Passion Play is to visualize the real meaning of Jesus Christ to the world. It tells the story of the Saviour from his entrance into Jerusalem through the ascension. The scenes of the Temple, street scenes of Jerusalem; Herod's Court; the palace of Pilate; the Lord's Supper; the march to Calvary; the crucifixion, the entombment and the ascension are appropriately staged and reverently acted.

The Freiburg Players came to America last year, following the urgent request of many of the 60,000 Americans that attended their last performances in Freiburg. They have played in 22 American cities to over 3,000,000 people, and have met with the enthusiastic endorsement of the press, clergy and laymen.

county and town and took an active interest in religious and fraternal work of the community. He joined the Methodist Church when only a small boy, and at the age of 18 he was elected a steward of his church at Lime Springs, near here, and after moving to Clanton continued to serve in that capacity, until his death. He was one of those who contributed heavily to the building of the Methodist Church and always supported it and the other churches of the town and community freely and cheerfully. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity, his membership being in Clanton Lodge No. 423, A. F. & A. M. He served on the Town Council of Clanton for several years and sponsored the cause of public improvements.

Funeral services for the deceased were held at the Methodist Church in Clanton last Monday at eleven o'clock, A. M., with Rev. E. A. Childs, pastor of the Methodist church here, Rev. I. W. Chalker, of the Methodist Church in Montgomery, and Rev. S. J. Ezell, of the Baptist church officiating, and J. Mell Martin, undertaker, in charge. The hosts of relatives and friends who assembled at the Church Monday were evidence of the high esteem in which he was held by the people of the county. The floral offerings were still greater evidence of the sincere affection which the friends of the deceased had for him. He was indeed highly esteemed by all who knew him.

Interment followed at the Clanton Cemetery. The officials of the Methodist church were honorary Pall Bearers, and were: W. M. Polk, John D. Armstrong, T. C. McSwain, V. J. Elmore, J. C. Page, M. L. White, Percy M. Pitts, J. E. Edgar, Omar L. Reynolds, Otto Jones, C. E. Stapp, T. H. Neighbors, Eric Hart, F. J. Callen, W. D. Spigener, J. Q. Wade, P. D. Wilson, W. A. Reynolds, Judge L. H. Reynolds, L. C. Warr, and J. B. Atkinson. The active pallbearers were C. Fenn Jones, H. G. Boyd, T. H. Neighbors, C. B. Cox, G. C. Armstrong, C. E. Stapp, Harry Gordon.

Mr. Jones is survived by his wife, Mrs. Sophia Jones, four sisters, Mrs. W. Z. Hodges, Mrs. Irene Raspberry, Mrs. Alonzo S. Prince, all of Clanton, and Mrs. W. E. Mauk, of Birmingham, Alabama, and three brothers, B. G. Jones, Oscar W. Jones, of Clanton and J. Claud Jones, of Amarillo, Texas, besides a large number of relatives and friends.

NOTICE OF DAY SET FOR HEARING PROBATE OF WILL

The State of Alabama, Chilton County, Probate Court.

To J. Claude Jones, a resident of the State of Texas, residing at No. 8, VanBuren Apartments, c/o J. M. Nix, Amarillo, Texas.

You will please take notice, that on the 5th day of March, 1930, a certain paper in writing purporting to be the Last Will and Testament of James C. Jones was filed in my office for Probate, by Lawrence F. Gerald and that the 25th day of March, 1930, was appointed a day for the hearing thereof, at which time you can appear and contest the same if you see proper.

Given under my hand this 5th day of March, 1930.
L. H. REYNOLDS,
Judge of Probate.

YOUNG MENS CLASS OF BAPTIST SUNDAY SCHOOL

The Young Mens Class of the Baptist Sunday school, Clanton, is making a drive for a large class for Sunday, March 16. All members of the class are urged to come to Sunday school on that date and bring some one with you. Remember, we were planning for a large class on the first Sunday in March, but owing to the death of Mr. Martin, our teacher, we have postponed it to the third Sunday, March 16. Let's everybody remember the date and try to be there.

Also, on next Sunday, March 9, we want to attend to the matter of selecting a teacher. Let's get all the boys together in Sunday school on the above dates.

Rev. I. W. Chalker of Montgomery was in Clanton last Monday, assisting in the conducting of the funeral of James C. Jones.

Mr. Harry Gordon of Columbiana and Birmingham was among the out-of-town visitors to Clanton last Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Lett, of Verbena were among the visitors to Clanton last Saturday.

J. P. Payne, prominent hardware merchant of Maplesville, was in Clanton last Tuesday attending to business matters.

LOST or STRAYED

One Dark Brown Tennessee mule, 8 years old; weight about 900 lbs. One Brown Western mule, 7 years old, weight about 850 pounds.

Both were wearing grass halters when last seen. One had tag No. 72 on forehead, the other No. 73. Last seen at Mr. John Miner's, 5 miles east of Clanton. Please notify D. Y. Johnston, Clanton or Gullidge Bros., Verbena.

We Can Fix It

Do the soles of your shoes wet through at the first sign of dampness on the walk? Then leave them with us for a short time and we will put on a sole that will keep your feet dry, even when it rains. And the cost is moderate.

REPORT MADE ON AREA FOR HOSPITAL

Point In Chilton County Is Selected As Center Of Population

Recommendations of the hospitalization board of the Veterans' Bureau for a general area for the location of the new $1,100,000 hospital to be constructed in Alabama were approved Friday and made public by the bureau.

The general area within which the hospital is to be located contains several thousand square miles and includes 37 communities among the 52 which presented their claims for the hospital at a hearing on the area held Feb. 25, either through delegations, members of Congress or briefs.

The general area is a radius of 75 miles of the center of population of Alabama which the bureau fixes as being two miles east by south from Jemison, Chilton County. This radius extends east and south of Montgomery and west and north of Birmingham and includes the greater part of the State. This area embraces all or parts of seven of the ten Congressional Districts of the State, excluding all communities within the First, Third and Eighth Districts.

Communities within the area which have brought forward their advantages as a location for the new veterans' hospital, arranged by Congressional Districts are:

District 2: Montgomery and Ramer. District 4: Anniston, Calera, Clanton, Maplesville, Marion Junction, Montevallo, Mountain Creek, Selma, Stanton, Talladega Springs, Thorsby and Verbena.

District 5: Alexander City, Clairmont Springs, Lincville, Tuskegee, and Wetumpka.

Sixth District: Centerville, Gary Springs, Greensboro, Tuscaloosa, Wedgeworth, Marion, Uniontown and Eutaw.

Seventh District: Blount Springs, Oneonta, Pell City and St. Clair Springs.

Ninth District: Birmingham, Bessemer, Mount Pinson and Warrior.

Tenth District: Jasper and Parrish.

The next move will be that engineers of the hospitalization board will be sent to this area of Alabama within the next three weeks to visit each of the localities competing for the new hospital and make a personal inspection of all necessary factors, such as land available and its price, proximity to rail and highway transportation, water and general conditions entering into the consideration. After they report, a sub-committee of the hospitalization board will visit the sites considered by the engineers to be the most desirable and the sub-committee's report will be the determining factor in the final decision.

LILLIAN OPHELIA OWENS DIED AT HOME MONDAY

Lillian Ophelia Owens, age 22, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Robert Owens, died last Monday at her home in the Fairview community following a lingering illness.

Funeral services were held last Tuesday at Pleasant Grove, with Rev. W. P. Lowery officiating, Martin of Clanton, undertaker in charge.

The deceased is survived by her parents, several sisters and brothers, other relatives and a host of friends.

Fiddlers See Big Time In Verbena

The Ninth Annual Fiddlers Convention held in Verbena last Friday night will go down in memory as the very best one ever held there. Always good, the conventions in Verbena have attracted large numbers of fiddlers and accompanists from the neighboring counties as well as listeners from points afar. It remained for this one just held to attract the largest numbers of artists of the resined bow ever to participate, and perhaps the best fiddling ever in these parts was in evidence. Threatening weather at dusk deterred many who had intended coming from being present. However, the auditorium was comfortably filled by an appreciative audience which was regaled with a varied program from eight till twelve o'clock.

The Parent-Teachers Association, under whose auspices the affair was staged, were well repaid for their efforts in bringing such a splendid music.

Commencement Program At Verbena Is Planned

Commencement exercises of the Verbena Elementary school will be held March 20 and 21, at 7:30 P. M. at the high school auditorium.

On March 20 an operetta "Let's Go Traveling," will be presented under the direction of Mrs. John Ward, Miss Edna Davis and Miss Elizabeth Leslie.

On March 21 a three-act play, "Miss Molly's Girl," will be presented by the Sixth grade under the direction of Lee W. Douglas. Very pretty drills will be given between acts by the Fifth grade girls, directed by Miss Lila Mae Jolly.

Immediately following the play the Sixth grade graduation exercises will be held.

These entertainments are free. The public is cordially invited to attend.

DEMOCRATS MENTIONED FOR OFFICE

Survey Of Several Qualified Citizens Made With Comments

Several of the prominent Democrats of the county are being frequently mentioned as candidates for the nominations in the Democratic primary next August, for the several offices to be filled in the general election to be held next November. For the office of Tax Collector, C. B. Cox, of Clanton, who has a large following over the county, is being urged to throw his hat in the ring, and the many friends of Arthur D. Martin, of Isabella community, in Beat Three, are putting him forth as a logical man to fill the office and then we hear some strong talk that Dr. T. J. Marcus, of Clanton, would make political business pick up if he should get into the fight for tax collector. Dr. Marcus advances some good logic in talking about that office, in that he says this: "That if the office was a burden, then no one man should have to suffer with it for more than one or two terms, and on the other hand if it was a 'fat job' then it ought to be passed around," and so with that, the Doctor (Doctor) left without giving us a definite announcement of his candidacy. Then we struck another school of politicians, who gave us to understand that Mr. G. C. Armstrong, was a citizen of the county with certain rights and privileges and qualified to fill the office of tax collector and we agreed that he could do it in due and ancient form and

Poultry Car On L & N Tracks Here All Day

As announced in last week's issue, there will be another cooperative poultry car on the L & N tracks in Clanton today, according to C. E. Stapp, County Agent.

The car is scheduled to remain here all day. It stopped in Verbena yesterday taking on many pounds. Tomorrow the car is scheduled to be in Jemison for the entire day.

The following prices are to be paid at the car door: Hens, 21-2c; stags, 18c; roosters, 11c; and turkeys 23c. Those who intend to sell their poultry at the car are requested to not feed the fowls corn on the day they are to be sold.

NEGRO MINSTREL AT MOUNT PISGAH SCHOOL MARCH 15

Last week we carried an announcement stating that there would be a negro minstrel staged at the Mount Pisgah school on March 13th. The date has been changed to next Saturday, March 15th, at seven-forty-five o'clock.

Mt. Pisgah school is located four miles south of Clanton, and a large crowd is expected to attend the performance of this entertainment. Admission will be fifteen and twenty-five cents. Proceeds go to the school.

MR. AND MRS. GRADY TAYLOR TO MOVE TO MONTGOMERY

Mr. and Mrs. Grady Taylor, and Mrs. Bama Cox will make their home in Capitol Heights, Montgomery, sometime after the first of April, according to information.

These residents of Clanton have made their home here for many years and it is with regret that the News makes this announcement.

Mr. Porter McKay of Montgomery, Ala., was here last Saturday.

E. G. CALDWELL RAPIDLY RECOVERING FROM WOUND

Wells Named On Board of Directors Of Power Company

Birmingham, Ala., March 12.—Oscar Wells, President of the First National Bank of Birmingham, has been elected a director of Alabama Power Company. Thomas W. Martin, President, announced here today.

Mr. Wells' first association with the power industry in Alabama was as a director of Southeastern Power and Light Company in 1924. He has since served continuously as a member of the board of the Southeastern Company and with the recent merger of that organization with the constituent units of the Commonwealth & Southern group, Mr. Wells will continue his interest in the power situation in Alabama as a director of Alabama Power Company.

Other Alabama directors of the Power Company are Richard M. Hobbie, Montgomery; D. P. Bestor, Jr., and Theo. K. Jackson, Mobile; E. C. Melvin, Selma; R. A. Mitchell, Gadsden; Frank M. Moody, Tuscaloosa; J. E. Z. Riley, Ozark; L. H. Sessions, Enterprise; R. D. Thomas, Eufaula; W. H. Weatherly, Anniston; and W. H. Hartsinger, R. L. Ingalls, Thomas W. Martin, E. A. Yates, and O. G. Thurlow, of Birmingham.

RALLY DAY AT VERMONT ATTENDED BY LARGE CROWD

The Educational Rally Day which was held at the Vermont school on last Friday, March 14th, was attended by a large crowd, according to a statement from one in attendance.

Among the matters of business brought up at this affair, was the appointment of a building committee.

B. Lawrence, Supt. of Education and County Agent Stapp made interesting short talks during the morning session. J. D. Deason also made a short talk on community improvement.

Dinner was spread at the noon hour and the afternoon was given over to speeches and other features.

Former Chief Justice Taft Died At Home Saturday, March 8th

William Howard Taft, the twenty-seventh president of the United States, and former Chief Justice, died at his home in Washington at 4:15 o'clock last Saturday afternoon. He passed peacefully from life, wrapped in a merciful unconsciousness after weeks of illness. He was seventy-three years old.

Taft received Tuesday, the high honors a grateful nation reserves for those who reached the loftiest pinnacles of its service. The whole day in Washington was given over to a high service of remembrance for a faithful servant.

Simple but impressive funeral services were held Tuesday, for the past president, and he was laid to rest in Arlington Cemetery by his own request made some time before his death.

JAMES SIGN SHOP OBSERVES FIFTH ANNUAL SIGN WEEK

All during this week, spectators have been viewing the attractive and well-arranged window display and sign display which is being shown at the James Sign Shop, in observance of the Fifth Annual National Sign Week.

In this sign shop can be seen practically every kind of sign used, or a miniature of such, which have been manufactured by the local shop, owned by Frank P. James.

Mr. James took a representative of this paper on a tour through his neat and nicely arranged shop last Monday. The way signs are painted and put together was very interesting.

In front of the building, Mr. James has arranged a display room, where you may see the various works this week only. He invites everyone, especially the business men to visit the shop this week, and see the display, and Saturday will be given over to farmers who wish to see a modern sign painting shop.

Mr. John L. Smith was in Clanton last Saturday looking after business matters.

Executive Committee Will Meet Here March 22

The Chilton County Democratic Executive Committee will hold a meeting in Clanton on Saturday, March 22nd, according to Mr. P. D. Wilson, secretary of the Committee.

The meeting is scheduled for two o'clock in the afternoon, and will be held at the New Wilson Hotel. There will be several items of the party business to be transacted, and all Democrats of the county are invited to be present during the meeting.

WILLIAM P. WILLIAMS DIED WEDNESDAY, MARCH 5TH

William P. Williams, age 59, died at his home on Wednesday, March 5th. Funeral services were held on the following Thursday, at Shiloh, Martin in charge.

NEGRO KILLED AT VERBENA SATURDAY

Killing Climaxes Card Game; Another Negro Placed In Jail Here

As the result of a cutting scrape between two negroes last Saturday at Verbena, Willie Broomsey, negro, was lodged in the county jail here, and Scott Taylor, another negro is dead.

According to the story given to the News, the Broomsey negro and Taylor were engaged in a card game, and came to a misunderstanding. Taylor is said to have attacked Broomsey with a knife, cutting a deep gash in his left leg. Taylor is also said to have used a knife, slashing his attacker on the throat. Taylor is said to have died soon afterwards.

Broomsey was arrested by Sheriff Collins and Chief Boeckholdt in Clanton last Sunday morning while he was attempting to get to the hospital for treatment. The negro who is employed on a railroad section gang, is said to have walked to Clanton from Verbena, and became exhausted near the overhead bridge, where he was arrested, after going to a negro restaurant to get a cup of coffee. He was given treatment for the wound in his leg, and placed in jail on a charge of murder, the information stated.

Broomsey was given a preliminary hearing on last Tuesday, at which time his bond was fixed at $750. He had not, at the time of this writing been released.

Those who are already members have been divided into two groups, with E. W. Clinkner and John Browder as the leaders.

These two groups of ex-service men are in a contest to see which can bring in the largest number of new members, all ex-service men being qualified to join.

The contest will come to a close with the meeting of the post on Monday night, March 24th, at the courthouse here, at which time it will be determined who the winners are, and the losing group will bear the burden of a set-up to the winners in the way of a little party.

The Chilton County Post invites all those interested to sit in attendance at their meetings, and especially urge that all ex-service men of this section come and join them.

The Music Appreciation Club will hold its regular meeting on next Tuesday afternoon, March 18th, at the home of Mrs. J. B. Atkinson, with Mrs. W. A. Willis and Mrs. L. C. Warr as hostesses. The following program will be carried out:

Roll Call—A thought in music. Business—Quiz—Mrs. Diefenderfer, Miss Nell Wells, Miss Mary Louise Pack, Mrs. J. C. Jones, Leader.

Violin Solo—By Mrs. Ernest Childs. The South's Progress in Music, Miss Della Latham.

Laddie Mifflin, Mrs. John Armstrong, Pioneer Dance.

STRONG WIND BLOWS DOWN TWO HOUSES

Homes Of W. A. Brown And Mrs. Green Foshee Are Damaged

A severe wind storm struck the community located about one and one half miles Southwest of Clanton last Friday morning about two o'clock and completely demolished the dwelling houses of Mr. W. A. Brown, and Mrs. Green Foshee, besides blowing down several out houses and trees. Mr. Brown, his wife and four young children were sleeping in the two rooms nearest the approach of the storm and narrowly escaped being killed or seriously injured. The two rooms where they were did not collapse, while all the remainder of the dwelling was leveled to the ground and other than a few minor bruises and fright the Browns escaped but only to find themselves in a beating rain and wind without any apparel other than their night attire. The house where Mr. Brown resided is owned by Mr. Verge Harris of Clanton.

The Foshee home was completely leveled to the ground and Mrs. Foshee, who was in bed when the storm struck was caught beneath the falling timbers and pinned under same, and it was some time before neighbors were able to extricate her, however, our information is that she was not seriously injured, and the other members of her family escaped with only slight bruises.

A number of out houses on the two plantations were blown down besides a large number of trees.

Mr. Brown stated that he lost very heavily and that his household and kitchen furniture were a total loss and our information is to the effect that Mrs. Foshee and family lost most of their furniture and household goods.

The twister, fortunately, did not cover but a small area and other than two homes mentioned, did not do any serious damage elsewhere.

MRS. MIRIAH LOUISE FRAZER AGE 71, DIED LAST FRIDAY

Mrs. Miriah Louise Frazer, age 71, died at home just east of here on the Lock 12 road, near the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ed Miller, last Friday at noon.

The deceased has lived in this county practically her entire life. She was a devoted worker in all religious work, until her health began failing.

Funeral services were held last Saturday at the home of Ed Miller, with Rev. P. O. Lynch officiating. Interment took place in the Clanton cemetery, with Martin in charge.

ANNUAL INSPECTION CLANTON COMMANDERY HELD TUESDAY

The Annual Inspection of the Clanton Commandery, Knights Templar, of Clanton Commandery No. 27, was held last Tuesday night at the Masonic Hall here.

Preceding the inspection a large and well planned banquet was served by the ladies of the Order of the Eastern Star, which drew forth comments of approval and appreciation from those knights in attendance.

Following the banquet, the Commandery was opened in long form for the inspection, which was made by Sir Knight Cash, of Montgomery. There were about thirty members present.

The election of officers will take place at a meeting Tuesday night, March 25.

Walnut Creek Home Coming Day Success

The Home Coming services at Walnut Creek was a great success. Services opened at ten o'clock. The first song was sung by Jesse Baker, Edna Wyatt at the piano. The first prayer was by Rev. T. J. Deason, following which Rev. F. A. Gibson, superannuated minister of the Protestant church, came in and read off the old songs in the old fashioned way. The pastor, Rev. P. A. Lynch, made a welcome address. After this short talks were made. Rev. C. D. Messer, who pastored the church thirty-nine years ago, made the first talk, telling of those who started in the King's way in those days, and urging the offspring of those to be faithful. Rev. F. A. Gibson made a talk relating the life and history of Walnut Creek church. Others of note were Rev. R. M. Honeycutt and T. J. Deason of the Baptist faith, and Rev. Harry B. Calentine, pastor of the Four Square church.

Growing Feed For Dairy Cattle

Statistics show that the average annual production per cow in Alabama is approximately 2,550 pounds of milk and 109 pounds of butterfat, while the average for the United States is over 4,500 pounds of milk and 200 pounds of butterfat. If dairying is to be made profitable in Alabama, it is obvious that production per cow must be increased. Profitable production of milk and butterfat requires good dairy cows. Since these can not always be bought, it is necessary to use more production-bred bulls in order that each generation of cows may be better producers than the preceding one.

While breeding is of great importance in increasing the production of the Alabama dairy cow, probably more cows fail to pay a reasonable profit because of being improperly fed and cared for than because of being poor individuals. The liberal, yet wise, use of more of our home-grown dairy feeds will reduce the cost of milk and result in a better balanced system of farming.

Amount of Feed Required Per Cow Per Year

Each dairy cow will require two tons of good legume hay, such as alfalfa, peavine, or soybean per year. If silage is available, three tons of silage and one ton of legume hay will make a more satisfactory ration. In addition to the above roughage, each cow will require 15 bushels of corn, and either 15 bushels of oats or 500 pounds of velvet beans, together with 400 pounds of wheat bran and 500 pounds of cottonseed meal. This will furnish sufficient feed for a cow producing 300 pounds of butterfat, if two acres of good permanent pasture are furnished during the spring, summer and fall. By trading cottonseed for cottonseed meal and buying only four sacks of wheat bran Alabama dairymen will have a satisfactory and economical dairy ration, most of which can be produced at home.

Particular emphasis should be laid on the greater use of legume hay and better pastures in Alabama. It has been demonstrated in numbers of experiments that where cows are fed all the good legume hay they could consume they have produced over 300 pounds of butterfat per year without additional grain. It is not our purpose to recommend this practice, but simply to impress on the boys and girls that high-priced concentrates can be materially reduced where legume hay of good quality is grown on the farm.

Every dairymen knows that it is in the late spring or early summer while on permanent pasture that the dairy cow normally reaches the maximum production of the year. This fact teaches us that to secure the largest total yield of milk the dairymen should imitate these summer conditions as closely as possible during the other seasons of the year. The summer conditions which bring about the maximum production of milk and butterfat are:

1. An abundance of feed
2. A balanced ration.
3. Palatable feed.
4. Comfortable surroundings
5. Succulent feed
6. Reasonable exercise.

Upon the ability of the dairymen to maintain these favorable conditions for his herd throughout the year depends in a large measure the profits he will receive.

FORD PHILANTHROPY

It was almost inevitable that Henry Ford should sooner or later adopt some plan for devoting a part of his great fortune to the service of mankind. His plan was announced a few days ago, and involves spending some $100,000,000 for the founding of schools, and giving the rest of his active life to the cause of education.

He said that some of the schools would be large institutions and that they would be placed in various parts of the country, but that the number had not been decided. His principal object was stated to be the assistance of young men to find suitable places in the world.

That the proposed Ford schools will stress the practical side of education was also indicated by their donor's expressed belief that everyone should learn a trade, so as to be able to find employment in at least one line of useful effort.

As a hint to those who may feel the urge to offer him unwanted advice concerning his program, Mr. Ford says he intends to invest his money in his own way, and does not care for any suggestions from persons who never made or saved a dollar themselves.

However he may dispose of the millions he has decided to devote to his latest activity, it is safe to say that his decision will have a far-reaching and beneficial effect upon succeeding generations of young people.

A summons to court for speeding was handed to Charles Flacken of Chicago as he left the church after his wedding.

THINK OF YOUR AUTOMOBILE IN TERMS OF TOMORROW

Ultimate cost is as important as first cost in the purchase of an automobile

WHEN you purchase an automobile you are making an investment of a considerable amount of money. It is essential, therefore, that you give careful thought to the best selection and know what you are getting for your automobile dollars.

The first cost is important because it may mean an immediate, satisfactory saving. Of equal importance is the ultimate cost after thousands of miles of service. This ultimate cost is the true measure of automobile value.

THE first cost of the new Ford is unusually low not only because of economies in manufacturing, but because the same principles that inspire these savings are extended to every other step that means greater service to the public. It is easy to see that economies in production would be of little value if they were sacrificed later through high charges for distribution, selling, financing and accessories.

The Ford dealer, therefore, does business on the same low-profit margin as the Ford Motor Company. His discount or commission is twenty-five to fifty per cent lower than that of any other automobile dealer. You gain because he makes a small profit on many sales instead of a large profit on fewer sales.

The difference in selling cost, combined with the low charges for financing and accessories, amounts to at least $50 to $75 on each car. This is as important as economies in production in keeping down the price you pay for the new Ford.

THE low ultimate cost of the new Ford is the result of sound design, quality of material and unusual care in manufacturing. Friction and wear are reduced by the accuracy with which each part is made and assembled.

These factors combine to decrease the cost of operation and add months and years to the useful life of the car. The good performance and low yearly depreciation of the new Ford are indicative of the enduring quality built into it at the factory.

SERVICE charges are on the same fair, economical basis as the making and selling of the car and replacement parts are always available at low prices through all Ford dealers. In two, three or five years, depending on how much you drive, the saving in operating and maintaining a new Ford will amount to even more than the saving on the first cost.

Think in terms of tomorrow, therefore, when you purchase an automobile. For tomorrow will reveal its true worth.

Increase Or Decrease The Acreage, Which?

Ought the farmers to increase or decrease the acreage for this year?

The fact is they ought to do both. The total acreage of cotton planted should be less to guarantee a better price. Then more acreage should be planted to corn, hay, peas, potatoes, etc.

But listen! Here is the place where the acreage should be greatly increased. Many farmers who love their church and the cause of Christ throughout the world should plant and carefully work an acre, and give the proceeds, half to his local church work and send half to the Baptist Headquarters, 127 S. Court Street, Montgomery, for the missionary and benevolent work of the denomination.

Another good way to work it is for the local church to rent, say five acres of ground and the members turn out and work it on certain days, giving their labor and having fine Christian fellowship in the service. In like manner when the crop is made they will gather and sell it, and the church will use half of it for local expenses and send the other half to the Board for preaching the gospel in regions beyond. The church could not expect a blessing if it were selfish and kept the whole amount to spend on itself and gave nothing to help others.

Do arrange this, brethren in your first conference and plant some acreage for the Lord. It will bring a new day for your church in all its work.

Yours for the country church,
L. E. BARTON,

Secretary - Treasurer of Executive Board Ala. Bapt. Convention.

Top Dress Oats For High Yield

Auburn, Ala., March 6. Top dressing of oats with either nitrate of soda or nitrate of lime in early March is a timely recommendation now being made to Alabama farmers by the experiment station of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. It is based on experiments and results obtained in the past by practical farmers.

Work of the experiment station here shows that for each 100 pounds of nitrate of soda per acre applied as a top dressing around the first week of March the increase will be approximately 15 bushels per acre up to 300 pounds of nitrate of soda per acre.

Similar results were obtained by the South Carolina experiment station.

IN MEMORY OF CHARLEY WILLIAMS

On March 3rd death took our loving brother and son, Charley. Charley was a loving brother and son. Oh, how we miss him! He was always smiling and looking on the bright side of life. It was hard to give Charley up, for we all always loved him. He was a kind and faithful brother and son. It won't be long till we all will meet him in heaven. We know Charley has gone to rest. The thing we all want to do is to live so we can meet him over there. No sorrow will be there. We can not understand these things, though we feel it more than we can all bear. Charley was so young and a noble young man. He had friends everywhere he went. Everybody knew him and could not help but love him, he was so loving and kind. He always loved everybody he met. Charley leaves a vacant place at home. He will be sadly missed by his dear old father and mother and brothers and sister. Charley leaves to mourn his loss his father and mother, two brothers and one sister.

25 COUNTIES HAVE FILLED
THEIR C. M. T. C. QUOTAS

Major S. R. Tupper, U. S. Army, Birmingham, Officer in charge of Citizens' Military Training Camps enrollment in Alabama, has announced that twenty-five counties have filled their quota of young men for attendance at these camps and that applications have been received from all but nine counties, namely, Autauga, Blount, Cherokee, DeKalb, Etowah, Lowndes, Marengo, Pickens and Russell.

Actual enrollment of applicants began on March 1st and will continue until the state quota is filled. Major Tupper expects to fill the quota by March 16th. Completed applications, totaling seventy-four per cent of the quota, have been received in his office. After the quota has been filled late applicants may be accepted as alternates. Any young man of acceptable character and between the ages of 17 and 24 may apply for these camps. If he can pass the required physical examination and is of good moral character, as certified to by a reputable citizen, who knows him, he may attend these camps.

Attendance at these camps means no obligation for future military service. Those who attend are no more likely to be called to the colors in time of war than any other man. However, if they volunteer or are selected, they are more likely to secure rapid advancement and be able to serve their country more effectively. Military training is not the primary object. The training at these camps stresses citizenship, self reliance, initiative, good fellowship and how to work and play hard and effectively. The moral and religious influences are kept at a high standard.

All necessary expenses covering transportation, camp facilities, food, clothing, laundry, medical examinations and attendance and services of instructors, is furnished free by the government. Young men desiring additional information and application blanks should get in touch with CMTC Headquarters, 256 Federal Building, Birmingham, or with their County Chairman, Hon. J. B. Atkinson.

Misses Thompson, Plumblee, and Conner gave a reception for Prof. and Mrs. Ralph E. Upton Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. J. N. Carter. The living and reception rooms were decorated with spring flowers. Fruit punch was served throughout the evening. Many guests were present to offer congratulations and best wishes to Prof. Upton and his bride.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Patrick of Montgomery were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Patrick Sunday.

Misses Plumblee and Conner spent the week end in Selma with relatives. Mr. and Mrs. J. F. King, Misses Mabel King and Clara Belle Jones were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Apperson at Jones Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Patrick spent Sunday with their daughters, Misses Inez and Willie Jeanne Patrick, at Alabama College, Montevallo.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Carter of Montgomery spent the week end with their mother, Mrs. J. N. Carter.

Miss Nettie Mason Patillo from Woman's College, Montgomery, spent the week end with her parents.

Isabella F. F. A.

The Isabella Chapter of the Future Farmers of America met in the Agriculture building Monday night, March 10, and rendered an interesting program. We changed the meeting time to every other Monday night.

Mr. Herman Lecroy, our vice president, gave a very interesting talk on the origination of the club; he explained how and why the club was organized and its growth to the present day.

Mr. Earle Thomas, our local advisor, and Mr. J. D. Griffin, one of our honorary members, gave us some interesting tips on things we could do to help make our chapter stronger.

At our last meeting we elected Miss Teresa Pulliam as an honorary member to our chapter. We are very fortunate in getting her as such, because Miss Pulliam is the State Clerical Secretary of F. F. A. and the only lady in the state eligible to be an honorary member of F. F. A.

We are also very fortunate in getting Mr. Stapp, our County agent, as an honorary member and we want him to come to our meetings as often as he can. We will announce later other honorary members.

Our charter from the state organization has just been received and we hope to have it framed and up in the Agriculture building in a few days. Jimison will receive her charter in a few days and the Isabella chapter wants to see in the paper something of what Jimison's F. F. A. is doing.

The Farmers Hardware Company in Clanton is letting Isabella school have the use of a radio receiving set this week. The F. F. A. boys are to see that the set is cared for while we use it, and the program will be sponsored under their supervision.

We have this week been working on our program of beautifying the school grounds by setting out shrubbery. We hope to have as pretty a campus as any in the county.

C. L. DAVIS DIED MARCH
THIRD, BURIED MARCH 4

C. L. Davis, age 72, died on Monday, March 3, at seven o'clock p. m., at his home in the Collins Chapel community, following a lingering illness, which came upon him during the past several years of his life.

The deceased was married to Miss Hunnycutt fifty years ago, who preceded him to the grave some thirty years ago. He spent practically his entire life in Chilton County and numbered his friends here by the score.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday, March 4th, interment taking place in the Collins Chapel Cemetery.

IN MEMORY OF MR. CHARLIE A. WILLIAMS

Age 29, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Williams. On March 3rd the death angel visited and called our loving son and brother to a better home. All was done for him loving hands could do, but all in vain. But understand he is not dead in reality, but just passed over to that sweet home to await our coming, where there will be no parting, nor sad farewell. We shall miss him to testify in loving remembrance to the place he held in our hearts. God wanted him and he called him to live with him on high. We miss him, yes, we miss him, his place can never be filled. But with joy and gladness in our hearts we will meet him some sweet day. We loved Charlie, but Jesus loved him more, and he has called him to yonder shining shore where the Golden gate was open and a gentle voice calling, come and with the farewell unspoken he has calmly entered home. He leaves to mourn his loss on this earth and gain in heaven his mother and father, one sister, Elmay, two brothers, Bob Jr., and John W. Weep not dear mother and father, the Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away: to that home where no farewell tears will be shed. It is God's will that we must die to make us fit for that home on high, for when God calleth we must go. So let us look to Him who is able to soothe our sorrows and heartaches. Our heavenly father who is too wise to make any mistake, too great to be unkind, grant us the spirit of reconciliation and submission and enable us to say, "Thy will be done."

Let us honor our blessed Saviour to the best of our ability, knowing our time is short, and we must go when our father in heaven calleth.

It was such a shock to us all, but he was ready to go. For God calleth and we must go, and when his purpose is accomplished, then we shall meet God there to dwell with Jesus forever.

Charlie obeyed his father and mother, had a tender feeling for them. He set a good example for others to live by. We feel that we can truly say that everyone who knew Charlie loved him. He let his light shine. Let the joy of their hearts return by trusting in the Lord. That is the only way we will meet the precious one who has gone before us. He is peacefully sleeping now, in the silent City of the Dead, awaiting the resurrection morning when all loved ones and friends shall again be united to part no more.

Plant Vegetables After March Frost

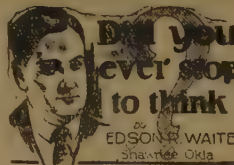

Auburn, Ala., March 6.—The garden planting season in Alabama will be in full swing after the last killing frost in March. Many vegetables were planted in February, but after the last killing frost tender vegetables such as beans, crowder peas, cucumbers, egg plant, squash, peppers, and sugar corn can be planted with safety it is stated by Julian Brown, extension horticulturist at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

"In fact," said Brown, "it is ordinarily safe to plant at least a week or ten days before the average date of the last killing frost, since it takes a few days for the vegetables to come up, and early garden products are the most highly prized."

"During March," he continued, "all plants should be transplanted from the hotbed or coldframe to the open field."

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

H. Galt Braxton, Publisher of the Kingston, (N. C.) Free Press, says:

That it is indeed remarkable how little conception the general run of business men have of the importance of advertising. I do not refer, of course, to those who conduct successful business institutions, but the ne'er-do-wells, those who complain most of hard times and slack business. The first thing that seems to come into their minds when they consider a slash in the expense account is to cut off what little advertising appropriation they have been making, or to reduce it. In this connection, it is interesting to analyze the record of many business concerns and see just what is charged to advertising. One gets the impression that it is the custom of some when they have an expense item which they don't know what to do with, to charge it to advertising.

When the country is passing through a period of somewhat depressed business conditions, as it is at the present time, there is a need for wise expenditure of advertising appropriations. I am not at all certain that it is a time to cut the appropriation, but rather do I think the wise and successful business administrator will deem it necessary to maintain the status quo, if not increase the appropriation and hit harder. I am convinced from observation that those concerns which do not misjudge the value of advertising and continue to give it intelligent thought and planning, have much less to complain about than do those who think "it's no use to advertise at a time like this." Even the non-advertiser himself will admit that his neighbor who is a consistent advertiser in dull as well as rush seasons is doing a better business. But he too often fails to recognize that his neighbor's success is due to the fact that he is letting no grass grow under his feet and his advertising policy is one of the best indices of that.

The merchant who thinks that he can get along without advertising might as well take the count to begin with and make room for his progressive neighbors.

R. W. Fisher, editor of the Walla Walla (Washington) Union, says:

That every individual in a community owes it to his homeplace to carry his share of the burden.

There is too much shifting of responsibility to the leaders.

These leaders can not and should not carry the full burden.

These leaders will not always be able to carry on the work, and others should be training themselves to carry on.

If each person would do his or her part, when called upon, and would occasionally volunteer to do something, it would not only lighten the load but would be reflected in better conditions in the community.

CHEVROLET USED CAR SALES INDICATE BETTER BUSINESS

Detroit, Mich., March 12.—An indication of the rapid expansion of the used car market and an assurance of a brightening business outlook was revealed in an announcement by the Chevrolet Motor Company today that Winter sales of used cars by the nationwide Chevrolet dealer organization are exceeding by more than twenty-five per cent the best previous winter record.

Despite extremely cold and stormy weather in the northern states in January and adverse weather conditions in some other sections, sales of used cars by Chevrolet dealers during the month totaled 60,000 cars as compared with the January record of 48,000 established last year.

A quickening of general business and unusually mild weather in February assured a new record for that month even though final figures for the last ten days of the month are not available. Reports from dealers for the first twenty days of February show an increase of 54.4 per cent over the corresponding period of February last year. During the first twenty days of February, 1930, the Chevrolet dealer organization sold 58,922 used cars, nearly equalling in 20 days the record month of January. The stature of the February achievement may be further appreciated by a comparison of this figure with 38,176 used cars sold during the corresponding period of February, last year.

In commenting on the achievement, officials pointed out that it was made possible through the public confidence that has been built up by Chevrolet dealers through the general policy of offering for sale only dependable merchandise. They explain that through the widespread use of the red tag with "an O. K. That Counts," prospective used car buyers are assured that every vital part of the car has been properly reconditioned and put in shape to offer thousands of miles of unused transportation.

HOW COTTON CHAMPIONS MAKE THEIR CROPS

YEAR after year the cotton championship of your State is won by a farmer who fertilizes his crop with Chilean Nitrate of Soda. This doesn't just happen to be true. Chilean Nitrate has been the main reason for every cotton championship in every Southern state for five consecutive years.

Alabama Cotton Champion

FLOYD GIBBS of Boaz, Ala., won the Five Acre Cotton Contest, making 4150 lbs. lint on 5 acres (830 lbs. per acre). He used the "Make-Sure Method", 50 lbs. Chilean Nitrate with acid and potash at planting, then side dressing with 150 lbs. per acre Chilean Nitrate alone at chopping time.

Chilean Nitrate is the world's only natural nitrate fertilizer—not synthetic, remember. It speeds crop growth. Increases crop yield. Makes better quality... always.

See your local fertilizer dealer. If he does not carry Chilean Nitrate of Soda he can easily get it for you.

Free Fertilizer Book

Our new book, "How to Fertilize Cotton," tells exactly how to use Chilean Nitrate. It gives all the facts. Free. Ask for Book No. 2, or tear out this ad and mail it with your name and address.

TEXACO
forms a dry gas!

Wet gas is sluggish—backward in starting, slow in the pick-up and wasteful of mileage. There's nothing like the dry gas of Texaco for the pep and stamina you expect of your engine. For the new and better Texaco is high test. It forms a dry gas—starts quickly even on the coldest days and follows through with the quick surge of sustained power that was designed into your engine.

Try it. Get the thrill of power at your command. Wherever you are there's a Texaco pump nearby where you'll find the same high test Texaco that is sold in every State of the 48. Texaco is better because it forms a dry gas.

The NEW and BETTER
TEXACO
GASOLINE

1. A wet gas is an atomized mixture of gasoline vapor in which are suspended drops of raw gasoline.
2. These drops of raw gasoline form an uneven mixture which resists the action of the spark.
3. Result: Crankcase dilution, difficult starts, slow acceleration—a sluggish motor.

1. The new and better Texaco vaporizes so readily that it forms a dry gas—an active mixture of gasoline and air.
2. This pure, dry gas responds instantly to the action of the spark.
3. Result: Lightning starts, rapid acceleration, smooth action—power!

A Splendid Opportunity

In view of the fact that the number of young men who can enter the coming citizens military training camps from this county is very limited it is probably unnecessary for the Standard to lend its encouragement to those who contemplate enrolling this year. The quota will no doubt be filled early as several young men have already indicated their desire to take advantage of the opportunity which the camps offer.

Nevertheless in past years the quota of this county has not been filled and it is on an assumption of a possibility of this condition again existing that this comment is written.

There is no need for us to go into details here as to what the citizens military training camps have to offer. Such details are familiar to practically every citizen and certainly to every red blooded young man who is within the age limits prescribed for entrants.

It is a vacation with pay at the expense of the government for a boy or young man to attend one of these camps. All costs are borne by Uncle Sam and those attending receive an invaluable course in training. Although military training is carried out the camps are not conducted wholly with that idea in view. Training along other lines is offered and in short the young man who attends gets something free that he could not possibly get if he went out to buy it.

In view of the advantages which the citizens military training camp offers to young men there should be a full quota of applicants from this county and many more besides.

"ROUND TOWN"
-by Doug

Opinions expressed in this column by this writer have no connection with the general policies of this paper, being wholly those of the writer, in the manner they are written.

"He drew a circle that shut me out—
Heretic, rebel, a thing to flout;
But love and I had the wit to win:
We drew a circle that took him in."

—Edwin Markham.

Many and old misunderstandings could be done away with and perhaps forgotten here in Clanton if the above thought was practiced more. Don't hold a grudge against your neighbor. Draw a circle that will take him in. Then you have done your part.

Of course, even the cleverest and most perfect circumstantial evidence is likely to be at fault after all, and therefore ought to be taken with great caution. Take, for instance, the case of any pencil sharpened by most any woman; if you have witnesses, you will find she did it with a knife, but if you simply take the aspect of the pencil, you will say she did it with her teeth.

Circumstantial evidence does make some things appear rather queer. Why I know of an instance when a young man knocked on a door at a residence here. The door cracked, and someone asked, "What's the pass word?" Circumstantial evidence would show that some secret organization was holding a meeting therein, if you take it that way. And really I was unaware of any such secret organization existing in Clanton, except the lodges, etc. But that etc., could include a lot.

And Abe Lincoln once said, "I don't think much of a man who is not wiser today than he was yesterday," and I learned something at that.

Just remember someone down at the News office being somewhat interested in goats, mutton, or something of the sort. Also understand that Mr. J. C. Calloway, our competent and experienced blacksmith, has half-interest in a goat farm he wishes to sell, or has a whole interest and wishes to sell half of that. Might be able to pick up a little pin money by dealing in goats, if someone doesn't beat me to the deal. Goats are not so bad after all.

I was at one time told by a young lady that she thought I was something of a cynic. Oscar Wilde said that a cynic is one who knows the price of everything and the value of nothing—and I just can't for the like of me see how she could say a thing like that about me. Maybe she'll explain.

When it is finally decided just who is going to move where, in Clanton, people will have to find a new topic for conversation. Due to the fact that the post office will soon be moved, there has been rumor after rumor about some various business houses moving. And I'll bet those doing all the talking don't know a thing about it either. If the Editor don't beat me to the story I'll try to throw a little light on the subject next week. The only thing I can tell you is that the post-office is going to move. That will turn the afternoon parade in a different direction, much to the chagrin of many I know. Oh, Well, history is said to repeat itself.

One becomes rich and useful because he sees the possibility of building something to benefit humanity, or like Cecil Rhodes, his mind can carve out an empire in Africa. Another sees the opportunity of putting one dollar on top of another, getting more dollars as rapidly as possible, keeping them all and spending none.

Review in your mind the men round Clanton, and see how many, and who, you can place in these two places. Which is the more useful?

I am not very old, that is, I am still something of a young man, but in my observations and studies of the people who make up the citizenship of our town I have learned many a lesson. But before I took up the hobby of attempting to analyze people I am thrown with, I undertook to understand and conquer myself. I have found that usually success or failure in business is caused by mental attitude, rather than mental capacities.

There are lots of things I would like to touch on in this column, but keeping in mind the saying of Meredith, I refrain. Meredith said, "Things printed can never be stopped; they are like babies baptized, they have a soul from that moment and go on forever." In my tours and detours round town, I see and hear many things that are not very commendable. Why do men want to take all the credit for doing something noticeable, which may be looked on as progressive. Usually the one doing the real work, says very little. His reward will come later.

That Clanton is growing is evidenced by the fact that the other night, or most any night, there is a dance, show, bridge party, secret organization meetings, and what-not going on here at the same time, and each had a good crowd attending. Several years ago, to have a reasonable attendance at some of these, there could only be about two taking place on the same night. I figured that out one night, trying to keep up with some of the Paul Reveres we have here in Clanton, and making one of my history-making trips 'round town. And believe me, some folks do make history in Clanton, if I do say so.

Read something the other day that said they might bring corsets back into vogue. I am like the author of that article, and can't see why they want to do that. It certainly won't bring any thrill to the squeezer or the squeezee. If there is any squeezing to be done, let's do it some other way, whereby those concerned will profit.

Baseball Equipment Purchased

The equipment for baseball having been purchased and arrived, Coach Green put his boys through their first real practice Monday afternoon. While most of the players have had little previous experience some of them showed up well the first day. Among them who show brightest prospects are Ruth-erford and W. Robinson who will likely do the catching; and Brown and Nivens and P. Busby the hurling for the season. The candidates for practice Monday afternoon were Brown, Simms, Cox, W. Robinson, Sumner, Edgar, Johnston, Taylor, Miller, D. Robinson, Paul Holley. Come on boys, we are with you.

Music Appreciation In C. C. H. S.

Through the courtesy of Carter Electric Shop, we have a new Atwater Kent radio installed where the students may hear a music appreciation class over WAPI every morning at 9:30 to 12:45 continuing for eight days. This class will be taught by Miss Finney. The purpose of this course in music appreciation is to acquaint the students with the knowledge of real appreciation of music. The public is cordially invited to attend these programs in the high school auditorium. The students are very grateful for the opportunity of hearing this discourse on this fine art which is well worthy of any time devoted to it.

School Grounds About Completed

The boys, who have been diligently applying themselves to beautifying our school grounds have almost completed their work. These boys with the aid and assistance of Mr. Green and Mr. Walker have made our grounds 100 per cent better. We are glad to state that our citizens realize what an important factor beautiful school grounds are to our town, and that they are co-operating with these boys in such a movement.

Senior I Party

The Senior I Health girls entertained the Southern Field Crops boys at the home of Eloyse Jones last Thursday night. Various games were thoroughly enjoyed by all. The St. Patrick idea was carried out by a color scheme of green and white. A pop-corn contest was held and Herman Harris won the prize. With Mr. Walker receiving honorable mention. Late in the evening the guests went to Upchurch Drug Store where delicious refreshments were served.

Dr. S. J. Ezell at Assembly Wednesday

We were pleasantly surprised Wednesday morning by a visit from Dr. Ezell. Our entire chapel period was given over to him. As he had not been with us for some time, we listened to his talk with more than unusual interest and eagerness.

Dr. Ezell took as his theme the beauty of life, using as a basis the ninetieth Psalm. His talk was an educational and inspiring one. Among other things he showed us just how we should use our time most profitably. Few of us realize how precious to ourselves is our perfunctory attitude toward time. We are inclined to waste our time in frivolities. Dr. Ezell gave us a new inspiration and determination to make our minutes worth while. One simple verse from the selection which he read left its life long impression with us: "So teach us to number our days that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom." Again Dr. Ezell said: "We have only a short time on earth to serve God and humanity. We must remember this and ever apply our hearts unto wisdom and our hands unto good deeds."

Besides his noble talk we are also grateful to Dr. Ezell for his interest and kindness in offering his assistance to any students who are interested in our debating contest that will come off before long.

These news items have all been contributed by members of the Senior I Class, and not a word was added by any member of the faculty. We really think these boys and girls are to be congratulated for their cleverness and general interest during 'Senior I Week.'

"Bettie Lou" Rehearsals

Mrs. Rhea Cobb is actively engaged in rehearsing the play to be presented March 21, known as "Bettie Lou." It promises to be a thrilling entertainment from every point of view. More will be said about the characters and the play in general later on. Look for it.

A poultry house for sitting hens should be secluded, slightly darkened, and separated from the houses for layers and breeders. Place the nests so that the hens won't have to fly or jump into them.

Cowpeas for hay are better if grown with other crops than alone. The sorghums (sorgos and kafirs) Sudan grass, Jolinson grass, soybeans, and millet are suitable. Sorgos or kafirs, when grown with cowpeas, make a good hay or silage. This mixture cures more easily than cowpeas alone, makes a well-balanced ration, and is relished by all kinds of livestock.

If the dairyman buys all his feed, hires all his labor, and disposes of the milk at current wholesale prices he will make little if any money. If he buys all his feed and does all his own work he may make day wages. To make the greatest profit raise most or all the feed and market it through the dairy cow at a price at least equal to what the same feed would cost on the market.

It is easier to sow celery seed evenly if it is mixed with several times its bulk of finely sifted sand, white corn meal, fine hominy grits, or any similar material that will not injure the seeds. Celery seeds are so small that 70,000 of them weigh only one ounce, and it is difficult to distribute them thinly enough if sown alone.

Poultrymen always used to cool the eggs hatching in an incubator by taking them out for a short time each day. It has been found that this practice is unnecessary, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture, except when the temperature of the incubator has been running too high. To decide whether to cool eggs or not, notice the size of the air cell, which should gradually increase in size. If the development is too rapid, cool the eggs until they feel slightly cool to the touch.

It's a good idea to make a small outdoor seedbed, with specially prepared soil, in a corner of the farm garden, to start the plants. They will be more stocky if started here and later transplanted. A good soil mixture for the seedbed is one part of well-rotted manure, two parts of good garden loam or rotted sods, and one part of sharp, fine sand. The addition of leaf mold or peat makes the soil better. Mix the materials well and sift the soil.

The farm horse is less likely to get sore shoulders if it gets special care in early spring until the muscles hardened and the winter hair sheds. Clean the shoulders carefully after the day's work and before harnessing in the morning. After removing the harness wash the shoulders with warm water and castile soap, and rinse with cold salt water in the field. Raise the collar and clean the sweat, dirt, and dead hair from the shoulders and collar. Whenever possible, lift the collar forward and let the horse's shoulders cool off.

The most profitable pig is the one that never stops growing till it goes to market. Pigs are less likely to be fed irregularly and to lose weight if they and the sows are fed in self feeders where several days or even a week's supply of feed may be stored. At the U. S. Department of Agriculture experiment farm in Maryland sows and pigs on self-feeders have proved more thrifty than those that were hand fed. In tests comparing the two methods of feeding, No. 2 yellow corn, commercial gray middlings of good quality, and 60 per cent tankage were the chief feeds. The pigs ate when they pleased and as much as they pleased. The outstanding results of the tests were that in the self-fed lots the feed cost per 100 pounds of gain was materially less and the sows and pigs were in better condition at weaning time.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this means of thanking those people who were so kind and sympathetic during the death of our son, Charlie Williams. We especially want to thank the Dixie Construction Company, our neighbors, Mr. Meil Martin, and Lloyd Teel for their helpfulness. May God's richest blessing be on each of them.

The Professional Jeweler

The following article on the Professional Jeweler was written by Mr. J. L. Schaffer, prominent and successful jeweler of Montgomery, Alabama, known as Schaffer, the Jeweler:

Like the physician or attorney, the professional jeweler occupies a position of trust. His customers are no more qualified to appraise an article of jewelry than they are to make a diagnosis or to conduct a trial. They must rely upon the advice of the jeweler.

The non-professional store such as the grocery or department store may safely adhere to the principle—"The customer is always right." But frankly, hasn't the jeweler an obligation to his customers even greater than that? As a professional merchant, isn't it part of his service to tell them when they're wrong?

A customer expects genuine value from a jewelry store—no matter what price he pays. You know from your own experience that the customer who buys a $20 watch expects just as perfect a timepiece as the customer who pays $60 or more.

You also know how often the average person is deceived by the promiscuous use of the terms—"Gold" and "Gold Filled." So far as the untrained eye can see, there's not much difference between a watch of genuine white gold, or gold filled, and one made from a base metal.

They're both called "Gold" and they are both bright and shiny when new. But the cheaper imitation has no more intrinsic precious metal value than copper, brass, or nickel.

Your customer does not know these facts. Suppose you let him buy a watch of base metal without telling him that it is not genuine gold. And after a few months' wear, the watch turns green and wears off around the edges. Will he release you from your responsibility as a professional jeweler? He will not! He will blame you for not having advised him at the time of the purchase.

That's boomerang merchandise! You sell it expecting to make a friend, and make an enemy instead. And many times you cheat yourself out of the sale of other good merchandise as well.

That's why the professional jeweler can not endanger his reputation by selling—Boomerang merchandise. Sooner or later it comes back to him and makes him sorry he ever sold it!

MORE than $78,000,000 will be disbursed by the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company this year to operate and maintain the telephone system and care for the growth in the nine Southeastern states.

Of this large sum $35,000,000 is new money and will be needed for additions and replacements. It means that approximately 50,000 new telephones will be added and that the long distance system will be greatly enlarged and improved.

The remaining $43,000,000 will be required for operating and maintaining the service and practically all of it will remain at home in the 900 cities in which the company operates.

This enormous expenditure indicates confidence in the commercial and industrial growth of the Southeast and is a fulfillment of the Bell System policy of furnishing comprehensive, efficient service, at the lowest possible cost consistent with financial safety.

Vary Your Diet

DR. SHIRLEY W. WYNNE, Commissioner of Health of New York City, recently offered ten rules of health in a radio talk, and then summed them all up by saying: "I can only advise you to offer your family a simple but varied bill of fare—meat, eggs, fruits, vegetables, and plenty of milk. If you do this, the calories and vitamins take care of themselves."

Simple as this sounds, it would have been difficult advice to follow before the days of commercial canning. But now that process permits us to have well-balanced meals throughout the year—irrespective of season.

Easily Done

Dr. Wynne's advice is easy for the average housewife to follow if she uses canned foods as well as fresh ones. In the first place they offer a far greater variety from which to select than all the fresh foods available in any one locality. In the second place they are always ready to serve. For cold dishes they need only be opened and served, or mixed with the other ingredients; and a brief heating is all that is necessary when they are to be served hot. The food in the can has been thoroughly cooked already.

The housewife who uses canned foods finds them economical as well as savers of much time and labor. There is no waste in canned foods. The vegetables and fruits have already been peeled and stoned or seeded. The fish has been boned and skinned and all waste parts removed. Every bit of the canned food is usable.

Little Cotton Big Price
---Big Crop Low Price

Alabama farmers are wondering about their cotton income for this year. Last year promised cash profits, but it did not keep its promises. The result is that cotton is selling below the government loan price of 15.64 cents a pound middling basis. The market has recently slumped a full cent per pound, with a weak draggy prospect.

There is one main cause for this present low price of cotton, according to Seth P. Storrs, Commissioner of Agriculture — overproduction — in other words too much cotton and too little purchase money in the world. Like a stone thrown into a pond, the price had to sink.

Naturally, there is but one thing that will raise the price of cotton. A small crop acreage this year. Could it be known today that the acreage would drop off ten per cent this year, the price of December cotton would jump tomorrow.

Short, Staple Cotton A Curse
Alabama's heavy quantity, especially in cotton production. In 1929, 92 per cent of the cotton crop in Alabama was 7-8 or shorter in length. This short staple cotton is untenderable on contracts. When sold it is at a penalty. Alabama farmers lose heavily each year because of their short staple cotton. Cotton sold through the farm bureau is sold on the basis of grade and staple, thus bringing the full price to the farmer. Alabama seems to be at the foot of the ladder with short inferior staple cotton, according to Carl Williams in charge of cotton for the federal farm board.

A Big Cotton Crop Bad For Farm
A big crop of cotton this year means a very low price. It means that the farm board can not help the farmer to any degree. Europe and Asia are raising more and more of the better staple of cotton. The United States is raising more and more of the short staple. There can be but one result of this great mistake. Southern farmers will face bankruptcy, eventually.

Fertilizer Movement Behind Previous Years

Fertilizer movement from March 1, to March 8, totalled 50,500 tons according to figures released by W. B. Griffin, chief clerk of the Department of Agriculture at Montgomery. Figures for the past three years are appended showing that this year is behind the last 2 years in movement of fertilizer to date. Figures given by Seth P. Storrs, Commissioner, are as follows:

Oct. 1, 1927 to March 8, 1928	316,500 tons.
October 1, 1928 to March 8, 1929	237,200 tons.
October 1, 1929 to March 8, 1930	224,500 tons.

BIG SCHOOL PROGRAM

School building may shatter all records in 1930, in spite of the fact that educational buildings erected in the United States last year cost $416,279,720.

Such is the encouraging news contained in a recent statement based on reports made to the C. A. Dunham Co., Chicago heating engineers. It is also indicated that the class of construction and equipment to be employed will be better than formerly.

The little old red schoolhouse of sentimental fame, with its flimsy, firetrap walls, its draughty floors and poor lighting, has faded into obscurity. Yet health bureaus declare that a million persons are ill daily from preventable causes, many being school children who are victims of improper heating, usually overheating.

Educational leaders are striving to correct this condition, say the engineers and many of the new schools will install differential vacuum heating systems, while others are changing over to this scientific methods, thus protecting health and saving at least a fourth of the fuel bill.

Twenty million children are now in the grade schools, while other millions are overflowing the high schools and colleges. Thousands of schools buildings are obsolete, and throughout the nation many new buildings are vitally needed to meet population growth.

It is pleasing to note that a genuine effort is being made to provide the oncoming generations with facilities for health and comfort during study hours.

W. R. Dalton of Pembroke, Wales, accepted the alternative of a prison term rather than return to live with his deserted wife.

LETTERS FROM FRIENDS OF C. A. WILLIAMS IN S. C.

Following we publish letters received by the parents of Charlie Williams, who was accidentally killed several days ago, while working in Watterboro, South Carolina.

Allendale, S. C., March 4, 1930.

My Dear Mrs. Williams:

You do not know me, but I know your son and as I read the account of his sad death, I can not refrain from writing to you. Mr. Williams boarded with me two falls ago, and last summer he was working near here and one Sunday he dropped in to see us. Said he always felt at home at my house and just came in to see us. We liked him so much and was such a nice young man. Did he go home this past Christmas? He told me that he was going to spend Christmas with you. I hope he did. When I saw him in the summer I had no idea that his end was so near. You have my sympathy and love.

Mrs. A. C. DUNBAR,
Allendale, S. C.

29-N. Alex. St., Charleston, S. C.,
March 4, 1930.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Williams,
Clanton, Alabama,
Dear Friends:

It is with sad hearts that we write to you because death has taken from us one of the very best friends we have ever had, and that dear friend was your son, C. A. Williams.

Mr. Williams and my husband, L. A. Padberg, have known each other for six years. I met him shortly after my marriage three years ago, while he was working in the high line camp near Newton, Ala.

To know him was to love him, because of his bright personality and his willingness to be a true friend to his fellowman. We shall miss his smiles and cheerful greetings for that is the C. A. we have known. Even while he was ill in the Roper Hospital here last summer he continued to "jolly" us all and look on the bright side of life.

He was a frequent guest in our home to dine and chat away the evenings.

Life is short—so it won't be long until we shall all meet him over there.

Asking God to help you bear your burden and bless you,
Yours sincerely,
L. A. PODBERG and WIFE.

MR. CHARLIE ALVIN WILLIAMS KILLED BY FALLING POLE, 3RD

Mr. Charlie Alvin Williams was an employee of the Dixie Construction Company, holding a position with this company for seven years, being located both in Alabama and in South Carolina. At the time of his death he had been in Watterboro, South Carolina about a month.

He was instantly killed by an accident which occurred on March 3rd at 8 o'clock a. m.

Charlie was a kind, loving young man. He was 29 years old, and gained the friendship of everyone he knew. He was so kind and thoughtful of his mother and father, or anyone else in time of need.

Mr. Lloyd Teel, one of the boys he worked with, accompanied his body back home. He arrived at Clanton on March 4th, at 10:10 o'clock a. m. and the remains were laid to rest at Shiloh Cemetery March 5th, Martin in charge of the body. The funeral was conducted by Rev. W. P. Lowery and Rev. T. J. Deason.

It greatly grieved us to hear of the passing of this precious boy. He was so wonderful in all his loving ways and thoughtful that his good works commenced here will continue to grow and be a living monument to his virtues and beauty.

He is survived by a father and mother, one sister, Elmae, two brothers, Bob and John Williams, and a host of relatives and friends, to mourn his loss.

May the One who comforts and sustains all be ever with them through this vale of tears. Charlie, we are sure still watches over you and loves you as tenderly.

The sweet spirit of Charlie, on the 3rd of March, winged its way into the portals of Heaven and into the presence of his Saviour and loved ones who were waiting to welcome his soul to its Heavenly Home.

Yes, Charlie lies sleeping beneath the green sod
As roses are blooming and sweet flowers nod,
His tenderness lingers through life's dreary hours,
And the lessons he taught are the sweetest of flowers.

We miss him, oh, so much, but he is transplanted to a more glorious home there to await the coming of those he loved and who loved him.

The angels kissed the loving eyes, and closed the white fringed keeper. The pulseless breast is now at rest—
God keep the silent sleeper.

But let's not think of his death, just waiting over yonder, in that fair land with loving hand.

We'll see his sweet smiles again some day. His promise still rings true. Charlie: We are sure still watches over you and loves you so tenderly, so do not grieve, but bravely go on as he would have you do until the happy day when you shall meet him again.

A true lover of Charlie's,
ALTA BELLE VINSON.

Tomahtoes or Tomaytoes?

HOW do you pronounce it? "Sure it's tomahtoes," says the Irishman. "Don't ye ate 'em?" And the packers of canned tomatoes are inclined to agree with him even if they don't quite agree with his etymology. The dictionaries, too, recommend this pronunciation, and define the word as "the pulpy edible fruit of a familiar plant of the nightshade family, highly esteemed as a vegetable, or the plant itself."

However you pronounce it, you like to eat it, so here are some of the latest recipes for making tomahtoes taste especially good:

Stewed or Scalloped

Stewed Tomatoes with Toast Cubes: Turn the contents of a No. 2 1/2 can of tomatoes, three-fourths teaspoon salt, three tablespoons sugar, one and one-half teaspoons onion juice and one tablespoon minute tapioca into a sauce pan, and stew gently for fifteen minutes. Add one tablespoon butter and turn out into serving dishes. Meanwhile, butter two thick slices of bread on both sides, cut in small cubes and brown in a hot oven or under the broiler flame. Drop several cubes on top of each serving, and serve at once. Serves six.

Scalloped Tomatoes, Scotch Style: Bring to boiling the contents of a No. 2 can of tomatoes, three-fourths teaspoon salt, one tablespoon sugar, and a few grains of pepper. Add one-half cup quick-cooking rolled oats, and pour into a buttered baking dish. Cover the top with buttered crumbs, and bake in a hot—375°—oven for thirty to forty minutes. Serves six.

WHERE SHALL WE EAT?

That all depends on the kind of food you want. If you want the best that can be prepared, you'll find it at

Fertilizer Shows
5,000 Ton Slump

Bulk Yet To Be Moved, However, Commissioner Storrs Points Out

Fertilizer movement for this season was marked by a falling off of 5000 tons over the previous week, according to figures compiled by William B. Griffin, chief clerk of the Department of Agriculture, who is in charge of fertilizer tag sales. Mr. Griffin's figures show that in 1928 to date of March 1, that 235,000 tons had been sold. Last year to this date 133,000 tons had been disposed of. On March 1, this year, 174,000 tons had been sold.

Although the movement has slowed down, from the third week in February the total amount sold to date is 61,000 tons behind 1928. Most of this has already been applied to the Gulf Coastal truck crops.

Commissioner of Agriculture Storrs was of the opinion that it was too early to draw any conclusion regarding the present tonnage of fertilizer movement and the probable acreage of cotton to be planted.

The bulk of the fertilizer is yet to be moved and the last weeks of March and early April will see the movement of fertilizer from factory to farm at its peak. Last year saw the Alabama record broken for the tonnage of fertilizer applied. What the tonnage will be this year remains to be seen and nothing but a long range guess seems possible at this time. There is a constantly growing tendency to use fertilizer in Alabama, especially on the cotton crop. In view of the gradual increase in use of fertilizer a liberal application and tonnage is indicated for this year.

Walnut Creek Home-Coming Day Success

Thy Fountain," was sung. The hour was turned over to Bro. Gibson, who read the 23rd division of Psalms as introductory; then the song, "Amazing Grace," was sung, after which he entered upon his sermon, using as a text a portion of scriptures in the 14th chapter of Job, "Man, born of woman, is of few days and full of trouble," and preached a most wonderful sermon, not leaving many dry eyes in the house.

Following the sermon we knelt in prayer and were led by Bro. Hays. Then we sang the old song, "Dunbar," and were dismissed for dinner at 12 o'clock. We had a great spread which was enjoyed by all.

Afternoon Session

The meeting was called to order at 1:20 p. m. by singing, "When the Roll Is Called up Yonder," while the congregation was being seated, and then sang the old song, "How Firm a Foundation." Prayer was led by Bro. Jno. Baker. Bro. Gibson read as introductory the 25th Psalm. The service was an old fashioned praise service and a touching one, hearing the faithful old soldiers of the Cross relating their experiences of life's rugged ways. Having a song and a proposition that all who desired to be better servants of the Master shake hands with Rev. Honeycutt and Rev. Messer, was a touching moment of the hour, when it is believed that every soul in the house felt the divine power of old time religion. Everybody began singing "Old Time Religion."

Just before closing Bro. Honeycutt asked that all who knew when the change came in their life to rise to their feet, a goodly number rose, bringing expression of a joyous shout upon their bright faces. The closing song, "Bye and Bye," was sung and the meeting dismissed by Bro. Deason.

TWO INJURED IN ACCIDENTS ON HIGHWAY LAST SATURDAY

Two auto accidents which occurred last Saturday on the Birmingham highway, a few miles south of here, within a short time of each other sent two men to the Central Alabama Hospital here.

The first occurred about eleven thirty in the morning, when the car in which Orville Burnett was riding was wrecked. He was brought to the hospital by Buddy Willis, employee of the Alabama Power Company, who was passing at the time, information stated. Burnett received a broken arm, and was dismissed in a day or so from the hospital.

J. E. Hinds was brought to the hospital shortly after the first accident, and was released after being given treatment.

Rev. and Mrs. Ernest Childs, Mrs. V. J. Elmore, Mrs. L. C. Warr motored to Birmingham last Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Dowling and daughter, Dorothy, of Alexander City were visitors to Clanton last Thursday.

Fiddlers See A Big Time In Verbena

al attraction to their community, as well by the benefit realized for the schools as by the realization of having provided a splendid evening of entertainment for those present. And the Association wishes to thank the press of this county and other counties, and the business men and public spirited citizens of this and neighboring communities for their cooperation in the advertising and furnishing of prizes for the convention.

The first prize, $10.00 in cash, was won by W. H. Denison, who certainly wielded a smooth bow; the second prize was won by Amerine Vance; other fiddlers winning prizes were: R. A. Johnson, Jim Courtney, Samuel Watkins, Arville Wright, Adam Courtney, Zeb Mims, J. C. Price, Barney Adams, Irion Howell, Renzy Blalock, B. W. Hopper, Joe Grooms, J. V. Simms, R. A. Willis, H. Lowery, R. A. Sanders, E. B. Vance, J. E. Guy, Hollis Wright, V. R. Vance, Kermit Lowery, E. D. Dawson, and Herman Lowery. First prize for orchestra was won by Messrs. Price, Blalock, Howell and Dawson. First prize in hog calling was won by Renzy Blalock. Among those who were excellent second were Edward Harmon, Howell, Paul and Claud Dawson, Herman Clark, and also some of the fiddlers. An interesting feature was the fact that one fiddler, Mr. B. W. Hopper, is eighty-nine years old, and another, Arville Wright, twelve years old. The judges, selected by the fiddlers, were B. B. Scott, J. R. Griffin, T. N. Howard.

The prizes were as follows: $10.00, $5.00, for orchestra, $2.50 for hog calling. The cash was donated by the P. T. A., S. L. Gibson, Floyd Irvin, C. D. Hughes, and J. S. Hubbard. Other prizes were as follows, with the fiddlers' name following: Hat, by Estate of D. I. DeRamus; shirt and tie, by Guldred Bros.; setting fine white Leghorn eggs, H. W. Davis; sack flour, S. D. Williams; $1.50 in trade, Moore's Drug Store; tobacco humidor, W. W. Fox; can of tobacco, Alred Drug Co.; shaving mirror, Upchurch Drug Co.; pound coffee, W. T. Patterson, syrup, Dr. and Mrs. C. S. Strock; bucket of honey, Verbena Service Station; flashlight, Howard Bros. Garage; hair cut and shave, Verbena Barber Shop; pair socks, Chicago Sales Co.; pair socks, Broadhead's; suit pressed, Powell's Pressing Shop; pair garters, Elmore's; tie, H. T. Williams; other cash prizes, P. T. A.

During an intermission Mr. S. L. Gibson rendered two violin solos, accompanied at the piano by Miss Birdie Grant.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Henley, former residents here, but now of Birmingham, Ala., stopped in Clanton last Sunday en route to Union Springs, Ala., where they will visit Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Henley.

Democrats Mentioned For Offices

that he had a claim to the office that was worth just as much, as any other citizen of the county and we agreed that we would like for him to assess our taxes. The writer told this school of politicians that there was something about this tax collector job that attracted a lot of our citizens attention, from the way the list is running up with candidates, and then discussed what Dr. Marcus said a few moments before making our entrance into this political school, that it was a "FAT JOB" and we all agreed that Dr. Marcus diagnosed the case right.

For the office of Tax Assessor Mr. Hugh Jones, who has lived here several winters and knows the people of the county might well and they know him—and all speak of Hugh in highest praise, as an outstanding citizen and man whose life has been clean and worth much to his county. Mr. Jones would make the county a mighty good tax assessor and his friends realize this and are urging him to get his hat into the ring, before the time expires April 1st, 1930.

The office of Sheriff does not seem to go by without someone with an eye on it. We have not talked with Mr. J. R. Hardy, ex-Sheriff of Coosa County, about him being a candidate for Sheriff of Chilton County, but his friends have insisted that we get right into the fight for him and advocate his candidacy right off hand, but this paper does not feel that it would be right nor proper for it to take up the cause of any candidate until the primary has been held, hence, we are not advocating any candidate until that happens, however Mr. Hardy made Coosa County a good Sheriff and beyond question would make Chilton County a good one for he has had experience and has the reputation of treating his fellow man right and all of them alike. That's what we need in Chilton County, and that kind of a man will be nominated by the Democrats, for the people to vote on next November, for all the offices to be filled in this county. But what's the use of rushing the season when we have so much prosperity to talk about?

Power Taxes For '29 Nearly Twice Figure For 1926

Birmingham, Ala., March 12.—State, county and municipal taxes paid by the Alabama Power Company and its associated companies in Alabama in 1929 were almost double the amount of such taxes paid by these companies in 1926, Thomas W. Martin, President of the Power Company, stated here Friday.

A total of $1,869,412.41 was paid by the Power Company and its associated companies during the year into the treasuries of the State, 61 of the 67 counties, and 157 municipalities, based on assessments against their properties as of October 1, 1928, Mr. Martin said. This sum was collected in the form of ad valorem, franchise, license and numerous other forms of assessments for the privilege of doing business in Alabama. The amount paid by Alabama Power Company represented nearly 10 per cent of its gross receipts, or 10 per cent of each customer's service bill, and averaged $5,000 per day.

Commenting on the increase in taxes paid by the Power Company and its associates, Mr. Martin said, "This year-by-year increase in taxes is a serious problem in connection with the Company's continued expansion and in relation to its electric rates to homes and industries, as well as to the location of new industries in the State. In particular, the tendency of municipalities to levy ever-increasing license taxes upon business may have a deterrent effect upon municipal growth. We therefore wish to invite thoughtful consideration to this situation.

"Alabama Power Company is one of the State's largest tax payers, and is thus one of the largest contributors to the cause of education in Alabama. Of the $1,869,412.41 collected by State, county and municipal authorities in 1929, more than $847,000 found its way directly into funds for the benefit of education. In addition, a substantial part of the sum paid into the general fund of the State is appropriated for educational purposes."

Misses Madge Scarborough and Jewel Martin motored to Montgomery last Sunday to witness the performance of the Passion Play.

CLANTON

JEMISON

SENIORS WILL PRESENT PLAY HERE FRIDAY

Large Crowd Expected To See Presentation Of Musical Comedy

If enthusiasm counts, there will be standing room only at the high school auditorium here, when the musical comedy "Betty Lou" is presented by the Senior Class of the Chilton County High School, next Friday night, March 21st.

For the past several days, Mrs. Rhea Cobb, a special coach, has been putting the characters in the entertainment through some real work, preparing for the presentation. Mrs. Cobb has worked willingly, and reports an abundance of local talent found, suitable for the various parts.

The comedy has a colorful love story and is alive with adventure. The chorus girls in costumes are simply ablaze with color, alive with action, and tuneful melodies that set a new high mark for local amateur entertainments.

The story opens with a delightful tea party at which Clanton's loveliest girls will look lovelier, and will sing and dance their way right into your hearts. The cast is excellent with Miss Janice Danforth and Harris Hardy playing leads. Many others who prove extremely entertaining have mastered their roles.

SUNBEAMS TO MEET NEXT SATURDAY, MARCH 22ND

The Sunbeams will meet next Saturday afternoon, March 22nd, at the Baptist church, according to an announcement given the News this week. The meeting will begin at three o'clock.

All members are urged to be present at this meeting. Plans for an Easter egg hunt will be made, so if you want to enjoy this coming picnic, be at the meeting Saturday afternoon.

HEFLIN NAMES 3 PROPOSED FEDERAL JUDGE CANDIDATES

Following a conference with President Hoover, Senator Heflin stated he had proposed names of three candidates to succeed Judge Henry D. Clayton as federal judge for the Middle District of Alabama. Among those named are Col. Dempsey Powell, of Greenville, Ala.; Arthur Fite, of Jasper, and Clanton Smith, of Opelika.

"LIGHHOUSE NAN" WILL BE GIVEN AT MARBURY SCHOOL

On next Friday night, at 8 o'clock, the faculty of the Marbury school will present a three-act comedy-drama, entitled "Lighthouse Nan," in the Marbury school auditorium, at Marbury, Alabama.

Admission will be twenty and thirty cents.

"WOMANLESS WEDDING" TO BE AT THE PINE LEVEL SCHOOL

For some real good laughs see the "Womanless Wedding," at the Pine Level School, near Marbury on next Friday night, March 21. In addition to this play, there will be two other short plays. Admission fifteen and twenty-five cents.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Ross, Misses Louise Pack, Helen and Jane Roberts motored to Birmingham last Thursday to witness the performance of "The Passion Play."

High School To Open Baseball Season On Friday Afternoon

For the past few weeks the baseball team of the Chilton County High School has been put through some rigid training by Coach Green, and according to reports are showing up well, with prospects of having a very active season.

The first game of the season to be played by the high school team will be played on next Friday afternoon with the Montevallo team. The game is scheduled to be called at three-fifteen. On the following Saturday afternoon, a three o'clock another game has been scheduled with the Elmore County High School team. Let's everybody who possibly can, go out to see these games, so that the boys who have been practicing so hard, will see that the town is backing their home school team.

C. Hall Found Dead At His Home Near Shiloh

C. Hall, age 73, was found dead in his home in the Pleasant Grove Community, Shiloh, Tuesday morning of last week. According to the story given in the News, Mr. Hall, it was believed had just gotten up early that morning, and was sitting in front of the fireplace when he died suddenly, falling into the smoldering ashes of the fire. When found, he is said to have been lying face down in the ashes. He lived alone.

The deceased was one of the leaders of the community in which he lived and is said to have taken an interest in all religious and educational affairs of the community.

Funeral services were held Wednesday morning of last week with Rev. B. Lawrence and Rev. G. G. Williams conducting. Interment took place in the Pleasant Grove cemetery. The deceased is survived by several children and other relatives.

UNION GROVE ADULT SCHOOL INTERESTING

Poultry Courses Proving Of Considerable Interest To Farmers

The evening school which is being conducted at the Union Grove school, on poultry, is proving of considerable interest to the farmers and the wives of farmers in that community, who are attending. The work is increasing rapidly and very satisfactorily.

An experience meeting, held recently, on brooding baby chicks, led by Mrs. A. P. Robinson, Mrs. S. Y. Dorniney, Mrs. G. L. Glass, Mrs. Martin, and R. M. Wade, proved to be very interesting and beneficial. Miss Bertha Johnson of Jemison also gave a very impressive demonstration on selecting eggs for hatching and on candling eggs.

Mr. Frank Mastin, proprietor of the Crestview Poultry Farm near Thorsby, gave a demonstration using birds at the home of Mr. Pomp Robinson, on treating poultry for worms, while Mr. J. P. Montgomery, of Jemison, gave a very interesting demonstration of methods on culling the flock.

The school is being conducted on Tuesday and Friday afternoon of each week, except when demonstrations are held. The demonstrations are held at the home of one of the members, generally about one o'clock in the afternoon.

There is quite an interest in marketing just now. At the present prices the farmers are advised to have their eggs put in cold storage with the Farm Bureau. In that way they may draw 20 cents per dozen on their eggs and get the advantage of any advance in prices later on.

The purpose of this school is to build up a permanent poultry enterprise with farmers desiring this type of farm work. The chief aims will be along the lines of the most economical production of eggs and better marketing methods.

All interested in poultry are invited to attend these meetings and demonstrations.

Poultry Car Nets Almost $3,000.00

The cooperative poultry car which came over the L & N Tracks in Chilton County last week, stopping at Clanton, Verbena and Jemison, bought poultry from farmers, and paid out $2,961.30 at the car door, according to figures supplied by County Agent Stapp.

At Verbena 1715 pounds were loaded on the car, selling at $351.75. At Clanton, all day, 7092 pounds were loaded with 1,475.40 paid to the sellers, and at Jemison all day, 5,502 pounds were loaded on, bringing $1,134.15.

LANNIE ESTELLE DENNIS, AGE 39, DIED LAST SUNDAY

Mrs. Lannie Estelle Dennis, age 39, wife of Ben O. Dennis, died last Sunday afternoon at her home near Bethel Community on Route Six.

Funeral services were held on the following Monday, at the Bethel church, with Rev. Nobles, Rev. Kelly and Andrew Davis taking part. Martin was in charge. The deceased was the daughter of J. B. White.

W. S. Parrish of Mitchell Dam was among the visitors to Clanton last Saturday.

Basketball Saturday

Return Game With Southern Dairies Promises To Be A Hard And Well Fought Game

The Clanton Athletic Club basketball team will play their thirtieth game of the season here on next Saturday night, March 22, when they meet the Southern Dairies team from Birmingham on a return game.

The Southern Dairies team is the only team that has brought defeat to the Clanton quintet during this season having won two games from them.

From all indications, this game Saturday night at the Maddox Warehouse will be one of the fastest and hardest fought games that has been played by the Clanton Athletic team, for witnessed in Clanton for many, many years.

The Clanton boys are out to win this game, as it is their only chance to attempt to square accounts with their opponent. The local lads have been practicing hard every night this week, with expectations of bringing victory to Clanton.

The people of Clanton should come out to see this game. A lot will depend on the backing from spectators, whether or not the victory will fall to Clanton. The weather will probably be fair and warm, and will offer a good opportunity for those interested to go to the game and boost the local lads. The game is scheduled to start at eight o'clock.

THREE LAY DAM HOUSES DESTROYED

Fire Spreads Rapidly With Aid Of Wind; Others In Danger

Three houses occupied by employees of the Alabama Power Co., were completely destroyed by fire Tuesday afternoon, at Lay Dam, twelve miles east of here. The blaze is said to have originated in the home of Crit Jones, from an electric water heater attachment.

Fanned by a steady wind, the blaze spread to the bunk house, which is used by employees of the Alabama Power Company, who do not have families. This building was also destroyed.

The house occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Bill Murphy was the third one to fall victim to the flames, the three houses being side by side.

A small trunk was the only article to be saved from the house occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Crit Jones, while the contents of the other two houses were removed to safety just ahead of the fire, by employees of the power company.

The volunteer fire department, with equipment, was called from Clanton, but was too late to do other than protect nearby homes, that were in danger. The house occupied by Wallace Wood came near catching fire, but a small water hose was used effectively by power company employees to keep the building wet.

It was stated that the houses were covered with insurance, as was the household furnishings of Crit Jones. The alarm drew many people from Clanton to the scene.

MISS JUANITA CONNATSER HONORED ON BIRTHDAY

Miss Juanita Connatser was delightfully honored on last Saturday night, when she was given a party, honoring her birthday, at her home in Thorsby, Alabama.

Those who joined Miss Connatser at this social affair were Miss Adeline Barnes of Alex City, Miss Louise Crocker of Bessemer and Misses Clara Vines, Jessie Mills, Nelle Stubblefield, Ruth Martin, Jewell Martin, Elizabeth Leslie, Mrs. J. S. McNeill, and Messrs. Tom Frank Teel, William Robinson, R. B. Johnson, Alton and Roy Connatser, and Ross Ellison.

Mrs. Ben Tyus is slowly improving after a serious illness. Her daughter, Miss Ann Tyus, of Kansas City, Mo., was her nurse.

Interest In Air School

Experimental Course Over Station WAPI Praised By Hundreds Throughout Alabama

With letters, telegrams and phone calls by the hundreds evidencing interest, arriving at WAPI Friday, the station finished its first week of the experimental School of the Air.

From Clanton, Anniston, Ashland, Russellville, Decatur, Union Springs, and numerous other cities in the state and some out of the state came messages congratulating the station on the school and telling of the interest students are displaying.

Walter N. Campbell, station manager who announces the programs, said Friday he was more than pleased with the reception educators and school children had given the "school" and he hoped to work out plans for a permanent school of the air over WAPI next fall.

Miss Marie Finney is directing the courses of study presented to air-minded students. P. O. Davis, general manager of the WAPI studios and station, also expressed pleasure at the reception the school was receiving.

Classes begin at 9 a. m. Monday for 30 minutes and again at 10:30 a. m. for 30 minutes of schooling.

Mrs. B. E. Wilkins of Billingsley Route One was in Clanton last Saturday shopping.

ISABELLA COMMUNITY PROGRESSING

Improvements Made In Both Home And School Show Progressiveness

Plodding along, keeping step with the times is the way the Isabella Community, west of Clanton, is attracting so much attention lately. This article is the result of comments from a tourist who happened to pass through that community not long ago, and admired the progressiveness of its residents.

On investigation it was found that during the past several days, residents of the Isabella Community have been adding to the attractiveness of their homes by planting shrubbery in their yards, putting up new buildings and painting old ones.

D. O. Manning is at present erecting a large ten-room dwelling which, we understand, he intends to make his home. Mr. Manning is one of the progressive men who help to build the Isabella community.

Members of the Agricultural Department, the organization known as the Future Farmers of America, at the Isabella, High School, under the direction of Prof. Earle Thomas, have been engaged in beautifying the school grounds. Shrubby has been carefully selected and planted by the boys. The Parent-Teachers Association of the school was very active in enabling the boys to secure the plants and plan their improvement program.

A modern water system has also been arranged and installed by the agricultural boys. Drinking fountains have been placed in the school buildings, a pump which is electrically driven, supplies the water from a nearby source.

Several projects in the agricultural line are now being conducted by groups and individuals, and it seems that those citizens of the Isabella Community are setting a mark, that other communities of Chilton County should see and get in line with progressive, wide-awake communities.

J. R. McAfee Died Last Thursday At His Home

J. R. McAfee, age 68, died at his home in the Pleasant Grove Community last Thursday, March 13th. The deceased was among the outstanding leaders and religious workers of the community in which he resided and took a most active part in all things for the betterment of the community.

Mr. McAfee, a member of the Shiloh church, also a deacon there, serving also as a school trustee, and superintendent of the Sunday school. He came to this part of the country from Arkansas in 1898, and married Miss Martha Moore, of Bibb County, who survives him, along with several children and other relatives.

Funeral services were conducted on the Friday afternoon following his death, with Rev. B. Lawrence, Rev. G. G. Williams and Rev. Paul Oden taking part.

MAY GET CREAM STATION

Watch next week's paper for an article about a cream station for farmers. County Agent Stapp is considering establishing a station in the county.

Mrs. Annie Cannon and daughter, Miss Kathryn Killebrew, are expected to arrive Saturday to visit friends and relatives here.

ROBBERIES COMMITTED HERE FRIDAY

Jewelry and Razors Taken As Loot; Entrance Gained Through Sky-Light

Last Friday night saw two more robberies of stores in the business district of Clanton, when thieves entered the Alfred Drug Company store and the Service Barber Shop, both on the same street, and made away with jewelry from the drug store reported to be valued at approximately $300, and razors said to be valued at $30 from the barber shop.

Entrance to both places was gained through the skylight, although little damage was done by the robbers to gain their entrance.

No clue was found by investigating officers, it was stated, at the time of the discovery. However, James L. Keller, age 16, was arrested in Montgomery the following Saturday night in connection with the theft. The arrest took place after the boy had been watched by detectives for some time. Keller was turned over to Deputy George Murrah, by the Montgomery officers, and brought to Clanton, charged with burglary and grand larceny, information stated.

Keller told officers that another man had removed the merchandise from the store and passed it out to him. The man, he said, caught a train to Birmingham, and he, Keller, went to Montgomery. A pawn ticket, issued from a Montgomery concern for a watch was found on Keller and the detectives said they found that Keller had sold a piece of jewelry to a negro.

MRS. LANIE ATKINSON DIED HERE LAST THURSDAY NIGHT

Mrs. Lanie Atkinson, age 17, wife of Euell C. Atkinson, died last Thursday night at the Central Alabama Hospital here. She became suddenly seriously ill at her home in Jemison, Ala., Thursday, and was rushed to the hospital here in a Martin ambulance, dying soon after arriving.

Funeral services were conducted on the following Friday at Oak Grove cemetery, with Rev. Davis officiating. Martin was in charge.

CLOSING EXERCISES, VERMONT

The faculty and students of Vermont Junior High School will present a program Friday evening, March 21, 1930, at 7 o'clock.

The program is composed of songs, drills, negro debates, dialogues, and a mock trial. Admission will be 15c and 20c.

The public is cordially invited to come. An evening of real enjoyment is promised to all who attend.

C. H. S. TENNIS CLUB ELECTIONS OFFICERS; VERY ACTIVE HERE

The Tennis Club of the Chilton County High School which has recently been organized, elected officers who are as follows: Paul Cox, president; William Arthur Willis, vice president; Samuel Martin, secretary-treasurer.

The Club is composed of Misses Julia Ruth Hester, Tina Hyman, Charles Pyron, Bernice Williams, Messrs. Paul Cox, J. C. Maddox, Earl Ellis, Herman Harris, Clark Polk, Sidney Reynolds, Joe VanDerveer, William Arthur Willis, Walker and Prof. L. C. Warr.

Klan Resolutions On The Death Of Walter E. Martin

There are some things words will not describe. The fragrance of the most delicate flower can not be expressed in words. In love silence is often more eloquent than words. Neither have words ever been sufficient to describe the horrors of war. So words are but clumsy tools with which we try in vain to express our sorrow and offer our sympathy in such hours as death.

In every art, as in music, painting, oratory etc., some have risen to perfection and fame but in giving expression to our feeling of sorrow, sympathy and to our own loss in the going away of such a man as Walter E. Martin, we will find ourselves utterly incompetent. We know of only one (continued to last page)

Farmers Turning To Long Staple Cotton

Auburn, Ala., March 20.—To satisfy market requirements farmers are making an effort to improve the quality of cotton produced on Alabama farms. The big demand, according to J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, is for cotton of one-inch staple.

To meet this demand the experiment station at Auburn has been searching for a variety which is a high yielder of a staple of this length. In recent years variety tests in north Alabama have revealed that D. P. L. 4-8 is a leader in production and also produces the desired staple. This variety has also been a leader in central Alabama variety tests, but not in south Alabama where soil is infested with wilt.

Along with it Cook 1627 meets the requirements and is also a high yielder. On sandy soil where wilt exists Cook 307-6 is a leader. Consequently county farm agents are emphasizing these varieties. If they can succeed in making them the accepted varieties over the state millions of dollars will be added to the value of the cotton crop produced each year, said Mr. Lowery.

Already 6,000 bushels of the Cook 1627 variety have been placed among Colbert County farmers, a report from County Agent John Yarbrough reveals. Many of these seed were produced within the county and have been exchanged among neighbors. Others have been shipped from outside growers.

Similar work is in progress with the D. P. L. 4-8 variety in Calhoun, Etowah, St. Clair, Jackson, Madison, Limestone, Lauderdale, and Franklin Counties.

A few years ago Franklin County farmers began growing D. P. L. and are enthusiastic about it, County Agent J. D. Wood reports.

PLEASANT GROVE CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR WILL ENTERTAIN

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Pleasant Grove church, seven and one-half miles west of Clanton, on the Billingsley road, will give a social next Saturday night, March 22, for the benefit of the church.

Several speakers will be on hand, among whom will be C. E. Stapp, Earle Thomas, and J. D. Griffin.

The above announcement was made by the entertainment committee, composed of Miss Inez McKee, Mrs. Eula Culp, and Miss Minnie Headley, and judging from their efforts, a good time will be assured everyone, and everyone is invited to come and join in the fun.

Mrs. A. C. Wells and Miss Edna McInnis of Jemison were visitors to Clanton last Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Grady Heflin had as their guests during the past week Misses Sallye Mae and Boots Heflin, and Miss Rose Langley.

Mrs. Gus Davis and children of Talladega, Ala., were in Clanton visiting friends and relatives during the past several days.

Mr. W. B. Oliver of Verbeena was in Clanton last Monday attending to business matters.

POULTRYMEN PLACE 7,500 DOZ. EGGS IN STORAGE IN 1 WEEK

Montgomery, Ala., March 20.—During the first week of March poultrymen of 20 counties in Alabama placed 7,500 dozen eggs in cold storage under the cooperative plan of the Farm Bureau and the Extension Service, reports J. B. Sylvest, marketing specialist of the Extension Service, who said that the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation is advancing, through the various county farm bureaus of the State, 20 cents per dozen when the eggs are received in storage.

Eggs came for the following counties during the week: Baldwin, Butler, Bullock, Blount, Conecuh, Covington, Cullman, Coffee, DeKalb, Elmore, Fayette, Lee, Greene, Marshall, Marion, Marengo, Montgomery, Monroe, Mobile, Sumter, and Wilcox. "We are receiving eggs from other counties each day," the marketing specialist said. County agents, home agents, district agents, farm bureau officials are aiding in this project.

Mr. Sylvest reports that poultrymen are manifesting more interest in the project this year than ever before. He said that letters are received each day from poultrymen asking for details as to how to store their eggs and draw the 20 cents per dozen advance. This interest is being manifested because of the low price of eggs, which ranges all the way from 15 to 20 cents per dozen, varying in different sections of the state.

Vertical Health

By Dr. Christmas Seal

Do you know what is meant by "vertical health"? It is the kind that just allows you to be up and around—merely vertical. It is of no great value for one who has to work. A man needs something more than the mere ability to drag around. He needs vigor, pep, efficiency. Instead of just keeping going he must have pep enough to love to go.

Dr. Christmas Seal says that the way to win a fight is to "step into it." If you are afflicted with one of these forms of silent sickness that hold you down without your knowing why, don't forget that the spring of the year is a good time to take stock of your physical condition. Let your doctor check you up. Probably a change of diet, more sleep, lighter work or better habits will wind you up so that you can find the zip of life.

SODA AND FERTILIZERS

My aim is to sell fertilizers that fit your requirements as completely as possible. A fertilizer properly proportioned and intelligently used is the best means of producing crops at a profit.

I have fifty tons of pulverized Chilean Nitrate of Soda en route, and other fertilizers on hand now.

Come in and let me figure with you on your fertilizer needs. Don't forget to use soda on oats early for best results.

A good business man will not buy a farm or any property without first looking it over to see what it is worth. However, some will buy or loan money on land without an abstract.

Isn't it equally as foolish to buy a farm without looking it over as to buy it and not know whether the titles are good or not? Without an abstract you do not know where you are getting the land you look at or not.

Before investing in land in any way have an abstract made and be safe.

IN MEMORY OF W. E. MARTIN

The following poem was written by Miss Annie BeFoy McDonald, a pupil in the Clanton Grammar School. Annie BeFoy is in the Sixth Grade.

Mr. Walter Martin—
Everybody's friend.
He was a faithful worker

For God until the end.
Through all of his sickness
Everyone would say

"How is Mr. Martin?"
Have you heard today?"
But on February 22

The sad news came around,
Mr. Martin is dead;

His soul is homeward bound.
His scholars are lonely
At Baker Junior High.

Mr. Martin, we all miss you,
But will meet you by and by.
His class at Sunday School

Will also miss him too,
But if they will follow him
They will meet him too.

Mrs. Martin and Gladys,
Just do the best you can
And follow Mr. Martin;

You'll meet him in that land.
Where there will be no parting
And no more sad good-byes,

But all shall dwell forever
In that home beyond the skies.
But let us all be faithful

And walk in His way;
Live like Mr. Martin
And meet him some sweet day.

COMPARE VALUES BEFORE YOU BUY AN AUTOMOBILE

Low charges for distribution of the new Ford save you at least $50 to $75 in addition to the many savings in making the car

THESE are days when every dollar counts. The period of reckless spending is over. People are going back to the good old-fashioned principles of thrift and economy. Value is again being carefully considered.

Nowhere is this more important than in the selection of an automobile. For the purchase of a car represents a considerable investment. It should not be decided on hurriedly, but only after analyzing every important factor that concerns cost, value and performance. The time to do this is before buying—not afterward when it is too late.

ON THE basis of cost, performance and the actual comparative worth of every part, the new Ford is a value far above the price you pay. It is made of better materials and with greater care and accuracy because of the recognized efficiency and economy of Ford manufacturing methods.

The value of these methods is known and understood by millions of people. It is not generally realized, however, that these same principles of efficiency and economy are applied also to every step in the distribution of the Ford car. The low cost of selling, financing time payments, etc., means a direct saving to you of at least $50 to $75 in addition to the money saved by Ford economies in making the car. Here are three reasons why this is so.

(1) The Ford dealer does business on a smaller margin of profit because of the greater number of cars he sells. His discount or commission is the lowest of any automobile dealer. The difference in your favor, ranging from 25% to nearly 50%, comes right off the price you pay for the car.

(2) The Ford charges for financing are low.

(3) No expensive extra equipment is needed when you buy a Ford. The car leaves the factory ready for use. The f.o.b. price includes a Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield and an extra steel-spoke wheel, in addition to four Houdaille double-acting shock absorbers and fully enclosed four-wheel brakes. Any accessories you may wish for your individual taste are sold considerably below the usual prices. None of these charges for selling, financing or accessories is marked up or increased to cover a high trade-in allowance on a used car.

Get all the facts, therefore, before you buy and figure out just what you are getting for your automobile dollars. Go beyond the f.o.b. price and find out how much more you pay the dealer than the dealer pays at the factory. Analyze the used-car allowance. Compare all charges—item for item—value for value.

WHEN you do this you will have a new appreciation of what the Ford Motor Company and Ford dealers are doing to keep down the cost of Ford cars. You will also know why it is possible to put so much real value into the new Ford and still retain the low price. The money you pay goes for value in the car. It is not wasted in excessive costs in manufacturing or selling.

FORD MOTOR COMPANY

44 Cars Poultry Brings $145,200

Montgomery, Ala., March 20.—With in the past eight weeks Alabama farmers have sold 44 car loads of poultry cooperatively for which they have received approximately $145,200 reports J. B. Sylvest, marketing specialist of the Extension Service, Auburn, who is in charge of these sales. Some 17,600 farmers sold poultry to these farm bureau cars. Five other cars are loading this week.

Counties in which the cars have been run include Houston, Lamar, Marion, Geneva, Covington, Wilcox, Clarke, Conecuh, Butler, Escambia, Coffee, Henry, Dale, Elmore, Macon, Lee, Barbour, Pike, Crenshaw, Colbert, Lauderdale, Lawrence, Clay, Randolph, Chilton, Tallapoosa, Talladega, Coosa, Calhoun, Walker, Monroe, Dallas, Choctaw, Sumter, Blount, Etowah, Marshall, Winston, Baldwin, St. Clair, and Fayette.

Edward A. O'Neal, President of the Farm Bureau comments: "Reports coming from all over the state indicate that the poultry cars are of untold value in promoting the poultry industry of the state. By marketing their poultry cooperatively farmers are assured of prices in line with the leading markets of the country, and the man or woman with one chicken gets just as good a price as those with a large number of birds. Some counties are this year loading their first cooperative poultry cars and are well pleased."

MORE AND BETTER CORN IS NEEDED IN ALABAMA

Alabama needs more and better corn according to F. W. Gist, statistician for the State Department of Agriculture at Montgomery. In support of this statement it was shown that only 78 bushels out of every 100 grown last year was fit to sell. The remainder was "nubbins." This is a great percentage of "poor corn," which is largely a loss.

According to records of the Department, the average yield of corn in Alabama is 15 bushels per acre. Therefore, with a waste of three and three-tenths bushels per acre, Alabama produced only an average of eleven and seven-tenths bushels of corn per acre. This small yield can not be considered profitable.

A COUNTING ROOSTER

Experiments in psychology are being carried on enthusiastically with many kinds of animal life as subjects. A recent test reported from the University of Chicago is quite interesting.

Kernels of corn were placed in a row on the floor, with every third kernel tacked down, and a rooster was permitted to help himself. Failing to lift a fastened kernel, he would pass on and eat the next. The missing kernels were replaced and next time he made no attempt to devour the stationary kernels. Then the third kernels were loosened, but he still passed them by until his foot struck one and moved it; then he went back and ate them all.

Some who witnessed the experiment believe that it proved the rooster's ability to count; others were skeptical. Possibly he was an unusual bird, or had been influenced by his university environment.

We don't vouch for the truth of the story, but if you doubt it try the experiment on your own rooster.

FARM HOMES SERVED

Progress in farm home betterment, which is being made in many states with increasing rapidity, is recorded by Miss Helen Johnson, director of home demonstration work in Alabama, as reported by the Associated Press.

Referring to what is being done throughout Alabama alone in the matter of rural electrification, Miss Johnson states that since the movement was begun in 1924 electric service has been extended to 7,557 farm customers, and adds:

"As in the urban home, electricity is lifting the burden from farm people by supplying the service needed and wanted to make their homes measure up to their ideals."

Through the cooperation of agricultural colleges, farm organizations women's clubs and government departments with the electric companies, farm electrification programs have been entered upon in nearly every state with benefit to the communities served. The movement is as worthy as that for good roads or any other facility for the betterment of rural living conditions.

STATE FARM LABOR PLENTIFUL

Alabama farm labor bears a ratio of 116 compared with 106 at this time last year. The depressed conditions in the cities have caused many laborers and city residents to return to the farm in the opinion of Seth P. Storrs, Commissioner of Agriculture.

FARM FINANCES & FERTILIZER

Reports have reached Commissioner Storrs that in many sections money is not being advanced to farmers as freely as in other years. This tightness in financial circles is nationwide. Alabama farmers to date are finding it difficult to secure advances for as much fertilizer as in former years.

It is still too early to draw any definite conclusion regarding cotton acreage as indicated by tonnage of fertilizer sold to date. Each sack of fertilizer bears a tag issued by the State Department of Agriculture, and in this way W. B. Griffin, chief clerk, is able to announce weekly over WAPI the exact tonnage sold. This information is broadcast at 12:40 P. M. each Saturday.

THE CHILTON COUNTY NEWS

J. B. ATKINSON, PUBLISHER

BILLY SMITH Editor

Entered in the postoffice of Clanton, Alabama, as second class matter under the Act of Congress of March, 1897.

Spring---Opportunity
Just Around The Corner

Spring is just around the corner, on its way to a nation wrapped in almost a financial crisis, although with opportunity overflowing, even on every green leaf put out by every tree. It has often been said that in every cloud, there is a silver lining and after the storm comes the sunshine.

This was never so true, in general, as it is at this time. To those who let the idea creep, or leap, into their minds that we are in for a year of hardships, caused by some power, the origin of which has not yet been determined, although many solutions have been offered, now is the time to erase that idea and begin to plan for better and more substantial things.

Spring brings with it not only longer, more pleasant days, but gives the Thinker an opportunity to get away from the family fireplace where troubles and cares are laid out in display before those who have plenty of their own. It gives one an opportunity to get out and do things, not fearing to face a new day, one of dreary cold weather, when smiles and words of cheer are so scarce that they are almost forgotten.

Opportunity was once described as approaching like a snail, and once it has passed, it changes into a fleet rabbit, and is gone. This snail is on his way, in company with Spring.

Spring, a season that brings out all that is beautiful in the works of Nature, should also bring out all that is good and beautiful in the human mind, which also is among the many works of Nature, one of the most wonderful masterpieces. However, it is not yet completed, but the present, or past financial depression should go far in assisting to complete the human mind. That piece of work has not yet learned to cease taking things for granted. It needs to go through a thorough process of concentration on what is the best and most profitable way to pursue in order to better conditions and prepare for individual independence.

Some things the people of Chilton County, the farmers especially, should consider more deeply, are Thrift, Independence, and adapting themselves to their work, instead of trying one thing after another, and never gaining any ground on anything. Stick to your business, study it. Thrift is a forerunner of Independence. Be independent when it comes to finance, and tell the other fellow where to go if he doesn't want to give you your price for your products.

It has also been said, and practically proven, that the cause of much evil, robberies, and the like, is contained in the one word "Ignorance," and the one thing to eliminate ignorance in Chilton County is Education. Education is being made more attractive, instead of repulsive. That work is under way now, in Alabama and in our country. It has been accomplished largely among the children of the rich, and is now open to those who are of very moderate means. And still, even in Chilton County, there are men, even women, who are so backward as to try to thwart efforts to make education more attractive, and easier to get by the poorer families. Those indiscreet persons should be placed in school themselves, evidence of which can be shown by letters sent to editors of most any country weekly newspaper. Let it be hoped that Spring will bring to those illiterate persons a chance to see their mistake. Keep your people in ignorance, and you will have a people of filth, deformity, a people of low ideals. Thank God that Chilton County is gradually emerging from that state, despite the efforts of those few citizens who want to stand apart from the best.

Arthur Brisbane, a writer of note says that the main thing is for each man to live earnestly, think earnestly, and do the best that he can. All the power of Niagara is simply the combined power of tiny drops of water falling from a certain height.

Let us all combine our thoughts, listen to those who have the ability to think and plan for better and brighter things. There is no better time to do this than now, while you farmers are able to till the soil put in tiny seeds that grow into producing plants, bringing to you food, and clothing. Let us not allow this life-giving season to pass without learning and doing something for the advancement of the county. Soon the leaves will begin to fall, cold winds will come again, work will be cut short, and made disagreeable. "Go to the ant, thou sluggard, consider her ways and be wise."

The Bridge Builder

An old man traveling a lone highway
Came at evening cold and gray
To a chasm deep and wide.
The old man crossed in the twilight dim;
The sullen stream had no fears for him.
But he turned when he reached the other side
And builded a bridge to span the tide.
"Old Man," cried a fellow pilgrim near,
"You're wasting your strength with your building here.
You never again will pass this way,
Your journey will end with the ending day;
You have crossed the chasm deep and wide,
Why build a bridge at eventide?"

The builder raised his old gray head,
"My old friend, in the path I have come," he said,
"I followeth after me today
A host of feet must pass this way;
I meant naught to me,
But I have builded a useful be;
I have builded a bridge to span the tide,
And I have builded a bridge to span the tide."

A Brother Of Man

Did you give him a lift? He's a brother of man
And bearing about all the burden he can.
Did you give him a smile? He was downcast and blue.
And the smile would have helped him to battle it thru.
Did you give him your hand? He was slipping down hill.
And the world, so I fancied, was using him ill.
Did you give him a word? Did you show him the road?
Or did you just let him go on with his load?
Did you help him along? He is human like you.
But the clasp of your hand may have carried him thru.
Did you bid him good cheer? Just a word and a smile,
Were what he most needed that last weary mile.
Did you know what he bore in that burden of cares
That is every man's load and that sympathy cheers?
Did you try to find out what he needed from you?
Or did you leave him to battle it through?
Do you know what it means to be losing the fight?
When a lift in time might set everything right?
Do you know what it means—just a clasp of a hand
When a man's borne all that man ought to stand?
—Author Unknown.

"ROUND TOWN"
By Doug

"Let us endeavor so to live that when we come to die, even the undertaker will be sorry."
—Mark Twain.

Clang! Clang! Goes the fire bell. No, I believe it is a siren we have to calmly notify us that somewhere in our midst is a blaze which is about to destroy something. This alarm answered a question that had been in my mind for some time Tuesday. Where are all the people? Well, it didn't take long for them to show up on Upchurch's corner. I had no idea so many people could congregate on such short notice. Might be a swell idea to equip our churches with sirens, for use on Sunday. I'll think it over awhile anyway.

A majority of people long for a great deal of money. Ask some friend what he would do if he had a million dollars in good old Uncle Sam's cash, I'd probably: Go to see some peoples' pet corn, and then laugh—sleep late enough to combine my breakfast with my lunch—buy some of the automobile salesmen a good farm—put out one issue of a paper in the manner I would like to, writing funerals and weddings, telling the cold truth about the participants—then resign my office in the pen pushers league—go to Cuba—buy the Mullins & Moore building, tear it down, and build something to brag about—Open a home for old and discarded newspaper reporters—offer that certain young lady an opportunity to give me a thrill—build Chilton a new high school, and make it a present of it—give some of these popular young men here some real competition—move all those old junk cars away from near the Christian church—buy myself a country estate and raise dogs and cats—go to bed right now, and tell the News there would be no more jabberings from this pencil pusher.

Had a fellow to tell me a dream he had the other night, and it proved to be amusing. He said he dreamed he was sitting on top of the Baptist church, had no idea how he was to get down. It was late at night. After exhausting every effort to find a way down, without jumping, he thought of the limbs on the oaks in front of the building, made up his mind to jump, and did. Sliding down the tree, he found he was clad only in his pajamas. Day was beginning to break, so was he. He ran for home, just ahead of the dog that was chasing him. Just as he turned a corner, he met Eric Hart going to work. Eric attempted to stop him, but nothing doing, the dog was too close. But the delay by Eric's efforts made it possible for the dog to pounce upon his victim and began to ravishly lick his clean shaven face. About that time he said he woke up to find his pet cat really licking his face. Later he told me the moral to that dream was to never eat hot dogs just before going to bed, and don't fail to obey traffic regulations.

In my trip round town, I accidentally ran into some information that permitted me to get the idea we are to have another dry goods store in Clanton, perhaps. Tried to listen a little closer, but about that time some lady blew her car horn for curb service at Moore's, and I didn't get any more information.

I couldn't find out this week, just who was going to move where in the business district. I see now why the Editor hasn't already told you.

Notice that the A & P Store has moved its market department from their large store on Main Street. Well, can't blame them much. I'm afraid it was just a little too high class for our people. There are only a few families in this town who can really appreciate those things that are really modern and the last word—although through pretense they think they can adjust themselves to most anything.

Passed Hill's last night. They were sure doing some cleaning, and scrubbing. But I understand that is a very ordinary occurrence with them.

Now is a good time for Clanton to show off. Folks are beginning to ride on Sundays. Let's show them some real courtesies when they chance to stop in our town. Just noticed the Dixie Cafe was crowded last Sunday night, for some time. Some good Clantonian should have passed around the cigars to the guests, and made them feel at home, if they do that at home.

Mr. Lande didn't feel so very good the other day, and broke loose by giving the people of Chilton County the advantage of a Dollar Day at his store. The Leader, this week end. Yeh, the News has an ad from him this week.

I believe that a regular time for a Dollar Day all over Clanton would bring about a lot of good. But then one would have to contend with the stubbornness of some of our 'progressive' merchants, who talk about doing things, and never want to get in harness with others, and pull together. Some day, somebody is going to put them there anyway, if they don't wake up, and listen to reason.

Back Quit
Hurting

"I was in a very weak condition from a serious sickness," writes Mrs. I. Leonard, 571 Joseph St., New Orleans, La. "I was so weak, I wanted to sleep all the time. I did not have strength to do anything. My back ached nearly all the time. I was just in misery. My mother told me I must arouse myself from the sleepiness, and take something to help get my strength back. She had taken Cardui and had been helped, so I decided to take Cardui, too. After my first bottle, I could see that it was helping me. I took four bottles at this time. My strength came back and I gained weight. Pretty soon, I was my old self again. My back quit hurting, and I haven't had any more trouble since I took Cardui."

SENATORIAL CANDIDATE
ADDRESSES VOTERS

TO THE VOTERS OF THE FIFTEENTH SENATORIAL DISTRICT:
I am a candidate for the office of Senator from the Fifteenth Senatorial District composed of the counties of Autauga, Chilton and Shelby. In entering the race, I did not do so inadvisedly, or on my own motion, but after being urged to do so by voters throughout the entire District.
In asking your vote and influence, it would not be out of place for me to lay before you my fitness and qualifications for the office. I have served as a committee clerk, twice as engrossing of the House and one term as a member of the House. My records in these various capacities have never been attacked.
My position on questions which will likely come before the next session of the Legislature, is as follows:
ROADS. I am in favor of a continued road building program, such as can be carried out, in keeping with the financial conditions of the State.
EDUCATION. The education of the children is a responsibility which rests upon us, and it would be criminal not to meet this responsibility, I am therefore in sympathy with any movement that will bring to the children of this State better advantages in an educational line.
PUBLIC HEALTH. One of the greatest blessings that one can enjoy, is that of good health. We cannot afford at this time to take a backward step in the great work, which has already been begun.
CHAIN STORES. This is a free country and the people have a right to trade where they please, and I would not favor any Legislation, that would curb or restrict them of this privilege. However, I am opposed to any system of business, which seeks to control or monopolize on the necessities of life, or any monopoly, which would paralyze or destroy legitimate business, and in dealing with the Chain Stores, if any Legislation is passed, it will have to be directed along this line.
BANKS. There is no subject that at present the people of Alabama are more interested in than this one. The failure of so many banks in Alabama in recent months, convinces me that depositors in Alabama banks must be protected, by sensible and sane laws. I therefore will favor such measures as will give the depositors this needed protection.
PROHIBITION. I have always favored Legislation to promote temperance, and will continue to do so. I believe in temperance and will continue to advocate the same both by precept and example.
TAXATION. I am opposed to any further burden being placed upon the tax payers. Sufficient revenue is already available if economy and common honesty are practiced to take care of all legitimate demands made upon the State.
In conclusion permit me to say that I am a Democrat. I believe in majority rule, and when a majority has spoken, I abide by the decision whether it be pleasing or displeasing to myself.

Lively New Hour on the Air Wednesday Night

Coca-Cola Topnotchers New Dance Program With Noted Sports Celebrities

Announcement has just been made of what promises to be one of the liveliest hours on the air, the Coca-Cola Topnotchers, with Graham McNamee acting as announcer, and Grantland Rice, the famous editor and writer, introducing a different sports celebrity each Wednesday evening.

According to Mr. Jones, local manager of the Coca-Cola Bottling Company, the new program will be broadcast over Station WAPT every Wednesday evening at nine-thirty as a part of the coast-to-coast network from the New York studios of the National Broadcasting Company.

An unusual feature of the new program is an all-string dance orchestra of 31 pieces, playing the very newest screen and stage hits especially arranged for this novel type of orchestration, and said to bring in the popular music of the day in a refreshing manner.

During each program of the Coca-Cola Topnotchers, Grantland Rice and the guest celebrity of the evening will discuss the most timely sports topics in an unconventional and interesting way. Coca-Cola officials say that the program is distinctly different and think it will be eagerly welcomed by the radio public.

Dief's Service Station Is Showing Goodyears

"Thousands of car owners have felt the need of a tire of heavier than average construction at a moderate price," says Mr. L. E. Diefenderfer, manager of the Dief's Service Station.

"For the requirements of those doing a lot of hard driving over rough and rutty roads, where the added security of extra plies is essential, but where moderate price is likewise essential, the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. has developed a real 'Big Brother' to its popular 'Pathfinder' which has met with unanimous approval of the users demanding quality at popular prices."

"This new line of genuine Heavy Duty six ply tires is heavier, huskier, finer in appearance, with extra mileage, and bears the name 'Heavy Duty Goodyear Pathfinder.'"

"This new product," concluded Mr. Diefenderfer, "is backed by the experience of the largest rubber company in the industry which has built more tires—millions more—than any other manufacturer."

Mr. Ed Miller was admitted Tuesday.

IN MEMORY OF OPHELIA OWEN

On March 10, 1930, the death angel came and took from this world of sorrow Ophelia whom we loved so much. Everyone who knew her loved her. She was always so kind to everybody and ready to do anything for anyone. She will be so badly missed by all who knew her.

She is survived by her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Owens, of Clanton, Ala., six sisters, Mrs. J. N. Norwood, Decatur, Ala., Mrs. J. H. Elliott, Ara, Virgie, Cora and Ester, two brothers, Harmon and Daniel, all of Clanton. Also a host of other relatives and friends are left to mourn after her.

Ophelia was employed in Birmingham for two years. At the time of her death she was at her home in Clanton. During the sixteen months of her illness, all was done for her that loving hands could do, but all was in vain. We understand that God had prepared a better place for her above. The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away.

But let's not think of her death, for she peacefully sleeps in the city of the dead, awaiting the coming resurrection time, when we'll see her sweet smiles again.

IRENE GIBSON.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank those who assisted us during the illness and death of our loving daughter, and sister, Ophelia. Also the Isabella school for the beautiful floral offerings. We especially thank Mrs. Walter Smith for her kind assistance during her illness. We shall always remember Miss Irene Gibson very kindly for her kindness and consolation shown Ophelia during her entire illness. We also highly appreciate Mr. Mell Martin, undertaker, for his kind assistance.

May God bless you all.
—Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Owen and family.

NOTICE OF DAY SET FOR HEARING PROBATE OF WILL

The State of Alabama, Chilton County, Probate Court.

To J. Claude Jones, a resident of the State of Texas, residing at No. 8, VanBuren Apartments, c/o J. M. Nix, Amarillo, Texas.

You will please take notice, that on the 5th day of March, 1930, a certain paper in writing purporting to be the Last Will and Testament of James C. Jones was filed in my office for Probate, by Lawrence F. Gerald and that the 25th day of March, 1930, was appointed a day for the hearing thereof, at which time you can appear and contest the same if you see proper.

of March, 1930.

L. H. REYNOLDS,

3-6-3tc-G Judge of Probate.
 Given under my hand this 5th day

No. 6683.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS OF FIRST MEETING

In the District Court of the United States for the Middle District of Alabama in Bankruptcy.

In the matter of: R. B. Cathey, doing business as Verbena Drug Co., Bankrupt, Postoffice Verbena, County of Chilton, Alabama.

The aforesaid party having been adjudged a Bankrupt under the Act of Congress entitled "An Act to Establish a Uniform System of Bankruptcy throughout the United States" approved July 1st, 1898, meeting of the creditors of said bankrupt is called at the office of the undersigned Referee in the United States Court House, Montgomery, Alabama, on the 15 day of March, 1930, at 10 o'clock, A. M., to make proof of debts, and for the election of a Trustee, and such other matters as are necessary and required by the Act of Congress aforesaid.

Montgomery, Ala., March 3, 1930. M. S. Carmichael, Referee in Bankruptcy.

The Reporter

Consider the reporter. Just any reporter who is honest, energetic, and intelligent. Most of them are.

He is a watcher on the heights, overlooking the activities of men with calm dispassionate eyes.

He makes the whole world vocal. He is the voice of humanity.

He is a white searchlight upon the tower.

Wrongdoers dread him far more than they dread courts, policemen, prisons, or gallows.

The ethics of his profession are set forth in one sentence.

"Tell the truth."

No man can buy his silence, no bribe can color his story.

He has naught to do with politics, or business, or religion, or institutions, or any of the plans of men, except to tell about them.

He meets and mingles with all kinds of people, and moves in all conditions of society.

He is equally at home with a bishop or a bandit. They mean nothing to him save a story.

He is not responsible for the success or failure of any cause or movement. He merely recites the facts.

He gazes on humanity as the moon gazes on the earth.

He is the invisible czar of a free people—public opinion. No largesse or subsidy or patronage can control one word he writes.

He has no class consciousness. He speaks with equal candor concerning the priest and the pariah, the banker and the tramp, the Jew and the Gentile, the saint and the sinner, the radical and the conservative, the lawmaker and the lawbreaker. They all look alike to him.

Bosses and near-bosses, the great, and the near-great, kings, emperors, and presidents, always show him deference, for they know his voice is the roar of the multitude.

All great editors were once reporters—reporters at heart, by choice and by profession. Their keenest delight was found in writing the news of the day—not ponderous opinion thereon. Horace Greely, James Gordon Bennett, Charles A. Dana, Henry Watterson, Henry Grady, Jim McCullough, Melville E. Stone, Jim Keeley, Victor Lawson, and a myriad of others, soldiers of the pen, found their greatest delight in developing and recording the news of the day. They climbed to the dizzy heights of journalistic eminence, but they never ceased to be reporters.

Consider the reporter.

You may never have met one, but he is a person worth while.

"No fidget or reformer. Just a calm observer of ought and must."—Jackson Daily News.

AN ORDINANCE To Levy a Street Tax for the Town of Clanton, Alabama.

Be it ordained by the Town Council of the Town of Clanton, Alabama, as follows:

SECTION ONE:

That every male inhabitant of the Town of Clanton, Alabama, between the ages of Eighteen and Forty-Five years shall, on or before the First day of April, 1930, and each year thereafter, pay to the Town Clerk for the use of the Town of Clanton, Alabama, a street tax of Five ($5.00) Dollars per annum; provided however that any person liable for a street tax under this ordinance, may in lieu of said tax work Six days on the public streets of the Town of Clanton, Alabama, under the direction of the Mayor by April 15th, 1930, and each year thereafter.

SECTION TWO:

That any person liable for the street tax under the provisions of this ordinance, who fails to pay the same or discharge the same in labor in the manner prescribed herein, shall upon conviction, be fined not less than Five ($5.00) Dollars nor more than Ten ($10.00) Dollars.

Read, adopted and approved this day of March, 1930.

"Labeling fly sprays for animals as 100 per cent effective against flies and as having power to increase milk production above normal is unjustified by facts. Furthermore, the oil sprays are not harmless, non-poisonous, nor safe under all conditions and they can not be relied upon to prevent the spread of contagious diseases."—U. S. State Guards Potatoes Against The Black Rot

All growers of sweet potato slips for sale find it necessary to observe a routine of regulations regarding safe production, according to a statement issued by B. P. Livingston, in charge of inspection service for the State Department of Agriculture and Industries. To comply with the State laws and to insure safety from infectious diseases, the following precautions should be observed by all growers:

1. Bed only certified seed which has passed the field inspection and storage inspection of the Department of Agriculture. A list of the growers of certified seed potatoes is in the hands of every county agent in Alabama.

2. Carefully cull out all potatoes showing rotten specks. These might be black rot and destroy much of your crop.

3. Disinfect your seed in a solution of corrosive sublimate or bichloride of mercury—one ounce to 8 gallons of water. Soak for 8 to 10 minutes in a wooden box or tub. Prolonged soaking might injure the seed; too short a time will be of little value. Remove and dry thoroughly. If any rotten specks show up, sort again very carefully. Disinfection is merely a prevention. It is not a remedy for diseases.

4. Beds need plenty of sunshine and a good supply of water near by. Do not use the same bed as used last year, unless the State inspector approves the location as being free from infection. Black rot is a dangerous disease; it spreads readily and kills profits. It is best not to use soil where it receives seepage from barns or other drainage.

Summer Session At Auburn Opens June 2

Auburn, Ala., March 20.—The program of studies is being planned and the faculty selected for the 1930 summer session at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. It will open June 2 and continue for 12 weeks, being divided into two terms. The first will close July 11, and the second will open July 14 and close August 16, at which time the annual summer school graduation exercises will be held.

This is announced by Director Zebulon Judd, who stated that a program of studies would be offered by all schools of the institution, including the graduate schools, and the schools of agriculture, engineering, textile engineering, science and literature, chemistry and pharmacy, veterinary medicine, home economics, and education. Special courses for teachers of vocational agriculture will be offered from July 14 to August 2.

State Capitol News

Forty-eight counties have already reported county-wide plans for the fight against adult illiteracy, which is being carried on intensively with a view to showing as great a reduction as possible in the State's percent of illiteracy when the 1930 census is taken. The Alabama Advisory Committee on Illiteracy, organized February 11, has received highly gratifying responses from over the State to its appeal for the making of a literate Alabama. The forty-eight counties which have taken action in this work are: Autauga, Bibb, Bullock, Chambers, Cherokee, Chilton, Choctaw, Clarke, Clay, Cleburne, Coffee, Colbert, Conecuh, Cullman, Dale, Dallas, DeKalb, Elmore, Escambia, Etowah, Geneva, Greene, Hale, Henry, Houston, Jackson, Jefferson, Lauderdale, Lawrence, Limestone, Lowndes, Madison, Marengo, Mobile, Montgomery, Perry, Pickens, Pike, Randolph, Russell, Sumter, Talladega, Tallapoosa, Tuscaloosa, Walker, and Wilcox. In some of these counties the campaign is already under way, while a few will be unable to undertake it until summer, but have already announced their intention of doing so, and have applied for State aid. Active cooperation in the illiteracy drive is also being received from the cities of Attala, Alabama City, Bessemer, Birmingham, Decatur, Demopolis, Dothan, Eufaula, Florida, Mobile, Ozark, Russellville, Selma, and Sheffield.

In the eight year period, 1920-1928, illiteracy among white children of the State decreased 43 per cent and among colored children 36.1 per cent. Figures on the decrease in adult illiteracy will not be available until the 1930 census, but the reduction is expected to be great. Since 1915 approximately 88,000 adult illiterates have been taught in the State. The work has progressed with particular rapidity since the 1927 Legislature, which put through a constructive program for education all along the line, and among other phases of expansion, made additional provision for the drive against illiteracy.

Governor Bibb Graves, in a recent proclamation urged young men of the State to take advantage of the opportunities afforded by the Citizens Military Training Camps to be held this summer, June 13th-July 12th inclusive at Fort McClellan, Ala., Fort Barrancas, Florida, Fort Oglethorpe, Georgia, and Fort Bragg, North Carolina. The Governor pointed out the beneficial effect of this training, in teaching respect for discipline and the value of team work, and impressing the individual with his obligations and responsibilities as a citizen, as well as promoting physical development.

Farmers are urged to unite for mutual benefit by William Green, President of the American Federation of Labor, in a recent address in Montgomery. President Green called attention to the common interests of agriculture and industry, and declared that farmers should unite, as industry has already done, and present their demands for proper consideration to the nation. President Green stressed the fact that organized labor is strongly opposed to communism, and stands for upholding the Constitution of the United States. The Labor Chief spoke to a capacity audience here, and was welcomed to Alabama by Governor Graves as the guest of the State.

Commissioner L. T. Quinn, of the Department of Game and Fisheries is distributing copies of a Bird Day Bulletin which he has just published for use of the teachers of the State in preparing a program for Bird Day, which will be observed Friday, March 14th. It is an attractive publication, with a cover depicting various birds found in the State, the cover being the work of "Spang" of the Montgomery Advertiser. The publication is much different from the Bird Day Books formerly issued by the Department of Game and Fisheries. The old books carried principally the description of birds, colored pictures of some of them. These, however, were published at great expense and as material of this nature is now available to the public at so much less than it costs the Department to produce it, such material has been excluded.

Articles on bird migration, classification of birds, ways of attracting birds, and the value of birds are included in the publication. A special feature is a list of the three hundred twenty-five birds found in Alabama. It is arranged according to families from "Birds of Alabama" published by Mr. Quinn in 1924, after the first State survey made by the Bureau of Biological Survey at Washington. The bulletins are being sent directly to county and city Superintendents of Education with the request that they be delivered to the teachers working under their supervision.

The Iron Horse of Progress

In order to appreciate the railroads to the fullest extent, the public must know them as bringers of civilization and progress; must be actively conscious of what they are and what they are doing for this country and all its citizens.

Far-reaching, all-penetrating, dependable arteries of travel and transportation spreading throughout the land; pioneers in promoting industrial development and sectional progress; consumers of vast quantities of the country's major products; vital factors in all activities of trade and commerce. That's what the railroads are.

Furnishing with increasing efficiency the most essential form of transportation service in existence; keeping abreast—often ahead—of the times by spending huge sums in improving their properties to meet the public demand; paying in taxes several hundred million dollars annually in support of governmental and other public requirements. That's what the railroads are doing.

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad last week attained its eightieth birthday. From a little strip of track 185 miles long, three-quarters of a century ago, it has grown progressively with the South until to-day it operates over 5,000 miles of road in thirteen states. Such a long record of service and usefulness testifies as to what the L. & N. is and what it is doing in helping the territory it serves. And, as it enters its eighty-first year, it hopes to be of even greater value by providing better and better service. To this end, it requests the continued cooperation of its host of patrons and friends.

L. & N. passenger representatives will consider it a privilege and a pleasure to assist you in the planning of your vacation or business trips. They will gladly quote fares, provide resort literature, give reliable information as to train schedules and, if you desire, make advance Pullman reservations, arrange for tickets, and assist in various ways in formulating travel plans.

In the past ten years about $200,000,000 have been spent by "The Old Reliable" in improvements and betterments to its service.

Miss Edna Cofield Visits Southern Section of Physical Education Meeting in Birmingham

Miss Cofield, our physical educational director, visited the Southern Section of Physical Meeting when it was held in Birmingham last week. Physical and health education leaders from all sections of the United States were in attendance. Among the speakers were Governor Graves, Dr. C. B. Gleen, from Alabama. "Hurry Up" Yost, of the University of Michigan, made a most impressive talk on athletics. He stressed athletics for its chief benefit to the individual, and not spectacular athletics. Miss Cofield brought back this statement: "The theme of the Convention was: 'What can physical and health education contribute towards more complete living for me and you?'" Miss Cofield also brought back many new ideas as well as new plays along physical educational lines which she is putting before her classes.

Junior III Girls On Picnic
The Junior III class, chaperoned by Miss Inez Perry, the home economics teacher, went on a picnic Wednesday afternoon at 5:30 P. M. The fire was made in the ball park. They had three visitors, James Leroy Martin, and J. C. Maddox. After playing a few games we all gathered around the fire and ate to our hearts content. All reported a most joyous time, and want another one soon.

Music Appreciation Club Appreciates Radio Lectures

For the first time in the history of our school we are being taught a class over the radio. This comes from Station WAPI in Birmingham, with Miss Marie Finney as teacher. We are enjoying this music very much. It is an appreciation of folk lore songs that arise out of the every day experiences of the people of Russia, Italy, Switzerland, and other European countries. Some Southern folklore songs are interpreted for us also. The main thought all the way through is "What do we see in music?"

Field Trip
Mr. Walker's Junior III Agriculture class took a field trip Thursday morning. First, they visited the poultry farm of Mr. G. G. Williams. Then they went to the home of Mr. Wiley Gray to see his goats and hogs. On the way back they stopped at the home of Clyde Popwell to see his fine Jersey calf. They all reported a worthwhile trip in every way, and are looking forward to another one soon.

Do You Know "Bettie Lou?"
"Bettie Lou" a comic opera directed by Mrs. Rhea Cobb under the auspices of Chilton County High School, will be given Friday night, March 21, at 8:00 P. M. The admission will be 25 and 50 cents. The cast is composed of local talent with Miss Janice Danforth and Harris Hardy playing the leading roll. Dancing and singing will be some of the main centers of attraction. Don't fail to come.

Tennis Club Elects Officers
President, Paul Cox, vice president, William Arthur Willis, secretary treasurer, Samuel Martin.

Members: Paul Cox, Earl Ellis, Herman Harris, Julia Hester, Tina Hyman, J. C. Maddox, Clark Polk, Charles Pyron, Sidney Reynolds, Joe VanDerveer, William Arthur Willis, Miss Williams, Mr. Walker, Mr. Warr.

The student body and faculty of C. C. H. S. were very sorry to learn of the death of Miss William's grandmother, of Luverne, and Mr. Walker's mother's brother of Lawley. Our entire sympathy goes out to them.

Attention Baseball Fans!
C. C. H. S. Baseball team has been practicing heard every afternoon with the aid of Coach Green. Coach Green has given the boys hard practice, and now they are ready to show what they have learned. A game has been scheduled with Montevallo here Friday afternoon, at 3:15, with Elmore County High School coming here again on Saturday afternoon at 3:00. We want to see every boy and girl in Clanton here to see us play our first game. The boys say they can play much better ball if they have a big crowd to play to.

Junior III's Surprise P.-T. A. Last Tuesday Afternoon

The Parent-Teachers association met last Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Warr presiding in the absence of Mrs. Grady Broadhead. A very interesting program was carried out, and plans were discussed for serving lunches at the school building in the home economics room. Miss Inez Perry's home economics girls surprised all who were present by serving them with delicious sandwiches. We enjoyed this surprise very much, and want the Junior III class to surprise us again soon.

KLAN PASSES RESOLUTIONS ON DEATH OF WALTER E. MARTIN

who has ever competently met such an hour, that is Christ. He who was the Criterion of character of Walter E. Martin and every other true Klansman. Such expressions as: "Him that cometh unto me I will in no wise cast out," "Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest, and ye shall find rest for your souls, for my yoke is easy and my burden light," "He that believeth on me, though he were dead, shall live again and he that liveth and believeth on me shall never die." Walter E. Martin believed and lived.

Many beautiful words might be used in describing Bro. Martin's life, but I can think of no more appropriate tribute to pay him than that which was paid the apostle Stephen, "He was a good man." His life was absolutely spent in unselfish service for others and that is all that really counts in the end. "He that would be greatest among you let him be servant of all."

Whereas, Walter E. Martin, who for a number of years was an officer in our local Klan and who served one term as Grand Klu-Graph of the State, has gone from among us, and

Whereas, we shall miss his smiles, his council and the influence of his Godly life, therefore be it, Resolved: First, that we, his fellow Klansmen, have lost one of our best and truest friends, and one of our most efficient and faithful officers and members of the local klavern.

Second, that we make a stronger effort to follow our Criterion, as did he.

Third, that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon our minutes and that a copy be sent his bereaved family, one to the office of the Grand Dragon and one to the local papers for publication.

Signed: Klokian Committee, Central Klan No. 35, Realm of Ala.

HIGH SCHOOL GROUNDS ARE IMPROVED

Concrete Walks Put Down; Shrubbery And Grass To Be Planted

The students and faculty of the Chilton County High School have been busily engaged during the past several weeks planning and carrying out a beautification program on the school property, here.

The Manual Arts Department, for boys, has been taking some active steps in laying off the school grounds in driveways and walks. Posts, marking the driveways and walks have been put in the ground, which makes it necessary for automobiles arriving at school to keep within the drive-way and off the ground where the school intends to plant grass.

An eight foot concrete walkway has been recently put down at the school, by the Town of Clanton. The walk leads from the front steps of the building to the street. In commenting on this work, Prof. L. C. Warr, principal, said, "Chilton County High School students and faculty are deeply indebted to the city council of Clanton for paving a walk at the school. This has already been completed, and is in splendid condition. This meets a long felt need on our campus and besides it adds to the appearance of the school one-hundred per cent. It was a progressive step on the part of our city, and we shall always feel indebted to them for their interest in our behalf."

Attend Convention Of Bankers In Atlanta

Mr. Fite Popwell, H. S. Shaw, Grady Heflin, Dr. and Mrs. E. E. Upchurch and Mr. and Mrs. John C. Page attended the Bankers Convention, which was held in Atlanta last Tuesday and Wednesday.

The party left last Monday afternoon.

S. M. EDWARDS IS BEING URGED FOR COMMISSIONER

The many friends of Mr. S. M. Edwards of Thorsby, Alabama, are urging him to throw his hat into the race for commissioner from the 2nd district of the county, subject to the action of the Democratic Primary to be held next August. Mr. Edwards is a successful farmer and business man, and is well and favorably known throughout the county. He has made a success of his own affairs and would not doubt bring to the county many progressive changes in the matter of spending our public moneys and give the people results for the money spent. Perhaps we will hear more from Mr. Edwards next week.

Mr. W. M. D. O'Neal of Stanton was in Clanton last Monday, and while here, was a caller at the News office.

Mr. G. T. Dickinson of Billingsley was in Clanton last Monday, calling at the News office to have his subscription marked up for another year.

Attending W. M. U. Convention Held In Mobile, Alabama

Clanton is sending a fine group of ladies to the W. M. U. Convention in Mobile this year. Those from Clanton who motored to Mobile are, Mrs. S. J. Ezell, Mrs. J. E. Gowan, Mrs. J. T. Rockett, Mrs. Arthur Taylor, Mrs. Ed Wagoner, Mrs. D. D. Mathis, Mrs. C. B. Cox, Mrs. Renfro Jones, Mrs. John T. Ellis, Mrs. P. T. Hinkle and Miss Ruth Sessions.

These ladies left Clanton last Tuesday morning, and expect to return next Friday night. The convention opened Tuesday and continued through today.

GRAVES DUNCAN, JR., IS STATE SENATOR CANDIDATE

Mr. J. Graves Duncan, Jr., has made his announcement as a candidate for State Senator, subject to the Democratic Primary to be held in August, from this the 15th Senatorial District, which is composed of Chilton, Autauga, and Shelby Counties.

Mr. Duncan, who was in Clanton last Monday, is one of the most prominent and successful young business men of Prattville, his home town. He has won for himself a splendid reputation for his sterling business qualities, his honesty and high stand on all public matters. Mr. Duncan is a World War Veteran, and is now engaged in the insurance business in Prattville, and was at one time connected with the banking business, having had four years experience there.

Mr. Duncan states he has no alignments, is running on no promises of any clique or faction, but only to serve for the highest interests of all the people.

Although Mr. Duncan has never offered his services for public office before, his scores of friends over this section believe he will be the nominee in August.

Will Rebuild Burned Mt. Pisgah School

It has been definitely decided that the school building for the Mount Pisgah School will be rebuilt according to recent information. The school was destroyed by fire several weeks ago, and school was finished, this term, in the church building of that community.

A building committee has been appointed and it was stated that construction will probably begin sometime in the very near future.

The building committee is composed of the following progressive citizens of the Mount Pisgah Community: Allen Brown, J. S. Smith, Claude Headley, Jasper Scarborough, and Jasper Edwards.

"The Show Boat" Coming To Clanton Theatre Soon

The announcement was made this week by the management of the Wadesonian Theatre here that the widely known and popular motion picture, "The Show Boat," is scheduled to be shown at the local theatre, on Monday and Tuesday nights, April 7-8. This picture, which is an all-talking and singing picture has played the larger cities for weeks, and has been proclaimed one of the best of its kind ever produced.

It is a colorful and superb love-drama, in which two young hearts reach the high-lights and low-lights of human emotions. Among the large cast of stars are Laura LaPlante, Joseph Schildkraut, Otis Harlan, Emily Fitzroy, Alma Rubens and Jane LeVerne.

The showing of this popular picture in Clanton has been eagerly looked forward to by theatre-goers of this section, and it is expected by the management that the house will be packed to overflowing on next Monday and Tuesday nights.

Baseball Taking Interest At C. C. H. S.

Chilton County High has already started the baseball season off with a bang, winning their two first games. The first game was played on the local diamond with Montevallo, ending with victory for the Clanton school lads at a score of 11 to 9. The second game, with Eclectic, played here, ended with the score of 6 to 2, in favor of Chilton High.

Brown in the pitcher's box, has been doing some nice throwing lately, while Busby, Cox, Sims, and Nivens are showing up splendidly for the beginning. Nivens seems to have some good throwing in him. Pete Maddox, on second base, may look out of place, but he is there with the goods.

Following is the schedule for coming games:

March 28—Montevallo, there.
March 29—Eclectic, Elmore High, there.
April 2—Centreville, here.
April 4—Plantersville, here.
April 9—Simpson Hi, B'ham, here.
April 11—Talladega, here.
April 16—Holtville, here.
April 18—Plantersville, there.
April 23—Selma, here.
April 25—Simpson Hi, B'ham, there.
April 30—Holtville, there.
May 2—Centreville, there.
May 7—Open.
May 9—Talladega, there.
May 14—Open.
May 16—Selma, there.

AMERICAN LEGION HOLDS BIG MEETING HERE MONDAY NIGHT

The Chilton County Post of the American Legion met last Monday night, March 24th, at the court house in Clanton with approximately forty or fifty ex-service men present.

At the meeting held some time ago, the members of the local post were divided into two groups, with E. W. Cline as leader of one, and John Browder as leader of the other. These two groups were entered in a contest to see which could have the largest number of ex-service men present at the meeting last Monday night.

At the final count-up, the group led by Cline was found to be the winner and was given a "set-up" party by the losing group. A program committee for the next meeting night, which will

O. E. S. Conference Will Meet April 2nd

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Shaw, and Mr. of the Eastern Star will hold their semi-annual meeting on Wednesday, April 2nd, according to an announcement given the News.

The meeting will be held in Montevallo, Alabama, and all members of that district are urged to attend, as matters of importance will be brought up for discussion, according to Mrs. Bama Gardner, Worthy Matron, and Mrs. Maude Diefenderfer, Secretary.

Mr. Judson Strock of Verbena, Ala., was in Clanton attending to business matters last Monday.

Ben Margolis To Open Shoe Store Here Soon

The News was informed this week that Mr. Ben Margolis, of Uniontown, will open a shoe store in Clanton in the building which was formerly occupied by Callen's store, on Seventh Street.

It was stated that Mr. Margolis will carry a full line of well known brands, and popular priced shoes. Mr. Margolis has been engaged in the dry goods business for several years, and has proven himself a very successful young business man. He is a brother of Mrs. M. Lande of Clanton, and will make his home here.

The exact date of the opening of the store has not been announced, according to Mr. Margolis, but it is believed it will be near April 10th. Mr. Margolis is at present at the markets in St. Louis purchasing goods.

The Faithful Workers Sunday school class of the Clanton Baptist church will meet with Mrs. H. T. Pipes at her home on next Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock.

County Chest Fund Gets Many Calls

There are constant calls made upon the Chest for help. The goal has not been reached, but the continued assistance that comes in adds to the joy and happiness of those who are in great need. With the many calls, it is impossible to do as much in each case as needed on account of the number of calls. On the other hand, there are some cases when investigated, prove unworthy of help and it is the desire to use the funds where most needed.

Mrs. L. E. Diefenderfer last week sent clothing valued at $1.75, Mrs. Powers, clothing valued at $1.00; Mrs. John Holland, clothing valued at $2.00; Mrs. J. C. Baldwin, clothing valued at $6.00. Mr. Tommy Maddox has been sending 4 pecks of fresh meal at each time for needy families. In this way it is kept fresh and comes in very handy.

BAPTIST CHURCH NOTICE

The pastor is hoping some of the brethren can go to Alpine to the Fifth Sunday meeting either as delegates or visitors. A good program has been prepared. If you can go call the pastor or see him.

Mrs. Ezell and the women who went to Mobile will take the eleven o'clock hour and talk on: "Women and Our Kingdom Work." The pastor will preach at the First Baptist Church, Selma, morning and evening.

Mr. J. A. Sample of Plantersville was noticed among the visitors to Clanton last Monday. While in town Mr. Sample called at the News office.

DEMOCRATIC EXECUTIVE COM- MITTEE MET SATURDAY

The Democratic Executive Committee of this county held a meeting last Saturday afternoon at the Wilson Hotel in Clanton, with a large number of the committee and several of the leading Democrats of the county, present. The time for candidates to qualify for county office was changed from April 1st to April 15th, 1930, by unanimous vote of the committee.

Several matters of party interest were discussed and plans adopted for the holding of the primary, in August.

HEREFORD BULL SALE, STOCK YARDS, MONTGOMERY TODAY

There is to be held at the Montgomery Stock Yards, today, a Hereford bull sale. There will be brought to the yards, a bunch of Hereford bulls to be distributed among the farmers of Alabama. Dr. C. N. Parnell, H. S. Shaw, and C. E. Stapp from Clanton are planning on going to the sale.

RALLY DAY FOR 4-H CLUB BOYS FRIDAY

Special Entertainments On All-Day Program With Speakers

Members of the 4-H Club of Chilton County have in store for them another day of fun and entertainment, according to an announcement given the News Tuesday of this week.

There will be another 4-H Club Rally Day in Clanton Friday, (tomorrow). The meeting will be held at the court house and is scheduled to begin at nine-thirty o'clock in the morning.

It is expected there will be something like two hundred 4-H Club boys of the county, with their parents, in attendance at this meeting and rally day, according to C. E. Stapp, County Agent.

T. A. Sims, state leader of the 4-H Clubs from Auburn, will be in Clanton Friday and will deliver an address to the boys. Dinner will be served, and several special entertainment features will be on the program. All members of the club are urged to be in Clanton tomorrow as early as possible, and not later than nine-thirty o'clock, in order to get in on the first of the frolics.

Alabama Makers Of Pipe Get Big Order From Utility Firms

Birmingham, Ala., March 18.—Some 15,000 tons of cast iron pipe, valued at approximately $600,000, has been ordered from Alabama pipe manufacturers by the various subsidiaries of the Commonwealth & Southern Corporation, Thomas W. Martin, President of Alabama Power Company, announced here today.

"The Commonwealth & Southern Corporation," Mr. Martin said in making the announcement, "has found it advantageous to contract with Alabama firms for its entire 1930 cast iron pipe requirements."

"However, the increased freight rates on cast iron pipe from Alabama points, recently promulgated by the Interstate Commerce Commission, place Alabama manufacturers at quite a disadvantage in competing for the future business of our Northern subsidiaries. We understand that these higher rates have been made effective March 20, 1930, upon the complaint of manufacturers along the Atlantic Seaboard and not by the railroads."

NEGRO MINSTREL AT BAKER SCHOOL NEXT FRIDAY NIGHT

The News has been requested to announce this week that the negro minstrel staged recently at Mount Pisgah by that school, will be presented on next Friday night at the Baker Junior High School, west of Clanton.

Admission will be fifteen and twenty-five cents. Entertainment begins at seven-forty five p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Smith of Wetumpka were in Clanton last Sunday visiting friends and relatives.

Mrs. Hance Alfred, Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Gerald and Mrs. Hugh Jones were visitors to Birmingham last Thursday.

CIRCUIT COURT IN SESSION THIS WEEK

Grand Jury Organized With P. D. Wilson As Foreman

A jury term of the Circuit Court of this county was convened here last Monday with Judge Smoot, of Wetumpka, Alabama, presiding. Hon. Winston Huddleston, Solicitor for the 19th Judicial Circuit of Alabama, also of Wetumpka, is here in charge of the Grand Jury, which was organized today, with P. D. Wilson, foreman, and the following associate members: T. S. Pyron, Luther Teel, J. D. Yeargan, Vernon W. Cummins, H. Brewer Glenn, W. B. Crowe, Irbey H. McNeil, J. C. "Know Your Town" Is Program For Kiwanis

When the Clanton Kiwanis Club meets here today for their weekly luncheon at the Baptist church, they will witness a "Know Your Town" program.

This program is in charge of the publicity committee of the local club, composed of Frank James, chairman, Evan Parrish, Ernest A. Childs, and A. L. Williams. Reports from the city and county will be given, as well as reports from some of the business houses on business carried on during the past year, 1929, that will show progress made by Clanton. These reports will be given in facts and figures probably not known to the members of the club.

LANDE GOES TO ST. LOUIS MARKET TO BUY GOODS

Mr. M. Lande, proprietor of The Leader, one of the well known dry goods stores of Clanton, left last week for St. Louis, Mo., where he intends to purchase goods for his store here. Mr. Lande will return and probably bring with him some good news for the thrifty shoppers of this section, as his trips to market usually mean more outstanding bargains for Clanton people.

Mr. Lande was accompanied on the trip, which was made in his car, by Messrs. Ben and Alex Margolis. They expect to return Saturday or Sunday.

CANDIDATES FOR DIPLOMAS ARE NAMED

Chilton County High School Graduates Preparing For Commencement

The student body and faculty of the Chilton County High School are now beginning to make preparations for the 1930 Commencement. Much interest and enthusiasm is being manifested by everybody and we are looking forward to making this the greatest Commencement in the history of the school. The chief concern centers around those who on May 20th will have conferred upon them the highest honor offered by the institution. This group is commonly termed the "Senior Class." The personnel of our present class is made up of young ladies and young gentlemen who show much promise of worthy citizenship, and of whom the school will be proud.

Below is a list of the candidates for diplomas:

One Shot In Home Siege Near B'ham

Five-Hour Gun Battle Rages At Adamsville; Three Arrested

Birmingham, Ala., March 24.—Details of a five-hour gun battle in which one man was wounded when a group of men laid siege to the home of an Adamsville dairyman, were brought to Clanton Sunday night by deputy sheriffs who brought three prisoners to the county jail.

High-powered rifles and pistols were used in the gunplay, the deputies said, and bullets were flying in and around the home of C. T. Trammell, Adamsville dairy owner, when they arrived. A H. Florence, 31, and Jesse Ray, 28, were arrested by the officers, together with Trammell. All were charged with assault with intent to murder. Ray was wounded in the head by a 30-caliber rifle bullet. He was given first aid treatment at the county jail.

Trammell was permitted to make bond.

Deputy sheriffs said that Florence and Ray were employees of Trammell's and that they were told that the gun battle began at 2 p. m. and continued in and around Trammell's home until they arrived at approximately 7 p. m.

The two officers were Deputy Sheriffs Bottomley and Griffith, of the Enslley Inferior Court, and they returned to the scene expecting to make more arrests in the case, after leaving their prisoners at the jail.

BEAN OPPOSES TAX

Jemison, Ala., March 18, 1930. Chilton County News, Dear Editor:

Please allow me a small space in your paper to say just a few words in regard to the one mill tax. This election is to be April 8, 1930. I want to say that I oppose this tax, and here is my reason:

Time has readjusted the conditions of our country. The war is over and war prices are gone, war wages are gone. All classes of labor except the teachers have had to take a cut in wages, and the farmer has taken the biggest cut of them all. Just look at the prices of all the farmers produce are practically below production today. Then how can he stand more tax? It's true we need to remedy our schools but we can not do it by voting on more taxes. Let the school bunch take the same cut in wages from the County Supervisor down, that the poor old farmer has to take. The teachers are no better than the farmer. I have been told that we have some 3 or 4 school teachers who are drawing $275.00 per month and that stands undisputed today that $275.00 will place you two principals in your high school if you had the proper board to handle the money; $137.50 per month is good wages for a teacher under these panic conditions. Now, Mr. Voter, just meet me at the polls on April the 8th, and we will give them a prescription for the future. If Bro. Lawrence would let his conscience be his guide he will vote against the one mill tax on April the 8th, but when a preacher gets in politics he is gone. We know that from the past.

This bunch is worse than buzzards. A buzzard will wait until you die and your carcass begins to smell, but this bunch will eat on you while you are alive and walking around.

Now post yourself on this election. You were badly misled in the last three mill tax election. These elections mean more taxes, and nothing else. Don't let them confuse you with the opportunity schools. They use this to deceive the voters and to carry their points. This election will affect every taxpayer in the county, so come out on April the 8th, and help us snow it under.

When I say school bunch, I mean the Supersix, they supe up all the money and cry for more. Now what I have said has been with a good spirit and no ill will to anyone. I just want to beat this one mill tax.

I am yours for better schools, better times and less taxes.

Editors In State To Hold Session

Alabama Newspaper Men Will Gather In August at Auburn College

For three days next August Alabama editors will be in school at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn. It will be the second annual Alabama Press Institute conducted jointly by the Alabama Press Association and the college; and all members of the newspaper fraternity of the state are scheduled to attend.

August 14, 15 and 16 were named as the tentative dates for the institute by the committee in charge which met here. Members of the committee are Harry Darnall, Florence, P. O. Davis, Auburn, and N. C. Cady, Birmingham.

The first Alabama Press Institute was held at Auburn last August. Editors were so well pleased with it that they expect to make it an annual affair. It was attended by a large number of editors and publishers of newspapers, and upon the fame of the first, a larger attendance is expected for the second.

A number of new and interesting features were planned by the committee at the meeting. Among them will be a newspaper show which will include 500 or more newspapers from Alabama and many other states and the naming of an "All Alabama Weekly Newspaper Nine." These will have been selected before the institute and made known at that time.

During their stay in Auburn members of the newspaper fraternity will live in college dormitories and eat at the college cafeteria. In this way they will live as students. Their program will be arranged especially for them. Speakers and lecturers will include many from Alabama as well as some from other states.

Best Corn Variety Named For Alabama

Auburn, Ala., March 27.—Leading varieties of corn for Alabama have been determined by experiments conducted by the Experiment Station of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. Five varieties are named for each of three sections of the State. Tests were conducted at different localities in North, Central, and South Alabama over a period of four years, 1926 to 1929.

Varieties for North Alabama, with yield in bushels of grain per acre follow: Douthitt, 26.6; Hastings, 26.2; Local Variety, 26; Neals Paymaster, 25.9; and Whatley (Whatley Bros.), 25.3.

Tests in Central Alabama revealed the following leaders: Whatley (Hudson), 32.0; Douthitt, 30.7; Whatley (Whatley Bros.), 30.6; Local Variety, 29.4; Hastings, 28.0.

The leading varieties for South Alabama, according to average figures for the four-year period, are as follows: Whatley (Whatley Bros.), 25.1; Douthitt, 22.7; Mosby (De'ta), 21.2; Local Variety, 20.7; and Hastings, 19.3.

The State Experiment Station conducts the variety tests annually. At the end of each year records are made and these records are averaged with other years, because a one-year record is not always conclusive.

A study of these variety tests from year to year reveals a vast difference in the yield of the best variety and poorest variety. Consequently the Experiment Station insists that farmers get seed of the best varieties. The Station has no seed for sale, but offers suggestions as to where farmers may get seed. County agents also are in touch with sources of supply.

COOP SALES MOUNT IN NORTH ALABAMA

Auburn, Ala., March 27.—The co-operative method of selling is stimulating the poultry business in North Alabama, as indicated by reports received by J. T. High, district agent, Extension Service, Alabama Polytechnic Institute. Loads of poultry in seven North Alabama counties for cooperative sale the second week in March amounted to 100,000 pounds, reports showed. The Counties were Colbert, Lauderdale, Lamar, Franklin, Fayette, Marion, and Walker. The sales were made in seven carloads; and the average car brings $3,300 at prices now being received.

Two men riding a motorcycle near Palatine, Ill., were badly hurt when a cow charged their machine.

Chevrolet Six Coach Wins Sweepstakes

Los Angeles, March 27.—Competing against a field of 41 other entrants, a 1930 Chevrolet six cylinder coach driven by Mrs. Paul A. Lawrence of Los Angeles, won the sweepstakes and first place in its class in the annual Gilmore Blue Green Economy run here February 14.

Every type of road and grade was encountered in the run that covered 200 miles between Los Angeles and the Wrightwood mountains. Mrs. Lawrence's Chevrolet demonstrated its economical operation over a course that included city traffic, country roads and mountains stretching along a circuitous route rising from sea level to an elevation of 6,000 feet.

To win the event, the Chevrolet coach traveled 36.71 ton-miles to the gallon of gasoline, averaging 20.5 miles to the gallon for the 200 miles traversed. The total weight of the Chevrolet coach, with its driver and four passengers, was 3580 pounds. No oil and no water was used during the run.

The economy test was staged under the supervision of the American Automobile Association, sanction number 2306 and was limited to stock cars. Six classes of cars were represented among the 42 entries. The Chevrolet coach, with Mrs. Lawrence at the wheel, not only won first place in its class, but, in addition, won the sweepstakes for all classes.

Chevrolet announces

A NEW

SERVICE POLICY

The Chevrolet Motor Company and its dealers are pleased to announce a new service policy—one of the most liberal ever offered on a low-priced automobile.

Put into force as a written agreement given to the purchaser by the Chevrolet dealer when the car is delivered—it offers the following provisions:

1 Every Chevrolet owner receives his car from the dealer in perfect condition—thoroughly lubricated, properly adjusted, and ready to operate efficiently from the first mile of ownership.

2 Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free inspection and adjustment of his car at the end of the first 500 miles of usage.

3 Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free inspection of his car every 1000 miles thereafter, so long as the car is in operation.

4 Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free replacement of any part which may prove defective in workmanship or material, within the terms of Chevrolet's standard warranty. This includes both parts and labor.

5 Provision number 4 will be carried out by any Chevrolet dealer in the United States. As a result, the Chevrolet owner may travel to any part of the country, with assurance that the guarantee on materials and workmanship will remain in force.

This new policy constitutes proof of Chevrolet's high quality—for such liberal provisions could only be made in connection with a car built of fine materials to exacting standards of workmanship.

Back of this policy, and assuring its successful operation, is one of the most complete and efficient service organizations in the world.

There are more than 10,000 Authorized Chevrolet Dealer Service Stations in the United States alone. Each employs skilled mechanics thoroughly trained at Chevrolet Service Schools. Each has specially designed tools and machinery developed exclusively for Chevrolet service work. And each has on hand, at all times, an adequate stock of genuine Chevrolet replacement parts.

Chevrolet's flat-rate charges, including both parts and labor, are the lowest in the industry on many service operations!

In considering the purchase of a low-priced automobile, think what this service means—in terms of lasting satisfaction, as well as in increased economy.

THE CHILTON COUNTY NEWS

J. B. ATKINSON, PUBLISHER

BILLY SMITH Editor

Entered in the postoffice of Clanton, Alabama, as second class matter under the Act of Congress of March, 1897.

The Trade At Home Plea; Is It Backed Up?

Many stories, editorials and pleas have been written and spoken on the "trade at home" idea. The plea has become a common thing among the towns of Alabama, as well as other states, and now, even in the face of all these pleas to trade at home, there continues that rivalry, ill-feeling among the merchants and the farmers of Chilton County.

This fact came out almost in the open during the past several months. Clanton merchants and business men realized that trade was being taken from them, and carried to other towns, not in this county, and yet the plea to keep your money at home, goes on.

This plea alone, is not worth the breath used to express it, nor the paper used to write it on. There most certainly must be something else to back up the plea and make it sound reasonable to those who have the privilege to spend their money where they please. Is it the fault of the merchants—are they merely saying "trade at home," and not making some attractive offer to the buyer to back their plea, or do they wish to be so independent as to let the trade that should be coming to them, go elsewhere?

When cotton was being sold, although perhaps at a low price, during the past selling season, where did some of it go? Hundreds of bales of Chilton County grown cotton were hauled away, and the money received by the grower was spent OUT OF CHILTON COUNTY. Now, the question arises, "Why?" The fact stands out that somewhere, in adjoining counties, the Chilton County farmer who must get the best value for his hard earned money, was given a better offer, not only for his products, but trade-in value, on the things necessary for himself and his family.

Can one blame those farmers who bring their products to town, and ask, "What will you give me on this?" for going to the place where they can get more, and better values, and while there, buying the things they will need to keep their families clothed and fed?

"Trade At Home" and "Cooperation" must have something more than merely the words, to put them over, and Chilton County with its broadminded, progressive merchants who issue the goods to the farmer, must awake to this fact. "It's good to have money and the things that money can buy, but, it's good, too, to check up once in a while and make sure you haven't lost the things that money can't buy."

How To Go Broke Farming

To those who do not know, here are a few suggestions on how to go broke farming. Avoid these ten items, if you would be successful:

1. Grow only one crop.
2. Keep no livestock.
3. Regard chickens and a garden as nuisances.
4. Take everything from the soil and return nothing.
5. Don't stop gullies or grow over crops—let the soil wash away and then you will have bottom land.
6. Don't plan your farm operations—it's hard work, thinking, trust to luck.
7. Regard your woodlands as you would a coal mine., cut every tree, sell the timber and wear the cleared land out by cultivating it in corn.
8. Hold fast to the idea that the methods of farming that were employed by your grandfather are good enough for you.
9. Be independent—don't join with your neighbor in any form of cooperation.
10. Mortgage your farm for every dollar it will stand, to buy things you would have the cash to buy if you followed a good system of farming.

The Farmer Feeds The Bunch

The teacher does the teaching
And the blacksmith shoes the steeds;
The preacher does the preaching,
And the grocer hunger feeds.
The butcher slices up the meat;
The shoeman sells the shoes;
The newsboy tramps upon the street
And sells the latest news.
The farmer wields his heavy pick;
The clothing man keeps clothes;
The mason builds a house of brick;
The showman runs his shows.
The machinist fixes up your car;
The lawyer pleads your case;
The postman carries mail afar;
The realtor rents your place.
The collector takes your taxes;
The restaurant man sells lunch;
And the farmer, he's the lowly guy
That feeds the whole d—n bunch.

"ROUND TOWN"
--by Doug

"Great minds have purposes, others have wishes. Little minds are tamed and subdued by misfortune; but great minds rise above them."—Washington Irving.

Men, and probably women 'round Clanton are welcoming the fishing season, which means that we will probably now be hearing about and of, those stories concerning things that happened—and didn't happen.

Many stories have been and have not been written, daily telling of good deeds. To do my daily good turn, I'll issue a bit of advice to the adventurous young man whose thoughts turn to listen to the "call of the wild," especially on Saturday nights and Sundays. Just don't do it. It will probably be thought of as wonderful while it lasts, but THAT afterwards. Just don't do it—you'll feel all right next morning about it.

Well, a new world is reported to have been discovered by a young astronomer, and it is said to be only one million miles from the sun. 'Twill be a great field for real estate agents, who just insist on making subdivisions.

And that reminds me. I've just decided that the reason the telegraph companies employ so many young ladies to receive messages over the wire is because they know how to use that little word, "Stop" that you often see in telegrams to denote the end of a sentence.

Recently I increased my territory and made a little tour just on the outskirts of Clanton. Noticed many new structures being erected, or have already been erected, on property near various homes. That speaks of progressiveness for Clanton. Understand that the health department had something to do with it, and wonder if that well known carpenter with his well-read-about ideas, called "The Specialist" had anything to do with the building of the necessity structures.

As yet I have noticed no reports coming in in Chilton County on "rum paralysis." Perhaps the stuff you get here is still good, and hasn't reached the paralyzing stage yet.

"There's one born every minute," P. T. Barnum said, and I am beginning to believe some of them were born in Clanton, or moved here later on. I am basing my opinion on the idea that so many people will spend their money for things that are not really termed legitimate. Take for instance, advertising. There are many kinds, but one kind that is hard to beat is the plain old substantial newspaper advertising. And yet, it seems that some of our merchants will fall for this "get-rich-quick" schemes that are imported into our town. Well, it is often said one must pay for his mistakes, and will live and learn.

Moonlight parties, picnics are being looked forward to by the young "select" crowd of Clanton now, that the moon is about to do its stuff along with warm nights. Some of them end up with the usual story, "I Can't Give You Anything But Love, Baby"—when it comes to a showdown on the part of the various participants.

Looks like this style creator and myself are having a hard time convincing the feminine inhabitants that long dresses are the thing now. I've about come to the conclusion that the hard times I hear so much about, are the reason for the slowness of the acceptance of the new vogue. But, honestly, I do admire those lengthy dresses on some young ladies, especially those who walk in the shape of parenthesis.

Just to remind you that there are more controls than the stick of an airplane, the gas lever, clutch, brake, etc. Probably the foremost controls nowadays are mirth control, birth control, and girth control—mostly the latter.

We like to see people enjoy their automobiles. The street or road belongs to an automobile driver as much as to any other individual, but no more. Because you are able to own a good car, don't get the idea into your head that the road and street belong to you. The other fellow, although he is walking, is entitled to just as much consideration and courtesy as you with your Ford Buick, Chevrolet or Pierce-Arrow.—Covington News.

Every merchant in Clanton should map out a definite advertising program for the spring and summer if they expect a continuation of a liberal business through the spring and summer months. Those who use the columns of the local newspapers freely will be the ones who will enjoy a liberal patronage from the buying public. The mail order houses and chain stores do their largest advertising through the season of the year when it takes something attractive to invite the buyer's attention.

The Urge To See One's Name Writ

The human urge to see one's name where it will be seen by others finds some queer manifestations, quite outside the newspaper field, where the tendency is most pronounced. In addition to resorting to all sorts of expedients to get their names in the newspaper, some people will go to amazing extremes to put it in other places. Thus they write it upon walls, carve it upon trees or rocks, and otherwise distribute it around for general observation.

A novel method of capitalizing this practice has been discovered by a woman who conducts a tea room in Paris. Noting that guests frequently, though often secretly, scribbled their names upon the wall, she conceived an idea and put it into practice. The idea was to decorate the walls in such a way that writing was made easy and then to encourage it. The result was an immediate increase in business. Guests came, ate, wrote, paid and went their way, delighted that they had registered for all Paris visitors to see. But the trick in it is that the walls are made over each week, ready for the fresh supply of names.

The result of the idea is a flourishing business, a new satisfaction for patrons, and more work for the decorators.

Solomon spoke of vanity, which shows that it is not a newly developed quality, but Solomon, with all his wisdom, did not discover a method for turning it into money, as the Paris woman has. He could have made a fortune even greater than the one he succeeded in garnering, had he permitted tourists to scribble their names upon the temple at so much per scribble.—Tuscaloosa News.

THE QUALITIES OF LEADERSHIP

By JOHN G. LONSDALE
President American Bankers Association

Leadership and success, in a general way, are synonymous. They are both founded upon simple codes of thought and action, upon the realization that he who wins the laurels must be a doer, not a waiter, that application of energy, not time or luck, is what counts most. A rabbit's foot is a poor substitute for horse sense.

Both success and leadership, if they be of the highest quality, are the result of service to humanity. Service has been aptly described as "the supreme commitment of life." Analyze the lives and times of all great leaders of history and you will find that those whose names are enshrined in the hearts of their countrymen are those who sought to render a needed service to the populace.

Leadership, like success, need not, however, be international or national to achieve great results. There is room for each of us to be a leader in his community, in his work, in his church, and in various organizations.

One of the indispensable qualities of leadership is the ability to persist steadfastly in the face of discouragements. If George Washington had not possessed the quality of persistence, he and his soldiers would never have survived the hunger and privations which were theirs at Valley Forge.

We have too many young men and young women these days saying a job cannot be done. Too many spend their time explaining why a thing can't be done, instead of saying, with firm resolve, that it can be done, and then going out and doing it. Anything that ought to be done is capable of being done. And anything worth doing at all is worth doing well. The fellow who handles a little job in a big way is always on the road to greater fields.

BANKERS STUDY CHAIN BANKING

The Economic Policy Commission of the American Bankers Association has been specifically instructed by the general convention of the association to study and report on chain and group banking developments, and also on the proposal of the Comptroller of the Currency for an extension of branch banking in the national banking system, to permit those banks to conduct branches in the trade areas surrounding their locations.

R. S. Hecht, President Hibernia Bank and Trust Company, New Orleans, Louisiana, is chairman of the commission. The members are: George E. Roberts, Vice President National City Bank, New York, N. Y., vice chairman; Nathan Adams, President American Exchange National Bank, Dallas, Texas; Leonard P. Ayres, Vice President Cleveland Trust Co., Cleveland, Ohio; Frank W. Blair, Chairman of Board Union Trust Company, Detroit, Michigan; Walter W. Head, President Foreman-State National Bank, Chicago; W. D. Longyear, Vice President Security-First National Bank, Los Angeles, California; Walter S. McCluskey, Chairman of Board Commerce Trust Company, Kansas City, Missouri; Max B. Nibm, Vice President Citizens National Bank, Bowling Green, Kentucky; Melvin A. Traylor, President First National Bank, Chicago; Paul M. Warburg, Chairman of Board International Acceptance Bank, New York, N. Y.; O. Howard Wolfe, Cashier Philadelphia National Bank, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; Gurden Edwards, American Bankers Association, New York City, secretary.

A survey showing the extent to which chain and group banking has developed in the United States has been made and issued in booklet form by the American Bankers Association of New York City.

SECTIONS WHERE SAVINGS DECREASED

A regional analysis of the drop in the nation's savings deposits in banks, as recently reported by the American Bankers Association's Savings Bank Division in its annual compilation for 1929 showing the first recession in national savings in the twenty years during which it has published this data, reveals that all sections except the New England and the Pacific States groups recorded losses.

The published figures showed that on June 29, 1929, the total savings deposits in banks and trust companies of continental United States stood at $38,217,055,000, which was $195,305,000 below the similar total for 1928, when there was an increase of $2,300,000,000. The regional analysis by state groups discloses, however, that the six New England states as a group gained more than $38,800,000 in savings and 152,984 in savings depositors, while the seven Pacific states as a group gained over $79,000,000 in deposits and nearly 278,000 in number of depositors. The gains in these two sections, however, were smaller than the gains recorded there for 1928. The sections which showed losses are the Middle Atlantic States, Southern States, East Central States and the West Central States.

Junior III Occupation
Class Fetes Teachers

One of the most delightful social affairs of the season was given Wednesday evening, March 19, 1930, when the Junior III Occupation Class under the supervision of Miss Inez Perry entertained the teachers of C. C. H. S. at a formal dinner in the Home Economics Department of the school.

St. Patrick's Day idea, with the color scheme of yellow and green, was carried out throughout the five course dinner. Yellow and green candles and buttercups along with the other decorations made the table one of beauty. The dinner was served in a very charming manner by Misses Evelyn Maddox and Flora Jones.

Miss Margaret Jones of the Junior III Class was just the type of hostess to make the dinner a complete success.

The guests were Prof. and Mrs. L. C. Warr, Coach and Mrs. Walter Green, Misses Bernice Williams, Virginia Murphy, Nell Wells, Annie Laurie Clay, Edna Coffield, Mrs. Henry Lyon and Mr. Horton Walker.

Co-op Buying Reaches
Nearly Four Million

Auburn, Ala., March 27.—Cooperative purchases made by Alabama farmers in 1929 reached a total of $3,767,690.53. The purchases included seed, fertilizers, insecticides, and miscellaneous supplies entering into production. Fertilizer led the list among cooperative purchases, and seed came second, with winter legume seed leading in seed purchases.

This figure is revealed by Director L. N. Duncan of the Extension Service, Alabama Polytechnic Institute, in his report submitted to President Bradford Knapp and the U. S. Department of Agriculture at Washington.

Director Duncan arrived at this figure by combining the report of District Agents J. T. High, R. G. Arnold, and Emmett Sizemore, who compiled reports from the 63 county agents. They are not engaged in the business side of agriculture, but serve in an advisory capacity, Professor Duncan explained.

The records show that 50,735 farmers participated in cooperative buying during 1929. They bought 87,501 tons of fertilizer, 6098 tons of basic phosphate which was used as fertilizer, 1,522,767 pounds of hairy vetch and Austrian pea seed, and miscellaneous products on a smaller scale. The buying was done through county farm bureaus and the State Farm Bureau with offices in Montgomery.

At the same time, cooperative selling was done on a larger scale, cotton leading in this selling because it is the leading cash crop produced by Alabama farmers. Poultry and livestock are next. During the year county agents assisted in selling 1,986,610 pounds of poultry in carlots on the cooperative plan.

Director Duncan said that the extension marketing specialist, J. D. Moore and J. B. Sylvest, gave general direction to the sale of these products. The business was cleared through the State Farm Bureau office. In cooperative selling 33,168 farmers participated.

Chilton Wins In Two Games of Baseball Over Montevallo and Elmore High

On Friday afternoon C. C. H. S. baseball team defeated Montevallo to the score of 11-9 on our local diamond. There were quite a few errors at the beginning of the game, but both teams tightened up in the last inning. Jack Edgar had the Montevallo boys baffled during the first five innings, but weakened in the sixth, and was released by "Dutch" Nivens who did some fine pitching. Robinson, Simms and Cox played a good game. Henderson starred for Montevallo, getting three hits. Johnson led in hitting for the local boys, getting two hits.

On Saturday afternoon they met and defeated the Elmore County lads by a score of six to two. From the start our boys showed the spirit that they intended to be the winners, and later proved to be. Rufus Brown did the hurling with Robinson doing the catching for our boys. The whole team played a good game. We have a good coach and a good team, so come out and support us.

Former Alumnus Visits School

We were honored last Monday at the chapel period to have with us Misses Mary Ellis, Bass of Dothan, and Phillips of Morristown, Tennessee. Miss Ellis gave two splendid selections on the piano which we all enjoyed very much. We are very proud of Mary, because she belongs to us. We have all heard of the wonderful college record she is making at Judson. She graduates in June. Misses Bass and Phillips were visitors from Judson College.

Mrs. S. J. Kicker Donates Flowers To Our School Campus

We are all deeply indebted to Mrs. S. J. Kicker who has given the school some rose bushes and arbor vitae. We thank her very much for these plants, and have named them for her.

Valedictorian Chosen for Senior Class

The valedictorian for the Senior class every year is chosen from among those who make the highest yearly averages for the four years which they spend in high school. The regulation is they must have attended this school for that length of time. The three making the highest averages for the four years in which they attended this school were Zebbie Gray with an average of 87.75, Vivian Gray, with an average of 88.16, and Nelson Parrish with an average of 92.4. Nelson Parrish is declared valedictorian, and Vivian Gray, salutatorian. These averages were found by dividing the average for each semester by two, and then dividing the total number of averages by sixteen.

C. C. H. S. Gets Paved Walk

As a capitalization of the efforts of Mr. Warr and the City Council we now have a beautiful paved walk from our front steps to the street. It has improved the appearance of the building and the grounds to an astonishing extent, and we are justly proud of it. The members of the Council have shown their willingness to cooperate and to help us in any way in which they can. They want us to have a beautiful campus just as bad as we want to have one. The example of what the Council has done inspires us with dreams of other contingent improvements. We have been given a good starting point which leads to a future enthusiasm to projects for the future development of our campus.

"Bettie Lou" A Success

Every available seat was filled Friday night by those anxious to see "Bettie Lou." Judging from the favorable comments we are sure that the play was enjoyed by all who came to see it, as well as all of those of whom the cast was composed. If you did not see Janice Danforth in the role of "Bettie Lou" cutting paper dolls, and Miss Wells as a feather-brained, society woman, you missed a most enjoyable treat. Mr. Walker and Miss Clay stella parts also. The chorus girls added to the beauty and grace upon which every musical comedy depends.

We wish to thank all who were kind enough to help out in securing stage equipment. To the business men who purchased ads., we are heartily grateful. Total door receipts were $110. After all expenses were paid the Senior class received $46.00, which is to be applied for the building of the Senior Class memorial.

Following are accounts of news items carried in the News, in its issue of March 29, 1928:

The Clanton Service Station has announced the opening of a modern vulcanizing plant here.

Mesdames Grady Broadhead, Arthur Willis and S. J. Ezell and Miss Exie Baker motored to Marion to attend the meeting of the State W. M. U.

The Unique Theatre has reopened at Thorsby.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McEathern and son motored to Columbus, Ga., Saturday night.

Miss Mary Ellis, a student at Judson College, is here spending the spring holidays with her parents.

Mrs. Sam Powers of Lock 12 is in St. Vincent's hospital in Birmingham. Mr. and Mrs. Jim Dunlap announce the birth of a fine baby girl, last Monday.

Mrs. R. D. Woodson of Lock 12 has returned to her home after being seriously ill in a Birmingham hospital. Mrs. Marie Wilbanks of Birmingham spent Saturday with Mrs. J. A. Hester.

Mr. W. M. Polk will return in a few days after being confined in a Birmingham hospital for some time.

The New Vogue for Prints

Prints in various fabrics and marked originality of designs were highlighted for spring wear at a recent New York Style Pageant. At upper left, a charming example of the more feminine mode developed in printed crepe of Bemberg and silk in a black, egg-shell and lacquer red flower design. For wear about town, the afternoon dress at the right, fashioned of Bemberg chiffon in a striking black and white modernistic print, achieves dignity and individuality for the mature woman. A black coat of heavy crepe simply cut and lined with white, completes the ensemble. Tiny geometrics in vivid yellow and bright orange on a dark background are favored for the college girl. The frock above is developed in Bemberg crepe with youthful collar and cuffs of linen in a clear orange.

Large Prizes Awards Open To Local People

100 Cash Prizes Offered In State For Best Stories About Old Fertilizer Users

Boys and girls of this community may enter the search now being made to find the oldest users of America's pioneer fertilizer, according to plans of the Nitrate Centenary Contest, that has been recently announced as a feature of the 100-year history of nitrate of soda in this country.

Exactly 100 cash prizes, with $50 as the first award, will be given boys and girls in this State who write the best stories about farmers who have used nitrate of soda, or Chilean nitrate, as it is now called, for at least 20 years. It is pointed out, however, that if two or more stories are written about the same farmer, only the best will be considered for the awards. An additional prize of $50 will be awarded for the best story written in the entire South.

The farmer in each state, who, according to the stories has the longest and best record with the fertilizer, will receive a special award, consisting of one dollar for every year he has used nitrate of soda and an extra dollar for every year over 25 years. In addition the farmer in the entire South who has used the fertilizer for the longest period of time will be given a $50 award.

The project is sponsored by the Chilton Nitrate of Soda Educational Bureau, in recognition of the centenary of nitrate of soda, which is the oldest of the commercial fertilizers now used on American farms.

Details of the contest have been sent to county agents, vocational teachers, and high school teachers in all parts of the South.

FORT PAYNE YOUTH HELD FOR DEATH OF FATHER

Fort Payne, Ala., March 23.—Death had a hand in a marble game near here today when a row between two boys was taken up between their fathers, who were themselves father and son, Jess McKinney, 58, was dead to-night and his son, Marion McKinney, 25, was being held, charged with the murder.

Jess McKinney, with several of his children, has been living at the house of his son, Marion, since the death of Mrs. Jess McKinney several months ago, neighbors said. Both men are farmers.

This afternoon, one of Jess's youngest sons and one of Marion's oldest began a marble game. A boyish argument arose and the older men became involved. Marion, it was reported, became enraged, grabbed an axe and crushed his father's skull.

The elder McKinney died almost instantly. Marion McKinney was arrested by Sheriff L. J. Campbell.

FIRE ALARM SIREN MOVED TO TOP OF WALKER BUILDING

Workmen of the city, were on top of Upchurch's Building last Tuesday morning bright and early, taking down the large electric fire alarm siren, that was recently installed there. The siren was moved to the top of the two-story Walker Building above the Capitol Dry Goods Store, where it is hoped it will rest for some time.

N. C. Peterson of Thorsby was in Clanton last Monday attending court.

Your own automobile dealer will tell you—"You must drain winter-worn oil!"

*DRAIN—THEN REFILL WITH TEXACO

He wants you to get all the driving satisfaction and long life that was built into your car. And he will tell you that nothing will shorten the life of any car so quickly as "winter-worn" oil. Thinned and diluted by the use of the choke, this old oil is no longer able to protect flashing metal surfaces.

Drain—then refill with Texaco! This clean, sturdy golden motor oil is so superior in lubricating qualities that it will also help to restore lost power. There's no surer way of keeping new cars young —or of bringing back youth and zest to aging veterans.

With Texaco in the crankcase, engines have a way of keeping cool no matter how hot the day or how high the hill. For this sturdy oil forms a protecting film that eases every movement—that assures smoothness, quiet and freedom from wear.

You will find Texaco Golden Motor Oil in every corner of the world. Stop today at the Texaco Red Star with the Green T. Drain—then refill with Texaco.

There is another equally important reason for draining your old oil. Not only is it diluted and dirty, but very likely it is Winter grade. And for hot weather driving your engine demands Summer grade oil. The makers of your car—the dealer who sold it to you—the manufacturer's service agent—all make this an important point.

Modern Meat Pies

IN mediaeval days, before the invention of forks, meat pies used to be made in huge sizes and eaten with the fingers. This custom is referred to in Robert Browning's rousing poem "Marching Along" in the lines:

"Cavaliers up! Lips from the cup, Hands from the pasty, nor bite take nor sup
Till you're Marching along, fifty score strong,
Great hearted gentlemen, singing this song."

Today we are more individualistic, and not only eat our meat pies with forks, but frequently have a small one all to ourselves. A meat pie that might tempt you to eat with your fingers even nowadays, if no one were looking, is the following one: Beef and Vegetable Shepherd Pie: Cook one-half cup chopped onion and one-half cup chopped parsley in three tablespoons butter for about three minutes. Combine the liquors from an 8-ounce can of diced carrots and a 10 1/2-ounce can of stringless beans, and add sufficient water to make one cup. Smooth two tablespoons flour with this mixture, and add slowly to the first mixture, stirring until thick and smooth. Add one and one-half cups evaporated milk slowly, and cook again till thick. Season to taste, add the contents of one 12-ounce can of roast beef cut in cubes, and pour into a baking dish. Top with fluffy seasoned mashed potatoes, and bake in a hot oven—400°—for fifteen to twenty minutes. This serves from five to six.*

SHORTLEAF PINE SPROUTS

Shortleaf Pine is practically the only pine tree that will reproduce itself by means of sprouts, states the Alabama Commission of Forestry. However, the second growth originating in this way seldom makes good timber trees, but often exists as a stagnant unhealthy forest cover. Sprouting occurs only with quite young trees, seldom being found in specimens over four inches in diameter at breast height. After the Shortleaf Pine has reached this size it quickly loses its capacity for sending up sprouts from the base, whereas hardwoods retain this ability much longer.

At various places throughout extensive areas of woodland may be found patches of young shortleaf pine which appear to be making very slow growth, contrary to the general habit of this tree. In such cases, investigation usually discloses that a previous cover of Shortleaf seedling s and saplings had been killed by fire and that the present young growth consists of the sprouts from the former, thus accounting for the latter's weak condition. The casual observer sometimes concludes that second growth Shortleaf Pine is exceedingly slow growing as a general rule. This is incorrect, however, since this tree really grows quite rapidly from the seed, is modest in its soil requirements and reaches a size and form comparable to the better species of pine.

A dog bred by John Cox of Blackburn, Eng., and sold by him for $28 brought $8,500 from a fancier of wire-haired terriers.

When James Glynn appealed to the Detective Bureau in Chicago for help, he said the only thing he could remember was that he had been robbed of $5,000 in St. Louis.

J. C. Jordin arrested in Chicago for intoxication had in his pockets two earrings, two camphor balls, a brush and comb, six hairpins and two bars of soap.

Auburn, Ala., March 27.—More than 35 per cent of all the groceries sold in the United States last year went over the counters of chain stores, according to the Chain Stores Research Bureau. Some authorities estimate this a shigh as 45 per cent for the current year.

Two types of birds that lay blue eggs will be on exhibition at the 1930 World's Poultry Congress in London, England. Prof. G. A. Trollope, of Auburn, National Egg Week official for Alabama, reports. If they become popular, and are bred to lay like the modern white or brown egg factories that grace our barnyard at present, eggs may be served to match the color of milady's costume.

A turn for the better in sales by wholesale firms of the Nation has just been reported by the Federal Reserve Board, along with a general sales increase in January of this year as compared with December, 1929. However, there was a decrease in sales for January, 1930, as compared with January, 1929. In last January the sales of groceries were 6 per cent higher than in December, 1929, meats were 3 per cent higher, dry goods 17 per cent higher, and shoes 68 per cent higher.

A continued drop in Mexican immigration to the United States is shown by the State Department in reports on visas issued during February under a new system of strict enforcement of existing regulations. For February, visas issued to Mexicans numbered 780, as compared with 864 for January and 1950 for last July, when the new system was first applied. The total for the eight months since last July is 9,765, as compared with 31,886 for the corresponding months of the preceding year.

Six Delightful New Ways to Enjoy a Familiar Food

By JOSEPHINE B. GIBSON
Director, Home Economics Dept.,
H. I. Heinz Company

PEANUT Butter is a well known and very popular sandwich spread, but many of us are not familiar with the great variety of other uses for this highly nutritious food.

Because of its large protein and iron content, Peanut Butter is especially good as a meat substitute. And clever cooks have found that it gives an unusual, nutty flavor to cookies, salads, fudge, cake frosting, muffins, and bread.

Here are a few of the many ways to introduce this valuable body-building food into the daily menu:

Peanut Butter Muffins—Sift together 2 cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1/3 cup sugar, and 1/4 teaspoon salt. Work into the dry ingredients 1/4 cup Peanut Butter, and 2 tablespoons butter or lard. Gradually add 1 cup milk, and bake in a well-greased muffin tin in a hot oven (about 375 degrees to 400 degrees F.), for twenty minutes.

Peanut Butter Bread—Sift 2 cups flour with 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt and 1/3 cup sugar. Work 1/2 cup Peanut Butter into the dry ingredients, and add 1/2 cup milk. Pour into a well-buttered, small bread pan and allow to stand for 30 minutes. Then bake for 35 minutes in a moderate oven (about 350° F.).

Egg and Peanut Butter Salad—Cut 6 hard-boiled eggs in half lengthwise. Remove the yolks, combine with 2 tablespoons Peanut Butter, and add Mayonnaise Salad Dressing to moisten. Fill the egg whites with this mixture. Serve two halves in a nest made of crisp lettuce and short lengths of celery and with a spoonful of Mayonnaise or Mayonnaise mixed with Chili Sauce over each egg.

Peanut Butter Fudge—Mix together 2 cups granulated sugar, 1/2 cup milk, 2 heaping tablespoons Peanut Butter and 1 teaspoon Older Vinegar. Boil the sugar, milk, Peanut Butter and Vinegar slowly, without stirring, until when a few drops are poured into a cupful of water a firm ball is formed. Remove from the fire, cool until lukewarm and beat until creamy. Pour into a buttered pan and cut in squares.

Peanut Butter Frosting—3 tablespoons cold coffee; 1 tablespoon cream or top milk; 1 teaspoon vanilla; Powdered sugar, about 1 1/2 cups. Mix Peanut Butter with cream, coffee, and vanilla. When thoroughly mixed, add about 1 1/2 cups sugar sifted gradually until of consistency to spread.

Peanut Butter Cookies—Roll cookie dough 1/4 inch thick. Spread Peanut Butter (or Jam) and roll into a cylinder. Cut in 1/4 inch pieces, and bake in a hot oven 10 to 15 minutes.

Fill The Pail, Alabama

It is estimated that Alabama fell short 67,500,000 gallons of supplying the milk needs of the state last year. Figuring milk at 20 cents a gallon it would seem that milk production in Alabama might be increased to the extent of $13,500,000 a year without exceeding home demand. Bankers and county agents in 20 north Alabama counties are doing what they can to remedy the situation. They have joined hands in putting over a program that calls for more cows, more hogs, more hens, and more 4-H Club boys and girls. To increase the farm income they hope to induce 10 to 25 farmers in each county to become cream dairymen, and 25 to 40 farmers in each county to begin raising poultry. A unit in dairying as they define it may consist of five cows, one brood sow and 100 hens, or five cows and two brood sows, or five cows and 200 hens. The program calls for the production of sufficient feeds and pastures for all livestock, proper fertilization of crops, use of the right varieties of field crops, and the practice of soil building.

The Sow

The brood sow is a useful beast; her offspring furnish welcome feast of toothsome meats for folks to eat, from spareribs to pickled feet. There is no better breakfast fare, for hobo or millionaire, than bacon crisp or juicy ham, along with buttered toast or jam. Where farms are stocked with hens and cows, with pigs galore and big brood sows; where grow alfalfa, oats and corn, no mortgage long such farms adorn. Come seasons wet or seasons dry, such farmer folks will not apply for credit nor a job in town, because they shake the shekels down each week with yellow eggs, or country sausage, ham or lard at prices town folks must regard. So here's to cow and sow and hen, all winners for good farmer men. Who stakes his fortune on these three, a farmer prosperous will be. Of them the sow will rank ace high; her motto is: Root, hog, or die.—T. M. Jeffords.

State Capitol News

An experiment of statewide interest in boll weevil control will be tried by the State this summer, with the launching of an aerial attack upon the weevil at the state prison farm at Atmore. Airplane dusting with calcium arsenate which has already been resorted to extensively in the Mississippi Delta section, will be tried at Atmore and the result will be watched with general interest. The plane to be used is a state-owned military plane provided through the cooperation of Adjutant-General F. E. Butler, and will be sent to Tallulah, Louisiana to be equipped with the dusting apparatus. Dusting of the Atmore crop will begin about July 1st, and will be under supervision of Dr. J. M. Ribertson, professor of entomology at Auburn. It is estimated that five to seven applications will be necessary. The apparatus will permit release of the calcium arsenate dust at the will of the operator, and traveling at a speed of 80 miles an hour a cloud of dust is released which will cover a path 250 feet wide across the field each trip. This method of control has been tested at the Federal experiment station in Louisiana and found to be both economical and practical, it is stated. The plane dusting is one of a number of experiments to be conducted by the State Department of agriculture, the results to be carefully tabulated and passed on to the farmers.

Partial reports from the "opportunity schools" for adults for the first two weeks of the short spring campaign against illiteracy show that 3,792 have been enrolled. However, only ten counties and thirteen towns and cities have rendered reports, and the number is expected to be largely increased with more complete reports. Informal reports of individual teaching, indicate that there are many individuals being taught by friends in addition to the instruction in classrooms.

L. A. Duncan, director of the Auburn extension service, in a general letter to members of the extension service staff, has called on the extension service workers over the state to cooperate with the County Superintendents of Education in every way possible way in the fight against illiteracy.

Membership of the American Legion in Alabama is growing rapidly and the number of paid up members is well ahead of the figure for the same date last year, according to information from headquarters of the organization here. On March 15th the membership was 6,204 against 4,849 for the same date last year, an increase of 1,355. A new post has been recently organized at Clio, and another Post reorganized at Lineville, making a total of 88 active posts in the State.

Escambia County during the past year completed a school building program costing $203,215.37, according to figures from a recent issue of the Alabama School Journal. Of this amount $188,409.27 was spent for new brick buildings, and $14,805.40 for equipping them. A total of fifty-six classrooms and six auditoriums were constructed. Escambia needs only two more buildings to have a complete school system, with an accredited high school within reach of every boy and girl in the county. In five years time this progressive county has reduced the number of one-teacher schools from 32 to 16, established an enlarged transportation service of 40 busses with 1,600 passengers, and increased high school attendance by 61 per cent.

New Dance Sensation

Coca-Cola Topnotchers Score Enphatic Radio Hit

Admitting that it was a difficult matter to develop anything new and unusual in the rendering of dance music, Mr. Willie Jones, local manager of the Coca-Cola Bottling Company, states that the response of the public to the program of the Coca-Cola Topnotchers has surpassed all expectations. "Every piece they play," he said, "must be especially arranged for them, for there isn't a brass instrument in the whole orchestra. It is a 31-piece, all-string outfit without even a 'sax' and under the direction of Len Joy, of Victor recording fame, the result is that the screen and stage hits of the day are given a really wonderful new effect, for nothing comes over the air as well as stringed instruments. The harmony is perfect." Besides this unusual dance music, the Coca-Cola Topnotchers feature Grantland Rice, famous sports editor, and a different celebrity each week in the field of athletics. Graham McNamee announces this unusual program every Wednesday evening at nine-thirty over Station WAPI.

RESPECTS TO W. E. MARTIN

At the meeting of the Parent-Teachers Association of Baker Junior High School it was moved that the following resolutions be adopted in honor of our deceased principal, W. E. Martin: Be it resolved by the Parent Teacher Association that:

Whereas, Mr. Martin has faithfully served as principal of the Baker Junior High School for the past three years and that during that time he has manifested a keen interest in the pupils, the school, and the community; and

Whereas, in the death of Mr. Martin the school and the community has suffered a great loss as well as the family, that we extend to the family our deepest sympathy.

—Mrs. Donald Merchant, Gladys Kemp, Ruth Sessions, Gordie Baker, Members of Committee, Mrs. E. P. Littlejohn, President of Parent-Teacher Association.

U. S. Formula For Whitewash Given

Auburn, Ala., March 27.—A cheap way to protect property and improve its appearance is to apply whitewash, say specialists of the Extension Service, Alabama Polytechnic Institute. The most common and easily prepared formula, they say, is one recommended by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. It is called washable whitewash for use on the exterior of buildings, fences, and elsewhere.

The whitewash is made as follows: Sift 62 pounds or one bushel of quick lime with 12 gallons of hot water; dissolve 2 pounds of common table salt and 1 pound of sulphate of zinc in 2 gallons of boiling water. Pour the salt mixture into the lime mixture and add 2 gallons of skimmed milk and mix thoroughly.

A pound of cheap hair soap, dissolved in a gallon of boiling water, and added to five gallons of the whitewash will give a somewhat gloss, and to the completed job. Alum added to a lime wash will make it more adhesive to a wall, increases its adhesive qualities. A glass of lime at the rate of one pint to five gallons of the whitewash makes the lime more soluble and causes it to penetrate the wall.

"Things I Ate Hurt Me"

"I HAD a severe case of indigestion," says Mrs. Bell Buckheister, 7 River St., Piedmont, S. C. "So many things that I ate hurt me, I almost quit eating."

"I would burn in my chest. I had severe headache, and such a tight, smothering feeling. I would be obliged to eat a little, then it would hurt me."

"A friend said to me: 'Why don't you take Black-Draught?'"

"I was just too weak then to do my work. I began taking small doses after meals and in just a few weeks I could eat anything I wanted to, then take my small dose of Black-Draught and feel fine. I soon regained my health and strength."

Costs only 1 cent a dose.

BENNY COOPER DRAWS FINE IN MAYOR'S COURT MONDAY

Two cases came up in Mayor's court last Monday morning for trial. Benny Cooper, negro, who was arrested some time ago, and whose case was continued from first trial, was fined fifty dollars and costs, reports state. He was charged with violating the prohibition law, and seems to have quite a record in police court here. Not being able to pay the fine, he was sentenced to work out the fine on the streets, it was stated.

The other case was not tried on account of the complainant failing to appear, against a Hardy negro, who was charged with assault and battery, the information stated.

FARM WOMEN OF ALABAMA HAVE TOO MUCH DRUDGERY

The evening school at Union Grove on last Thursday evening had in addition to their regular lesson on poultry a very interesting discussion on home conveniences and beautification. Mr. R. E. Cammack of the State Department of Education, spoke to the members of the evening school.

Mr. Cammack thinks that the so-called little things are not small but loom up as big things if they add to the drudgery of the already overworked farm women of Alabama. He gave as an illustration a woman that he once saw bending over a wash tub in a rainbow fashion. He requested of her, that he be allowed to raise the stand just a few inches. That put the tub high enough to remove a good deal of the drudgery. This woman stated later that before the change was made she always had to spend a day in bed after a hard days washing, but she now did the work in an unstrained position and her health was not injured by it. He also stated that many of the work tables in the kitchen were too low for the farm wife. He advised that the farmers build wash rooms for their wives and protect them from the cold winds when on winter days they sometimes have an all day's washing to do.

Mr. Cammack stated that for years the farm women have swept their yards clean, when a green sod and shrubbery planted around the foundation would give a much better effect. The farmers and farm wives enjoyed and appreciated his discussion very much and requested that he visit them again on his next visit to Jemison High School.

Stapp Attends Directors Meet, Montgomery

County Agent Stapp returned Tuesday from attending a meeting of the directors of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation in Montgomery. The meeting was called by W. M. O'Neal, who is president of the Alabama Farm Bureau for the purpose of making a report of his legislative work while in Washington.

After Mr. O'Neal made his report, a report was also made by Chester Gray, the Washington representative of the Farm Bureau Federation. Following the two reports, resolutions of thanks and appreciation for the interest and splendid efforts of Mr. O'Neal were drawn up and unanimously passed on by the voting delegates.

Those from Chilton County who attended this meeting with County Agent Stapp, were G. T. Guy of Mountain Creek, T. F. Patterson of Verbena, J. L. Smith and Buford Lawrence.

IN MEMORY OF CHARLIE WILLIAMS

About 9:00 o'clock Monday a. m. March 3rd, a message came to us from Waterloo, South Carolina, that our son, brother, and friend, Charlie Williams, had been accidentally killed. Charlie had been at work about forty-five minutes when he met his death. He climbed a telephone pole about 30 feet high, which broke off 8 inches under the ground and fell with him. The boys with whom he was working tried to save his precious life, but it was all in vain. God knew best and took him from our midst to a better land where there will be no more parting, weeping and pain.

Charlie became united with Shiloh Baptist church 12 years ago and lived a Christian life up until his death. It was easier to give him up knowing that he was a Christian young man, than it would have been if he had not been so.

To know him was to love him. Weep not, dear loved ones, for he is at rest. It was sad to give him up. We all want to be prepared to meet him in heaven when the time shall come for us to be re-united in heaven, to sorrow no more.

The last time Charlie was at home was last Christmas. We did not realize that we were spending our last happy days with him here on earth. His body now lies sleeping beneath the sod, but his sweet smiles and tenderness lingers still within our sad hearts.

—A Friend, Emma Powell.

NEW FILLING STATION HAS OPENED HERE

Luther Foshee Is Manager of New Texas Co., Station On The Highway

The new service station, located on the Birmingham highway, one block north of the Ford Building will be operated by Luther E. Foshee, according to an announcement made this week, by the Texas Company, distributors of Texaco gasoline and motor oils.

This announcement will probably satisfy the question which has many times been asked, concerning the operator of the new modern station, that involves an expenditure of several thousands of dollars, in its up-to-date construction.

Elsewhere in this issue, there appears the announcement of the new station, which will assume the name of the Foshee Service Station, in which Mr. Foshee is stating some of the many services to be given the public by his place of business. Look at an announcement, and read it to get an idea of the varied kinds of attention they will give your automobile, when left them to be serviced.

Only experienced help will be employed by the Foshee Service Station, and one may be assured of prompt, courteous service when they drive into the station for genuine Texaco gasoline and motor oils, as well as lubricating of the automobile chassis.

BASEBALL TAKING ON INTEREST WITH HIGH SCHOOL FANS

The baseball team of the local high school, went to Calera Friday to meet the Montevallo team, for one of their first games of the season. The Montevallo team lost to the local team with a score of 18 to 4. Nivens, in the pitcher's box, for Clanton, used a good arm, much to the regret of the opposing team.

On last Saturday the local high school team went to Eclectic and returned defeated by a score of 8 to 1. On next Friday the Clanton team will play Centerville, Bibb County High School, on the local diamond. Let us all go out and give the Clanton boys some good boosting.

Clanton Officers Find Goods Thought Stolen

One day last week City Officers Bookhold and Smith, were informed by a negro living near town that he had some goods in his house that did not belong to him and that he was afraid they had been stolen by the man who left them there. The officers investigated and found that a man had left some suitcases filled with wearing apparel, all new stuff, at the negro's house, while he said he was going fishing. That happened Tuesday of last week, and so far no one has called for the suitcases.

The goods were removed by the officers and placed with the city clerk here, awaiting developments. It was estimated that there is something like two hundred dollars worth of merchandise in the suitcases, and it is believed that the lot was probably stolen from some dry goods store.

MRS. LUCIE L. PARNELL FOR BOARD MEMBER

Mrs. Parnell Makes Formal Announcement That She Will Enter Race

In this week's issue of the News, Mrs. Lucie L. Parnell of Maplesville, Alabama makes her formal announcement that she is a candidate for a member of the County Board of Education of Chilton County, subject to action of the Democratic Primary to be held in August.

Coming with Mrs. Parnell's announcement, is a statement from her that she has always been in favor of anything reasonable which will tend to bring about a betterment of education in the county. Mrs. Parnell is a wife of one of Chilton County's most distinguished citizens, Dr. C. N. Parnell, of Maplesville.

MIMS CHILD SWALLOWS BEAN; NEAR DEATH WHEN RELIEVED

A report came to the News office this week stating that the two year old girl of Willie Mims, who lives six miles east of Clanton, accidentally swallowed a butterbean Wednesday of last week. The bean is said to have lodged in the child's windpipe and was making it difficult for the child to breathe. Several doctors gave treatment, and when the condition of the child became serious last Sunday, she was rushed to Birmingham where the bean was extracted, and at the time of this writing, she is said to be resting well.

Mother Of Local Man Is Buried Near Tuscaloosa

Mrs. Hattie Turner, age 74, died at her home in Fostit, near Tuscaloosa last Saturday night. Funeral services were held Sunday, conducted by Rev. Reeves. Death came following an illness lasting two months.

The deceased is the mother of James O. Turner, manager of the C.E. Hornsby Co., International Harvester dealers of Clanton. Surviving are the husband, L. O. Turner, and two sons, James O., of Clanton and E. H. of Northport.

UPCHURCH SHOWING LARGE LINE FISHING ACCESSORIES

Now that the fishing season is beginning to open up with fair weather as the outlook, Upchurch Drug Company is displaying, as usual, its complete stock of fishing tackle. Loren Smith, the official window decorator of the drug store, stated to a representative of the News that they have everything from a small pole to a live minnow, some of which can be seen in their window display.

Mr. R. L. Duffey of Mountain Creek was in Clanton last Monday attending to business matters.

ONE KILLED IN WEEK END ACCIDENTS

Buster Ruddick Is Killed Instantly When Car Overturns

One person was killed and several injured in automobile accidents during the past week end near here. Buster Ruddick, age 22, was instantly killed last Saturday night when the car which he was driving overturned on a curve fifteen miles west of here, according to information.

The story given the News stated that Ruddick was accompanied by Douglas Burnett and a young lady, and they were on their way to a relative's home, when the accident occurred. Ruddick's skull was crushed, and several bones in his body broken, while the other occupants of the car were only slightly injured, the report stated. (continued to last page)

NEGRO COUNTY AGENT WORKING WITH RACE IN 2 COUNTIES

Autauga and Chilton counties have now a negro County Agent, who assumed his duties March 15th, according to a report this week.

This man, Worthy Hughes, will work in Chilton and Autauga counties with his race. He will have his headquarters at Prattville, Alabama, and is employed by the Tuskegee Institute and the Federal Board.

Liquor Is Seized By City Officers Recently

Last Saturday afternoon, night Officers Lowery and Stanton uncovered a bootlegging place, arranged by a young man here who had stocked up with several pints of the forbidden beverage, to dispense to his customers.

The owner of the liquor was seen to the place where his stock was, and Officer Stanton was aided in his attempt to catch the man with the goods, so later the liquor was seized by the officers, but no arrests were made, so far the young man has not shown up to claim his property it was stated.

Officers Lowery and Smith arrested Easter Gamble, a negro woman, last Saturday night at her home in West End on a charge of violating the prohibition law. The woman was found with a quantity of liquor in her home. She made bond and was released, it was stated. The arrest occurred about seven-thirty. The total amount of liquor seized by the city officers Saturday amounted to approximately two and a half gallons.

New Shoe Store Is Putting In Stock

The new store which Clanton is about to acquire is already receiving goods to offer to the people of Chilton County at bargain prices, according to the proprietor, Mr. Ben Margolis, who has recently returned from the markets at St. Louis.

Mr. Margolis states that he will handle a complete stock of shoes for ladies, men and children, as well as a stock of wearing apparel for men. He added that he believes he will be able to fit most any foot in Clanton with a comfortable shoe, and asks the people to watch for his announcement of the opening of his store, which will be located in the building formerly used by Callen's store, next to Hill Grocery Store.

Mr. Duncan Graves, Jr., of Prattville, and a candidate for State Senator from this district, was noted among the visitors to our town last Tuesday.

4-H Club Boys Have Big Time Here Friday

Those boys of Chilton County, members of the 4-H Club who attended the meeting of the club in Clanton last Friday experienced a most entertaining time.

There were approximately 300 boys here and about fifty parents, according to County Agent Stapp. The rally opened at the Baptist church, and among those who made short talks, and assisted in the program for the boys are Rev. Ernest Childs, pastor of the Methodist church here, Supt. B. Lawrence, L. H. Reynolds, Miss Madge Scarborough and T. A. Sims, of Auburn.

At the noon hour the boys staged a parade through town which ended at the office of the County Agent, where sandwiches, cake, fruit and other good things to eat, were served to them with the assistance of Mrs. John C. Page, Mrs. George Trotter, Mrs. Ben Gotsman, Miss Madge Scarborough and Miss Zora Guy.

In the afternoon the boys were treated to a free moving picture show at the Wadesonian Theatre, through the courtesy of the management, after which they all went home, with pleasant memories of the day, and looking forward to the next 4-H Club Rally in Clanton.

Farmers May Have A Cream Station Here

Whether or not the farmers of Chilton County will have a place to sell their cream, if they have less than five gallons to sell, depends largely on the interest shown in the proposed establishing of a cream station in Clanton, according to a statement from County Agent C. E. Stapp, this week.

Mr. Stapp stated that he had mailed out questionnaires to various farmers over the county, and so far, has received fifty replies in favor of the station. The proposed cream station will be used by those who have less than five gallons of cream at intervals, that they wish to sell, and at this station, they will find a market for such cream. If you are interested in securing this station, get in touch with the County Agent and tell him so, or write your approval to him. As yet, a sufficient number of farmers have not voiced their approval of the station to warrant its location here.

PAGEANT GIVEN AT THE METHODIST CHURCH HERE

The three departments of the Epworth League of the Clanton Methodist church, the Seniors, Hi-League and Juniors, presented a pageant, "Children of Light," at the 7:30 hour last Sunday night. Many costumes, illustrating the ideals of the Epworth League were used, and the lighting arrangements were fixed so that a very impressive scene was shown to the large audience who witnessed this pageant. This is an annual affair with the Epworth Leagues and is given in commemoration of Epworth League Anniversary Day.

Wizard of Figures Hits Bullseye With Ala. Crop Estimate

Farmers of Alabama raised 1,341,000 bales of cotton in 1929, according to final ginning figures made public last week. F. W. Gist, state and federal statistician, in his December, 1929, estimate announced a probable crop in Alabama of 1,335,000 bales. It will thus be seen that the veteran agricultural statistician came within about one half of one per cent of absolute accuracy in his figures.

This almost unbelievable accuracy in crop estimates is not unusual in Alabama. It is wonderful to believe that estimates can be made more accurately than one could possibly count the bales, were they inside one big inclosure.

United States Cotton Crop Very Large

The 1929 cotton crop in the U. S. amounted to 14,821,499 bales of 500 pounds each. In the spring of 1929, farmers were told that if a 14 million bale crop were grown, the price would be low. To show how true this turned out, it is well to recall that cotton for several weeks has been below the loan price fixed by the federal farm board of 15.64 cents per pound middling basis.

Seth P. Storrs, Commissioner of Agriculture, is of the opinion that unless farmers adjust their acreage so as to grow under 40 million acres this year, nothing but a poor cotton crop will prevent a disastrously low price this fall. A big crop in 1929 meant a low price. A big acreage this year may mean greater depression than at present.

Food and Feed Crops Always Safe

Food and feed crops in Alabama are always salable at a good price. Farmers who produce plenty of crops on which to live at home seldom need to worry over debts. Such farmers keep their eggs in a number of baskets. There is safety in numbers of crops, but not safety in great numbers of bales of cotton.

Fertilizer Movement Grows

Movement of fertilizer as measured by fertilizer tags issued by W. B. Griffin, chief clerk of the Department of Agriculture, amounted to 70,850 tons, a slight increase over the previous week. The spring movement of cotton is well under way. The total tonnage movement to date, according to tags sold by the Department of Agriculture's records, is 366,100. Corresponding figures for other years are as follows:

To date of March 21, 1923, 474,050 tons were sold.
To date of March 21, 1929, 363,150 tons were sold.
To date of March 21, 1930, 365,100 tons were sold.

It is too early to draw any conclusion between tag sales of fertilizer and probable acreage of cotton for 1930.

The sale of fertilizer is thus 2,950 tons ahead of last year at this date and increasing.

Nickel Coffee Near After Jitney Cigar

Five-Cent Cup of Coffee Appears To Be Just Around Corner, Following Five-Cent Stogie

New York, March 31.—The five cent cup of coffee is just around the corner. This was one of a number of facts that developed following the recent dinner in New York of twelve consuls of Central and South American nations. That dinner was unique in several ways even for supposedly blasé New York. It brought together formally for the first time twelve chief consular and commercial representatives of Latin America and it centered attention on the interesting part that coffee beans play in international relations between the United States and each of the twelve southern nations represented at the dinner. It was also a fitting prelude to the coming celebration of "National Coffee Week," by 15,000 food stores of the largest chain store system in the world, during the period beginning March 31.

This coffee week celebration was started several years ago and it is to be made an annual event from now on for the purpose of educating the people of the United States in the selection and use of their favorite table beverage. The consul's general dinner was held primarily to inaugurate a "four o'clock coffee hour in the United States and Canada."

Few people realize that the United States consumes one-half of all the coffee produced in the world, and that Brazil, the world's greatest coffee producing country, furnishes sixty-five per cent of the amount consumed in the United States. Furthermore, one organization, the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, with thirty resident buyers in South America, purchases fifteen per cent of all coffee imported into the United States from Brazil and a great portion of the coffee produced in the other countries of Latin America.

These figures form an interesting sidelight on what coffee means to the United States as a staple food commodity. Last year the people of this country, used 1,233,272,741 pounds of roasted coffee. Carrying these figures into cups of coffee—thirty cups to the pound being a fair estimate for properly made coffee—that amount was sufficient to make approximately 37 billion cups or 310 cups a year for every person in the United States.

During the past four months there was a big drop of about 33 per cent in coffee prices to the pre-war level. The first drop came in December. And since this big drop in price one of the biggest food chain stores has noted a twenty per cent increase in the sales of its coffee.

It is evident therefore that the fact of the returning five cent cup of coffee is of far greater interest to more inhabitants of the United States than the return of the five cent cigar which the late Vice President Marshall quaintly remarked was one of the greatest needs of the nation back in 1918-19. Coffee brewed at home, of course, is well below the nickel in cost. It is perhaps the least costly item on the home menu.

In connection with the National Coffee Week celebration, the following excerpt is interesting. It is from a report made by Prof. Samuel C. Prescott, director of the Department of Public Health at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, following an extensive investigation of coffee. "The world has," according to Prof. Prescott, "in the infusion of coffee, one of its most valuable beverages. As a prompt, diffusible stimulant it is most beneficial to mankind and in all cases of shock, preferable to alcohol." It was pointed out that after stimulation by alcohol there is always a reaction later below normal, whereas the drop is merely back to normal after use of coffee as a stimulant. Going on, Prof. Prescott reported: "The strength of the infusion should be regulated by the amount of ground coffee used, not by boiling or long treatment. The time of the infusion should be brief."

Nurse Tells

How CARDUI Helped Her

Mrs. W. A. Cox, a well-known professional nurse, of Burnside, Ky., writes: "I was in very bad health, and only weighed 110 pounds. I read in the papers about Cardui, and thought I would give it a try-out. After I had taken one bottle, I could see that I was improving. After I had taken it a month or two, I began to gain, and I weigh at present 168, and have weighed that for some time. I am now 55 years old, and can do as much work as the average middle-aged woman can."

"I would advise any woman, who is weakly and in a run-down condition, to try Cardui, but not to expect one bottle to make her well. I take two or three bottles a year, now, and I feel fine."

Dr. Richardson Writes About Children

"Jealousy is one of the most evil and commonly encountered traits in all the walks of life and so must constantly be reckoned with in all human relationships," writes Dr. Frank Howard Richardson in his article on Child Education, which appears in the current issue of HOLLAND'S, The Magazine of the South.

Dr. Richardson goes on to say, "One of the greatest services that parents can render their children is to so bring them up that jealousy will play as little a part in their lives as is humanly possible. For jealousy, in some degree, is a very human trait; and few of us there be who are at all times wholly free from some tinge of it.

"One of the outstanding things about jealousy—one that should give parents pause—is the fact that it rarely develops after maturity. The man or woman who is jealous was a jealous boy or girl; he has suffered from this tormenting obsession all his life; and it is almost hopeless to attempt at this late date to cure him. While if he is a child, however, much can be done, by thoughtful parents who take their responsibilities seriously, to prevent the

Cotton Burned

Concrete Warehouse Damaged As Fire Destroys 1,000 Bales

Decatur, Ala., March 31.—Approximately 1,000 bales of cotton were burned or damaged by fire, smoke or water in the Hughes & Tidwell Cotton Warehouse, according to estimates Monday. The concrete building is said to have suffered some damage.

Baby Abandoned

Birmingham, Ala., March 31.—A month-old baby wrapped in a blue blanket, lying quietly in a market basket, was found in the vestibule of the First Baptist Church about 7 p. m. Sunday.

C. W. Noel, secretary of the church, said he thought at first the child belonged to some one attending the evening service, but after all the women left the church it was apparent the baby was a stranger.

The child, which did not awake during the services, was carried home by Mrs. G. E. Angle, of 1205 North Twenty-Fifth Street.

WORLD USES LESS COTTON

Worldwide slackening of business is responsible for a decrease of about one million bales in export cotton this year, according to a statement broadcast by Seth P. Storrs, Commissioner of Agriculture, on Saturday. Another big crop of approximately 15 million bales, if grown in 1930, will mean very low prices this fall.

Farmers have it in their power to so adjust their acreage of crops that more food and feed crops can be grown and less cotton and thus keep a profitable beginnings of this noxious growth; for if it once gets a start, it is the most difficult weed in the world to eradicate.

"The jealous child is one of the most unhappy mortals imaginable. He is constantly looking for slights that he never intended—and finding them, too! He grudges every good thing that comes to his fellows, feeling that in some way he is being deprived of what is accorded them, and that whatever of good is said of them implies something correspondingly derogatory to him. Every manifestation of approval given by his father or mother to one of his brothers and sisters is, by the alchemy of the little green god, transformed into a slight directed at him.

"The chief joy of the jealous child—if we can use the word 'joy' for such a joyless exultation as he feels at these times—comes when he sees his playfellows deprived of something that they wish, or disappointed in getting a treat that they have desired. He may strive to conceal this perverted satisfaction, knowing the disapproval that it will elicit, and knowing, too, that he will receive censure for it, but it is there nevertheless, to be detected by one wise in the ways of childhood."

TRAMP SETS UP TOLL GATE ON FAMOUS ROOSTER BRIDGE

The "best minds" in Alabama's legislative halls have provided ways and means for collecting fees for use of toll bridges. It remained for a nameless genius of "hoboland" to concoct a plan for exacting toll from motorists before permitting them to cross a free bridge built with state and federal money. And he got away with it. Nobody knows how much cash he collected.

It happened a few nights ago at the famous "Rooster" bridge scanning the Tombigbee River on the Dixie Overland Highway at Moscow Ferry between Demopolis and Livingston.

On the river-bank beneath the bridge structure, it is said, is a sheltered and cozy spot that is a favorite rendezvous of itinerant "tramps" and here they are wont to tarry from time to time to cook a tomato-can full of hash and spend the night.

It was here, it is believed, that a lone "bum" conceived the scheme probably inspired by the noise of traffic overhead, for collecting from the traveling public.

Anyhow, he swiped a couple of red-globed lanterns from a nearby road repair location, and waited for nightfall. When the sun had set he mounted the bridge. There he swung shut the folding iron gates, for use as barriers at either end of the draw-span when the draw is opened, and placed a red lantern in front of each gate.

All automobiles coming onto the bridge thereafter were brought to a stop. The rough, unkempt looking guardian glanced at the license plate the machine carried. If it was an Alabama license, he waved them on without a word. But if the license was one issued in another state, he demanded toll, which was paid without question.

"It is not definite just how long this sort of thing kept up but at last a car came along bearing a foreign license, but containing an Alabamian, who was a native of those parts. When the demand for toll came this citizen sprang from the machine with the announcement that he was going to run the would-be collector in.

The guardian of the bridge, unlike the immortal Horatius, tarried not to argue or contest the matter, but instantly dropping his lantern dashed away to the bridge approach and disappeared into the night.

Who he is remains a mystery. All who saw him, however, agree now that he looked like, and probably was a "tramp." There is another mystery that will never be solved either—the grand total of his "toll" collections.—Montgomery Advertiser.

FRUIT, VEGETABLES SUPPLY VITAMIN C

Auburn, Ala., April 3.—Use in the diet of fruits and vegetables which contain vitamins necessary to proper growth and bodily well-being is urged by Miss Helen Kennedy, extension nutritionist at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

"She calls particular attention to the necessity of vitamin C in the diet. 'Especially good sources of this vitamin,' she pointed out, 'are citrus fruits as oranges, grapefruit, and lemons, raw cabbage and turnips and tomatoes, raw, cooked and canned. Other foods supplying this vitamin are apples, bananas,

NIGHT SCHOOL FOR ADULTS IS HELD TO TUNE OF BULLETS

Gadsden, Ala., March 30.—Readin', 'ritin' and 'rithmetic are taught to the tune of bullets at Vaughn's Grove Opportunity School which has been established in a small community near here.

A shootin' contest is the novel feature of this small institution of learning which is being ruled over by Louis Kirkland.

It all developed when it was found there were a large number of literates in the mountain section of Etowah County. Kirkland knew the great appeal that firearms has to this type of person so he hit upon the idea of holding a rifle match in connection with the school.

The pupils have been divided into two teams and attendance is awarded with shots at the target which has been placed in the school yard. When a person enrolls he is given one shot and an additional one if he brings a new pupil with him. Additional shots are allowed for regular attendance.

A formal match will be held next Saturday and prizes will be awarded for the best shots. Many students walk several miles each night to attend the novel school which is expected to increase the ratio of people in the county who can read and write who will be listed in the census.

There are 42 students now enrolled, according to Kirkland, and more coming each night.

A STRAY PUP'S FRIEND

What does a stray pup amount to, anyway? What does it matter if a helpless animal is abused and tortured to make sport for a gang of thoughtless boys? Who would care?

We have read a pleasing story of one small boy who cared, and thereby made a friend who did not forget. Some years ago a kindly man named Jacob Siler, while walking along the Mississippi river bank near St. Louis, came upon a group of boys who were amusing themselves by throwing a stray pup into the river time after time in spite of the protests of one small companion. Finally the pup's defender engaged the others in fistie combat to save the wretched animal from being drowned.

Just then Mr. Siler approached and commended the plucky lad, whose name was Otto Schmidt. As a result a lifelong friendship between the two began. Some time ago Siler died and left $7,500 to the boy, now a man, whose humane instincts and courage had saved the poor pup and won the admiration of a casual witness of his act.

Those who befriend unfortunate animals do not always receive material rewards such as came to Otto Schmidt but they may have the reward of an approving conscience, which should be recompense enough.

young carrots, cauliflower, guavas, onions, peaches, peas, pineapples, potatoes, raspberries, spinach, sprouted legumes, and string beans.

"Vitamin C is very easily destroyed by heat and oxidation. If vegetables are cooked too long they may lose their vitamin C. All recent instructions on vegetable cooking stress quick-cooked methods. Canning often destroys vitamin C. In the case of acid foods like tomatoes destruction is not so extensive. Tomatoes seem to retain most of their vitamin content either cooked or canned.

"On diets deficient but not entirely without vitamin C, children become irritable and lacking in stamina, do not grow normally, and are less resistant to disease. Shortage of vitamin C is thought to be an important factor in the prevalence of tooth decay and of much of the so-called rheumatism in children and adults. When vitamin C is entirely lacking, scurvy develops. This used to happen on long sea voyages before it was known that lemons and certain other portable foods contain vitamin C."

THE CHILTON COUNTY NEWS

J. B. ATKINSON, PUBLISHER

Published every Thursday at Clanton, Alabama in the interest of Clanton and the entire Chilton County

BILLY SMITH Editor

Entered in the postoffice of Clanton, Alabama, as second class matter under the Act of Congress of March, 1897.

There Comes A Call
From The Field of Battle

And now, there comes a call from the field of battle. The field where men, women and children of Chilton County are striving to exist—to live in a half-way comfortable manner, fighting an unending battle against ignorance, a battle which has lasted for years, and now, those who are waging this wonderful fight against ignorance, are wondering why they are not sent re-enforcement from headquarters.

There came to the office of this newspaper last week a letter from one of the communities of this, our county, asking why there is not a Home Demonstration Agent working among them. To this question, this newspaper can give but one answer, and that answer would not assist in securing this much needed addition to the program for the progress of Chilton County.

A plea coming as the one came to this newspaper, from one of the young women of Chilton County, who is not just wishing to do something, but who is sorely realizing the need of a Home Demonstration Agent for the betterment of living conditions here. It is not the policy of this newspaper to rebuke those county officers for things impossible or unnecessary, but at this time, we pass the question on to them, from this young lady, "Why can't Chilton County have a Home Demonstration Agent?" And too, we remind them that "When the one great Scorer comes to write against your name—He writes not that you won or lost, but how you played the game."

In previous editorials, this newspaper has advocated a Home Demonstration Agent for Chilton County. Our suggestion and facts given the people were probably overlooked by the county officials who have charge of the county's monies. Those are the officials who should be thinking NOT of the next election, but of the next generation. Then there is the Golden Rule, "Do Unto Others As You Would Have Them Do Unto You." The present rulers of the county business at our county seat would have the people elect them. Then WHY do they not do something for the people?

It took something of a fight to secure a County Agent here, but now, the farmers and their families are realizing the great work being accomplished by that office.

In olden times, when there were rulers, usually the people governed by that ruler, went to him for any relief from depressing situations. Those people of Chilton County who would have a monarch, a sole ruler, have him to look to for relief. He is the one who has been placed as the leader, and a leader is one who leads—but where to?

Clanton's Most Valuable Asset

The story is told that a certain young woman of very wide acquaintance who knew nearly everybody in her town, as an experiment, tried a novel stunt recently. She wondered just how many folks would greet her if she did not speak to them first. She went to church and much unlike her usual self, left her happy smile and "how-do-you-do" at home. And not a soul except the preacher said as much as "good morning" to her.

The story, perhaps true, however, illustrates a simple truth. The people about us respond to us in good will and cordiality in much the same degree that we express it to those about us. If we are cordial and light hearted and radiate a cheer and sunshine and good will, the world and those with whom we come in contact express the same measure of cordiality and good will toward us. If on the other hand, we are dour and glum and sour and crabbed and critical, those with whom we come in contact show that side of their nature to us.

The reaction a visitor has toward Clanton depends on the attitude of the people of Clanton with whom he has come in contact during his stay in town. If they have been cordial and hospitable, and accommodating, and obliging, and shown their good will, he goes on his way with a warm spot in his heart for Clanton. He will comment on the pretty town, the well kept homes and the substantial institutions of the community. Such good will scattered along the way as he goes, is the finest kind of advertising that this community can receive. Some place along the way someone will hear of Clanton and will feel a friendliness for Clanton and a desire to make this their home. There is no telling how many times this may be multiplied.

In business, good will is a firm's most valuable asset. This is also true of a community. The good will that the visitor to Clanton carries away will return rewards to this community many fold.

A man made a purchase of "hooch" and paid for it with counterfeit money. Later he was met by the liquor dealer and informed that his money was no good. "Well," replied the purchaser, "neither was your booze."

I still don't believe the story about the absent-minded professor who hung up his socks and then discovered that he had forgotten to take them off.—Brown Jug.

We don't know as we can blame little Oswald when he inquired of his mother why his week-old step-sister couldn't step.

It is deeply regrettable when your fellowman reaches the point in his business career that your faults grow so big in his eye that he will strain at a gnat and overlook an elephant. Yet such incidents have come under our knowledge.

Opportunity for Wise Advertising

Roger Babson, whose views on business matters command respect and attention throughout the country, gives business men a particularly helpful suggestion when he tells them:

"The time to advertise is when sales are hard, contrary to the general practice of advertising chiefly when business is good and sales easy."

Mr. Babson declares that this year offers the advertiser unusual opportunities because buyers are more discriminating in their purchases than they are when times are flush. The advertising columns are more closely read and the advertising appeal more carefully weighed when the disposition is to make the expenditure go as far as possible.

This is an expression marked by unanswerable logic and undoubtedly it was a prime factor in leading many of the largest national advertisers to increase their appropriations for 1930.

Business experience teaches nothing more clearly than that curtailment of advertising expenditures is a positive means of curtailing buying, and it also proves that those institutions which have pushed sales through advertising, in season and out, are the ones which have survived and grown increasingly great and prosperous, regardless of general conditions.

So well recognized is this principle that it has become a truism in business circles that to stop advertising is to stop growing.—Tuscaloosa News.

"ROUND TOWN"

---by Doug

"The world is a looking glass, and gives back to every man the reflection of his own face. Frown at it, and it will in turn, look sourly upon you; laugh at it and with it, and it is a jolly, kind companion."

—William Thackeray.

"Printing is a good business," said Henry Porter. It is clean, honorable, respectable. It is celebrated as a trainer of men for higher stations in life."

I can't agree with him that it is so clean. I went back into the printing department of the News to help them a little the other day, and the man in charge asked me to please put the ink on my face back into the bucket. But I learned it is all in knowing how to handle the little quiddits in a printing plant.

In my expeditions round town, I often notice things and wonder if others really notice them enough to think of them for more than a moment. Did you ever notice that:

Rev. Ernest Childs is a boy at heart, sometimes. Will H. Sartor resembles Cal Coolidge, in speech. Frank Callen will change his walk if you watch him. J. T. Rockett usually walks with his hands in his pockets. Dr. Harvey Nix of Maplesville, resembles a lawyer or a newspaper man. J. W. McEathern drives an open car in winter, a closed car in summer. Otto Jones has his car washed and polished on Saturdays. Luther Culpepper is devoted to his mother. Dr. Pete Hinkle wears a red tie on Sunday. A salad plate is served at most all parties in Clanton. L. E. Diefenderfer has become more congenial lately. Raymond Smith walks extremely slow, usually with one hand in his pocket. Lester Jones talks very little. Mittie Sprott will attend summer school. Mrs. Hance Alred has changed very little. Gaston Robinson is becoming more and more settled. W. I. Mullins always occupies the same seat in church on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. John Page usually dine at The Dixie on Sunday evenings.

And now here comes Ben Margolis to our town. He must be of that scarce optimistic type of business man, coming here and going into business. He gets about rather slow, but I'll bet he has some spunk when it comes to business, especially if he is a good advertiser. Wonder if he is anything like his brother, Harry. If he is, the young ladies round here better watch out.

Was talking to a merchant here in town the other day, and he had recently put his rather short signature on the well known dotted line. That man was certainly afraid he had stepped in something he shouldn't have, since he has had time to think it over. I tell you about that high pressure salesmanship, some folks have. Better learn to say "No" sometimes—at the right time.

Well, here I have again almost gotten into trouble. Seems as if I put the loud pedal on a person in Clanton not long ago, in this column, and it brought results though. Makes me think of that old saying, "The hit dog always hollers," because I didn't mention any name, and the editor always gets the bawling out for it.

Noticed the fishing tackle arrayed in Upchurch's window this week. Pretty good display. They even have live minnows too. William H. Loren Smith, the official decorator and teller of fishing tales, says they have the accessories for fishing trips, but I can't say whether that includes "everything" or not. I'd like to know what that H is for in his name, anyway.

Frank P. James, who with the other members of the publicity committee read reports from various business houses in Clanton, as well as gave a summary of the various kinds of business being carried on here. Following we give an outline of the reports read by the committee:

The post office at Clanton serves 7,100 rural patrons, 1750 of which are urban patrons. The total number of miles traveled each day by the carriers in the rural districts is 291 miles, while the office here now serves an area of 1135 square miles in rural service, with the total number of patrons served from the office, excluding transients, at 9750. The business done at the Clanton office is said to have doubled in receipts during the past seven years. In the business done, the amount of mail handled, both incoming and outgoing, at the office here, is greater in proportion to the number of men employed than a dozen other offices in the same class, in Alabama, and doing the same or less business. There is one clerk in the Clanton office who has the distinction of making up as good R. P. O. letter tie-out of any clerk between Nashville and New Orleans.

There are eight wholesale oil distributing plants in Clanton, in a radius of three miles, all of which distribute approximately 200,000 gallons of gasoline and oil per month. There are in the town of Clanton eight filling stations, involving approximately $50,000 investment in buildings.

For the year 1929, the Alabama Power Company, with an office here, sold or distributed 2,372,600 kwh, which was divided between 1300 customers using the electricity. The power company is said to have paid $142,988.98 in taxes during the year, and including city license, and city tax $143,798.98.

During the year 1929, the report stated that the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company did approximately $200,000 worth of business at Clanton.

The meat report, which could not be compiled to any satisfaction, and excluding chain stores here, showed approximately 100,000 pounds of beef and 25,000 pounds of pork consumed from the various markets here.

The report on the Central Alabama Hospital here, showed that during the year 1929, there were 61 major operations performed, 29 minor operations, 32 medical patients; 12 obstetrical cases, 83 cases from accidents, and 7 from burns, making a total of 244 patients cared for. The number of charity patients was not given in the report.

There are six white churches in Clanton, the report showed, and two colored churches. The Clanton Baptist church has a membership of 637 members, the Church of Christ 36 members, the Methodist church 329 members, Seventh Day Adventists 31, Presbyterian 16. The number of members of the Church of God, was not shown. The two colored churches, Methodist and Baptist, showed, a total membership of 353.

The schools in Clanton, white, the high school and grammar school, have a force of twenty teachers, equally divided between the two. There are 225 pupils attending high school, and 329 attending grammar school. The high school yearly payroll showed at $12,962, the grammar school at $18,900. There is one negro school here, with an enrollment of 150, using four teachers, with a yearly payroll of $990.00.

The total income of the two landries of Clanton for 1930, was shown at $30,900.00, with payrolls at $11,140.

For the five cafes in Clanton, the gross income for 1929, was reported at $82,780.00, with total payrolls of approximately $12,000. The report on hotels was not given for publication.

The reports on the automobile business of Clanton showed a total of 390 new cars sold by three dealers during the past year, 1929; 89 trucks were sold by four different dealers, and 7 tractors sold by one dealer. There were 475 used cars handled by the three automobile dealers, and the total payroll for three dealers here totaled at $47,895.90, with a total of forty employees.

Other miscellaneous reports brought in the barber shops of Clanton, totaling five white shops, employing twenty barbers. One beauty shop, which gave to Clanton customers 114 permanent waves in 1929, and from July 1st, 1927, to March 24th, 1930, the beauty shop gave 336 permanent waves.

It was estimated that there were 30,000 cross ties shipped from Clanton in 1929, selling on an average of ninety cents each, making the total at $27,000.00.

The Clanton Kiwanis Club now has an active membership of twenty-six, meets every Thursday at twelve o'clock noon.

Maplesville

Spring seems to be here—first day of April—and farmers are rejoicing.

The W. M. S. held its regular meeting Monday afternoon, Mrs. Hill Foshee leader. Mesdames Bill Nix, J. O. Mize, Ruff Seales, Dudley Nix, Jno. Foshee, T. A. Dawson gave readings, Mrs. F. A. Shanks, pianist, and Mrs. Bessie Middleton, special music. Mrs. F. H. Brown, leader for next Monday. Mesdames Annie Shanks and Willie Belle Dawson will attend the District Conference Wednesday at Montevallo, Alabama.

The planing mill owned by A. D. Harper Lumber Co., Montgomery, Ala., operated by Mr. Chas. Harris of Montgomery will do a splendid business. They will buy lumber from the smaller mills in and around Maplesville.

Our little burg was shrouded in sorrow Monday morning early at the sad news of the death of Buster Ruddick, who was killed instantly Sunday night near Adams. His radius rod dropped out causing the car to wreck, turning over and pinning him and Miss Roper under the car, and throwing Douglas Burnett clear away from the car. Burnett lifted the car off of them. Miss Roper was not hurt. Mr. Ruddick was twenty-two years old and resided with his grandparents, Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Ruddick of Stanton. He leaves his father, Mr. N. T. Ruddick, three sisters, Annie Louise, Mildred and Lula of Birmingham, two brothers, Morris of Sandiego, Calif., and W. L. of Chicago. Rev. B. Lawrence of Clanton preached the funeral at the Baptist church. Interment was at the Stanton cemetery. The popularity of this young man cut off in the vigor of life was attested by the beautiful floral offerings.

Be sure and see "Cyclone Sally," a royalty play staged at the school auditorium April 12, 1930. Admission 35c and 20c—8 o'clock.

Mrs. Irene Ward of Selma, Ala., is the guest of Dr. and Mrs. H. M. Nix. Mrs. F. A. Shanks, Mrs. Sallie Perry and Mrs. Sallie Shanks and Mrs. J. W. Foshee motored to Selma last Thursday.

We are so delighted to have two of our girls, Miss Ethel Hize and Miss Frances Brown, at home again. Their schools are out.

We regretted to have Miss Julia Reid, one of our teachers in Grammar school, return to her home in Montgomery. Miss Reid made many friends while in Maplesville.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernie Teel motored to Selma, Alabama Sunday afternoon.

paper states that Mrs. Parnell is a woman who has reached the heights in obtaining an education for herself, being a graduate of Alabama College, in a Literary course, piano and home economics. She is an active member of the Parent-Teachers Association, and a member of the Alumnae Association of the Montevallo College, having served on various offices of that organization, and as president for three times.

Mrs. Parnell has resided in this county for twenty years, and as a woman of high standing in all social, religious and educational activities, she has made a name for herself on her reliability. In making her announcement as a candidate for a board member, Mrs. Parnell, really made no formal statement for publication, however, her record in educational lines will be sufficient to back up any statement she should choose to make, it is believed. It would not only be a step toward bringing education forward in Chilton County to have Mrs. Parnell as a member of the County Board of Education, but would be an honor to the county to have a woman of her type, and disposition, serving them.

The Junior I is taught by Miss Louise Jackson and contains some unusual talent along the line of getting out beautiful posters for play writing and story telling. Some of them dramatized were the "Treasur Hunt," "Trip to Alaska," "The Sphinx," and the "Golden Touch." Excellent poster work was done in the project of advertising the play, "Bettie Lou."

Baseball Team In C. C. H. S.

We are glad to say our high school has a good baseball team. We beat Montevallo last Friday afternoon 18 to 4. Our boys returned the games to the Elmore County boys at Eclectic, and were defeated. We are still proud of our boys, and want you to come out to our games next week.

Junior I Class Studies Clothing

The Junior One class has just completed the study of the "Selection and Care of Clothing." The class visited the Clanton Laundry where the process of cleaning and laundering was explained by Mr. Thompson. The main thing we learned about the laundry is water, and that it must be soft in order to get the best results. This is done by putting the water through a process of certain chemicals. The water is first purified by chlorine; next by the minerals that make the water hard which are magnesium and calcium. The water is then carried by pipes to big washing machines, which is used to wash the clothes. The clothes are then put into a centrifugal dryer. Here 92 per cent of the moisture is extracted and the desired quantity of moisture is left for ironing purposes. Our class has learned that there is a close relation between the science of clothing in washing and cleaning as well as the science of colors.

Mr. Warren, an engineer of the Veteran's Bureau, was in our town Friday, March 28, looking over proposed sites for the new government hospital. We would be very glad to have it located here.

The Jemison High School Baseball team is practicing regularly now. Up-to-date they have played one game, winning over Isabella by a score of 14 to 2. They have several games scheduled.

The Seniors have planned their annual picnic for Tuesday afternoon, of April 1.

The P.-T. A. wishes to express its appreciation to the entire student body of Jemison High school and Grammar School for their whole-hearted cooperation during the recent tag sale. Friday, March 28, was decided for tag day in school and the following Saturday for the public. The student body elected six girls to represent them in tag day. Each tag sold represented a vote for the best "All Around Girl." Miss Erin Littlejohn, a popular member of the Senior I Class turned in the most money, so won the prize for being the best all around girl. Misses Tommie Lee Sims, Josephine Adams, Vonzell Atkinson, Ruby Merchant, Violet Martin, and the winner were the one elected as leaders. Sale of tags which amounted to $25.10, was added to the fund for a curtain for the auditorium.

The P.-T. A. has started practicing on the play, "A Wild Flower of The Hills." It's a play of comedy and romance of the hills of Kentucky. Watch for date to be announced later.

All members of the P.-T. A. are urged to be present at the next meeting Wednesday afternoon, April 9th.

We were very glad to have Bro. Metcalf with us Sunday morning. He has planned to give us the fifth Sunday morning services during the year.

We have just completed two B. Y. P. U. Training courses, "The Manual," taught by Miss Margie Murphy and "Training in Church Membership," by Rev. J. W. Jones.

Friends of Mr. J. F. Wells are glad to learn that he has recovered sufficiently from his burns to be at home. We wish him a speedy recovery.

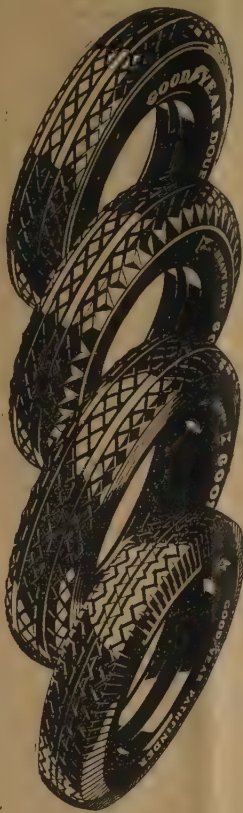

Mr. Henry Hayes of the University of Alabama spent several days visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hays.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Wells motored to Montevallo Saturday en route to Birmingham, and were joined by their daughter, Miss Dody Wells, and her guest, Miss Sarah Howell, of Ozark, Alabama. After a day of shopping in Birmingham they returned to the former's home in Jemison, the girls returning to Alabama College Sunday evening.

Miss Clara Ellen Calloway of Montgomery was the guest of Mrs. W. C. Erwin Monday.

Mr. Elwin Ward of Birmingham spent the week end with his parents near Jemison.

DISTRICT B. Y. P. U.

CONVENTION AT JASPER

Over three hundred B. Y. P. U. delegates will attend the Western B. Y. P. U. Convention that will be held at Jasper, Ala., on April 15, and 16. The convention will be held at the First Baptist Church, Dr. W. G. Yarborough, pastor.

The convention will open at seven o'clock Tuesday night, April 15, with Mr. Jimmy Yarborough leading the singing, assisted by Mrs. J. A. Pannell. The theme of the meeting will be, "No Other Name." This will be emphasized in all devotionals, addresses, conferences and in the singing.

The following will deliver addresses: Mr. E. E. Lee, Dallas, will bring the opening address on the first night using as his subject, "No Other Name." On the sixteenth of April Dr. L. E. Barton, State Baptist Secretary, will speak on "No Other Name in His Mission Program." Rev. H. C. Williams, Birmingham, will speak on, "I Know A Name." Mrs. Henry Rogers, approved Field Worker, will lead an Intermediate Conference; Mr. Davis Cooper, Jr., director of Department of Education and Training, will speak on, "Alabama Baptists Working Together in His Name." Miss Elizabeth Perry, former Junior-Intermediate Leader of Alabama, will talk on, "No Other Name in Leadership." Dr. John L. Hill will bring the closing message on, "No Other Name in Loving Obedience."

Young people from the counties of the District who will attend the meeting will be on the program.

Mr. James Sulzby, Birmingham, is President of this district, and Mr. Howard Meigs, Tuscaloosa and Mr. Claudis Adams, Birmingham, are the Intermediate and Junior leaders for this district.

The delegates will be entertained in the homes of Jasper. If you desire to attend the meeting at Jasper, please send your name to Miss Vinetta Kincaid, Jasper, Alabama.

Misses Celia and Betty Baldwin of Mountain Creek were in Clanton last Saturday shopping.

Poison Bran Mash To Kill Cut Worm

Auburn, Ala., April 3.—Cut worms are now beginning an attack on vegetables growing in Alabama gardens. They will do much damage to cabbage, tomatoes, lettuce, garden corn, and other vegetables. Later, they will attack field corn, cotton and other plants. This is reported by Prof. J. M. Robinson, entomologist of the State Agricultural Experiment Station here, declares that the cut worm is one of the most dangerous enemies of some crops.

He has just made some timely suggestions regarding control. "If you are having trouble with cut worms mowing down your cabbage plants," he said, "why not try the poisoned bran mash bait? If you want to use the bait to kill the cut worms you should use the following proportions given: bran, 20 pounds; Paris green or calcium arsenate, one pound; cheap syrup, two quarts; water, three and one half gallons. The pound of Paris green or calcium arsenate should be thoroughly mixed with the 20 pounds of dry bran. The two quarts of syrup or molasses should be dissolved in the three and one half gallons of water. The poisoned bran should then be mixed with the water-syrup mixture. After these materials are thoroughly mixed the poison bran is ready to distribute along the rows or around the plants in a thin film.

"This material should preferably be placed around the plants in the evening so it would be fresh for the cut worms as they come out to feed at night.

"If you do not have bran convenient you could take a gallon of chopped burr clover, mixed with a tablespoon of Paris green or calcium arsenate, and spread this among your vegetables in the late evening. The cut worms feeding on this mixture will be killed. Poultry should be kept from the area treated with either of these poisoned baits."

Auburn, Ala., April 3.—Jars of grain have been found in the ruins of the buried city of Kish, which, according to the best available information, must have been placed there about 3200 B. C.

In Memoriam

Miss Louise Dobbs, age 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dobbs, died on March 24. The death angel visited their home and called their loving daughter to a better home. All was done for her that loving hands could do, but all in vain. But understand, she is not dead in reality, but just passed over to that sweet home to await our coming, where there will be no parting nor sad farewell.

We will miss her to testify in loving remembrance to the place she held in our hearts. She was a faithful Sunday school worker and church worker, but God wanted her and He called her to live on high.

We miss her, yes, her place can never be filled, but with joy and gladness in our hearts we can so live that we can meet her some day. It is God's will that we must die to make us fit for that home on high, for when God calls we must go.

She is now peacefully sleeping in the silent city of the dead awaiting the resurrection morning, when all loved ones and friends shall again be united to part no more.

She leaves her father, mother, one brother and one sister to mourn. A father, mother, brother and sister who loved her as all fathers and kindred do. Try to look up and trust God for faith to meet her at the pearly gate.—Written by one who loved her, Birtlyue Gore.

Miss Mary Louise Pack, spent the past week end with her parents, in Spott, Alabama.

Miss Emma Harte Cather and Lorene Montgomery were guests of Miss Ruth Sessions last Sunday.

Finnell's Salary Was Discontinued Tuesday

Highway Director Will Hold Office, However, During His Campaign

Montgomery, Ala., April 1. Officially launching his campaign for Governor of Alabama, Col. Woolsey Finnell, State Highway director, while retaining his position in that capacity, will cease today to draw from the State the compensation provided for the office. This arrangement, to become effective when Col. Finnell began his active campaign for the gubernatorial nomination, was agreed to by Gov. Graves and the head of the Highway Department, some months ago.

The office of highway director is a dual one, the person holding it performing the duties of both chairman of the Highway Commission and State Highway engineer. Col. Finnell will continue to sit with the Commission at its meetings and to exercise general supervision over the Highway Department's work, spending several days each week. Correspondence and other general office work will be attended to by R. D. Jordan, assistant State highway engineer.

Col. Finnell has already established his campaign headquarters in Tuscaloosa, his home town. He resigned the office of probate judge of Tuscaloosa County to accept appointment as State highway director.

Our line of brooders, feeders and fountains will take care of any size flock chickens.—W. W. Fox, Clanton.

LOUISE DOBBS DEAD

On March 24th the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dobbs and took away their daughter and sister, Louise. They shall miss her. She left a vacant place that can never be filled. Louise was loved by all who knew her. She was always looking on the bright side of life. She was a faithful worker in Sunday school and her class will miss her. Her place can never be filled. She will be missed by the Senior I class at Jemison High School where she was a member. It was hard to give Louise up, for everybody loved her.

We feel sure that Louise has gone to heaven and we want to live to meet her over there. Louise gained friends everywhere she went, for she was so kind and sweet to everybody. We all loved Louise, but God loved her best and wanted her to live with Him on high.

Louise obeyed her father and mother, had a kind and tender feeling for them. She set a good example for others to live by.

We never know the day or hour when God shall take another flower for Louise was like a flower. Flowers grow to be more beautiful and Louise grew to be more loving and kinder to everyone.

She shall be missed everywhere we go for Louise was so good, always ready to take her part in anything, no matter what you asked her to do.

We thank our friends and loved ones dear for the loving service rendered here. We hope to meet her on yonder shore to dwell with her forevermore. O, father, mother, brother, and sister, too, who loved her as all fathers and mothers do, so try to look up and trust God for, faith, to meet her at the pearly gates.

Louise leaves to mourn her loss a mother and father, Eural, her brother, and Gladys, her sister.—Written by her friends, Lovey and Versie Hilger.

BIG CROP MEANS LITTLE CASH

Overplanting of cotton is wasteful and shows a lack of balanced business management on the farms. With the cotton planting season well under way in Alabama, with heavy purchases of fertilizer ahead of last year, there is yet time for nearly all farmers to adjust their crop systems to a good margin of safety, according to Seth P. Storrs, Commissioner of Agriculture, who is of the opinion that another cotton crop as big as that of last year will mean ruinously low prices for farmers.

LETTER FROM A. A. JACKSON

Editor Chilton County News, Clanton, Alabama,
Lomax, Ala., March 29, 1930.

Dear Editor:

Will you please allow me space in your valuable paper for a few words? Since there is so much being said in regard to chain stores and independent merchants. I read your papers from the pen of writers, some taking the part of the chain stores, and some against the chain stores. I also hear speeches broadcast through the radio, from different parts of our country, condemning and abusing the chain stores, and taking the part of the independent merchant. My opinion is that there are about as many Christians in one as there are in the other.

The system by which the chain store and independent store is run is what we should take under consideration. We will first take the system of the chain stores. It is an undeniable fact that the owners of the chain stores are Wall Street capitalists and bankers of New York City. This Wall Street bunch, they operate stores throughout the United States. They price the farmer's cotton, corn and everything that he produces. The chain store system is handled and operated just about like a department store is operated. In a department store the cashier's office is located on the balcony or platform of the store, and they have wires running from the cashier's office to all parts of the store. The clerks collect the cash from the customers of the store and put it in a box and place it on the wire and it goes whizzing to the cashier.

This chain store bunch has made a department store out of our United States. They have stores in most all towns that have a population of a thousand people. These stores gather up the cash throughout our country, and put it on their wires and it goes whizzing to the bank of Wall Street, never to return. The chain store system is a system that drains the country of its cash. Any system that will carry millions of dollars of cash profits out of our country continually day after day will bring panics, poverty, and distress and suffering.

Now let us consider the system of the independent merchant. We will suppose they are all rascals. But competition forces them to sell as cheaply as they can afford. But it is the system that we must consider. If our commercial system was such that independent individuals could handle all of the commercial business of our country, the millions of dollars that are accumulated day by day would flow and circulate throughout all channels and avenues of commerce and industries and vocations. Everybody would have a chance to get some of the dollars.

Suppose your blood were to fail to circulate through the channels of your heart and pass out through another channel, regardless of how impure it might be. You know you could not live. This will apply to the chain system of business. The farmer is the heart of our nation and any system that will prevent the flowing of money through this big heart will produce death. Every farmer knows that he is about dead financially.

In conclusion let me ask each and every reader to study this question

G. W. EDWARDS OPPOSES TAX

Clanton, Ala., March 31, 1930.
Editor Chilton County News:

I have been told that we will have another tax election April 8th. I guess they are going to slip it on us this time. I am opposed to any more tax for anything, for high tax has us in the ruts now. The average man can't understand what the high tax is doing for him.

It causes him to pay more for everything he buys, for the speculator must have more profits to pay his tax. Millions of dollars are invested in from a systematical standpoint. Yours for a system that will keep the big heart beating.

A. A. JACKSON.

government bonds and loaned to banks at a low rate of interest, and millions more locked up or buried that would be invested in industries to give the people work if our taxes were reasonable.

Then do we wonder at so many people tramping the highways and public places, seeking work and can't find it. They tell us that this school tax is too little to worry about. If it is so little, why do they want it? They have tied us with many small threads. If all classes of people could get as good pay for their work as the school officials and teachers, we would have no more money panics.

But as long as the money flows to the favorite classes of people, and let the other classes starve, we will not have any better times.

I think if our school officials would pay to the schools the money that they pay for calling tax elections and other unnecessary things, we would need no more tax.

I am writing this to try to get the sunburned man to think on his side of the question. I want every voter to go to the election and vote as they please. I will trust God for the result.

G. W. EDWARDS.

J. T. Doster and son, H. M. Doster, of the Prattville Progress were visitors to Clanton and the News office Saturday.

Loot amounting to more than $1,000 was obtained by yeggmen last Friday night when they blew open the safe of the post office at Fletcher, Alabama.

Mr. Russell Parrish, a student at A. P. L. Auburn, spent the Easter holidays here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Parrish.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Lawrence and family motored to Lawley Sunday afternoon.

The marriage of Miss Mary Louise Orr of this city to Mr. R. B. Harrison of Whitwell, Tennessee, was impressively solemnized last Saturday afternoon at the home of the bride.

The Clanton Commandery No. 27 K. T. observed its annual Easter Service last Sunday morning at the Methodist church.

One Killed In Week End Accidents

Ruddick is the son of Boone Ruddick of Birmingham, and lived with his grandfather, Rev. J. W. Ruddick, who lives west of here.

Ruddick's body was carried to a relative's home where it was prepared for burial. The cause of the accident was not determined, it was stated. Surviving Ruddick, is his parents and other relatives.

Funeral services were held for Ruddick last Tuesday morning at ten-thirty o'clock, at Stanton, Ala., with Rev. B. Lawrence, officiating. Madison Davis and another man, whose name was not learned, received eight injuries Saturday afternoon when the car in which they were riding overturned just north of here, on the outskirts of town. Davis, it was stated, lost control of the car and it overturned in the road. A passing motorist assisted the men in getting from under the car, which was partially demolished.

Dr. Bill, an herb doctor, who lives near here, and who is familiarly known throughout the county received a shaking up Friday, when the buggy in which he was going home, in, struck from behind by a car, driven by two negroes. Dr. Bill was knocked from the carriage, but not injured. The two negroes attempted to make their escape, immediately, but were caught by Van Smith, a South Clanton merchant who saw the accident, and were forced to return and a satisfactory agreement was made for settlement on the accident. A chase of several miles was given by Smith, before he caught the negroes, and brought them to the scene of the accident. No arrests were made.

LOCAL SINGERS HAVE OPPORTUNITY IN CONTEST

Auburn, Ala., April 3.—Alabama singers between the ages of 18 and 25 now have another opportunity to enter the Atwater Kent audition and compete for one of the cash prizes which total $25,000, in addition to scholarships in music. P. O. Davis, of Auburn, is again serving as the State manager and the State committee is being selected. County committees will be named later.

HOMEWOOD, ALA., HAS CURB MARKET FOR FARMERS

Farmers are invited by the City of Homewood to bring their vegetables, fruits and poultry to that thriving center just south of Birmingham, between Shades and Red Mountains where a produce terminal has just been opened. There are between 25,000 and 30,000 persons living in the valley and most of them own their homes. They are eager to meet the farmers direct and buy fresh green stuff they can not find in the stores.

The Homewood Truck Garden, at Howard Street and Hattie Avenue, just off the Montgomery Highway has been graded and fine slag thrown over the ground. A real farmer who knows how to serve the farmers will be in charge of the terminal. Any policeman in Homewood will direct the farmers to the terminal.

Fertilizer Sales Are Ahead Of Last Year

With the tonnage sales of fertilizer constantly increasing for the past few weeks, and with the total sales to date of March 29, well ahead of 1929, all prospects point to a very heavy use of fertilizers by Alabama cotton farmers, according to figures given by Seth P. Storrs, Commissioner of Agriculture and Industries.

During the week ending March 29, farmers bought fertilizer at the rate of 1,000 tons per hour, for every hour of Alabama daylight. A total of 77,250 tons of fertilizer tags were sold, an increase over all preceding weeks of 1930.

In 1929, to date of March 29, 426,900 tons had been sold. This year on March 29, 439,350 tons had been sold, which shows an increase over last year's tonnage of 12,450 tons. Mr. Storrs declined to make any forecast as to probable cotton acreage in Alabama this year. He admitted that it looked as if farmers were to apply fertilizer as heavily as usual. He recommended the Auburn maximum, since the heavier the yield per acre, the lower the cost of production.

FRIENDSHIP SEES BIG DAY LAST SUNDAY

Old People And Ministers Have Big Day Of Reminiscences

According to announcements, a meeting for the older people and ministers of the county was held at Friendship church all day last Sunday. It proved to be a success and was greatly enjoyed by all present.

In the beginning of the service Mr. W. H. Robinson, an old singer of the Providence community, was appointed to conduct the singing for the entire day. This role Mr. Robinson handled to the complete satisfaction of everyone. The morning service from 10 to 11 o'clock was devoted to prayers and talks, and a committee was called to select a preacher for the 11 o'clock hour. The result was the selection of Rev. J. A. Raines of Mt. Creek. Rev. Raines preached a masterful sermon which received the favorable comment of nearly all the people present. The old ministers present especially enjoyed the remarks of Rev. Raines.

At 12 o'clock the crowd was dismissed for dinner, which was spread on an improvised table arranged on the sunny side of the house. This hour was enjoyed also.

In the afternoon Rev. M. J. Parrish was asked to take charge of the service which was to be for talks and prayers, similar to a general old time prayer meeting. This proved to be one of the most interesting features of the day. Several of the older people got up and told about the experiences they had had in life's work, and made talks and offered prayers.

At the suggestion of Rev. S. M. Adams a resolution was drawn up and passed by the body, regarding the old and retired ministers of the Baptist denomination. The resolution follows:

The Resolution

Clanton, Ala., March 30, 1930.
We, the older people and ministers assembled in this annual meeting at Friendship Baptist Church, realizing that the Baptist denomination as a whole is very negligent toward its old and retired ministers, and that it makes scarcely no provision for the care-taking of those who have given their lives to the cause of the ministry, and whereas, the Baptist ministers as a whole usually receive very little money for their work and are often left nearly destitute when they become old; Therefore, we go on record as favoring some action on this matter by our denomination and recommend:

First—That the Baptist denomination give more attention to the care of its aged and infirm ministers.

Second—That the Baptist denomination, through its convention officials, take up the matter of providing for its old and retired ministers by pensioning them and by providing a home for those that are not able physically to take care of themselves.

Third—That this resolution be considered and acted upon by our two associations, the Unity and Chilton County, in the near future, and that a copy of this resolution be submitted to the two county papers for publication.—(Signed) Committee.

After the resolution was read it was adopted unanimously. After a few more talks by different parties and some announcements made, the motion to adjourn was made and was carried. The dismissing prayer was offered by Rev. M. Lockhart.

It was announced that the affair would be held again next year, some time near the same date, which will be announced in due time. A royal welcome was extended all those present, and an invitation given for them to come back again next year.—T. E. Wyatt, Secretary.

FOR MEMBER OF THE SCHOOL BOARD OF CHILTON COUNTY, ALABAMA

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of Member of the School Board of Chilton County, Alabama, (to succeed J. M. Smith,) subject to the action of the Democratic Primary to be held August 12th, 1930, and will appreciate the vote and influence of the people of the county.

Respectfully,

Polk Bros. Motor Co. Equips Chevrolet Six Coach For Strawberry Hauling

According to Geo. C. Polk, sales manager for Polk Bros. Motor Co., they have equipped a Chevrolet Six coach, which is powered by the world famous six cylinder motor in a unique manner, for hauling strawberries.

It will carry 18 crates of strawberries without putting any on the running boards or bumpers.

This is accomplished, according to Mr. Polk, by removing the rear seat and back cushion which gives you the space in the rear of the coach for 15 crates, and the front auxiliary seat is removed which gives space for three crates, making a total number of crates that can be hauled inside the coach of 18.

In order to protect the upholstery, the inside of the coach is lined with beaver board, which gives complete protection against any damage from the crates. According to Mr. Polk, the Chevrolet Six Coach can be equipped in this manner in ten to fifteen minutes time at a total cost of $220 which is the cost of the Beaver board needed.

Mr. Polk further states that by using the Chevrolet Six coach for hauling berries, it does away with the necessity of buying a truck or pickup for hauling berries or any other farm produce, thereby making a considerable savings, and in addition the strawberries will be in better condition for shipping and will bring a higher grade, because the Chevrolet Six Coach is more comfortable riding and will be less jolting to bruise the berries than any other type of equipment that could be used, thereby making an additional savings.

Then after all berries are shipped the seats and rear seat backs can be put back in the car, and you have your nice new Chevrolet Six coach undamaged for a family car.

This car is now on display at Polk Bros. Motor Co., and can be seen at anytime.

Auburn, Ala., April 3.—The use of commercial fertilizer under cotton is a very profitable practice in Alabama. If done properly one dollar spent for fertilizer returns three or more dollars, according to the Experiment Station here.

SCHOOLS CLOSED THURSDAY, FRIDAY, FOR A. E. A. MEET

The schools over the county that have not already closed, will be closed today and tomorrow, on account of the meeting of the Alabama Educational Association in Montgomery today, Friday and Saturday.

Practically all the teachers of Chilton County are expected to attend this meeting. Work will be resumed in the schools Monday morning as usual.

MEMBER OF AUBURN FACULTY VISITS C. C. H. S.

Our high school was highly honored with a visit by Dr. J. V. Brown of Auburn. He made a most inspiring address which was enjoyed by all. The main theme running through his talk was to cultivate the quality of affability. "You will need it in life," the speaker stated.

FREE FERRIES ADVOCATED

Petition Placed Before Re- cent Meeting of Chilton Commissioners

A movement has been inaugurated in Chilton County to bring about the operation of ferries, touching this county, on a basis of free transportation, according to a statement made this week by one of the leading citizens of the county.

It was pointed out by a group of prominent men of the county that public ferries are really a part of public highways and should be operated as such, instead of being leased or chartered to some individual, who charges a fee for the use of such ferry.

At the meeting of the Commissioners of Chilton County, held at the court house last Monday, a petition was placed before them, which was

METHODIST W. M. S. HOLDS REGULAR BUSINESS MEET

The Methodist Woman's Missionary Society held its regular business meeting at the church Monday afternoon at 3:30. After song and prayer the business session was held. As no program was prepared Miss Morris and Mrs. Macy Jones gave a very interesting review of the first two chapters of the Mission Study Book. The society will meet next Monday afternoon at the church to take up again the Mission Study, Mrs. Grady Broadhead presiding.

MRS. J. F. BATES UNDERGOES OPERATION AT HOSPITAL HERE

Mrs. J. F. Bates, wife of a prominent merchant of Vincent, Alabama, underwent an operation at the Central Alabama Hospital here last Friday morning. Although the operation was said to have been serious, Mrs. Bates is getting along fine at this time. She is the sister of Mrs. J. B. Atkinson of Clanton.

MERCHANTS WILL MEET TONIGHT

Many Important Matters To Be Discussed By Local Business Men

A special meeting of the merchants and business men of Clanton is scheduled for tonight, at the court house at seven-thirty o'clock, according to an announcement made Tuesday.

This meeting will be held for the purpose of discussing ways and means for the betterment of trading conditions for the merchants in Clanton, it was stated and is being put forward by the Kiwanis Club, which is composed of some of the leading business men of the town.

It was also stated that all those citizens of the town who are in any way interested in the welfare and improvement of our town, are urged to be present at the meeting tonight as many important questions now confronting Clanton, will be brought up and discussed.

"Show Of Shows" To Be Offered Here

Week by week, the management of the Wadesonian Theatre is bringing to the people of the county, some of, if not the best pictures being made at the present time. Tonight and tomorrow night, the picture "Is Everybody Happy?" is expected to draw a full house at the theatre. This picture stars Ted Lewis. This is an all-talking and singing picture.

On next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights, April 16, 17 and 18, a picture said to be the most colorful ever presented to the theatre world, will be shown at the local theatre. This picture is the "Show of Shows," and easily lives up to its name. It is truly a triumph achievement of the Vitaphone screen. Richly conceived, lavishly produced, this singing, talking, dancing, technicolor picture combines in one amazing unit, the world's greatest stars in the greatest entertainment ever presented on stage or screen, and is easily the best picture ever presented by the Wadesonian Theatre.

MISSIONARY FROM AFRICA TO SPEAK HERE MONDAY, APRIL 14

Mary Ellen Caver, missionary to Africa will be in Clanton Monday, April 14th, and will speak to the Woman's Missionary Society at the Clanton Baptist church at two o'clock in the afternoon, according to an announcement given the News by Mrs. Horace Popwell, chairman of the committee, and Mrs. E. G. Hyman, secretary. All ladies of the town are cordially invited to be present.

First Quart Strawberries In Thorsby Sells For $1.00

The first quart of strawberries for market, season of 1930, in Thorsby, was brought to Wright's Drug Store Thursday afternoon by Archie Robinson and sold in less than one hour for $1.00, which goes to prove that the more strawberries people eat the more they want them and are willing to pay the price to get them. Strawberries are largely a luxury and the general public will buy in preference to a necessity in many instances. Apparently the crop will be much shorter than last season, according to Mr. J. M. Smith, manager and treasurer of the Thorsby Fruit and Truck Growers Association, but a short crop will bring more money than a large crop and will save labor costs and other expenses. Farmers are learning to diversify and not put all their eggs in one basket.

CAKE SALE AT HILL'S NEXT SATURDAY BY CIRCLE 4

We have been requested to announce this week that Circle Number Four, of the Clanton Baptist church will hold a cake sale at the Hill Grocery Store, next Saturday, April 12. All cakes will be home-baked.

Another Chicken Car Up L & N R.R.

County Agent Stapp announces that he will cooperate with the Farm Bureau in running another chicken car up the L & N Road next week.

The car will stop at following: Verbena, Wednesday afternoon, April 10th.

Clanton, Thursday all day, April 11. Thorsby, Friday morning, April 12. Jemison Friday afternoon, April 13. The following prices will be paid at the car door:

Hens (colored) 22 cents.
Hens (Leghorns) 21 cents
Fryers (colored) 32 cents
Fryers (Leghorns) 28 cents
Stags, 18c; roosters, 11c; turkeys, 20c; ducks, 12c; geese 10c.

County Agent Stapp says that farmers who have as many as a coop or more of fryers should arrange to make local shipments to Birmingham. He has been getting good prices for good fryers.

Girl Scouts Organized At Mitchell Dam

Miss Corinne Chisholm, Regional Director of Girl Scouts, was at Mitchell Dam April 6th, also Miss Caroline Remson, Girl Scout Executive of Montgomery, for the purpose of organizing the Girl Scout Troop which was organized on this date, with Miss Irene Woodham, teacher of the Mitchell Dam School as Scout leader of the Mitchell Dam Troop. The Mitchell Dam Troop was very fortunate in having a director of such wide note issue their first instructions in Scouting. Miss Chisholm talked at length on the various angles of true Scouting. She is Regional Director, is on the staff of Camp Edith Macy, National Camp at Barcliff Manor, New York, and is on Regional Camp Staff at Camp Juliet Lowe, Cloudland, Georgia. Miss Remson, Girl Scout Executive of Montgomery, was responsible for Miss Chisholm's visit to Mitchell Dam and the entire Scout Troop here is looking forward to a return visit from both Miss Chisholm and Miss Remson.

Voters Of Chilton County Reject Equalization Fund Of The State.

Returns on the election held last Tuesday over the county show that the proposed one-mill tax met with defeat. The election was held to determine whether or not an additional tax of one-mill on the dollar should be levied on taxable property in the county. If the election had gone in favor of the tax, all elementary schools in Chilton County could have had at least a seven months term, and high schools including accredited junior high schools, would have been enabled to run for a term of at least nine months in the year.

Following is a list of returns from

Week Beginning April 14 Is Designated Time To Clean Up

PRIZES TO BE OFFERED BY CLUB FOR EFFORTS

Clanton is slated for another record making clean-up campaign, according to a special committee from the local Kiwanis Club composed of Reddie Taylor, chairman, J. Mell Martin, Frank James and Sam J. Ezell.

Close observations have been made during the past few days of the appearances of premises in Clanton, and this special committee of Kiwanians are making plans to push this Clean-Up Campaign which will begin Monday, April 14, and continue through Saturday, April 19th, giving the people of the town a full week to remove any unnecessary rubbish, etc., from their premises.

It has been arranged with city officials to have their trucks make special work to see that all rubbish cleaned up by the residents of the town and placed where it can be removed by the city force, will be hauled away promptly.

At the regular weekly luncheon of the Clanton Kiwanis Club, today plans (continued to last page)

First Services In New Bldg. Sunday

It was announced with pleasure this week by Rev. J. W. Jones, pastor of the Thorsby Baptist church, that they will hold their first service in their new building next Sunday morning, April 13, at eleven o'clock, and at seven-thirty p. m. Sunday School will also be taught in the new building.

Although the building is not fully completed it is expected that within the next few weeks it will be completed and fully equipped, its sixteen Sunday school rooms, giving ample space. The Thorsby Baptists are to be heartily congratulated on the wonderful work they have done to accomplish their aim, a new church building.

L. C. Warr left Wednesday for Montgomery where he will attend the High School Principal's Conference.

I. T. Quinn Speaks To Kiwanians Here Recently

At the regular weekly luncheon of the Clanton Kiwanis Club, last Thursday, the club had as its guest, I. T. Quinn, Commissioner of Game and Fisheries, from Montgomery.

Mr. Quinn delivered a most interesting talk to the meeting, giving something of an outline of the work which he is engaged in. He was also entertained by individual Kiwanians during his stay in the county.

WILL MEET TO CLEAN UP MT. PLEASANT GROUNDS

All men and boys interested in the Mount Pleasant Junior High School, are asked to be at the school on next Saturday morning, April 12, for the purpose of cleaning off the school grounds and sodding it with grass.

It was also asked by the principal that all those answering this call, to bring a shovel and hoe, and the more who come, will mean that the less time it will take to complete the job.

PROMINENT CALERA MERCHANT DIED IN BIRMINGHAM

Funeral services for Phillip Baer, age 59, a prominent merchant of Calera, Alabama, were held last Monday afternoon at two-thirty o'clock, burial followed in Kneseth Israel Cemetery, in Birmingham. Mr. Baer died in a Birmingham hospital.

Mr. Baer was widely known in Birmingham where he was a member of Kneseth Israel Synagogue, and the Masonic Order. He is survived by his widow, four sons, Max, Aaron, Sol and Lewis, and one daughter, Dorothy.

HOME MAKERS CLASS TO MEET WITH MRS. JOE MIMS TUESDAY

We have been requested to announce this week that the Home Makers Class of the Clanton Baptist church will meet on next Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Joe Mims, with Mrs. Herbert Lowery as joint hostess.

The meeting is scheduled for three o'clock, and all members of the class are urgently requested to be present.

P. T. A. MEET SUCCESS IN EVERY WAY

Was First Meeting Of District To Be Held Alone In Four Years

The Parent-Teachers Association Conference of the Ninth District composed of the counties of Chilton, Autauga, Coosa and Elmore, which was held at the Chilton County High School here last Saturday was pronounced a success in every way, with seventy-five delegates present.

The conference was opened at ten-thirty o'clock Saturday morning with the singing of P. T. A. songs led by Miss Norma Smith of Montgomery. This was followed with invocation conducted by Rev. Ernest Childs, pastor of the Clanton Methodist church, and Dr. S. J. Ezell, pastor of the Clanton Baptist church. Following the invocation came the welcome addresses by Mrs. Grady Broadhead, president of the Parent-Teachers Association of the Chilton County High School, Mrs. (continued to last page)

Vetch Turning Demonstration

County Agent Stapp is arranging for several vetch and Austrian pea turning demonstrations next week. The implement people will be present with their two and three horse plows and tractor plows. The objects of the demonstrations are to show some of the splendid growth of vetch and peas in the county, and to show the easiest and best ways of turning under vetch and peas.

You are urged to attend one of the demonstrations, and see for yourself that a good growth of vetch can be turned under easily when the right kind of plow and attachment is used.

The meetings will be as follows:

Jasper Robinson's, near Verbena, on Monday, April 14.

J. N. Dennis, south of Clanton, on April 14, 1:00-3:00 p. m.

J. B. Parrish, near Thorsby, on old highway, April 15, 8 a. m.

G. W. Nelson, near Kincheon, April 15, 2 p. m.

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL BAND AT ISABELLA SATURDAY NIGHT

An announcement was made this week that the Boys Industrial School Band, from Birmingham would be presented in a band concert on next Saturday night, April 12th, at the Isabella High School. The admission will be fifteen and twenty-five cents.

POWER COMPANY OFFICIALS ENTERTAINED RECENTLY

When Messrs. B. R. Powell and W. A. Anderson of Birmingham came down here for a few days of fishing, they were not disappointed in their outing, if what we hear about the fish they caught while being entertained at the Frank Higgins camp on the river, for two days last week is true.

Mr. Powell is general manager of the Land Department of the Alabama Power Company, and Mr. Anderson is also connected with the department.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernie Teel spent the past week end visiting friends and relatives in and near Rockford, Ala.

TWO MORE CANDIDATES THIS WEEK

Arthur Martin For Office of Assessor; Sam Edwards, Commissioner

Mr. Arthur D. Martin, of the Community (Beat 3) of Higgins, announces his candidacy for the office of Tax Assessor, subject to the action of the Primary, August 12th, 1930.

Mr. Martin, has lived in the county for many years and is well and favorably known, and his many friends believe that he will make a successful race for that office. At present Mr. Martin is chairman of the Board of Registrars of this county and has been a member of that board for several years, where he has rendered the people of the county faithful and efficient service, and he promises the people of the county, that if they elect him as Tax Assessor to do his very best.

Mr. S. M. Edwards of Thorsby, Ala., filed his announcement this week for Member of the Commissioners Court, from the 2nd district, subject to the action of the Democratic Primary next August. In making his announcement with the News, he stated that he expected, within a short time, to give the people some facts about the conditions of the county, for their consideration, when making up their minds who they desire to elect as commissioner for his district. The public may rest assured that Mr. Edwards has considerable first hand information, which will no doubt be interesting, and we shall all look forward for his letters, which will appear in this paper within a few weeks.

Runaway Youth Is Apprehended Here

Having taken his father's recently purchased car and started out to see some of the world, Glenn Thompson, age 14, was caught here last Monday and held until relatives could come for him.

According to the story given a representative of the News young Thompson left his home in Missouri last Saturday alone, and when passing through Arkansas, picked up a man who had a five-year old boy with him. After traveling down south, the trio decided to go to Florida.

Thompson's urge to see the world was exhausted Monday morning just before day break when the car he was driving collided with a larger car just on the northern outskirts of Clanton. The impact gave Thompson's elder companion several bruises and cuts on the head, and damaged the car considerably, making it impossible to continue his tour.

It was said that Thompson wired his father for money to have the car repaired and his father answered with a message to Chief Bookholdt to hold the boy until he could send for him. The lad was placed in jail here, and his mother, Mrs. B. T. Thompson, and two brothers arrived here Tuesday morning and carried the runaway back home.

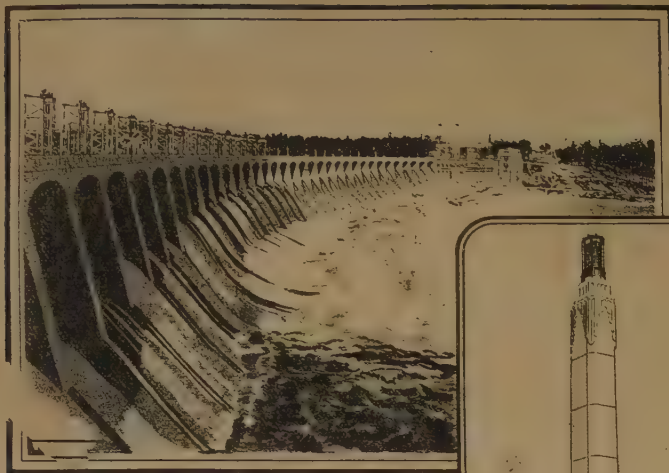

S. M. Edwards was in Clanton last Monday.

Power Company's Earnings Higher

Annual Report Shows 10 Per Cent Increase in 1929 Over Previous Year

The Alabama Power Company's annual report shows an increase of approximately 10 per cent in net earnings for 1929 over 1928 with net income available for preferred dividends and interest in 100-year gold debenture certificates set at $6,704,502.

Net earnings from operations for 1929 totaled $10,398,844, an increase of $1,120,628 over 1928 and on July 1, 1929, all outstanding 100-year gold debenture certificates were refunded into common stock, the report says.

Assets $176,949,362. Assets of the company as of Dec. 31 were reported at $176,949,362, including $167,843,071 in cost of properties. The four classes of stock totaled $67,942,676 and the funded debt amounted to $88,021,000. Current assets were reported at $5,020,220 with current liabilities of $2,413,499.

Among the most important undertakings of the company was the extension of electric lines to all portions of the state not already served by other utilities. A uniform rate for industrial users over the system was put into effect, regardless of the source of power.

Properties Sold. The hydro-electric development at Tallahassee Falls on the Tallapoosa was continued during the year with completion set for 1930 to give it an initial capacity of 72,000 horsepower.

"Since the company is primarily engaged in furnishing electric service," says the report, "its officers and directors felt it would be best to dispose of its principal auxiliary operations. Therefore, it sold its gas properties in Montgomery, Tuscaloosa, Selma, Anniston and Decatur to Central Public Service Corporation, Chicago. Water service properties owned by Consumers Water Company, an affiliated company were sold to Alabama Water Service Company."

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our thanks to all our friends and good people of Maple Springs for their kindness and help during the sickness and death of our dear sister, Mrs. Isabell Wilson. We especially want to thank Dr. J. P. Hays for his good service and promptness to come at every midnight call, and also Mrs. Pearl Parrish and Mrs. Bertha Mitchell, together with all the other good people of that community, and elsewhere. May God's richest blessings rest upon them.

There's a MAN IN TOWN who'll help you make

BETTER CROPS

DO YOU realize the importance to your entire community of the man from whom you buy your fertilizer?

He serves you at very small profit to himself... but very large profit to you. The small amount of money you pay for your fertilizer comes back to you many times over through increased yield and quality. What kind of a crop could you make without his help?

TALK THIS OVER WITH YOUR DEALER

To help you make better crops... that's your dealer's reason for being in business. He knows that Chilean Nitrate of Soda is the form of nitrogen that does the most good for every crop you grow—cotton, corn, fruit, truck—everything. If he does not have Chilean Nitrate in stock he can get it for you at a moment's notice. Just tell him that you want Chilean Nitrate... the world's only natural nitrate fertilizer. Have him write our nearest office for all information about sources of supply.

State Capitol News

Foreign exports of cotton are behind last year to the tune of nearly one million bales, according to figures broadcast recently from the State Department of Agriculture. This drop in exports is in part responsible for the present low prices of cotton. Reasons given for this decrease in exports may be summed up as follows: 1. The world has less cash with which to buy cotton. 2. Foreign countries are raising more cotton than ever before. 3. The quality of American cotton is not up to the required standard of length.

This last indictment of American cotton is regarded as a serious matter. So much Alabama cotton is untenderable or below 7-8 inches in length that foreign mills do not wish to buy it except at a penalty.

There is always a good demand for foods and feeds in Alabama. This State has never produced enough potatoes, hay, corn or other foods to sustain itself. For this reason, prices are such as to return a profit to the grower.

On the other hand, Alabama exports much of its cotton and this great surplus is often produced at a distinct loss. Just at present the South is faced by the prospect of raising more cotton than can be sold at a profit. Farmers who produce plenty of other crops besides cotton will play the world old game of safety first, according to the State Department of Agriculture.

Cullman County with a county farm income of $8,718,000, leads all counties in total farm produced wealth. When it comes to per capita production of wealth, the farmers of Baldwin County lead with a production of $497 per farmer. Cullman County farmers made $325 per farmer last year.

Since the average farm family is five persons the farm family of Baldwin had an income of $2,485, while in Cullman the farm families averaged $1,625.

Speakers of outstanding note are on the program of the annual convention of the Alabama Education Association to be held in Montgomery April 10-11-12. Several thousand school teachers are expected to attend this annual event. General sessions are to be held in the new Sidney Lanier High school.

Governor Bibb Graves, under whose administration remarkable strides have been made in all phases of educational development, is on the program for an address Thursday morning, April 10. A. F. Harman, State Superintendent of Education, will speak Thursday afternoon. E. P. Cubberley, who also speaks Thursday afternoon, is president of education at Leland Stanford University, but during the present year is delivering a series of lectures at Teacher's College, Columbia University. Dr. Cubberley is a striking example of the small group of distinguished school men who can speak and write effectively as well as teach. Judge Florence Allen of the Ohio supreme court, the only woman supreme court judge in the United States, will be heard Friday evening. Vilhjalmur Stefansson, arctic explorer, scientist, lecturer and writer, will address the general session Thursday evening, and several department groups Friday. Dr. L. A. Pechstein, dean of the college of education and director of the summer session of the University of Cincinnati, will address several departments Friday.

Hints For Homemakers

VINEGAR cruets can be quickly and thoroughly cleaned with diluted ammonia. Never wash gold-decorated glassware with strong soap. If the soap is too strong it will eat off the gold.

Beef tongue is rich in vitamins and iron; therefore, highly nutritious. A delicious sauce for the tongue can be prepared by simmering it for twenty minutes in a cup of the water in which it has been cooked until tender, and to which have been added one glass of tart currant jelly, two teaspoons brown sugar, one-fourth cup butter, one tablespoon cloves, dash of mustard, and one-half lemon sliced fine.

Pecan Growers---
Do You Need This?

Pecan growers in the South suffer heavy losses from scab, a fungus which attacks the nuts, growing twigs and leaves of some varieties. At one time it was thought spraying for this disease would not prove profitable, but experiments by the U. S. Department of Agriculture in Georgia, Florida, and other Southern States have shown that spraying with Bordeaux mixture four times at intervals of 2 to 4 weeks, beginning in May and ending in July will control it when done properly with efficient spray equipment.

Unfortunately, some of the finest varieties are susceptible. This is especially true of Schley, perhaps the finest quality nut grown in the South. The Department of Agriculture has an 8-page circular, No. 386-DC, on this subject. It can be obtained free by application to the Office of Information, Department of Agriculture, at Washington, D. C.

SENIOR B. Y. P. U. GOES ON MOONLIGHT PICNIC, FRIDAY

One of the most enjoyable social affairs of the past week, in the form of an outdoor entertainment, was the moonlight picnic on last Friday night in which members and guests of the Senior B. Y. P. U. of the local Baptist church participated in.

The group of thirty-odd young people, including the chaperons, Dr. and Mrs. S. J. Ezell, gathered at the church and from there, motored to Gore's Pond, where a bountiful picnic lunch was enjoyed. By the light of the moon and a large bonfire, the happy group became extremely merry with the making of short talks by various ones called on by Dr. Ezell.

Those taking part in this outing were Misses Ruth Sessions, Mary Louise Pack, Murray, Eloyse Jones, Vivian Jones, Gladys Williams, president of the union, Gladys Kemp, Annie Mae Foshee, Maggie Coggins, Pauline Lawrence, Bernice Williams, Grace Ezell, Ethel Powell, Vonceil White, Melba Dial, U. L. Foshee, Mrs. Jack McMurray, and Mrs. S. J. Ezell. Messrs. 'BAMA BERRIES BRING BIG BILLS

Alabama strawberries will tickle your palate but never according to reports issued by Seth P. Storrs, Commissioner of Agriculture, who says that due to refrigerator express shipments, Alabama berries can now be sent to London and New England points and easily as far as Denver in the West.

Previously, berries could only reach as far as Chicago or Pittsburgh, owing to shipments on refrigerator freight cars. With the inauguration of faster express shipments Alabama berries will reach thousands of tables more than ever before. The use of a pre-cooling refrigerator at Atmore on the State farm will also send State grown berries in better condition than ever. 'Bama berries will appear on Beacon Street, Boston, almost as fresh as when picked from South Alabama fields.

THE CHILTON COUNTY NEWS

J. B. ATKINSON, PUBLISHER

Published every Thursday at Clanton, Alabama in the interest of Clanton and the entire Chilton County

BILLY SMITH Editor

Entered in the postoffice of Clanton, Alabama, as second class matter under the Act of Congress of March, 1897.

Worlds To Conquer In Chilton County

It is evident that every individual lives in his own world, especially is this true, in Clanton and Chilton County, and the only world one should attempt to conquer is one's own world. When this is done, all worlds will be mastered, and then comes co-operation and peace between these little worlds belonging to individuals of Chilton County.

Choose your division and enlist in the army that is fighting for human rights. Fight a good, clean battle so that when victory comes, you can come forward to receive your part of the reward, with a conscience free from any revolting ideas that you did not do your part. Chilton County is still on the list of the young, growing counties of the state, and its growth depends largely, on the nourishment given to it by its own inhabitants, those who depend on the resources here for their livelihood.

Dare to stand alone, to fight alone, if necessary, but fight for that which is right and enlightening to humanity—the people of your own town and county. To mix revolt and protest with your work, is to fail in both your work and protest. Why revolt—why not just get out, stay out, and tell everybody and everything to go to Hades. Then that step will end your case, separating you from those you have served. (No one will misunderstand you, because you have declared yourself, showing that you are on the outside, and not due any reward that should come to those who have stayed with the fight, and won.)

There are several battles to be fought, and won in Chilton County. Not political battles, but battles to bring about better living conditions for the people here. When one adds the ingredient of politics in these battles to bring victory and credits to a particular political party for the thing accomplished—then there is the mixture containing the revolt, meaning in the long run, failure.

Let Chilton County be a county of builders, not a county of revolters. Let us conquer our individual worlds, and work in harmony with our neighbors, so that we may all rejoice when victory comes. Our country has wonderful possibilities to become one of the foremost counties of the state, both in industry and agriculture, but to develop these things, the people must learn to pull together, work with one purpose—to bring Chilton County to the front.

Through the untiring efforts of a few certain individuals, Clanton and Chilton County has been able to realize some improvements, long needed, but not one of these individuals had the whole-hearted support of other individuals, and still they realized their goal. That should cause one to wonder just what could be brought about in the way of progress, should everyone with any influence, put their shoulders to the wheel and all say, "Let's Go."

Two Sides

There are two sides to every question. This is just as true in advertising as in an argument. In advertising there is the side of the advertiser and the side of the public.

From the viewpoint of the advertiser in the newspaper, advertising is a means of increasing his volume of business. Commercial development has made advertising as necessary to retail business as customers. Without customers the advertisers could not remain in business, so he advertises to attract customers.

The other side of the question is that of the public. To the public newspaper advertising means the bringing of the store show cases to the office and living room. It is a service extended to the public by the advertiser, because it aids the customer in ascertaining where that which is wanted can be purchased at the most advantageous price. Newspaper advertising has abolished shop-searching. To save time for the shopper lengthens his day.

So although there are two sides to newspaper advertising, there is no disagreement between the two. Finding that advertising serves the public as well as business the merchant has two reasons instead of one for advertising, and the customer learns that the most progressive merchants are the most extensive advertisers, so there is a double attraction. By the nature of business, if advertising didn't help the buying public it could not help the advertiser.—Eureka Springs, Arkansas, Daily Times-Echo.

Remember, please, as production goes up prices go down and the law of supply and demand governs. Have a few dozen of good laying hens, a few good cows and a bunch of hogs. The market on all of these can not go wrong at the same time.

A GOOD STAND OF COTTON IS ESSENTIAL FOR GOOD PROFITS

For the greatest profit from farm land, labor and fertilizer involved in growing cotton it is absolutely necessary to have a good stand. No farmer makes money fertilizing and working "skips" in the cotton field.

Several points should have careful attention by every Chilton county farmer in planting and in chipping cotton if a good regular stand of cotton is to be had at picking time.

In the first place, plant enough seed to insure a good stand. Not less than 1 seed per acre and better a half per acre if gin run seed is planted.

It is unusual for farmers to try planting seed. But sowing a full bushel of planting seed a 25 to 75 cents may easily cost as high as $15 to $20 worth of cotton at picking time.

In the second place, cotton is often planted too deep. Sometimes seed are left in a deep trench. Heavy rains drift the soil from the sides of the furrow in on top of the seed and thus cover so deep that the plants can not come through. Seed should not be planted deeper than is necessary for sufficient moisture for germination.

Third, fertilizer and seed should not come in direct contact when planting as the fertilizer may destroy the germinating power of the seed. There should be about an inch of soil between the seed and the fertilizer.

Fourth, when the cotton is chipped be sure to leave sufficient plants to insure a good stand. The cotton should stand two and three stalks per hill about every eighteen inches. It should be kept in mind when chipping that

The Business Outlook

Ever since the stock market crash last fall many conflicting opinions have been expressed concerning the business outlook for 1930. There is no denying the fact that there has been a slowing down in certain lines, but the views of leading industrialists and business men appear quite optimistic with the advent of Spring.

There is no doubt that the concerted effort of these leaders to maintain high levels of production and distribution is having a wholesome effect. Besides, large expenditures for permanent improvements by Federal, state and local authorities are getting under way, while billions are involved in expansion programs of railroads, utilities and other basic industries.

An especially favorable trend is seen in the direction of home building and home improvement, concerning which a significant statement was made last week after a nation-wide survey by Altorfer Bros., makers of Spinner washers, who said: "Home construction is up 524 per cent. since 1920, and wired homes have doubled in the intervening 10 years. Various leading electrical home equipment distributors throughout the United States reveal comprehensive plans to build new business during the year. There need be no apprehension; indeed, there can be only optimism regarding 1930."

Encouraging reports have been forthcoming from many other sources, so it appears that the temporary depression may soon be ended. Incidentally the passage of the pending tariff bill should have a salutary effect upon the business situation, through relieving the feeling of uncertainty which now exists in several important industries.—Danall's Service.

"ROUND TOWN"

---by Doug

Read not to contradict, nor to believe and take for granted, nor to find talk and discourse, but to weigh and consider." —Bacon.

Had an argument with the editor the other day about which of us had the hardest job. I claimed it was more difficult to try to think up something for this column each week, and still keep from making a person angry, and that all he had to do was to look over news that came in, write things that have happened, and see that everything was in the paper all right each week. He said most any fool could write this column each week. In that case, I think I'll offer him the pleasure of trying it once.

But as long as folks give him the cussing, about things I say here, it's all right with me, because I believe he is more accustomed to it than I am.

And there is that Scotchman who wished to paint his house red, so carried his buckets to the Red Sea. Which makes me think of some people in Clanton whose nature is more or less Scotch, not mentioning any names.

Turning my imagination loose on the coming business men and women round Clanton, I can just imagine that: "Happy" Conway will follow in the footsteps of some big druggists. "Sunshine" Chism will turn out to be a real bookkeeper. Erle Parrish will be president of a bank, some day, if not a farmer. He has bought a new Ford. Mack Wyatt will probably retire from the gas and oil business, a bachelor. Otto Jones will mount the ladder of success step by step, not telling how high, with the assistance of a helpmate. Barney Burnett will retire married, without a profession, maybe. Charles Moore is not so bad, when you know him. Many of the republicans here are really Democrats at heart. The far-famed Dollar is stronger than loyalty to them. And I have thought of something else.

Dr. Ezell has exchanged his Chevrolet for a Ford, making me think of the joke about preachers saving souls, and Henry Ford shaking more h—l out of folks than all preachers have saved. Dr. Ezell must intend to give them a double dose.

I had a real case of Spring fever last Monday, and during my tour round town, I found that I was not the only Clantonian who was a victim of this. But the only difference was that most of the others were giving way to theirs, while I had to keep going to try to think of something for this column.

Easy To Prove

A Bay Minette man says he worried a good deal over making out his income tax return, until he finally hit upon a simple formula, which he offers free of charge to any one who may be perplexed in future.

He listed as dependents one blonde wife, a sedan car, three goldfish and two children. He then multiplied his grandfather's age by six and seven-eighths, subtracting his telephone number. Next he added the size of his hat and subtracted the number of his car. After these preliminaries, the rest was easy.

Deducting $1,000 for keeping his wife a blonde for the whole year, he divided the remainder by the number of lodges he belonged to, multiplied by the electric lights in the house, divided by the size of his collar.

This gave the gross income, which, after dividing by his chest measurement and subtracting his blood pressure, gave the net amount he owed the government.—Baldwin Times.

many plants will be destroyed when "dirted" and later cultivations. Ample cotton should be left when chipping to take care of this later loss. A skip an average of every ten feet over an acre may reduce the yield 100 to 200 pounds of seed cotton per acre.

1. Plant 1 to 1 1-2 bushels of cotton seed per acre.
2. Don't plant too deep.
3. Don't let seed and fertilizer come in direct contact.
4. Leave a good stand of cotton—2 to 3 stalks about every eighteen ins.

PROF. CALMETTE'S VACCINE

By Dr. Christmas Seal

A French doctor named Calmette is trying to save babies from tuberculosis by giving them a vaccine to be swallowed with their food within ten days after birth. All the world is watching the experiment with interest. In America we are not likely to follow suit for several years, because it will take another ten years to show that the attempt is more than an experiment, and we do not like to experiment on babies.

Dr. Christmas Seal suggests that in the meantime we remember that babies are very susceptible to tuberculosis and the younger they get it the harder it goes with them. If a mother has tuberculosis she must be content to have her baby raised without physical contact with her. If any member of the family, anyone visiting the home, any worker about the place has a chronic cough or even the least symptom of tuberculosis, guard the child from them. And never let anyone kiss or fondle your baby.

Why Chilton County Farmers Should Grow A Good Variety of Cotton

What difference does the variety of cotton make? Just a difference of $19.35 per acre in four years tests in Central Alabama valuing cotton at fifteen cents per pound, resulted between the best yielding variety and the poorest one in the variety tests of the Alabama Experiment Station. In North Alabama in favor of the best variety was $14.60 and in the tests with wilt resistant varieties $13.65 as compared with the poorest yielding varieties.

With the same labor, fertilizers, and cultivation the variety made a difference ranging from $14 to almost $20 per acre.

These results were not guesses but calculated from the actual weights of the cotton.

Chilton County farmers can not afford to take chances with untied varieties. Many varieties are being grown in this county which not only fail to make the amount of lint cotton per acre that the farmer has a right to expect but they produce a staple that falls below 7-8 inch. Only those varieties making 7-8 to an inch and better staple should be grown.

The officials of the Agricultural Economics Department of the Alabama Experiment Station have found some interesting facts about Alabama cotton. The department officials have sampled cotton in several towns thru-out Alabama since 1926. Their report shows the following:

1926—5047 Bales Sampled:
7% under 3/8" staple; 92.4% 3/8" staple.
6.8% more than 3/8" staple.
1927—5585 Bale Sampled:
14.9% under 3/8" Staple.
84.6% 3/8" Staple.
8% over 3/8" Staple.
1928—100,000 Bales Sampled:
22.9% under 3/8" Staple.
70.3% 3/8" Staple.
6.8% over 3/8" Staple.
1929—50,000 Bales Sampled:
43.00% under 3/8" Staple.
54.2% 3/8" Staple.
2.8% over 3/8" Staple.

In other words, since 1926, the report indicates that Alabama cotton staple has shortened in an alarming way. The records of the Experiment Station show that we have high yielding varieties that run near 1 inch staple. See your county Agent and arrange to plant better cotton seed.

50 Years' Use of Black-Draught

"About fifty years ago," says Mr. Lewis G. O'Shields, of Portersville, Ala., "my mother gave me the first dose of Black-Draught, and I have taken it ever since, when I needed a medicine for constipation. I have used this remedy all my married life, in raising my children.

"I have used Black-Draught for heartburn, as I have had spells of this kind, off and on, for years. This follows indigestion, and indigestion comes close on constipation.

"I have found that the best way to head off trouble is to begin taking Black-Draught in time. It relieves me of dizziness, tightness in the chest and backache.

"By getting rid of impurities, Black-Draught helps to keep the system in good order. I always keep it in the home, and have recommended it to many people, in my time."

Farmers' Week Set July 28-August 2

Auburn, Ala., April 10.—The annual farmers' week exercises at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute for 1930 will be held July 28 to August 2. Announcement of this was made by President Bradford Knapp with a statement that the program for the occasion will be for farm women as well as men.

In addition to the usual exercises the annual convention of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation will be held at Auburn, July 31-August 1. By this arrangement Farm Bureau delegates and representatives may spend the first three days of the week in the farmers' week exercises which will be climaxed with the Farm Bureau convention.

During these six days farm people of Alabama will come in close contact with their State College of Agriculture and the work that it is doing. As usual, the College of Veterinary Medicine will be a major factor in the gathering.

A special program will be arranged for farm women, many of whom are expected to attend. As in former years, the Alabama Council of Home Demonstration Women will hold their annual convention in conjunction with the State Farm Bureau convention. This organization of women is composed of active county organizations in more than half of the counties of the State.

President Knapp says that the aim is to make this bigger and better than any other farmers' week exercises yet held at Auburn. That of 1929 established a new high record and the aim is to build and improve from year to year, he said.

County agents and home demonstration agents of the State will be in Auburn during the week. Others interested in agricultural work will be present.

It's wise to choose a SIX!

It is wise to choose a six-cylinder motor—the only way to get six-cylinder smoothness. Six-cylinder smoothness takes out vibration and roughness. This saves motor, chassis, body, passengers, and driver.

The Chevrolet is a six. Yet it sells at a price that anyone can afford to pay. And it lasts longer, because of fine materials, oversize parts and a big, smooth, 50-horsepower six-cylinder engine that always "takes it easy."

With all its six-cylinder smoothness and power the New Chevrolet Six saves gasoline and oil, through modern efficiency—overhead valves—high compression power—latest carburetor—long-wearing pistons—crankcase ventilation—air cleaner. Thus Chevrolet brings truly modern transportation within reach of all who can afford any car. Chevrolet economy also means sincerity in manufacture. To illustrate:

Chevrolet valves are adjustable—to save replacing. Chevrolet molded brakelining greatly reduces brake-up-keep. The rear axle inspection plate on the Chevrolet means accessibility.

The whole car is full of such evidence that true economy comes from advancement and refinement. There are four extra-long, chrome-vanadium springs controlled by hydraulic shock absorbers. They are mounted lengthwise, in the direction of car travel, with self-adjusting spring shackles to maintain quiet.

Modern low suspension and extra wheelbase give the Chevrolet Six good proportions. The front view is distinguished by the honeycomb radiator. The gasoline tank is at the rear for safety and finer appearance.

Chevrolet beauty instantly says "Body by Fisher"—style, quiet, safety—Fisher composite steel-and-wood construction—non-glare windshield—adjustable driver's seat—deeper cushions—greater leg room—clearer vision—finer fabrics and fittings.

There is just as much extra value throughout. BY ANY STANDARD the Chevrolet Six is the wisest choice in the low-price field... with its six-cylinder valve-in-head motor... with full scientific equipment... with Body by Fisher... with four long semi-elliptic springs, long wheelbase, low suspension, rear-mounted gasoline tank, honeycomb radiator and all the other features of this day and age.

See your nearest Chevrolet dealer today and drive this six. Ten minutes at the wheel will show you what a difference six cylinders make.

A. E. A. Meets In Montgomery Today

The forty-ninth annual meeting of the Alabama Education Association meets in Montgomery, April 10, for a three-day session.

The initial session of the meeting, scheduled for Thursday morning, will be devoted to a discussion of industry and education. Addresses will be made by Governor Bibb Graves of Montgomery and by Morris Bush and Theodore Swann of Birmingham. Messrs. Bush and Swann are two of Alabama's progressive industrial leaders. Each will discuss certain relations of business to education.

On Thursday evening Dr. Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the famous explorer of the Arctic regions will speak on "Abolishing the Arctic."

On Friday evening Judge Florence Allen of the supreme court of Ohio, will address the convention on the "Noise of History." Judge Allen has the distinction of being the only woman in the world to hold a place on the bench of a state supreme court. She is said to be an eloquent speaker.

Included in the fifty or more educators who will speak at Montgomery are Dr. L. A. Pechstein, of the University of Cincinnati; Miss Lucy Gage of Peabody College; Superintendent Sutton of Atlanta; Dr. Harry Clark, president-elect of Judson College; Dr. Ellsworth Woodward, director of Art at Sophie Newcomb College; and B. H. Darrow, director of the Ohio School of the Air. Mr. Darrow speaks on the use of the radios in schools.

Under the direction of Miss Georgia Wagner, director of public school music in the Montgomery city schools, all-state musical groups composed of high school students from twenty or more cities and towns of Alabama will provide music throughout the convention. The students are organized into an orchestra, a band, and a chorus.

The convention closes Saturday, March 12, with the annual meeting of the Assembly of Delegates, the legislative body of the Association.

OCIE WEBB AND FAMILY VISIT CLANTON THIS WEEK

Mr. and Mrs. Ocie M. Webb, and small son, Harry Wilson, of Russellville, motored to Clanton this week for a short visit to friends and relatives in the county.

WET GAS makes your car stubborn as a mule

Cars that climb hills like rabbits with Texaco, will cough and sputter and demand second gear when a wet gas is in the tank. For wet gas condenses into raw drops of gasoline in the manifold and makes engines slow, stubborn, sluggish and sick!

Texaco cures that. It forms such a thoroughly dry gas that instant power surges into your motor at the slightest command of the throttle. Even the highest hills lose their terrors. Mid-town traffic becomes as simple, as easy as the open road. Texaco is exceptionally swift and agile and gives amazingly sensitive control. And in these days of congested highways control is as vital as power.

If you haven't tried Texaco, try it today! As soon as the old gas has been worked out of your engine make any test you wish. Challenge the worst hill in your neighborhood. Find a lonely straight-away and step all the way down! Then test its idling speed. You can't put Texaco to these tests without being convinced!

Today try Texaco. And remember that this original dry gas is obtainable only at the Texaco pump — under the Texaco Red Star with the Green T.

1. A wet gas is an atomized mixture of gasoline vapor in which are suspended drops of raw gasoline.
2. These drops of raw gasoline form an uneven mixture which resists the action of the spark.
3. Result: Destructive crankcase dilution, difficult starts, slow acceleration — a sluggish motor.

1. The new and better Texaco vaporizes so readily that it forms a dry gas — an active mixture of gasoline and air.
2. This pure, dry gas responds instantly to the action of the spark.
3. Result: Lightning starts, rapid acceleration, smooth action — power!

Stone-Age Methods Still Being Used

Many American farmers, who long since recognized tractors and electricity as efficient farm assistants are still using stone age methods so far as their poultry flocks are concerned, according to a recent International Baby Chick Association survey.

Poultry is not returning its proper profit on many farms through lack of sanitation, and lack of properly bred flocks, it was found.

This latter difficulty is rapidly being corrected through the fact that farmers have begun to realize that better stock, capable of producing a profit for their owners, can be secured through the large hatcheries. These hatcheries in turn have organized under the slogan, "Hatchery Chicks for Greater Profits" to pledge better chicks and fair dealing, in order to place farm flocks in a position to reap the profits

The News is publishing a series of stories on the History of Chilton County.

The barn of W. R. Taylor, who lives four miles west of Clanton was destroyed the other night by lightning. He also lost quite a bit of feed stuff, and one horse.

Carter Electric Shop is installing new equipment here.

Talmadge Davis was convicted of second degree murder at the recent term of court here, and given a sentence of twenty years in the penitentiary.

Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Headley and son, Odell, are spending a vacation of several days in Gallatin, Tenn., visiting friends and relatives.

Mrs. Courtney Harper, daughter-in-law of Mrs. A. C. Harper, died in Manila recently.

New store fixtures are being installed in Moore's Store here.

Hints For Homemakers

By Jane Rogers

A LITTLE raw tomato juice is excellent for removing unsightly stains from the hands, caused by paring vegetables. Lemon juice can be used for the same purpose.

If your gravies refuse to brown properly, add a teaspoon of burnt sugar diluted in a tablespoon of cold water. You'll be surprised by the delightful golden brown color, and the flavor will be improved, too.

No medicine can take the place of water in its healthful effect upon the human system. At least one glass of water for every fifteen pounds in weight should be drunk by every adult every day.

which the poultry business holds.

The matter of sanitation, however, is causing difficulty, the investigators discovered.

"We can not but marvel again and again as we see flock after flock of pure blooded fowls kept in the most primitive fashion, and under the most unsanitary conditions," the association says. "It is our observation that the breeding qualities of our poultry in our average American barnyard flocks are far in advance of the methods used in their care, housing and feeding. As a result, the average American owner of a flock of chickens has spent all too much time fighting disease of one kind or another, rather than adopt a program of sanitation."

Proper sanitation in poultry houses, a system of yards and runs whereby each one can be rested and turned to a green crop once each year, and the importance of raising chicks on fresh ground that has been under cultivation are stressed by the association as being fundamental to success with poultry as sunshine itself.

The poultry business is a fascinating one for anybody who likes to be financially independent, who has or who can secure a small area of ground, and who enjoys honest, wholesome and constructive work.

The poultry business used to be largely a back-yard affair and is still being conducted in tens of thousands of homes as a source of that additional income that insures some of the comforts and luxuries of life. However, this is an age of specialization and the poultry business in the last few years has come to be one of the nation's great industries, now amounting to more than a billion dollars a year in the United States alone. The value of poultry and eggs produced in the United States in a single year now amounts to about eighty per cent of the capitalization of all the national banks and to about twenty-four per cent of all the money in circulation in the United States. As the far-flung cattle ranges of the West are vanishing, poultry production, which is more economically adapted to concentrated population is increasing in greater and greater proportions. Poultry raising today has become not only a great industry, but also a great science with an opportunity to start on either a small scale or on a large scale, with unlimited possibilities for profits and success.

Many small-scale poultry raisers still hatch their chicks under broody hens while the large commercial enterprises largely buy their chicks from commercial baby chick hatcheries, many thousands of which have appeared in this country in the last few years to take care of the increasing poultry business.

In our "Poultry Tips" column, which will appear in this paper each week this spring and summer, we will set forth suggestions that we hope will be of value to you in making your poultry enterprise more successful and profitable. If you have never been in the poultry business before, you can make your plans now to look to "Poultry Tips" column for all of the fundamental information you will need.

Next week we will tell you how to plan a home for your chicks and week by week we will point out the things that need to be attended to, together with modern poultry practice which we hope will be of value to experienced poultry raisers as well as to beginners.

Maplesville News

Rev. Paul Oden filled his regular appointment at the Baptist church Sunday morning and evening to a large and appreciative audience.

Prof. and Mrs. Owens, Mrs. Jesse Hayes attended the P. T. A. meeting in Clanton Saturday. They reported a splendid meeting.

The many friends and loved ones of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Woodward, nee Mabel Williams, our own missionary to China, are anxiously awaiting their home-coming. They will be in Maplesville the last of this week.

Mrs. Stanley Hayes entertained her Sunday school class, the Intermediate boys and girls of Maplesville Baptist church, last Friday evening from 7 to 10. The home was beautifully decorated with spring flowers. Games and contests were enjoyed throughout the evening. Twenty-four guests enjoyed Mrs. Hayes's hospitality. An ice course was served. Miss Estell Davis and Helen Nix assisted in serving.

Mrs. C. N. Parnell will attend the Alabama College luncheon at the Jefferson Davis Hotel, Montgomery, Friday. She will be accompanied by her daughter, Elizabeth.

Don't forget to see "Cyclone Sally" staged at the Maplesville auditorium April 12, -930. Curtains go up at 8 o'clock. Admission, 35c and 20c.

Mrs. W. H. Abney entertained her sixth grade of Cox School last Saturday afternoon. The home was beautiful in Easter decorations. Games and contests were the features of the afternoon. Salad and an ice course was served for refreshments. Favors, yellow and purple Easter baskets with eggs and chicken, were presented to all seven of her class: Alma and Alvis Lovelady, Myrtle and Gracie Henderson, Willie B. Lovelady and Van Smitherman. She was assisted in entertaining by her daughter, Flora Jane, and Helen Nix.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Foshee, Miss Flossie Shanks, Miss Maddox and Mrs. Cleve McGee, and Mr. Parrish Hicks were the invited guests of Mrs. J. O. Mize and daughter, Miss Ethel, for lunch Sunday.

Mrs. E. M. Cothran of Selma, Ala., was hostess for her niece, Flora Jane Abney, on her eleventh birthday, March 29. She carried them to the picture show and to the drug store, where they were served cream and favors, packages of candy. Those from Maplesville attending were her mother, Mrs. W. H. Abney, Sadie Frances Mims, Helen Nix. Flora Jane was the recipient of many beautiful gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Northrup attended church in Clanton Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Bumpers and daughter, Nelwyn, returned from Havana, Cuba, and report a wonderful trip.

Miss Elizabeth Parnell of Alabama College will be home Thursday afternoon to spend the week end with her parents. Dr. and Mrs. C. N. Parnell.

Mrs. Willie Elam of Brent was the week end guest of Mrs. Potts and other relatives.

Mrs. Pattie DuBose of Selma returned home today after spending two weeks with Miss Blossom Crumpton.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Brown and son, Abney, and Charlie Haggard motored to Montgomery Sunday.

Mr. Abney Brown of the University was the week end guest of his parents.

Miss Flora Jane Abney of Selma was the week end guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Abney.

Alabama peach growers' now planning for spring sprays are advised to include sulphur. This may be in the form of either self-boiled lime sulphur or dry-mix sulphur lime, which are recognized to have value for the control of brown rot and peach scab. It is understood, of course, that these sprays will also contain arsenate of lead, which is necessary to destroy curculio.

The Baptist church is indeed grateful to the pastor, W. R. Seymore, for making possible the opportunities of the past week. Some of the best talent of the State was here giving inspirational addresses after the study courses. Those who came were Rev. Mahaffey of Plantersville, Rev. Harris of Prattville, Dr. Barton of Montgomery, Dr. Ezell of Clanton and the pastor preached Friday night. This week gave inspiration and preparation for the work for the year.

Rev. E. E. Stafford of Plantersville filled his regular appointment at the Methodist church Sunday.

Mr. Collier Marlar and Miss Aline Morgan of Birmingham were guests of relatives and friends here the past week end.

Misses Mabel King, Frances Johnson, Thelma Baxter, Mrs. J. C. Hadley and G. T. Dickson attended the Chilton County B. Y. P. O. convention at Mulberry Church, Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. T. W. Willis, Miss Mary Frances Willis and Mr. Clyde Gregg spent Sunday afternoon with Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Marlar.

Banks On Sounder Basis, Says Green

In spite of the fact that there are 20 state banks less in Alabama now than on Dec. 3, 1929, due to the fact that two large banks have nationalized since then, 11 banks and two branches have closed their doors and turned their affairs over to the banking department for liquidation and seven have consolidated and been taken over by other banks, the state banks as a whole have only a little above $18,000,000 less in assets than on Dec. 31.

This was pointed out yesterday by Superintendent of Banks D. F. Green in making public a consolidated statement of the condition of the 223 state banks and 17 branch banks in Alabama, as of the close of business on March 19, 1930. He called attention also to the fact that the banks owe slightly less than on Dec. 31, the decrease in borrowed money showing a good condition for this season of the year.

Conditions, Mr. Green said, now appear to be stable and encouraging. At the close of 1929, Status of the state banks is shown by the consolidated statement of condition on March 19, Mr. Green stated, fully measures the banks' assets and liabilities.

Some deposits of March 19 total $44,908,645.37 and demand deposits $45,295,744.38. Total resources being $90,204,389.75.

State Bars 15 Railroad Tanks Of Inferior Gas

Inspectors Also Exclude 17 Kerosene Cars In Quarter

Fifteen gasoline and 17 kerosene tank cars were found to contain fuel under the State's standard during the months of January, February and March by inspectors of the State Department of Agriculture, it was announced by Seth P. Storrs, commissioner of agriculture, on the eve of the meeting of the State Board of Agriculture today.

The information was prepared for Mr. Storrs by H. L. Flurry, chief of the division of weights and measures, with other data on the activities of the department, which will be submitted to the State Board today. The work of the division was given high praise by Mr. Storrs, who declared he regarded it as one of the most useful agencies for the public welfare in the State regime.

Mr. Storrs expressed surprise that even this number of cars had been sent across the Alabama line, for the oil companies are well acquainted with Alabama's standards and rigid testing system and have always cooperated fully in their desire to comply with the standard regulations.

In each instance the cars were either diverted or received upon the condition that the company would add sufficient gasoline or kerosene of higher quality to bring up to the State's standards. When the test shows that the gasoline or kerosene is only slightly under the standard and can be made to comply with the law by use of highly refined fuel, then the car is accepted conditionally and the inspector reinspects the car to ascertain if the conditions have been met.

In cases where the tests show that a car is more than slightly under the standard the shipment is diverted and the inspectors of the department do not permit it to be unloaded in Alabama.

Alabama is one of the few states that maintains a division of weights and measures, Mr. Storrs said. For this reason the number of under-standard cars of gasoline shipped into Alabama is very small, Mr. Storrs said.

A sample is taken from every third car sent into Alabama, Mr. Storrs said. An example of the magnitude of the undertaking and its far-reaching results for saving to the public is shown in the fact that approximately 27,000 cars of gasoline and kerosene are shipped into Alabama each year.

During the first three months of the year the division inspectors took samples from 1,866 gasoline cars and 791 kerosene cars.

Gasoline is tested for corrosion and distillation range. If it contains corrosive properties it will injure the metal of the cylinder and pistons, give the motor shorter life, it was said. To ascertain whether the gasoline is corrosive a clean copper strip is submerged in the gasoline for three hours at a temperature of 122 degrees Fahrenheit.

The distillation range determines the temperature at which the gasoline vaporizes and indicates its power value.

WOMEN, SETTING TRADITION, ASK PERMISSION TO SMOKE

"You remember 'way back when Girls were girls and men were'—what of it.

Back in the good old days of bustles and hot biscuits, when women were timid and men were courteous, things were different.

Man would hardly think of smoking in the presence of a woman. He most certainly obtained her permission, in abiding by the conventionalities of the good old days, before the flame was touched to the cigaret.

Today, it seems, woman must get man's consent before she can smoke in his presence.

A newspaper man and a companion were having dinner on a dining car of a train on the Southern Railway recently en route from Birmingham north.

Directly opposite their table were seated two women, beautiful to be sure, but, nevertheless, women.

Only a few other persons were in the car and they were several tables to the rear.

Soon one of the women called the steward and asked him in a whisper.

The steward turned to the newspaper man and his table mate and informed them the women wanted to smoke and would not think of it until permission was granted by the two men who at that time were the only men, besides dining car attendants present.

The newspaper man almost swallowed his coffee cup and all, but managed to keep quiet about the matter.

The other man, dignified and suave, smiled as he told the steward he had no objections.

"Well, wouldn't that shrink your pajamas," exclaimed the newspaper man. "Yep, looks like man is boss now," the other replied.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Auburn Says

It is estimated that there are 5,000 farms of less than 3 acres in the United States to which individuals gave their entire time last year.

The rag doll method of testing corn is described in Farmer's Bulletin 948-F, which can be obtained by writing Extension Service, Auburn.

Under favorable conditions plowing under a large amount of green manure may increase the number of bacteria in the soil as much as ten times within two days.

In pruning the careless use of a long hook or other implement for breaking off small dead twigs should be avoided, as every bruise may become the point of entrance of disease or decay.

Devon clotted cream is made in Devonshire by letting the afternoon milk

Cotton Farmers Advised To Grow Pork And Feed

More pork, and plenty of home-grown feed to grow it, is the suggestion of E. Z. Russell, swine specialist of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, to cotton farmers of the South who are looking for new sources of income for this year.

To give a definite idea of what he considers a sufficient amount of feed, Mr. Russell says that four acres of corn should be grown for each litter of pigs expected this year. He figures on a yield of about five barrels of corn per acre and six pigs per litter.

Some kind of protein supplement is necessary, adds Mr. Russell. Good pasture will supply part of the protein. Soybeans may be used as an additional protein supplement, but soybeans fed in large amounts are sure to cause the pork to be "soft," in which case it will not command top prices. Experience has shown that tankage or fish meal should usually be included as protein supplements.

Good pastures are absolutely essential for successful hog raising, Mr. Russell believes. Alfalfa is perhaps the best; all the clovers are good; and satisfactory temporary pastures can be made by sowing rye or oats for fall, winter and early spring use, and rape, cowpeas, and soybeans for late spring and summer.

"The ground on which hogs are kept continuously becomes infested with parasites, particularly roundworms, and for this reason pastures should be changed. If temporary pastures are used they should be plowed and seeded twice a year. This will provide a green forage crop and help materially to keep down infestation.

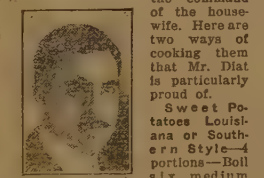

"We occasionally hear of some one who has not kept any hogs making a start by getting a few bred sows, to find later that he had forgotten about the necessary feed. Hogs can not grow and fatten without feed—and plenty of it—so our suggestion is that at least reasonable assurance be had that the necessary feed will be produced before any hogs are bought."

Mrs. P. B. Burgoyne, 80, of Ascat, Eng., has become chairman of the Bond Investment Trust, with a salary of $40,000 a year.

Favorite Recipes of a Famous Chef

As Told to Anne Baker by LOUIS DIAT, Chef, The Ritz Carlton, New York

Sweet potatoes on the menu often present a problem, as so few variations in their preparation are offered in the recipes at the command of the housewife. Here are two ways of cooking them that Mr. Diat is particularly proud of.

Louis Diat

tender in a generous quantity of salted water. Cool, peel and cut in round slices one-quarter inch thick. Arrange them in a shallow round earthenware or glass baking dish, overlapping each other in circles. Brush with butter and pour over them one-half cupful of hot maple syrup and brown for fifteen minutes. Just before serving, sprinkle with two tablespoons of sugar. Glaze for one or two minutes under a hot broiler.

Sweet Potatoes and Ananas Louisiana—Prepare sweet potatoes in the same manner as Sweet Potatoes Louisiana. Arrange them in the baking dish with half slices of pineapple. Add maple syrup, heat and glaze with sugar as above.

Seasonings That Put Snap into Spring Meat Dishes

By JOSEPHINE B. GIBSON, Director, Home Economics Dept., H. J. Heinz Company

WHEN the usual round of steaks, chops and roasts becomes monotonous, the busy housewife must find new meat dishes to serve to her hungry family. But the wise cook knows she does not need to buy the more expensive meats, when she can make the cheaper cuts attractive by skillful use of pungent meat sauces. Tomato Ketchup, Prepared Mustard, or a bit of onion.

Any hungry husband would be enthusiastic about Porcupine Meat Balls or Stuffed Ham Roll—and you will be, too, when you find how easily they are made!

Here are some out-of-the-ordinary meat recipes that will put new snap into appetites faded by a monotonous round of Winter cover with 1 medium size can Tomato Soup. Surround with 1 cup parboiled carrots, cook until carrots and meat are tender.

Porcupine Beef Balls
1 pound ground round steak; 1/2 cup uncooked rice; 1 medium size can Cream of Tomato Soup.

Mix rice and meat, form into balls, place in casserole, cover with soup. Bake in oven about 1 1/2 hours.

Creole Pork
1 small can Cream of Tomato Soup; 1 small can Cooked Spaghetti; 1 pound ground raw pork; 2 onions; 1/2 teaspoon salt; 1/2 pound grated cheese; 1/2 cup grated crumbs; 1 tablespoon butter.
Chop onions finely and cook with ground pork until brown (in additional fat). Drain off excess fat. Mix pork, Spaghetti, Cream of Tomato Soup, grated cheese and salt. Turn into baking dish or casserole, cover with crumbs and butter. Bake in moderate oven.

Corn Beef Hash
8 medium size potatoes; 1 can corn beef; 2 green peppers; 2 small onions; 1 clove of garlic; 1 small can Cream of Tomato Soup; 1/2 cup water; 1/2 teaspoon paprika.
Chop all the ingredients quite fine. Place in a skillet and cover with soup and water. Cook with cover on until vegetables are tender stirring often to keep from sticking to pan. Place in loaf pan or casserole and brown on top for about 25 minutes. Serve with hot rolls and Sweet Gherkins.

Stuffed Ham Roll
1 slice ham, about 1/2 inch thick; 1 cup bread crumbs; Few grains of pepper; 1/2 teaspoon prepared mustard; 1 tablespoon chopped onion; 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce; 1 medium size can Cream of Tomato Soup.

Soak ham in water if salty. Make dressing of crumbs, seasoning enough to moisten. Cover slices of ham with dressing, roll up like jelly roll and tie firmly. Put in roasting pan or casserole,

Forestry Delegates Appointed By Graves

Montgomery, Ala., April 10.—At the Southern Forestry Congress meeting at Memphis, April 10, 11 and 12, Alabama will be well represented by citizens actively connected with the timber production industry. Governor Graves has appointed the following as delegates to the Congress: E. F. Allison, Bellamy; Frank Earle, Blachsher; B. B. Finklea, Vredenburgh; E. C. Gates, Lockhart; Bruce Henderson, Millers Ferry; E. L. Jordan, Yarbo; Ben May, Mobile; John R. Miller, Brewton; Frank C. Turner, Chatoom; and C. L. Willis, Uniform.

Although the meetings of the Southern Forestry Congress are open to the public, the sessions are of particular interest to persons who are actually growing timber or who are users of forest products. While various other Alabama residents plan to attend the Congress, the forest industries themselves will be well represented.

Texas Representative Tours Thru 27 States

Long before sunrise on the tenth of March a Buick roadster left New York. Just after noon on the twenty-sixth of March the same car returned to New York. There is nothing remarkable in that statement, alone.

But when we add that this car was driven by C. Hawley, Director of the Road Map Division of The Texas Company, who also edits the Texaco National Road Reports which are published in sixty-three newspapers throughout the United States for the guidance of their nine million readers, and that he had visited thirty-three cities located in twenty-seven states, it becomes interesting.

When we asked Mr. Hawley what the purpose of the trip had been, he said: "To demonstrate that intersectional and transcontinental motoring is both feasible and practical during any season of the year."

He went on to say: "This is true because of the high state of efficiency reached by the Maintenance Departments of the Highway Commissions of the several states.

"Three years ago a trip of this kind would have been utterly impossible of accomplishment, but on the entire ten thousand and two hundred odd miles of my route I found the roadways in excellent condition notwithstanding the fact that it was made during the month of March, which is the worst month of the year for automobile travel.

"In those states where new construction on main thoroughfares is in progress excellent detours are maintained, more generally over secondary roads which are graveled and kept in perfect surfacing.

"On the westward trip I encountered snow, sleet, rain and summer weather, but was able—nevertheless—to reach each town at the exact time I was scheduled to arrive.

"I was delayed in Los Angeles some forty-eight hours on business and while there four inches of rain fell in western Arizona. This storm was ahead of me all the way back to New York and made it necessary to go a more roundabout way than I had planned originally, but did not cut my average running time, only lengthened the total elapsed time.

"At no place was it necessary to put on chains—although I have learned from some fifty to sixty thousand miles yearly travel to carry them with me on all my trips throughout the year.

"Motorists throughout the United States do not realize the fact that travel in the winter is easier and more comfortable than in the summer—this to their loss. There is no dust, hot weather nor heavy traffic to be contended with in the winter time and, at night, when they stop at a hotel they will have a choice of a variety of rooms and not be told, 'We are very sorry, but all we have left is this one room.'

"In restaurants, garages and filling stations the service is unexcelled and far superior than during the seven months of the so-called touring season.

"This is true because of the fact

Convicts Hurried To Berry Patches

Beginning Monday, the night operation of the State Cotton Mill at Speigener Prison was temporarily suspended and the 160 prisoners composing the night working shift at the mill were transferred to the Moffett State Prison Farm near Atmore to help gather and prepare for shipment the bumper strawberry crop now ripening on the State's lands there.

Upward of 80 convicts from various prisons and prison camps were taken to Atmore on Thursday to aid in the work. Later on there will be some transfers of convicts from Kilby to the Moffett Farm, to be added to the force of prisoners needed to plant and tend various crops, and for other duties.

The area planted to strawberries on the Moffett Farm comprises 220 acres. From this acreage, officials expect a yield of fully 80 carloads of berries. The first carload shipment went forward to market from there Thursday afternoon.

that the three and a half billion dollar plant erected or constructed throughout the United States for service to motorists lies practically idle for five months of the year and its owners and managers appreciate the unexpected business of winter travelers.

"The trip just completed was made in a schedule decided upon before leaving my office here and to call upon automobile editors of newspapers who had been advised before my arrival as to the time I would be in their city. It was made at a rate of speed equal to the maximum legal rate of each town, county and state passed through; no attempt was made to establish any speed records nor was any special preparation made for the trip.

"And the fact that I was able to complete it at the speed predetermined and without stop for rest or sleep between the two oceans—except for periods of two hours in each eight hours when I had relief drivers—and be in my office the day after my return should be convincing evidence of the contention that winter roads are good roads due to the fact that as you drive along you will see highway department trucks showing snow off the road or putting cinders on slick pavements or dragging a grader over clay or gravel surface in order to level up the ruts or cleaning out the ditches alongside the road which carry away the water and which would otherwise cause bog holes and would become impassable.

"The next time you drive by a little sign on the road saying, SLOW, MEN AT WORK, don't laugh about it because it is due to these innumerable signs on every highway that motorists are able to go hither and yon without delay or inconvenience regardless of the time of the year."

M. N. L. Owens of Maplesville, Ala., Route 2, was a pleasant caller at the News office last Saturday. Mr. Owens says the crops are looking good in his community.

James Foster, a New York sneak thief, ran into a Chicago police station when chased as a burglary suspect, thinking it was a railroad station.

Hidden behind curtains, two detectives, trapped Miss Jean Markiston of Glasgow in an effort to blackmail a prominent merchant.

After prosecuting a youth for reckless driving Mrs. Harriet Reed of Leeds, Eng., paid his fine.

A cat that climbed 50 feet up a poplar tree in St. Louis and was afraid to come down, stayed there three nights before being taken down by a fireman.

BIRD CALLS FIGURE LARGELY IN MOBILE SHOOTING TRIAL

Mobile, Ala., April 4.—Lee Blythe, 68-year-old grocer, who shot Leroy Petite, negro, "because he whistled in front of his grocery like a Bob White" was fined $500 and sentenced to serve 30 days in the Mobile County jail Friday by a jury in Circuit Court. The verdict carried a recommendation of a hard labor sentence, but Judge Alex Howard in consideration of the defendant's age, and the fact that he has a family, sentenced him to jail. Notice of appeal was given and execution of sentence was suspended pending appeal.

A feature of the testimony was the appearance of John Murphy, negro, witness for the plaintiff, who declared that he and Petite exchanged bird calls by whistling as signals to each other. Solicitor Bart Chamberlain asked Murphy how he whistled and Murphy gave a realistic demonstration of a mocking bird call which fascinated Judge and jury.

NEWS FROM BIRMINGHAM SOUTHERN COLLEGE

Birmingham, Ala., March 31.—Mid-term examinations, March 31-April 3, will begin the "home stretch" for the spring term at Birmingham-Southern College ending with commencement on May 27, according to announcement of President Guy E. Snavely.

John H. Finley, outstanding editor and educator of New York, will deliver the commencement address May 27. The commencement sermon will be preached by Dr. J. S. Rattenbury of Southport, England, at 11 a. m. May 25. Dr. C. C. Daniel of Nashville, former president of the college, will deliver the annual sermon before the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. at 8 p. m. All commencement services will take place in the Munger Memorial auditorium. Final examinations at Birmingham-Southern College will begin May 19, and continue through May 24. Seniors graduating in June will take their examinations one week earlier.

News In Brief

Receipts of income taxes at the U. S. Treasury Department on March 18 were the heaviest in years for any one day. Deposits amounted to $214,534,548, compared to $161,743,800 for the heaviest day of the March, 1929, collection period, and pushed the total for the first 18 days of the month to $314,200,558, a gain of about $43,000,000 over last year.

Thirty 4-H club girls in Motley county, Texas, kept records on the cost of their clothing this year as a basis for budgeting this year's clothing expenditures. The girls were from 12 to 17 years old. The average yearly cost was $41.54; the highest, $96, for a girl who had to pay to have her sewing done; and the lowest $16.70, for a girl who sewed all her own clothes.

Retail food prices in the United States as reported to the U. S. Department of Labor showed a decrease of about 1 1/2 per cent on February 15, 1930, when compared with January 15, 1930, and a decrease of slightly less than 1 per cent since February 15, 1929. The same news source reports that with a decrease of 1 1-3 per cent in February compared with January, wholesale prices dropped within 3-4 of 1 per cent of the lowest level reached since the World War.

Airship Seen As Help To Farmers

Auburn, Ala., April 3.—In an address here Major Walter R. Weaver, commanding officer at Maxwell Field, at Montgomery, described the airplane as an undeveloped aid to the farming industry. "Air tankers in the future," he declared, "will perhaps pick up milk and other perishable farm products in the South and carry them quickly to New York and other centers of population."

The airship will also fill a long felt need in transporting other freight and for business trips, in the Major's opinion. It will never be used by individuals for pleasure on the extensive scale that the automobile is now used, he predicted, but by mass production will eventually become the cheapest form of transportation for commercial products and business passengers. The airship is now the cleanest, safest, and fastest form of transportation, he said.

Clean-Up Campaign Sponsored

for the clean-up campaign will be discussed further, and it was stated that it will be arranged by the club to offer prizes for the foremost effort made by an individual in the campaign to clean-up the town. Judges will probably be appointed at the luncheon today, and also committees to make the rounds and see that work is done to make Clanton a little more attractive.
The cooperation of the city officials has been assured the club and much interest is already being shown in the undertaking.

This campaign will, of course include the usual slogan, "Clean-Up and Paint-Up," and now while everyone is going to put forth a special effort during the week of Monday, April 14th, to clean up their place, whether it be their home, place of business or a vacant lot, it will be a fine time to start something in the way of cleaning up.

Other announcements will probably be made by the Kiwanis Club on the campaign and in the meantime, the residents of Clanton are urged to go into this work of cleaning and painting up, with a spirit to bring about something worthwhile, and don't forget the prizes that are to be offered.

ton County and Miss Norma Smith, state Membership chairman. These talks were followed by a vocal solo by little Miss Myrtle Pitts, assisted by her mother.

Plans were made to hold the next conference next year at the Isabella High School west of Clanton; the date to be set and announced later. Miss Jewel Maddox, a member of the faculty of the Isabella school was elected as president of the County Council of the P.-T. A. of this county, with Miss Massey of the Mount Pleasant school as vice president and Mrs. Horace Davis of Verbena, secretary and treasurer.

The Isabella High School was first in attendance at the conference Saturday, with eighteen delegates from their P.-T. A., with Verbena, ranking second. Isabella gave an exceptionally good report on their activities in the association.

A resolution committee was appointed to draw up resolutions on the hospitality of the local P.-T. A.'s, with Miss Madge Scarborough, chairman.
The resolutions were read.

Mrs. L. C. Warr, of Clanton, manager of the Ninth District of the Parent-Teachers Association, was very gratified with the first meeting of the district to be held alone. The last meeting held by the district was in 1926, when it met with the State Association in Montgomery.

The State President urged all associations to arrange to send delegates to the large P.T. A. conference to be held at Tuscaloosa in June. This is to be a state-wide meeting.

Quite a number of the delegates attending the conference here Saturday were men. All delegates attending were registered as they entered the school building by Miss Virginia Murphy and Miss Berneice Williams, members of the local high school faculty.

IN MEMORY OF BUSTER RUDDICK

In the gleaming of the twilight on March 30th, a dear friend, and his soul ascended into the pearly gate of Heaven. Oh, yes, we're lonely without him.
We're waiting for the day to come when we shall meet in the sweet forever. It's just beyond the shining river where Jesus is the shepherd. But let us not say Buster is dead, but his soul is transferred and is tenderly sleeping with God, awaiting the resurrection day where the loved ones will not be scattered, but will rejoice with God.

It was when the car overturned and his precious skull was crushed. But I am sure he was ready and is awaiting for judgment day. Buster was kind and laughing. A laugh that can not ever be heard and his smiles were filled with sunshine that brightened the path wherever he trod.

His father, grandfather and grandmother loved him and mourn as all fathers and grandparents do, but God loved him best, so He took him to sleep in the blessed mansion of rest.
Yes, we will meet him on that beautiful shore where we loved ones will part no more.

A note to relatives and friends: The angel of death has entered your home.
In this, your darkest hour, allow me to offer my deepest sympathy. Buster was a good boy, who scattered dew of kindness in the pathway of theirs.

Let the assurance of his having entered the kingdom of God be a comfort to you all for he is in a sweeter home and awaits the coming of a faithful father, grandparents, and friends.

A true loving friend
(Miss) Robert Lee Lester.

signed by several of the leading citizens of the county. A copy of the petition is as follows:

To the Commissioners Court of Chilton County, Alabama:

We, the undersigned citizens and tax payers of Chilton County, Alabama beg leave to submit the following:

1. We believe that public ferries are parts of public highway systems and therefore, should be owned and maintained by counties and states.

2. We believe that all parts of highways should be open for travel at all times.

3. We believe that the practice of leasing or chartering public ferries to individuals to be used as a private business for gain is unfair, unnecessary and should be abolished.

4. We believe that the toll or public pay systems for public ferries was necessary in the days of the ox-cart, when no one paid tax or license for maintaining public roads, and when public roads were worked with tools owned by individuals.

5. We believe that the toll or pay systems for public ferries is wholly unnecessary and unfair in the days of the automobile when everyone is required to pay a tax or license for the maintaining of public roads and when public roads are worked with tools and machines owned and operated by the counties and states.

6. We hereby petition the Commissioners Court of Chilton County, Alabama to discontinue the leasing or chartering of public ferries to individuals to be used for private gain and establish a system that is more in keeping with the progress and development of highway systems.

MRS. ISABEL WILSON, AGE 45, DIED LAST SATURDAY NOON

MAD DOG ON RAMPAGE

WEST OF CLANTON

On Tuesday of last week, residents of the western outskirts of Clanton were given quite a scare, when a dog said to have been rabid, attacked a ice boy, a goat, a mule and several other dogs, visited their community.

The Bice boy did not receive any flesh wound from the rabid dog, although his clothing was torn by the attack. The dog was finally killed as was the other dogs that were known to have been bitten.

Miss Isabella Ranier of Montgomery spent the past week end as the guest of Miss Olive Ranier Elmore. Miss Ranier was entertained on various picnics and parties during her visit here.

All music lovers and those who like to sing are cordially invited to come and take part in this county singing convention. Remember the time and place. The first Saturday and Sunday in May, at the Mount Nebo church, eight miles southwest of Clanton.

S. M. Edwards Writes About His Candidacy

In a letter to the editor of the News, S. M. (Sam) Edwards stated some of his opinions of the office for which he has announced himself a candidate, the office of Commissioner from the Second District. Following we publish Mr. Edwards' letter:

At the urgent request of many of my friends throughout the county, I have consented to offer myself for commissioner of the Second District, subject to the action of the Democratic primary to be held in August. I fully realize the importance of this office, and I further realize the success or failure of Chilton County depends in a large measure on the way the Commissioner's Court is handled. I feel that I am equal to the task that goes with this office. I invite every voter in the county to investigate my (continued to back page)

JEMISON STUDENTS WILL GO TO MONTEVALLO

Misses Delene Lawrence and Geraldine Bean, students at the Jemison High School, will go to Montevallo to compete in a clothing contest to be held there today. Friday and Saturday these girls won first prize in a clothing making contest conducted at the Jemison school recently.

Clean-Up Campaign Takes On Interest

This week has been designated as Clean-Up Week in Clanton by the local Kiwanis Club, as was announced last week. The committees of the club in charge of this campaign state that the work already seen around Clanton in the way of cleaning up so far this week, is evidence that the campaign is taking on interest.

Final inspections of the premises in town will be made Monday, at which time prizes are to be awarded to those who have shown the most improvement in their property, or premises during the week.

GOODYEAR DIRIGIBLE MAKES TOUR OVER HERE TUESDAY

Last Tuesday, residents of Clanton were given a treat through the efforts of Die's Service Station, and the courtesy of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, when the Goodyear dirigible "Defender" soared over the town for several minutes.

The ship, which is one of the largest owned by the rubber company, was on its way to its hangar at Gadsden, from Montgomery. Mr. L. E. Diefenderfer of Die's Service Station, local Goodyear dealer, was treated to a ride in the ship, while it was stationed in Montgomery Tuesday.

Mr. W. Y. Keel, a prominent citizen of the county living near Clanton, was among the visitors to our town last Saturday. While in town, Mr. Keel made a pleasant call at the News office.

Merchants Plan To Organize Here

At a meeting held last Thursday night, at the court house here, with approximately thirty merchants and business men present, plans were made to form an organization among the merchants here, the purpose of which will be to bring about a better understanding and a closer fellowship.

After several of those present voiced their opinions of such an organization and its benefit to Clanton, a temporary chairman was appointed, also a secretary. A committee from those present at the meeting was appointed by the chairman and were asked to meet last Tuesday night to make some definite plans to secure members and were to report today at the meeting of the Kiwanis Club.

It was also planned to have another meeting of the merchants and business men again tonight at the court house at seven thirty. All merchants and business men of Clanton are urged to attend this meeting.

SERVICES AT MT. SPRINGS SATURDAY AND SUNDAY

We have been requested to announce this week that there will be preaching at the Mountain Springs church on next Saturday and Sunday. Special Easter services will be on the program for Sunday, the pastor having as his subject, "Easter Joy."

The public is cordially invited to attend these services.

MRS. G. C. ROPER SPENDS SHORT TIME HERE RECENTLY

Mrs. Grady Clarence Roper of Birmingham spent two days here last week with Mr. and Mrs. O. O. Roper. While here Mrs. Roper was engaged in planting flowers and shrubbery and beautifying her lot in the local cemetery.

"A WILD FLOWER OF THE HILLS" AT JEMISON SOON

An entertainment which promises to be thoroughly enjoyed by those witnessing its presentation at the Jemison High School auditorium, Jemison, Alabama, is entitled "A Wild Flower of the Hills."

This play will be presented at the Jemison school on Saturday night, April 20, and is being directed by Mrs. A. C. Wells. Proceeds go to a fund to provide a waterworks system for the school.

Mrs. Annie L. Cannon and Mrs. W. G. Caffee, and son, Billy, of Tuscaloosa arrived Tuesday and spent several days with Mrs. Mamie C. Smith and family.

R. B. (Bob) Vail, publisher of the Bay Minette Times, and a candidate for Secretary of State, was a visitor to Clanton last Tuesday.

Strawberries Making Appearances Here

During the past several days, baskets of strawberries have been attracting the attention of the people in Clanton who wanted to have some of the first of this season. A few small shipments have been made to Birmingham lately, and it is expected that the first carload shipment will be loaded Saturday or Monday.

Among those who were said to have been the first to bring in berries this season, in Chilton County, were W. Z. Hodges, J. N. Dennis, E. G. Mullins, Elijah H. Mims, Ed Minor and J. E. Easterling. All these brought in berries last Monday, April 14th.

ISABELLA F. F. A. MET AGAIN LAST WEEK

The Isabella F. F. A. held their regular meeting Tuesday night and had a dandy program. The meeting was called to order by Mr. Oliver Manning, our president.

First, we listened to Mr. Houston D. Ramus make a good talk on the rapid growth of the national organization of F. F. A. Next we listened to Claude Conway make a talk about our educational trip to Auburn, and Tuskegee Institute. It was a nice trip for the boys all enjoyed it very much.

At this meeting all the boys had a chance to get up and talk. We hope to talk and learn how to get up and talk before a large audience, without getting frightened. In this chapter the boys are getting better and are learning more and more about F. F. A. We have twelve boys in our organization already, and are hoping to have a strong F. F. A. next year.

Local Lodge Installs New Officers Recently

At a meeting of the Clanton Commandery No. 27 K. T., held Tuesday night of last week, the new officers who had been elected at a previous meeting, were officially installed. Mack C. Jones, Jr. Warden; J. E. Edgar, Standard Bearer; L. E. Foshee, Sword Bearer; C. O. Jones, Warder, and T. W. Kemp, Sentinel.

MRS. AMY JONES DIED HERE LAST SATURDAY AFTERNOON

Mrs. Amy Jones, age 60, succumbed Saturday to burns received Friday, after she had been rushed to the Central Alabama Hospital here for treatment. Funeral services were held on Sunday afternoon at Thorsby, where the deceased made her home.

According to the story given to the News, Mrs. Jones was on the back porch of her home cleaning a dress with gasoline, and in some way the fluid became ignited, burning her body severely before neighbors reached her to extinguish the flames. Martin had charge of the burial.

PARTY ENTERTAINED ON CAMP DURING THE PAST WEEK END

Mr. and Mrs. J. Mell Martin entertained a number of visitors from Birmingham and Montgomery during the past week end at their camp on the river, near here. Those who were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Martin were Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Hartley, Mr. and Mrs. Nettles, Mr. and Mrs. Saunders, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Bailey and Mr. and Mrs. Haney of Montgomery, and Mr. and Mrs. Latham Ellis and Harry Kline of Birmingham.

AVONDALE BAND WILL GIVE CONCERT AT T ISABELLA

An announcement given the News this week stated that on next Saturday night, April 19th, the Avondale Mills Band from Birmingham will be presented in concert at the Isabella High School. Admission will be 15 and 25 cents.

RUFFIN WILL HAVE POULTRY FEEDING EXPERT HERE

It was stated this week by Mr. J. L. Ruffin that he will have at his store here on April 19th, a man who is an expert on poultry feeding problems. Those who have questions confronting them in their poultry line, will be given advice free of charge on next Saturday, April 19th, by calling at the feed store of J. L. Ruffin.

Miss Annie Lou Scarborough spent the past week end here as the guest of her sister, Miss Madge Scarborough.

THORSBY BAPTIST RECEIVE HEARTY CONGRATULATIONS

The pastor and members of the Thorsby Baptist church have been receiving hearty congratulations on the completion of their new church building.

Last Sunday the first services were held in the new structure, and were well attended. There were two additions to the membership of the church. Services were held there Sunday morning and Sunday evening.

GEORGE C. POLK RETURNS TO ROCHESTER, MINN. SATURDAY

George C. Polk, prominent automobile dealer here, left last Saturday afternoon for Rochester, Minn., where he will undergo another health examination, it was stated.

Mr. Polk has been in Rochester once before for his health. He expects to be gone approximately two or three weeks.

SPECIAL K. T. SERVICES HERE SUNDAY

Knights Templar Will Hold Annual Easter Services At Baptist Church

On next Sunday night, the Knights Templar will stage their annual Easter Services at the Baptist church in Clanton. This announcement was accompanied by an announcement which stated that along with the Knights Templar program there will be a special Easter musical program, to be presented by the choir of the Clanton churches.

The services are scheduled to begin at seven-thirty o'clock Sunday night. There will be no services at the Methodist church on Sunday night on account of the special services at the Baptist church.

Mrs. J. W. Adkisson and attractive daughter of Brewton are spending this week as guests of Mr. and Mrs. V. J. Elmore.

J. M. Burnett New State A. E. A. Chief

John M. Burnett, superintendent of the public schools of Tuscaloosa, Alabama was chosen last Saturday as the new president of the Alabama Education Association, at the state convention held in Montgomery.

Supt. Burnett is a native of Chilton County, and might be rightfully called one of 'Chilton's boys' who has gone out and made good. He has served as superintendent in Tuscaloosa for nine years, and the signal honor comes to Mr. Burnett as a reward of 29 years of service as teacher, principal and superintendent in Alabama schools. He received his first schooling in Chilton County and graduated from the Jacksonville State Normal school in 1901 and accepted his first position as principal of a school at Jackson's Gap. He also served as principal of the Dadeville high school.

Chilton W. M. S. Will Meet At Poplar Springs

The Chilton County Association of the Woman's Missionary Society will hold its meeting on Thursday, April 24th, according to a special announcement given the News this week.

The Poplar Springs Baptist church has been selected as the meeting place of the association this time, and it is scheduled to begin at ten o'clock in the morning with a very interesting program outlined which will be published in next week's issue.

SERVICES AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH HERE NEXT SUNDAY

The News has been requested to announce that Dr. L. E. Frazer will preach at the Presbyterian church here next Sunday, April 20, at 11:00 o'clock a. m. and at 5:30 o'clock p. m. The public is cordially invited to attend.

SCHOOL MEETING AT MOUNT PLEASANT

All patrons and persons interested in the school are requested to meet at the schoolhouse at Mt. Pleasant next Saturday night, April 19th, at 7:30 o'clock, for the purpose of electing new trustees.—Ben Duke, Chairman Board of Trustees.

POST OFFICE BUILDING NEAR READY

Expect To Move Into New Building During First Of Next Month

Final arrangements are now being made at the new location for the Clanton post office near the railroad, for the installation of the new fixtures which will replace practically all the fixtures now being used by the office, with the exception of stamping machines, scales, etc. All outside fixtures will be new and of a modern style.

It is expected that the office will be moved on May 3rd, according to W. M. Bean, postmaster, who stated that the afternoon of May 3rd, after the post mail is put up, the people of Clanton are to forget about the old location and come to the new building where it is hoped, they will find everything in order as usual. Mr. Bean also stated that it is their intentions not to have any interruption whatsoever in the service to the patrons as the office will be moved at intervals between trains arriving here.

To simplify the finding of your boxes at the new office, a large list of box holders will be placed in the lobby with your name and box number listed. The new assignments will be made as near as possible in accordance with the present location of the various boxes.

TOM HILYER, CLANTON, CONDUCTS COTTON FERTILIZER DEMONSTRATION IN 1930

An analysis of the More and Better Cotton Per Acre Contest in Georgia during 1929 shows that 1213 farmers enrolled in this contest from 74 counties; 428 of these farmers sent in complete reports. Some very interesting and valuable information relative to how yield per acre affects cost of production are given in the report of this contest. It shows that contestants with a yield of the following pounds of lint per acre produced their cotton at a net cost as follows:

Lbs. Acre	Net C. lb. Lint
800-1057	$0.069
700-800	0.076
600-700	0.083
500-600	0.088
400-500	0.098
300-400	0.11
200-300	0.147
200-or less	0.226

SUNBEAMS WILL MEET AT CHURCH NEXT SATURDAY

All members of the Sunbeams are urged to be present at the meeting on next Saturday afternoon at two-thirty o'clock at the church. There will be an Easter egg hunt Saturday afternoon, also, so don't fail to attend this meeting.

Wallace P. Pruitt, the able publisher of The Rockford Chronicle, at Rockford, Alabama was in Clanton last Thursday afternoon on business. While in town Mr. Pruitt paid the News office a pleasant call. He was accompanied by his sons, Mack, Robert Allen and David.

Fairview Organizes 4-H Club Recently

In a letter to County Agent Stapp, from Woodrow Durbin, of the Fairview Community, it was stated that a 4-H Club had recently been organized among the young farmers of that community. Every community in Chilton County should take steps now to organize one of these clubs among the boys. Here is the letter to Mr. Stapp: Clanton, Ala., April 4, 1930.

Mr. C. E. Stapp, Clanton, Ala. Dear Sir:

The 4-H Club boys of Fairview met April 3, and organized the local club. The officers are as follows: President, Cecil McKee, Clanton, Route 3; vice president, J. P. Poole, Clanton, Route 3; secretary-treasurer, Woodrow Durbin, Clanton Route 3. Members of the club are Clint Billingsley, Clanton Route 3; Carlos Owen, Clanton Route 3; Elbert Mims, Clanton Route 7; Morris Keen, Clanton Route 3; Jerome Henley, Clanton Route 3; Baxter Popwell, c/o J. Q. Popwell, Route 3.

Yours truly, WOODROW DURBIN, Secretary-Treasurer.

Thomasville Girl Killed By Poison

Thomasville, Ala., April 14.—When Mrs. W. J. Miller returned from a meeting of the missionary society this afternoon she found her youngest daughter, Honey Lou, on the floor in a dying condition from a poison which she had taken during the absence of her mother. Death came within a short while after a physician had been summoned.

Honey Lou, about 14 years of age, had a large circle of friends and was very popular in school. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Miller, both of whom are prominent in social and religious circles here. Mr. Miller is engaged in the sawmill business in Marengo County where he operates a large lumber plant.

Whether the poison was taken with suicidal intent is not definitely known, as she was too near death's door when her mother found her and no one else was at the home when the drug was taken. For several weeks she had been connected with The Thomasville Times looking after social items for the paper.

Besides her parents Honey Lou is survived by five sisters and one brother as follows: Mrs. S. L. Sherill, of Hartselle; Mrs. Ray N. Howell, Hartselle; Mrs. Roland Faulk, Samson; Miss Lois Miller, student at McKeen; Miss Ruth Miller, student at Judson College and W. J. Miller, lumberman at Voxheath, Ala.

POWER AND PROGRESS

So accustomed are we to think of New York City as ranking first in nearly everything that it may be surprising to many to be told that three cities—Chicago, Philadelphia, and Detroit—each use more electric current than the great metropolis.

While New York uses only two-thirds as much current as Chicago, it nevertheless uses four times as much as London, and more than twice as much as either Paris or Berlin.

These facts are stated in a recent business discussion by Silas H. Altorfer, the well-known Peoria manufacturer, who also declared that this year the total output of electric power in the United States would exceed one hundred billion kilowatts for the first time. Continuing, he said:

"More than 4,000 towns and villages have added electricity in the past five years, an increase in communities served of 25 per cent. Americans will spend more than a billion dollars this year for household electrical equipment alone, exclusive of the tremendously bigger investments in the field of industry. Spinner washers, ironing machines, vacuum cleaners, percolators, toasters and dozens of other home appliances will help to swell the demand, so that it is no wonder we use as much electricity as all the rest of the world, although our population is only one-twentieth of the total."

Which is an added explanation why America's progress remains the wonder and envy of the rest of mankind.

EXTENSION WORKERS FIGHT ILLITERACY

Auburn, Ala., April 17.—Acting upon instructions from Prof. L. N. Duncan, director of the Extension Service of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, county and home demonstration agents of Alabama are cooperating in teaching adults to read and write. They are working with county superintendents of education and others.

"We must do our best," Prof. Duncan said, "to teach everybody to read and write and thus remove from our beloved state the cloud due to illiteracy."

Chilton County Abstract Co.

M. D. FOSHEE, manager

A good business man will not buy a farm or any property without first looking it over to see what it is worth. However, some will buy or lose money on land without an abstract.

Isn't it equally as foolish to buy a farm without looking it over as to buy it and not know whether the titles are good or not? Without an abstract you do not know where you are getting the land you look at or on.

Before investing in land in any way have an abstract made and be safe.

OLD PEOPLE DIE FROM FALLS

By Dr. Christmas Seal

When Bobbie falls down it is easy enough to tell him to get up and be a brave boy, but when grandpa has a fall, the results may be serious. Old people have brittle bones and frail organs. Their bones fracture easily. If the fractures keep them in bed other troubles arise because old people do not do so well spending long periods in bed. The Alabama Board of Health is keeping a detail tabulation of deaths from accidents by cause of age. In January of this year, there were 143 deaths from accidental causes, 33 of these were children under 14 years of age. Sixty-five of those fatal accidents occurred in the home. Ten of them were from falls and several of the ten being persons over 65 years of age.

Dr. Christmas Seal shudders when he sees old people standing or tottering steps reaching to high cupboard shelves, cleaning windows or doing such other work. At an age when a fall is so perilous great care should be exercised.

A BIRTHDAY PARTY

Birthday honors such as few men have ever received will be accorded Dr. William Henry Welch of Johns Hopkins University on his 80th birthday anniversary. The celebration will be international in scope, with simultaneous gatherings of Dr. Welch's friends, colleagues and former students in Washington, London, Paris, Berlin, Leipzig, Tokio, Peiping, New York and other cities.

President Hoover will speak at the Washington celebration and pay tribute to this noted physician and educator, known as the "dean of American medicine."

In spite of his 80 years, Dr. Welch is still active as professor of the history of medicine at Johns Hopkins, president of the Rockefeller medical research board, and a trustee of Carnegie Institution. He holds a number of foreign decorations and about all the degrees and honors the world has to bestow for professional attainment.

The committee in charge of the birthday celebration said: "America owes more to Dr. Welch than can ever be told in any tributes. Through the reforms which he has instituted in medical study, through his researches, the many doctors trained by him, and the vital public health measures which he has inspired, it is literally true that millions have benefited from his contribution."

It is eminently fitting that this grand old man of American medicine should have an international birthday party upon attaining the age of four score. Let us hope that his years of usefulness may be extended indefinitely.

THE NEW PLANET

For years astronomers have searched the heavens for a ninth planet, which mathematical calculations led them to believe existed beyond Neptune. It remained for a young American observatory assistant, Clyde Tombaugh, 23 years old, to find it. It was not discovered directly through a telescope, but as a faint spot of light on a photographic plate, and later verified as the long-sought body.

It may be unknown to many that this is the third planet of our solar system to be discovered by man during the last 150 years. While the nearer planets were known to the ancients, Uranus was not discovered until 1781, nor Neptune until 1846. The newly found planet has not yet been named, nor has its size been determined.

Its distance from the sun is thought to be between three and four billion miles, while the earth is a little less than 93 million miles from our central luminary. So, while it is interesting to know that we have an additional member of our solar system, its presence will have little effect upon practical affairs.

A few days after the discovery of the ninth planet was announced an Italian amateur astronomer, claimed that he had found four new planets, making 12 in all, but so far his claim has not been verified by any recognized authorities.

The best thing a doctor ever does for a patient suspected of being tuberculous is to tell him the truth in a clear kind way. Then he has a chance to get well.

The Birthday is a good time to record accurately the weight and height of each child. Check gains each month. If underweight, find the cause.

STATE SHORT COURSE FOR 4-H CLUB GIRLS

Auburn, Ala., April 17.—Proper health habits will be emphasized at the State short course for 4-H club girls to be held at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, May 27 to May 31. At that time health champions will be selected. A total of 168 girls from 42 counties will attend the course. Those to attend will be selected on a basis of all-around efficiency in club work, but especially upon achievement in the health program.

Announcement of this is made by Miss Bess Fleming, State leader in 4-H club work for girls. She said that judging contests in clothing, home improvement, and food preservation would be held during the course. In addition, model demonstrations will be given in gardening, poultry, foods, home improvement, and clothing.

Special instructions on health habits will be given. This will include posture, personal hygiene, exercises through recreation, and foods and clothing for health.

The State short course is considered a rally for the club girls of the State and recreational features will be given prominence on the program. A 4-H club party, a campfire party, and a banquet will be arranged.

Six home demonstration agents will come to Auburn to assist members of the State staff here in conducting the course. They are Mrs. Florence G. Farish of Calhoun County, Miss Lucile Braswell of Colbert, Miss Essie Hester of Autauga, Miss Mary Olive Carnley of Elmore, Miss Margaret Garrett of Baldwin, and Miss Lavada Curtis of Dale. Those in charge of recreation will be Miss Clara Nale of Franklin, Miss Martha Haupt of Greene, and Mr. W. B. Story of Auburn.

Clean-Up Week

The Ladies Guild is responsible for the tidy appearance which our village presents. It was in that organization that the idea of a "Clean-Up Week" originated, though many other organizations and individuals helped in the good work. The Boy Scouts and Miss Stoddard's Civics Class in Thorsby Institute rendered especially enthusiastic service. There is still much to be done before we can honestly claim to be "the cleanest town on the L. & N. railroad."

Mrs. J. E. Each entertained the Sewing Circle last Monday afternoon.

R. R. Franklin organized a fishing party of friends which spent the week end at Shaw's Mill on the Coosa and returned with a good string of fish.

The Commencement calendar at the Junior High School will include the following events: Thursday night the undergraduate play, "Brother Josiah," Friday night, graduating exercises with Dr. Thomas of the University of Alabama as speaker; Saturday night, "Yimmie Yonson's Yob." Sunday, 11 a. m. baccalaureate sermon by Rev. B. P. Culp of Nashville.

Rev. J. E. Each, Miss Onita Klingelhoefer and Miss Addie Primm attended the State Christian Endeavor convention at Selma last Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The new Baptist church was opened Sunday, April 13th. The congregation, both morning and evening filled the audience room to overflowing. The church is both good to look at and well equipped for all kinds of services and the church is to be congratulated upon the success of their building venture.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Piped were called to Birmingham Monday by the death of a cousin, Mr. Cooker.

The Easter services at the Congregational church are to be held Sunday night at 7.30, instead of in the morning.

YOU AND YOUR RAILROAD ARE IN PARTNERSHIP

No matter who you are, where you live, or what you do, you are in partnership with the railroad which serves your community.

You are a partner with your railroad because it helps you to maintain public activities through its tax assessments (last year, L. & N. taxes amounted to about $7,500,000).

You are a partner because its employees are citizens all along its system and are helping you to promote your community's well-being (last year L. & N. wages paid amounted to $72,000,000).

You are a partner because it furnishes you safe, economical, and comfortable transportation; transports for your daily requirements things made and grown in other territories, and takes your commodities outside to greater markets.

As a partner, and realizing its enormous importance to you and your community, it is clearly to your interest to help your railroad in every possible way. Ride your railroad. Ship over your railroad. Use your influence in inducing others to patronize your railroad.

The L. & N. is your railroad—it has been a pioneer in your community; serves first you and your neighbors; takes you places safely and comfortably over its own lines and makes satisfactory connections with other lines; transports your shipments promptly and dependably.

The L. & N. is your partner, and, in view of its consistent and dependable service to your community for nearly eighty years, it feels it may ask your further loyalty and cooperation.

NAVY OFFERING MANY OPPORTUNITIES TO MEN

The Navy offers many opportunities to young men in varied lines of work, possibly one of the most interesting of which is the aviation, according to recruiting officer A. Nebelkopf. After passing certain stages the candidate is designated as a naval aviator.

There are also flying ratings of chief aviator pilot and aviation pilot, first class which are held by enlisted men on active duty.

To qualify for these ratings, a candidate must be under 29 years of age, must be physically qualified, temperamentally adapted for aviation training involving actual control of aircraft, must have a good record and character, must possess a working knowledge of arithmetic, English and composition and must first enlist in the Navy for general service; that, no promises whatever can be given at time of enlistment as to the duty an enlisted man will be called upon to perform.

After enlistment the recruit is sent to one of the four training stations where he is taught the general requirements of naval life for a period of nine weeks. During this period the candidate for aviation is studied and examined with regard to his fitness for further training in aviation.

From among those at the training station who qualify in accordance with the above, a limited number, not exceeding five, are selected weekly from each of the four training stations after competitive examinations for training in aviation and are then sent to Hampton Roads, Va., or San Diego, Calif., for an elimination test. Those who successfully pass this elimination test are next sent to Great Lakes, Illinois, for a course of ten weeks at the aviation utility school.

Those who successfully pass this utility test are then assigned to one of the aircraft carriers—U. S. S. Lexington or the Saratoga—for a period of six months training at sea. At the expiration of six months, the candidates selected by the commanding officer who are considered worthy, of further training are sent to the Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Fla., for flight training. Those who successfully complete the flight training course are designated naval aviation pilots.

Flight training for enlisted men is similar to that given to naval aviators but is less extensive. Those who are not recommended at the completion of six months at sea are retained on aircraft carriers, and a report is made on their qualifications at the end of one year. If not recommended at the expiration of one year at sea, they are transferred for general service.

It must be understood that, in view of the high mental and physical qualifications required for naval aviation pilots, the percentage of successful candidates is correspondingly low. Consequently men chosen for this training must have exceptional and outstanding qualities.

Only one of the remarkable opportunities that the Navy offers is shown in the above and such positions are being presented to the young men of Alabama through the local recruiting station. There are four vacancies for the month of April and anyone interested may learn further details by communicating at once with the Naval Recruiting officer whose offices are located in the City Hall, Montgomery, Alabama.

Isaac Rosenthal of Chicago found in an old mattress he had bought a tin box containing nineteen -20 gold pieces. To win a bet of $5, Andrew Evans of Blackburn, Eng., swallowed a live mouse, which later had to be removed by an operation.

Charles Reymon of Chicago charged his wife with beating him, but testified "her temper improved somewhat after she had her hair bobbed."

Though Bridget and Patrick Murphy of Dublin claimed to be bankrupt and unable to pay their creditors, $55,000 was found hidden in the wall of their home.

John Knowles of Preston, Eng., was fined for ducking into a milk tank a dairy maid who he declared was lazy.

Though Albert Royce, 17, of Bideford, Eng., fell over a 150 foot cliff, he will recover from his injuries.

EXTRA POTASH PAYS

In demonstrations conducted during the past 2 years, 74 Alabama farmers used approximately 3 times as much potash as they had been using to cotton. The extra potash used in addition to the regular application was equivalent to 80 pounds of muriate of potash per acre. The extra potash returned $4.06 for each $1.00 invested. Extra potash keeps down diseases, reduces shedding, and makes bigger bolls. Extra potash pays when used under or around cotton. Ask your dealer for a nitrogen-potash top-dresser of extra potash planting mixtures, or mix muriate of potash with ordinary mixtures or nitrogen top-dressers. Potash is cheap and potash pays!

LOVELY WEDDING IS HELD AT JONES CHURCH

Jones, Ala., April 12.—A wedding of cordial interest throughout the state was that of Miss Mary Frances Willis and Clyde W. Gregg, which was beautifully solemnized at 6 p. m. Wednesday at the Baptist church at Jones. The interior of the church presented a lovely scene with its decoration of crabbapple blossoms and green. The altar was banked with palms, ferns and Southern smilax interspersed with vases of white lilies.

As the wedding guests assembled a beautiful program of nuptial music was rendered. Mrs. Leon Dyer played several numbers after which she accompanied Prof. William Farmer, of Plantersville who sang, "I Love You Truly" and "Oh, Promise Me." As the bridal chorus from Lohengrin was played the ushers entered through separate aisles. They were Frank Apperson and J. W. Thomas, next came the petite flower girl, little Evelyn King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude King, beautifully dressed in white crepe carrying a basket of pink and white rose petals which she strewed in the path of the bride.

The bride entered with her aunt, Mrs. J. C. Hughes, of Billingsley, who was her matron of honor. Her costumes was of eggshell tan crepe with lace trimming with accessories ensuite. Her flowers were rose carnations tied with tulle of the same hue. The young bride was beautiful in her wedding gown of French beige crepe, fashioned princess style with trimmings of lace, the skirt was long and flared and had the even hemline. Her hat was of lace and shoes of same shade which harmonized with her costume. A shower bouquet of carnations, Easter lilies and lilies of the valley completed her toilet.

They were met at the altar by the groom and J. C. Hughes, who acted as best man. The impressive ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. J. Ruddick of Stanton, lifelong friend of both families. "Melody of Love" was softly played during the ceremony and to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March the party left the church.

Mrs. Gregg is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Willis, of Jones, and a graduate of the Dallas County High School. By her winsome manner and attractive personality she has endeared herself to scores of friends throughout the state. The groom is the son of Henry W. Gregg of Stanton. He also is a graduate of the high school of Dallas County and has charge of two sand pits at Freemont and Jones. The young couple will make their home at Jones.

Alabama Fair

Body To Meet

Montgomery, Ala., April 17.—The first meeting of the Alabama Fair Association since its organization on March 18 will be held here at noon on Thursday, April 24. President Simon Roswald announced Monday. By-laws and a constitution under which the association will function will be enacted, Mr. Roswald also announced that standing committees will be named to serve during the first year of the organization.

There will be other important matters before representatives of the 13 fairs comprising the association. Mr. Roswald predicts that a number of other fairs will join during the spring and summer.

In Montgomery, plans are already being made for the annual State Fair of Alabama in October. There will be numerous new exhibits this year, officials said today.

Mr. Roswald will preside over the meeting of the new association. He has been secretary-manager of the Montgomery fair for several years. The place for the meeting has not been selected.

A HOME FOR YOUR CHICKENS

When you have made arrangements for a good quality of baby chicks to start off your flocks with you will want to get busy on a suitable home for them.

If you are going to have any number of chicks, you will need some kind of a brooder house and brooder for them. Almost any kind of a room or building can be improvised into a nice brooding house, or a suitable one can be built for little cost. If you are going to plan to have one thousand layers in your flock in the fall you will want to get about twenty-five hundred chicks. For this number you will want a floor space in your brooder house about 20 feet by 60 feet, giving you an area of about 1,200 square feet. The same proportions apply if you are getting a smaller or larger number of chicks. About 50 square feet of floor space being required for each one hundred chicks.

This brooder house will be the headquarters for your chicks as they grow up and until you send the cockerels off to market and put the pullets into the laying houses. The main thing in planning your brooder house is to have it warm and snug for the chicks and to have it absolutely free of dampness and of draft. See that the roof does not leak. It is a good idea to have a double construction floor and to have every little crevice, up say at least a foot and a half from the floor, carefully plugged up, as a current of cold air coming into the house at the floor might chill and kill your entire brood while a human being might not even notice it.

On the other hand, you want to have the brooder house high enough so that you can stand up and walk around it in comfort while attending to the chicks. This will give them the air space that they should have for their own health.

Important: Sanitation can make you or break you. Try to move or build your brooder house on clean ground that has not been used for poultry for the past three years. If this is not possible, bring in some ground that is clean, and fill in for 20 feet around the brooder house to a depth of about 4 inches. Also, clean your brooder house like you would a surgical laboratory. Remove every trace of dirt and old litter, dry-clean thoroughly, and scrub with hot water and some high-powered coal tar disinfectant. You must destroy those parasites and germs.

Next week we will tell about equipping the brooder house and getting it ready for the first brood of baby chicks.

STUDY PROVES EGG A FOOD ARISTOCRAT

Auburn, Ala., April 17.—For health, an egg a day for each member of the family over two years of age and an egg yolk for the baby is recommended by nutrition specialists at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Eggs are one of the best sources of iron and protein as well as of the vitamins A and D, and they contain phosphorus and lime or calcium. The white of the egg is rich in protein while the yolk contains the greater part of the minerals and vitamins. Since the baby receives protein from his milk, the yolk is the only part of the egg which he needs; other children and adults will be benefited by the whole egg.

Vitamins A, B, and D are present in the yolk, vitamin A in the greatest like colds and sinus trouble. Vitamin D also helps resist infections and aids in the prevention of rickets.

An infant's temperature is slightly higher than that of an adult, being normal at a little above 99 degrees.

THE LEADER MANAGER, M. LANDE CLANTON, ALA.

for Economical Transportation

it's wise to choose a SIX!

There is one sure way to get greater value in a low-priced car today—choose a Six!

This greater value is instantly obvious when you drive a Chevrolet Six. You notice first of all its greater smoothness. There is no tremor in the steering wheel—no rattle in the floor boards—no rumble or drumming in the body.

In addition to the finer performance of its six-cylinder motor, the new Chevrolet gives you truly remarkable economy.

Its six-cylinder smoothness saves the entire car from the strain and wear of vibration. This, of course, lowers the cost of maintenance and assures a longer-lasting, longer-satisfying automobile.

From the standpoint of operating expense, Chevrolet is equally economical. No other automobile consumes less gasoline and oil. No other shows a lower expense for tires. And no other car costs less for service.

Because of its modern engineering, Chevrolet also assures a high resale value.

Chevrolet gives you fully-enclosed, weather-proof, 4-wheel brakes; a modern fuel system—with the gasoline tank mounted in the rear; four long semi-elliptic springs, mounted lengthwise in the direction of car travel. It gives you beautiful Fisher bodies built of combination hardwood-and-steel. It gives you a heavy, rigidly-braced channel-steel frame. And it gives you a full ball bearing steering mechanism.

Before you decide on any car in the low-price field, see and drive the Chevrolet Six. The more thoroughly you investigate, the more certain you are to conclude that it's wise to choose a Six—for value, for performance . . . and for economical transportation!

Middle Life Suffering

"Three years ago, I was in bad health," says Mrs. J. B. Bean, of Kirbyville, Texas. "I was going through a critical time, and I suffered a lot. My back hurt almost all the time, and my legs and ankles ached. My head hurt me until sometimes I would be almost past going. As I had used Cardui before, and knew how much I had improved after taking it, I got a bottle and started taking it. I continued to use it for several months. After a while I regained my health, and I feel that I could never have gotten through that awful time without Cardui."

business ability.

I was born and raised in Chilton County and I naturally have an interest in my home county. There is nothing that I would like to see more than to see Chilton County at the head of the list of the counties of Alabama. And if elected I would strive at all times to make Chilton County a great county. I promise the voters of Chilton County if they honor me with this office that I will at all times give them the very best that is within me. And that I will do my best never to give them cause to regret the vote they cast for me. I do not agree with all the methods that are being used at this time by the Commissioners Court. I will have something to say about this later on.

I stand four-square for equal rights to all and special privilege to none. I stand for strict economy and will try to see to it that every dollar that goes out of the county treasury brings back the value of that dollar. If I am elected I will not have any political debts to pay off. If the voters of Chilton County want less politics and an honest to God business administration give Mr. Killingsworth and myself a chance and we will do the stunt. I expect to have more to say regarding the affairs of Chilton County later on.

Yours very truly,
S. M. EDWARDS.

Jemison News

Chuckles, laughs, sighs, tears! You can't miss this combination found in "A Wild Flower of the Hills" to be presented at the Jemison High School Saturday night, April 19th. The plot is neatly woven and involves characters ranging from a lazy darkey to a crafty attorney. Chloe, a clever little waif played by Tonnie Lee Sims, grips your interest throughout the performance.

Mrs. Burke, played by Miss Edna Melnis, systematically despises and abuses her. The death of Mr. Burke leaves Chloe under the control of John Burke, Edward Glass. She defies his authority and turns for refuge to her only friends, good old Mammy, Miss Margie Murphy, and the mysterious wanderer, Snow White, Hollis Merchant. Sue is played by Miss Echols who marries a bootlegger, Bob Reynolds.

The play is being directed by Mrs. A. C. Wells and is under the auspices of the P.-T. A. The proceeds are to be applied to a waterworks fund for the school. With such a worthy purpose and such clever entertainment you can't afford to miss it. Tell your friends and be there.

Campus Being Improved

Have you passed by the Jemison High School lately? If you have, I am sure you have noticed the work that has been done on the campus.

The work is under the direction of Mr. J. A. Peterson and Mr. J. P. Montgomery. Our boys have been very busy plowing and laying of driveways.

The teachers of J. H. S. attended the A. E. A. in Montgomery last week end. Mrs. C. N. Shaw spent part of last week in Gorgas, Alabama as the guest of her children, Mr. and Mrs. Ermon Shaw and Mr. and Mrs. Pink Cooper.

Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Adams died at the home of her son, Charles, in Prattville, Monday morning. Mrs. Adams was one of the oldest and most progressive of the citizens of Jemison. Her body was laid to rest in Pine Hill cemetery Tuesday morning. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Rosa Thompson, three sons, Charles, John, and George, and several grandchildren. May all sympathy be theirs in these hours of sorrow.

MRS. LIZA JANE HUGGINS LAID TO REST AT WADSWORTH, ALA.

Mrs. Liza Jane Huggins, age 79, died at the home of her son, A. C. Edwards, Mountain Creek, Route 2, last Monday morning.

Funeral services were held the following Tuesday afternoon, with Rev. J. M. Metcalf officiating. Burial took place at the Wadsworth cemetery, with Martin of Clanton in charge. The deceased is survived by one son and three daughters.

Profit By Past Experiences And Plan Better For 1930

The past winter, as well as recent weather conditions, presented many difficulties in the growing of vegetables. These experiences should cause home garden people to make plans for the future so as to be prepared to meet such conditions. Even though such conditions are rather unusual, the result is the same, and the fact that some gardens have had green vegetables throughout the winter and spring should cause others to plan and profit accordingly.

Man of our spring plantings have been delayed or killed due to weather conditions. Other plantings should be made, and in addition to the regular schedule of spring plantings more of the quick maturing vegetables should be planted. Tendergreen, a leafy vegetable which many of you are now growing, is an excellent one for quick maturing. The vegetables already growing should be side dressed with some quick acting nitrogen fertilizer. It is particularly important that this be applied to the leafy vegetables.

Thin The Vegetables

It is quite a common practice in home gardening to leave the vegetable too thick in the drill. This is particularly true of lettuce and some of the root crops. Some uses can be made of most of the young vegetables that are pulled in thinning, and incidentally, proper spacing given the remaining one for maturity. Lettuce should be thinned to stand not closer than 14 inches in the drill. If left closer than this it will not form good heads.

Insects To Watch For This Month

The bean leaf beetle, a green spotted insect which eats holes in the leaves of young bean plants, does quite a lot of damage during this month. They may be controlled by dusting plants with a mixture consisting of one lb. of calcium arsenate and nine pounds of hydrated lime.

Cut worms cause not little damage in cutting off young and tender plants at this season. This is especially true in gardens where the soil was not plowed during the fall and winter. They may also be controlled by the use of arsenicals. A very good plan is to chop up some of the tender plants such as the clovers or vetches, sprinkle thoroughly with calcium arsenate, arsenate of lead or paris green, and then scatter this around the young plants where the worms are feeding. Cut worms feed only at night, so this bait should be prepared and placed around the plants late in the afternoon. If the garden was not plowed during the fall and winter, this material should be placed on rows before setting tomato plants. Quite often these worms cause much damage to young tomato plants after they are set in the garden.

STATION FOR CREAM HERE FOR FARMERS

Station Located At Office Of County Agent In Clanton

County Agent Stapp announces that he has made arrangements for receiving cream at the Farm Bureau office in Clanton. The station will be ready for receiving cream Saturday, April 26. Cream will be received Wednesday and Saturday of each week. The cream will be weighed and tested and checks issued for same immediately. To begin with the price will be 1½¢ per pound butterfat less than the Montgomery price. This 1½¢ is to take care of expenses and handling charges. Those who have good friers, weighing from 1½ to 2 pounds each, may bring them in Wednesday of each week for cooperative express shipments. These express shipments will not take the place of the car shipments which will be made about the 22nd of May, but will give a good market for those who will have friers ready for sale before May 22nd. The Farm Bureau is cooperating with County Agent Stapp in giving the above service to the farmers.

WADESONIAN THEATRE HAS A VARIED PROGRAM THIS WEEK

The Wadesonian Theatre has something of a varied program scheduled for the remainder of this week in the way of entertainment for the people of this section. Tonight, they offer "The Melody Man," a picture which went over big in larger cities, having as some of its leading characters, William Collier Jr., Alice Day and John St. Polis. This picture is a touching story of a master musician whose art is sacrificed on the altar of fatherly devotion. This picture is also on tomorrow night, along with comedies and other selected reels. Saturday afternoon, Hoot Gibson in "The Winged Horseman" will be offered by the theatre. This is a different Gibson picture and is sure to please. On Saturday night, the program changes a little with the all-talking picture, "Light Fingers" will be shown, with news reels and comedies. VERBENA TO BRING PLAY OF "APPLE BLOSSOM TIME" HERE A three-act comedy entitled "Apple Blossom Time" is scheduled to be presented at the high school auditorium in Clanton next Friday night, April 25. A cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend the presentation of this play, and it is assured that you will be entertained. Admission will be 10 cents, 25 cents and 35 cents. This play was presented in Verbena last Friday night, it was stated.

NO SERVICES AT METHODIST CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY, 27TH

There will be no services at the Clanton Methodist church on next Sunday, according to Rev. Mr. Ernest A. Childs, pastor, who is going to Nashville, Tenn., to take a short course at Vanderbilt University. The pastor expects to be away for approximately two weeks, he stated.

Charlie Cox Gives Statement About Campaign Rumors

We are publishing below, a letter from Mr. C. B. (Charlie) Cox, Democratic candidate for the office of Tax Collector for this county, in which he makes a statement in regard to rumors circulating concerning his campaign: Clanton, Ala., April 22, 1930. Editor Chilton County News, Clanton, Alabama. I understand that someone is circulating the statement that I am not going to wage an active campaign in the coming election for the office of Tax Collector. I wish to correct this. At the present time my duties are such that all of my time is required, however, at the proper time I will start my campaign, giving it my personal attention, and in such a manner that those who have conferred the honor of representing the Democratic Party, for this important office, will have no cause for regret. Will you kindly publish this letter, and oblige. Yours very truly, C. B. COX.

Record Crowd Attends Big Singing Here Monday Night

At the singing conducted at the court house here last Monday night, a record crowd was in attendance. The building was packed to overflowing even before the singing began, and many were forced to remain outside for the lack of room in the building, as all standing room was taken up. The United Singing Society of the northern part of the county held forth this night. The Clanton Quartette was present and rendered several enjoyable numbers. Quartettes from other sections of the state were also in attendance and entertained the large audience with their songs. It was rumored that the number of people present at this singing was probably the largest number witnessed at one singing here in many years.

WAR ON RATS AND ANTS TO START SOON

Eradication Campaign Will Be Sponsored By Kiwanians

An active campaign to rid Clanton of rats and ants is scheduled to begin here, according to C. E. Stapp, chairman of a special committee from the Clanton Kiwanis Club. The campaign will begin on Monday, April 28th, and with the proposed forces of poison and other methods, it is expected that Clanton will be minus many of these summer pests during this eradication campaign. The poisons to be used in the campaign are very inexpensive, Mr. Stapp stated, and can be secured at the office of the County Agent next Monday, April 28. Every individual in Clanton who is interested in the least way in a campaign against rats and ants is urged to take an active part in this work.

COOKE PLAYERS TO APPEAR IN MAPLESVILLE ONE WEEK

The well known and liked Cooke Players are scheduled to appear in a one week's performance in Maplesville, Alabama beginning next Monday night, April 28th, according to an announcement given the News this week by Mr. Cooke. The Cooke Players will present to the public new plays, well acted by their talented players, with a complete change of program each night. J. J. Honeycutt, of Route 5, was in Clanton last Tuesday. P. L. Robinson, of Jemison Route 2, was among the visitors to Clanton last Tuesday. Hon. and Mrs. L. F. Gerald have as their guest this week Miss Helen Rotherig of Gadsden, Alabama.

Italian Pastor Will Preach At Thorsby

Regular Sunday services will be held at the Thorsby Baptist church in Thorsby, Alabama next Sunday morning and evening. Rev. J. W. Jones, pastor, will have as his subject for the morning service, "A Good Man." The men of the town and community are urged to be present. At the evening service, the pastor of the Italian church of Ensley, Alabama will deliver a sermon. He is a man you will be pleased to hear.

Strawberry Crop Reported As Being Short This Year

According to authoritative reports on the strawberry crop of Chilton County, it was stated that the crop this season is falling short of that of last year. To date there has been shipped from Clanton about six cars of berries, two of which went to Cincinnati, Ohio, the remainder to Cleveland. The first car was loaded here last Friday. Dry weather is blamed for the crop shortage, and also for the slowness of the berries to mature. Prices were reported as being only reasonable. W. J. Billingsley, prominent citizen of Thorsby, Alabama was attending to business matters here Saturday. Mr. Billy Walker of the Isabella Community was among the visitors to Clanton Saturday.

Republicans Row Over Coming Primary; Resolution Assailed

Stanton Man Dies J. C. C. Woolley, Retired Mail Carrier, Heart Attack Victim

Selma, Ala., April 22.—J. C. C. Woolley, 72, retired mail carrier, died suddenly at Stanton Monday. Heart attack was the cause of death. Mr. Woolley was born in Bibb County and came to Stanton 20 years ago, settling there. He is survived by a large family, consisting of six daughters and seven sons. These are, Mrs. Emmie Shoults, of Lawley; Mrs. Gertrude Stewart, Miss Virginia Woolley and Miss Sarah Woolley of Stanton; Mrs. Clifford Bryan, of Openah, Okla.; G. M. Woolley, Shawnee, Okla.; H. C. Woolley, Camden; T. C. Woolley, Wetumpka; M. W. Woolley, J. B. and Glenn Woolley, Seminole, Okla. Funeral services were to be held from the residence. Burial was to be in Lawley.

Two Good High Schools

Schools At Jemison and Columbiana Encourage Student Leadership

As an example of school progress during the last three years, one needs only to have seen the Shelby County High School in 1927 and see it again today. Among the physical improvements that may be observed are a demonstration home for teachers of home economics, an enlarged vocational shop, a two-winged addition to the building, and additional equipment. More important than these improvements, however, are the evidences that pupils have learned to respect the school property and to take care of the buildings and equipment provided for them. To Mr. T. H. Kirby, the principal, credit for much of the progress accomplished is due. Another example of good school administration is found in the Jemison High School, in which Mr. J. A. Peterson serves as principal. Apparently Principal Peterson has learned the difficulty of putting pupils to the front and of showing teachers the value of keeping in the background. In this schools attempts are being made to solve the problems of music appreciation, of occupational studies, and of physical education. Through the school radio the teachers and the pupils of the twelve grades recently had the opportunity of hearing the memorial services held for the late Hon. William H. Taft. The school grounds are kept attractive largely through the help given the principal and teachers by the students.—Alabama School Journal of April, 1930.

CHILTON COUNTY HAS LARGE NUMBER QUALIFIED VOTERS

According to the official list of qualified voters recently published there are 5165 voters in the county. In 1928 there was approximately 5400, and the present list only shows a small loss. From 1928, however, there was paid from October 1st, 1927 to February 1st, 1928, 99,298.50, poll tax, and only 94,476.00 from October 1st, 1929 to February 1st, 1930. A difference of 94,822.50.

NOTICE

All who are interested in the Pine Hill-Jemison cemetery are requested to meet Saturday, April 26th, for the purpose of cleaning off same. Please bring necessary tools and come early.

DR. THOMAS SPEAKS AT THORSBY GRADUATING EXERCISES

Dr. J. S. Thomas, of the University of Alabama, spoke at the graduating exercises of the Sixth and Ninth grades at the Thorsby Public school last Friday night. Dr. Thomas gave some very interesting illustrations on the method used to acquire education and to bring on progress, stressing the fact that the way we build churches, homes, and school buildings is by taxing ourselves, and that way alone.

Judge Smoot To Hear Case In Circuit Court On Next Tuesday

RESOLUTION TERMED A S U N - A M E R I C A N

Mandamus proceedings were filed in the Circuit Court of Chilton County on last Tuesday, which seek to strike down the resolution of the Chilton County Republican Executive Committee, prescribing that each candidate must file an affidavit showing how he or she voted in the 1928 general election. The petition was filed by Arthur B. Chilton and J. O. Middleton, representing M. F. Lett, who is said to be desirous of running for a member of the County Board of Education of this county. The case has been set for hearing before Judge George F. Smoot at Wetumpka, Alabama on next Tuesday, April 29th. The following is a copy of the bill and exhibits:

State of Alabama, Chilton County, In The Circuit Court of Chilton County, Alabama, EX PARTE, M. F. LETT, Petitioner, vs. J. N. Dennis, As Chairman of the Chilton County Republican Executive Committee, Defendant. To The Honorable George F. Smoot, Judge of Said Court: Your petitioner, M. F. Lett, respectfully shuns unto your honor as follows:

1. That he is a resident of Chilton County and the State of Alabama, and is over the age of twenty-one years. 2. That J. N. Dennis is the Chairman of the Chilton County Republican Executive Committee; that he resides in Chilton County, Alabama, and is over the age of twenty-one years. 3. That on or about, April 15th, 1930, your petitioner tendered to the said J. N. Dennis, as Chairman of the Chilton County Republican Executive Committee his declaration of candidacy for the office of member of the County Board of Education of Chilton County, an office to be balloted upon in the Primary Election of August 12th, 1930, and to be elected in the general election in November, 1930, together with the fee of $5.00, which is the sum provided by the sub-committee of the said Republican Executive Committee of Chilton County for said office, which said declaration of candidacy is attached hereto and marked "Exhibit A"; that said declaration was accompanied with a letter of transmittal signed by your petitioner, a copy of (continued to back page)

CLANTON'S POPULATION IS SHOWN BY CENSUS AS 1,846

Reports published from census takers' counts, show that the population of Clanton, Alabama, as 1,846 inhabitants. However this count does not include the small settlements just on the outskirts of the city, such as South Clanton where there is approximately one hundred inhabitants or more, nor the Willis Camp settlement on the northern side of town, and goes only a short distance in all directions from the main business district of Clanton.

Misses Celia and Betty Baldwin of Mountain Creek were in Clanton shopping last Friday.

J. V. Best, of Clanton Route 7, was a visitor to our town last Tuesday.

Tom Frank Teel Manager Of Nettles Grocery Store

Succeeding Mr. J. D. Teal, Tom Frank Teel became manager of the local store of the Nettles Grocery Company Monday of last week. Tom Frank has been employed in the grocery store for some time, up until which time he was a student at the Chilton County high school here. Tom Frank is probably the youngest manager of a business in Clanton, and is talented in the building up of trade and adding to his already long list of friends in Clanton and the county, being a home boy, it is hoped that he will succeed with the responsibility placed upon him as manager of the store. He is the son of Mrs. R. S. Teel, of near Clanton, and is deserving of the backing and encouragement of the people of the town, and county.

POST OFFICE BUILDING AWAITS INSTALLATION NEW FIXTURES

Only a few more days, nine in all, and residents of Clanton will have to break themselves of the habit of going south for their mail, or that is, going to the present location of our post office. On May 4th, the Postmaster expects to be located in the new building next to the Carter Electric Shop, on Main street. The Carter Electric Shop has completed the job of putting in the "invisible" wiring of the new post office building, and with the installation of the new boxes, the place will be ready.

JEMISON HIGH SCHOOL GETS HANDSOME NEW CURTAIN

Last Saturday night marked the first public appearance of the new handsome velvet stage curtain at the Jemison High School, Jemison, Alabama, when the play, "A Wild Flower From The Hills," was presented. The purchase of this fine curtain was made possible through the efforts of the Parent-Teachers Association of the Jemison school, and they are to be congratulated on this step. The honor of being first to pull this curtain was given to Supt. of Education B. Lawrence, who pulled the curtain on the first act of the play.

Singers Will Meet At Court House In Montgomery

The State Capitol Sacred Harp Singing Convention will meet in semi-annual session at the Court House in Montgomery on Sunday, April 27th, at 9:30 o'clock. G. L. Beck, Chairman, and W. B. Allgood, Secretary of the Association say that singers from all parts of Alabama and Georgia will be present. All lovers of Sacred Harp music are invited to attend. It is predicted that this will be the best convention ever held in Montgomery. All singers are requested to bring their books and those who can should bring their lunches.

LETTER FROM MARTIN JACKS

Clanton, Ala., April 21, 1930.

Editor Chilton County News,

Please allow me space to say a few words to the people. I am very much interested in some things, one is the County roads. They are not cared for according to the funds provided. Some people get the money and don't do much. If they would just let the resort places take care of their own places, but they don't. They like to be in the swim and they swim. I guess they should drown. The candidates are all forgetting or don't know any better. They get an office and just think it theirs by right for life. They will do anything to get in, and worse to stay there. They don't think anybody has a right to say anything no matter what is done.

I understand one man who wants an office objected to holding preaching in school houses and took the job in hand and proceeded to break up and made the preachers leave the premises. One who is now in office took the responsibility to stop a public road and turn the public traffic through a church yard and cut down the shade trees on the church yard, and hauled the wood off or had it done. That is the kind of men that get in office. We just don't need that sort of men to attend to office for us. Let us put men in office who are willing to do the right thing all the time and think only of trying to serve God as well as man.

When we put that kind in office, times will get better and people will be better satisfied. Let us vote the bad out and vote in the good on August 12, 1930. Good by,

MARTIN JACKS.

WICKERSHAM ASKS EDITOR'S AID IN UPHOLDING PROHIBITION LAW

Washington, April 18.—Asking the members of the American Society of Newspaper Editors to lend their support to uphold the prohibition law as long as it stands, Chairman Wickersham of the Hoover Law Enforcement Commission told them that while modification might be found desirable he would express no opinion on that point himself.

He stated that it might be found desirable to modify the eighteenth amendment or the national prohibition laws in order to secure the maximum abstinence from the use of liquor, but expressed no opinion on that point. He said that opinions differ and that is a fair field for discussion.

The chairman spoke at the second day of the conference which also listened to Sen. Vandenberg, of Michigan, Joseph Hostetler, of Cleveland, Justice Ernest J. Edgcomb, of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court of New York, William Allen White of Kansas, Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, and Andrew R. Sherff, of Chicago.

Wickersham said that the individual had no "unalienable right" to procure and consume liquor. He urged that a campaign of education regarding the evils of liquor be launched, saying that there had been little educational effort since the adoption of the amendment.

The chairman appealed to the editors to "aid in demonstrating that so long as the law stands as it now does, no patriotic American should advocate flouting its provisions or boasting of violating its commands."

NEW MODEL IS BEING SHOWN BY CHEVROLET

A further indication of the advantages which accrue to the motorist through the economies of great volume production is seen in the announcement by the Chevrolet Motor Company today of a stylish new closed model—the Chevrolet Special Sedan, with body by Fisher.

Introduction of the new model, with its many expensive car features, brings the Chevrolet passenger line up to nine body styles, three open and six closed. The Special Sedan has been in production for several days and shipments are now going out to dealers.

A leading feature of the new model is its equipment of six wire wheels, with large chrome-plated hub caps. The two spare wheels are mounted in special fender wells. The exterior color scheme combines smart Boulevard maroon on the body with a harmonizing shade of red on the wheels.

Rich appointments found in the interior include arm rests, silk assist cords, combination vanity case and smoking set, rich upholstery fabrics and wide, deep seats with form-fitting cushions.

Like other passenger models of the 1930 Chevrolet, the car is powered by the 30 horsepower, six cylinder, valve-in-head motor; it has fully enclosed, internal expanding four wheel brakes, four Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers and a bigger rear axle.

The price of the Special Sedan has been set at $725, f. o. b., factory, Flint, Mich.

What's New

An independent electric plant has been installed on the great dirigible, Graf Zeppelin which made a sensational flight around the world last year.

Brazilian rubber trees planted experimentally in Florida are thriving, some having reached a height of 15 feet.

Fireproof ink and fireproof paper have been developed for use in preparing important legal documents.

It is planned to photograph the sun's eclipse on April 28 from an airplane at 10,000 feet altitude.

A newly invented surgeon's knife, charged with electricity cauterizes blood vessels as it cuts.

Alabama City—Bloomington mill to begin operations soon.

"Short Order" Suppers For Unexpected Guests

By JOSEPHINE B. GIBSON
Director, Home Economics Dept.,
H. J. Heinz Company

SUPPER is a pleasantly informal meal at which to entertain. And in these days of small homes, where elaborate cooking is difficult, supper gatherings are growing in popularity.

When guests drop in unexpectedly, the warmth of your welcome is not lessened one bit by knowledge that pantry shelves are well stocked with prepared foods—that at your finger tips is a supply of dainties equal to any emergency. It is well, however, to keep close at hand one or two attractive menus that can be prepared quickly, in their entirety, from this food reserve. And the first two menus in the group below will prove invaluable when "short order" suppers are demanded.

I.
Escaloped Tuna Fish with Sweet Gherkins
Buttered Toast or Crunchy Rolls
Olives and Celery
Package Cheese
Toasted Crackers
Coffee, Tea or Chocolate

II.
Cream of Tomato Soup
Crackers
Boston Baked Beans in Individual Pots
Boston Brown Bread or Whole Wheat Sandwiches Slices of Sweet Pickle
Fruit Preserve Shortcake
Coffee

Other supper menus you will find delightful and suitable for informal suppers are:

III.
Emergency Chicken Salad (made with canned chicken)
Hot Rolls or Egg Sandwiches
Apple Pie
Coffee

IV.
Oysters en brochette
Creamed Potatoes
Tomato Ketchup
Whole Wheat Muffins
Small cakes
Coffee

Escaloped Tuna Fish with Sweet Gherkins—Melt 3 tablespoons butter in a saucepan, and blend thoroughly with 4 tablespoons flour. Add 2 cups milk, and cook until thickened. Season with salt, pepper and a bit of onion juice. Add 1 cup tuna fish from which the oil has been rinsed (place fish in a sieve and pour very hot water over it). Add ¼ cup chopped Sweet Gherkins, and pour into a buttered baking dish. Sprinkle with buttered crumbs and brown in a hot oven.

Oysters En Brochette—Drain the liquor from three dozen oysters. Cut three dozen pieces of breakfast bacon, each the size of an oyster. Place an oyster on a skewer, then a piece of bacon, and then another oyster until the skewer is filled. Broil before a clear flame until the edges of the oysters begin to curl. Place in a hot dish, and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Garnish with stuffed Spanish Olives and serve with Tomato Ketchup.

Emergency Chicken Salad—Cut a can of chicken meat into cubes. Add an equal amount of celery and ¼ cup of sliced Stuffed Spanish Olives. Then add a few drops of onion juice, and salt and pepper to season. Moisten with Mayonnaise Salad Dressing. Chill thoroughly, and place in deep nests of lettuce. Garnish with slices of hard-cooked egg and Sweet Gherkins.

Baked Beans Give Variety and New Value to Meals

By JOSEPHINE B. GIBSON
Director, Home Economics Dept.,
H. J. Heinz Company

THE time-honored New England custom of serving Baked Beans with Boston Brown Bread and Pickles every Saturday night is spreading in popularity. And this is an excellent time to call attention to the many other attractive ways of serving nutritious food. Baked Bean entrees are now to an even larger share of our attention, for the iron in foods functions more efficiently when accompanied by copper.

No doubt the following recipes will suggest many other welcomed ways to include this splendid food in your menus for the family:

Browned Chops with Oven Baked Beans
4 pork chops; 1 can Oven Baked Beans (Vegetarian Style); 1 teaspoon sugar; ½ cup Tomato Ketchup.
Fry pork chops until nicely brown. Pour over them 1 can Oven Baked Beans, add sugar and Ketchup, and mix lightly. Bake in moderate oven about 20 minutes.

Baked Sausages with Oven Baked Kidney Beans—Brown sausage in a skillet. Pour over it 1 can Oven Baked Kidney Beans, and bake in a slow oven for about ½ hour. Place the beans in the center of a hot platter, surround with the sausages, and garnish with sprigs of parsley.

Baked Bean Cutlets
2 cups of Oven Baked Beans; 1 cup bread crumbs; 2 eggs; 2 tablespoons butter; salt, pepper, Worcestershire sauce, Onion Juice to taste.
Mash finely 2 cups of Oven Baked Beans. Add a cup of bread crumbs, two slightly beaten eggs, and two tablespoons melted butter. Add salt, pepper, Worcestershire Sauce and onion juice to season. Shape into cutlets, dip in crumbs, beaten egg, and crumbs again. Brown in the skillet with three tablespoons fat. Serve with tomato sauce. (Tomato Soup heated and thickened with a small amount of flour makes a good sauce.)

Baked Bean Soup
2 to 3 cups Oven Baked Beans; 1½ quart cold water; 1 ham bone; 4 teaspoon pepper; 1 stalk celery minced; 1 onion minced; 1 tablespoon butter or fat.
Brown the minced onion in fat, and add to the mashed beans with all other ingredients. Bring slowly to a boil, simmer for 1 hour. Put through colander and serve. This recipe serves six persons.

Baked Bean Rarebit—To two cups of scalded milk, add 1 medium can Oven Baked Beans, Boston Style, which have been mashed finely and blended with 2 rounding tablespoons flour. Cook until thickened, add ½ cup finely chopped American cheese, and stir constantly over a slow fire until cheese is melted. Cook for several minutes. Season with salt and pepper and Worcestershire Sauce. Serve on slices of buttered toast. This is an unusual and delightful supper or luncheon dish.

BANKERS FIND GROUP BANKING WIDESPREAD

Over 13 Billion Dollars of Bank Assets in Affiliated Systems Numbering 1,850 Members—In Nearly Every State.

Over 1,850 banks with more than thirteen billion dollars in resources are shown to be associated with chain or group banking systems in the United States in facts recently gathered by the Economic Policy Commission of the American Bankers Association. The chairman of the commission, R. S. Hecht of New Orleans, pointed out that the facts indicate that "almost 7 1/2 per cent of our banks and over 18 per cent of our banking resources are in the great net of group or chain banking that now covers almost every part of the country."

The commission's facts comprised chain and group banking affiliations in the broadest sense of the term, the report said. They included those groups in which the controlling element was a particular bank, there being reported 78 instances of this class involving 407 banks and about $6,473,000,000 in combined banking resources. They included also groups in which a non-banking holding company, not subsidiary to any particular bank, was in control and of this class 28 instances were found, involving 330 banks and nearly $3,335,000,000 in resources. The report also included groupings in which control was exercised by individual persons and these cases numbered 167, involving 1,071 banks and about $1,468,000,000 in assets.

The Total Figures
The total was over $13,275,000,000 in aggregate resources. Some of the systems comprised 50 to 100 banks each. Head offices of the groups were found in all jurisdictions, but nine of the states and the District of Columbia.

"We have not included in these figures," the report says, "banking groups in which a commercial bank, a trust company and an investment house, and sometimes a savings bank, are tied together by some form of stock holdings and operated as complementary elements in an organization rendering complete financial services. We have held that such groups are similar to a departmentalized bank and different in the purposes and operations from a chain or group banking system."

"For purposes of the present report we define chain or group banks as systems in which centralized control, whether corporate or personal and either rigid or informal, directs the operations of two or more complete banks, not functionally complementary, each working on its own capital and under its own personnel and located in one or more cities or states."

Commenting on the question whether the rapid development of chain banking was in the nature of a reaction against restrictions imposed on branch banking by the banking laws in many states, the report says that this theory since chain banking is prevalent in some states where virtually no restriction is imposed on branch banking, as well as in those where the establishment of branch banks is prohibited. It adds:

The Question of Branch Banking
"However the facts do show that anti-branch banking laws have been a factor in some cases, and probably in some sections. In the spread of chain banking, instances have come to our attention where expansion along chain bank lines has been carried out by state banks whose expansion along branch bank lines was stopped by the passing of state laws prohibiting further branches. Yet whether expansion would have been along branch bank lines if the laws had imposed no barrier, it is impossible to say. There is obviously a well developed banking opinion in some sections that the chain bank method brings to outlying banks the strength and efficiency of a big organization without depriving them of their local individuality and sympathies. In view of the mixed factors noted, we feel it is unsafe to generalize as to what bearing branch banking laws have on chain developments."

"The recent era of rapid chain bank developments has found specific reaction in some state legislative action tending to restrict or control chain or group banking. Also we find a sharp difference of opinion among state bank commissioners who have expressed their sentiments regarding chain banking."

In a foreword to the report, issued in booklet form by the association at its New York City headquarters Chairman Hecht says that "The Economic Policy Commission does not take a stand in advocacy of or in opposition to this new method of concentrating banking resources through the affiliation of banks into groups and chains, but is simply offering as a fact finding body what we believe is the first complete national picture of this rapidly growing movement."

SCHOOL SAVINGS GROW
A total of 4,222,935 school children participated in school savings banking in the United States during the last school year, depositing $28,672,496 and rolling up net savings of $10,529,928 bringing total bank balances now credited to this movement to above 50 million dollars, according to the annual report of the Savings Bank division of the American Bankers Association. Schools to the number of 15,597 are enrolled in the plan.

Isabella Home Economics Girls Win Honors At State Clothing Contest, Montevallo, April 17-19

The Home Economics girls, Dorothy Manning and Lena Mae Jones, winners of the local clothing contest held at Isabella, were given a trip to the State Clothing Contest at Alabama College, Montevallo, Alabama, April 17-19.

The girls won first prize on their traveling costume and Dorothy Manning won third prize on the street dress, which she made in Home Economics. We had only a few entries this year at the contest, but hope to have more next time, so we can bring back with us a school prize.

The girls enjoyed the time spent at Alabama College. Everyone seemed to have a good time during the inter-high school meet. We are grateful to those who treated us so cordial during our stay at the college.

The clothing contest is an inspiration to the girls and teachers too to have better standards of work. It also shows us what other schools are doing and it is a good place for comparison of work in general. We want to push forward our vocational work in Home Economics and Agriculture, for our Home makers and Farmers of the future are those who are being trained today.

When our girls and boys are well dressed it does not mean to be expensively dressed, and this is one of the things we are trying to get over to the girls.

Local Clothing Contest

The local clothing contest was held at Isabella April 14, 1930. The dresses of the girls who made them in Home Economics I and II. The school dress and the street dress was judged. The Home Economics I girls were dressed in the school costumes with accessories and the home Economics II girls were dressed in the street costume with accessories.

Lena Mae Jones won as having the best school dress and Dorothy Manning as having the best street costume.

Individual judging was first and then a Fashion Show in the school auditorium. A social hour was held in the Home Economics department after the program. Punch and waters were served to the parents, visitors and faculty.

The judges for the contest were well selected and we appreciate their kindness in coming to Isabella for this particular work. They were Mrs. Stapp, Mrs. Moss and Miss Leacy Newell.

The Home Economics girls need congratulations for their work and the fine spirit of sportsmanship that exists in being good losers at a contest of this sort. Everyone can not win. Some have to lose.

Near County Jail Riot Frustrated

Guards Are Increased After Angered Prisoners Give Up Hidden Saws

Birmingham, Ala., April 22.—Near riot in the Jefferson County Jail was frustrated several nights ago by Sheriff Downs, wardens and deputies when two prisoners became angered because a prison trusty intercepted four hacks-blades which outside help attempted to smuggle in.

Prisoners whom Sheriff Downs charged with inciting the attempted riot or Carl Payne, held in default of $1,000 bond on a charge of grand larceny and Glenn O. Richardson, government prisoner, held without bond on a charge of impersonating a federal officer.

George Russell, whose sentence of 10 years in the penitentiary on conviction of a murder charge has been appealed to the Alabama Supreme Court, discovered the saws concealed in a shoe box which also contained sandwiches. The saws were hidden under a second bottom which had been placed in the box, the sheriff said.

The box was addressed to Payne and was sent to the jail under a fictitious name, Downs stated. Each of more than 200 prisoners in the jail at the time was taken out of his cell and searched and the cells searched. Payne and Richardson were placed in solitary confinement. Additional guards have been placed in the jail and other precautions taken against further trouble, the sheriff said.

Poll Tax Receipts Show Falling Off

Held To Indicate That Fewer Ballots Will Be Cast In 1930 Election

Birmingham, Ala., April 22.—State poll receipts are considerably below those of 1928, although slightly in excess of those in 1926, according to figures from the state auditor's office based on reports from all Alabama counties.

Total poll tax receipts in 1930 were $283,304, as compared with $392,768.50 in 1928 and $281,047.50 in 1926.

While these receipts can not be taken as a definite basis for determining number of voters in the state, there is some relation between the amount received and the vote. Total receipts for 1930, therefore, would indicate the vote this year will be considerably less than in 1928, when the unusual national party situation brought out a record vote. The vote, however, should approximate that of 1926, the last gubernatorial year.

Only seven counties reported an increase in poll tax receipts. These were Calhoun, Chambers, Dallas, Fayette, Macon, Mobile and Wilcox. Mobile showed the largest increase, going from $12,220.50 in 1928 to $15,774 in 1930.

During a two hour ride on a train, G. L. Porter of Milwaukee was swindled out of $2,000 by three men who escaped.

Mrs. Mary Corther of Chicago got a court order compelling her daughter to support her. The mother had been turned out of the family home.

When A CLEANSING MEDICINE Is Needed

"I HAVE taken Black-Draught all my life, whenever in need of a medicine for constipation," says Mrs. G. C. Burns, of Buna, Texas. "My mother and father used it in their home for years, and I was raised to think of it as the first thing if I had a headache or was constipated."

"At one time I had indigestion real bad. I was all out of sorts; my skin was sallow, and I had gas pains. After a course of Black-Draught, I got all right. I have given Black-Draught to my children, whenever they needed a medicine of the kind."

Egg Backbone Of Poultry Business

A twelve-hour working day for hens has been advocated for making the farm flock earn its way in the most efficient manner. Farmers who arise at dawn, and retire long after sundown, set an example which they will do well to have their poultry follow, particularly during winter months, when egg prices are most profitable.

Egg production is the backbone of the poultry business. There are but few farmers who would keep many hens if the only returns were from the birds sold as meat. Winter eggs are the ones that bring highest prices, but they are also the hardest ones to secure. Cold weather and short days encourage hens to eat only sufficient food to maintain their bodies without exerting themselves to the point of producing eggs to help pay their "room and board."

Through the use of lights in the poultry house winter days can be stretched to the twelve-hour limit. Experience has shown that maximum egg production can not be secured when the hens have to sit on the roost for a longer time than twelve hours.

Most people prefer morning lights, rather than evening, as the scratch grain may be put in the litter in the evening, and the lights turned on mechanically. With the hens doing a twelve hour stretch and scratching and feeding eggs are produced abundantly, and the bank account swells. No amount of artificial lighting will do any good, however, unless hens are from good stock in the first place. Hens which lay less than a hundred eggs a year are too frequent on farms. This trouble is being overcome, to a large extent, since the hatcheries of the country combined under the slogan, "Hatchery Chicks for Greater Profits," to insure chicks of known profit producing ability, and fair dealing with customers.

However, with good hens in the laying houses, and a twelve hour shift in vogue, farmers can be assured of a sizeable profit from their poultry operations, particularly during the winter, when other farm activities are practically dormant.

TURKISH WOMAN SELECTS A CHEVROLET SIX AUTO

The old adage, "It's a man's world," is fast becoming obsolete even in Turkey where feminine rights, as such, have only recently begun to receive attention. There are few fields that seem less fitted for women, even in the western world, than that of taxi-driving yet in Constantinople a young convent-bred girl recently proclaimed her emancipation by taking a chauffeur's test and embarking on a career of taxi driving.

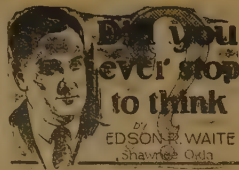

Mouamer Hanoum was just eighteen years of age when she started Constantinople by announcing her intention of taking a chauffeur's course. She subsequently passed the severe physical examination and, in a businesslike manner asserted that she was prepared to enter the driver's tests. She displayed such unusual skill at the wheel that she completed her course in record time and captured highest honours.

As a full fledged tax chauffeur, Miss Mouamer's first consideration was the choice of her vehicle. She selected a Chevrolet six which has been specially equipped for taxi work. She is now happily employed driving passengers around the Turkish capital and enjoying the distinction of being the first woman to enter the chauffeur's profession in that country.

DOMESTIC RABBIT MEAT

Rabbit meat is hard to beat. Any one that has ever tasted domestic rabbit meat is especially fond of the delicious flavor and nutritiousness of this delightful food product and always come back for more. Once in awhile some one who has never eaten this tasty meat, will say, "Why, I did not know domestic rabbit was good to eat" or "I just couldn't eat rabbit," etc. Well, why not? Did you ever stop to think that the domestic rabbit is bred, born and raised in a clean sanitary hutch, eats nothing but a grain ration, alfalfa hay and clean water? Can you find a cleaner animal? Did you know that Domestic rabbit meat is all white meat, has four drum sticks and is 85 per cent nourishment? Did you know that that when you buy a dressed rabbit it is ready to cook and there is absolutely no waste? This meat is good the year round, being just as nice in August as the cooler months. Other people who are squeamish about the relish and regularity that are not near so clean in their habits and the food they consume. A nice fat broiler with its beautiful pink, meaty hind quarters tender fore quarters and lean loins, together with the rib pieces and fleshy sides as soup stock and rabbit pie, is a real food product fit for an epicure, fried or smothered, baked or broiled, or made into rabbit pie, served with golden browned hot biscuits, currant jelly and good coffee. I can think of no better food combination to thoroughly satisfy the inner cravings of a normal appetite. In selecting your next meat try a domestic rabbit and don't shy away from the larger ones either. The little fellows are delicious and the larger ones better, all are good, but the larger ones have a sweet flavor, and for this reason some folks prefer the larger ones to the small.

That advertising is the magnet that attracts the attention of the world. Advertising columns are in public service. They give profitable service at all times.

Advertising is a builder of business. It makes it possible for manufacturers, jobbers and retailers to sell their goods with the same success to the same people all the while.

Advertising creates a demand for new goods from new customers as well as from old.

Advertising is a source of great satisfaction to all who use it. It works continually, speeding up sales and prestige.

In these days of keen competition, business invariably goes to the concern who invite it by advertising.

Advertising makes it easy for the public to find the best. It is most essential for successful selling.

Advertising has a very definite place to fill in every business. It brings the buyer and seller together in a satisfactory way to both.

James E. Rockwell, publisher of the Murphysboro (Ill.) Independent, says: That the resident of a city up to 50,000 inhabitants is the luckiest man in America today.

He gets more for his money than any other citizen; he gets more out of life. For $5,000 a year he can live better than the city man can on $10,000 or even $15,000. He can keep a good car on that; his wife can have a maid; he can live in a modern house with a garden around it; he can belong to a golf club; he can hunt and fish; he can make a place for himself in his home town and can speak to every second man he meets on the street.

He makes friends instead of casual acquaintances. He belongs to clubs and churches. He has the best schools in the world for his children. He can get to a big city, on a hard surfaced road in from one to three hours, and have whatever the big city has to offer. He has his radio and a first class cinema house. He thinks more, has more leisure, hurries less, knows more, is more cosmopolitan than the man in the big city. He gets more fun out of life, makes a bigger place for himself in society, and more people miss him when he dies. The average man can "amount to something" in the small town. In the big city only the outstanding man can hope for a place of prominence.

It's worth twice as much to live in a small city and it costs less than half as much. And I've tried everything in size from New York to Murphysboro, from 6,000,000 to 13,000.

Giant Eagle Taken

Bird Believed Of Happy Variety Brought Down At Collinsville

Collinsville, Ala., April 22.—A giant eagle, measuring six feet, four inches from tip to tip of the wings, was captured here by George Simpson, who shot it down as it was flying, breaking a wing and capturing it. The bird was said to be a happy eagle of the South American variety, and it was believed it had escaped captivity from some place nearby.

Alabama's Butter Record Herd

The champion butter producing herd of Alabama is that owned by Lou Ury of Attalla. For the year ending last June, this herd of 19 pure-bred Jerseys averaged 7,848 pounds of milk and 385 pounds of butterfat, with a return above feed cost of $499.08 per cow. This record is all the more remarkable in that only four years ago Mr. Ury was just an average cotton planter whose entire dairy stock consisted of a single family cow.
